GLENALDA, June 29.—A district school concert was given in the school house at Glenalda on Friday evening, when the local children demonstrated their musical ability to their parents and friends under the direction of Mrs. George Kilborn, music supervisor. Besides the 18 pupils of this school section, Apsley School, No. 2 Burleigh, and No. 8 Chandos, represented by about 20 of the pupils, contributed numbers on the program, which was composed of choruses, trios, duets, folk dances and two musical numbers played on flageolets by the Glenalda children. The audience showed its appreciation of the concert by according a vote of thanks to Mr. Barnard, the school teacher and to Mrs. Kilborn, for making the arrangements, and to the visiting pupils for assisting. The Rev. C. A. G. Spence acted as chairman for the occasion.

Night Watchman Captures Intruder

WINDSOR, Ont., June 29 (CP)—Armed with a revolver and a baseball bat, Anton Letsch, 49, night watchman at the German Club here, subdued an intruder early today and held him until police arrived. The man, who gave his name as Stanley Malec, 24, Windsor, was charged with shopbreaking and attempted theft.

Letsch told police he investigated a noise and saw a form coming through a small window on the wall. As the intruder dropped to the floor, Letsch fired a warning shot and wielded the bat, forcing the man to the wall, where he held him at gunpoint.

The watchman spent nearly half an hour in attempting to attract attention from the street, and finally hailed a taxi driver, who called police. Malec suffered a sprained ankle in his drop from the window to the floor and was taken to hospital for treatment, then removed to a police cell.

Double Event

NEW ORLEANS, June 29—(AP—Thirty-five-year-old Mrs. Joachim, Rogers of Lockport, La., became a mother for the tenth time and a grandmother for the first time all within an hour and a half. Mrs. Rogers was pacing the corridors of a maternity ward waiting for word of her daughter, Mrs. Gustav Lasseigne, 18, when it became necessary to hurry the elder woman into the delivery room to give birth to a nine-pound baby girl. Just an hour and 22 minutes later a seven-pound girl was born to Mrs. Lasseigne.

WRONG WAY COSTLY

HYTHE, England—(CP).—Motoring to police station to report that windows of his hut had been smashed, Samuel Howship went the wrong way on a one-way street and was fined $2.50.

Ambassador Recalled

A break in diplomatic relationship between China and Germany was forecast following the recall of German ambassador Oskar Trautmann to Berlin. The German Embassay denied the severance of diplomatic relationships and declared that Dr. Trautmann had merely returned to Berlin "to report to his government."

Camp Inglestane Opens On Thursday.

The Y.W.C.A. Camp at Inglestane opens tomorrow (Thursday). During the past week the camp caretaker has been busy getting boats painted and ready ,and carpenters have made numerous improvements. Camp supplies this year include new Johnson motors, which were sent up Tuesday morning.

Members of the camp staff have been at Inglestane this week, and everything is in readiness for the large group of fifty enthusiastic campers who will arrive Thursday, Friday and Saturday.

That the Y.W.C.A. holiday camp is much appreciated and filling a real need is shown by letters received each day at the Y.W.C.A. and the many "thank you's" from local campers. One of the letters received from a local camper reads as follows: "This year I have to spend my holidays alone, my friend having her holidays a month later than I, and after looking up and hearing of places to go, have decided that the camp is the best after all."

It is really a beautiful spot on Stoney Lake, and each year I have been there I have enjoyed myself, and felt much better for the holiday."

Marjory Powell Becomes Bride of Wm. S. Johnston

A flower arch banked with palms and ferns in the lovely garden at the home of her parents, 465 McDonnel street, was the picturesque setting for the wedding at one o'clock this afternoon, Wednesday, of Marjory May Powell, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Powell, who was united in marriage to William Stanley Johnston, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Johnston, Bailieboro. Rev. E. M. Cook of Fraserville officiated.

Throughout the ceremony Miss Helen Ludbrook supplied the wedding music, and during the signing of the register played "I Love You Truly."

Given away by her father, the bride was lovely in a gown of seafoam blue net over taffeta made with close-fitting bodice and full, graceful skirt. She wore a matching taffeta jacket with tiny puff sleeves, and a shoulder-length veil of blue tulle falling from a headdress of pink rosebuds and sweet peas. Her bridal bouquet was of Talisman roses.

The maid of honor was Mrs. Walter Hanes of Toronto, sister of the bride, wearing a floor-length gown of raspberry lace with matching jacket and pink accessories. She wore a tiara of sweet peas, and carried a bouquet of pink sweet peas and blue cornflowers.

Mr. Melville Johnston, brother of the groom, was best man.

Following the wedding ceremony a reception was held on the spacious lawn, where the bride's mother received wearing navy and white printed silk with large white hat, and corsage of sweet peas. The groom's mother, who also received, was gowned in navy crepe with white accessories, and wore a corsage of sweet peas.

Later the young couple left for a motor trip to the United States, and on their return will live in Peterborough. For travelling the bride wore turquoise blue sharkskin trimmed with navy, and navy accessories.

Mrs. G. Monahan Is Hostess At Garden Party

The lovely colonial styled home of Mrs. Gordon Monahan, 548 Weller street, with its wide-pillared porch and picturesque setting of green shrubbery, summer flowers and stately shade trees, was the delightful scene of a garden party given under the auspices of the Catholic Womens League on Tuesday afternoon.

Receiving with the hostess, who was smartly frocked in navy sheer in redingote style with crisp touches of white, were Miss E. Deannard, president of the C.W.L., wearing figured printed crepe and large panama hat, and Mrs. J. Roach in a flowered frock with cream ground and short matching bolero.

Bridge was played on the porch and at small tables on the lawn. The committee in charge of these tables, and of the tea table, included: Mrs. J. Roach; Mrs. G. Monahan; Mrs. E. Foley, and the Misses Mary Hickey, Mary Lynch, Myra Hickey, Joan Lynch, Helen Carson, Jean Duffus, Madeline Whaley, Jerry Collins, Jean White and Vera Hiland.

The lace-covered tea table placed under the cool shade trees on the lawn, was attractive with a tall silver vase of pink snapdragons and small vases of pink sweet peas. Lovely silver tea services were at each end.

Cool Collations For Days Which Are Hot and Sultry

This is that rare June day that is perfect—perfect for two reasons—because God mad it so, and because four years ago today Peter arrived.

The days have been counted since Easter. Becoming four this year seems to have been more important to him than Christmas ever was. I can remember the morning when it was "42 more days until my birfday" and we decided the "f" had to be replaced in all his vocaoulary where "th" belonged by the time he was four. And so it has. Another resolve was that he had to tie his own shoe places—Marianne has been doing it for him since she was three so it was high time he learned himself.

When the day dawned our first glimpse of him was standing in our bedroom doorway hoping we would rouse enough to give him his spankings, but trying his best to be elusive about it if we should make a grab for him.

We all paddled him and gave him his new meccano set and fleet of Tinker Toy cars and busses and trucks, but the cars were superfluous for most of his friends knowing his passion for them sent him cars too, and he received a total of 42 cars, aeroplanes, busses, trucks, trailers, etc. I prepared their lunch what he would like for his birthday party. Here is his idea of a perfect meal: Smashed yellow potatoes; spinach like Popeye; juicy egg in shell; strawberry sport cake.

Jellied Eggs

Prepare an aspic by using either one cup chicken broth from boiling chicken, which has been strained or one soup can full of consomme. To either of these add 1 cup of boiling water. Soak 1½ tablespoons gelatine in ¼ cup cold water 5 minutes, then stir this into the hot liquid until it disolves. Add a shake of white pepper, a little salt if desired, 1 tablespoon of lemon juice or vinegar. While this is still warm pour enough of it to make a quarter inch layer of aspic in bottom of round or ring mould and let set—keeping remained warm enough that it will not set. Have ready eight hard cooked eggs. Cut four of them in halves lengthwise, and remove yokes and devil them—that is add salt, pepper, and a little mustard or horseradish if you have it at hand. Return yolks to white cups and turn this cut side down on the set of aspic in a border on the outer edge if it is a round or square mould—square in the centre if it is a ring. Pour on about half of the remaining aspic and let it set. Then lay in the remaining four whole eggs peeled only, and also four whole tomatoes, peeled, placing them alternately of course and pour on remaining aspic and let them set until firm.

Turn out on large chop platter or oval platter and garnish with a lavish hand, parsley or watercress, hearts of celery, mounds of mayonnaise, wedges of lemon, and overlapping border of sliced cucumber—all or any of these would be suitable.

Serve jellied eggs with asparagus with drawn butter flavored with tarragon vinegar, or the old standby scalloped or au gratin potatoes, or casesrole or green beans in cheese sauce and you have the foundation of a delicious summer meal.

We had a hungry crowd to dine with us last week and served a salmon mousse and glorified cabbage salad, and in place of rolls we bought a rye loaf and instead of cutting through to slice it only sliced until we came to the bottom crust—the slices were nearly an inch thick—and when each guest broke off his portion we had what was more like a rye roll than a slice of bread. It was a nice change

A summer salad plate that is a picture to behold consists of sliced tomatoes dipped in French Dressing and well drained and four of them arranged around a tea plate, between them are shrimps dipped in mayonnaise and basking on a tiny lettuce leaf, preferably our own outdoor leaf lettuce, in the centre of this delicate pink and red picture place a large wedge of head lettuce or new cabbage and provide French or mayonnaise dressing to serve with it. A large bowl of macaroni or spaghetti with a rich cheese sauce over it would make this a grand dinner for a hungry man.

Lemon Syrup

We found we could extend the juice from a dozen lemons when making syrup to be kept in the ice box if we added the grated rind from the oranges squeezed for breakfast to it. Wash the oranges well before grating and grate the rinds without any of the white portion, into a pan containing 2 cups water and 2 cups sugar. When ready to make the syrup after breakfast grate the rinds of 3 lemons into this syrup and bring to boiling. In the meantime squeeze 6 lemons including the rindless ones and when syrup has boiled 3 minutes strain the juice into it and chill. This is strong enough that ¼ of a glass of syrup can be filled to brimming with cold water and ice and is plenty strong enough. Our children want it weaker than this.

Since this read good to me we decided to have it for our week-end piece de resistance next Sunday.

Pressed Veal Loaf

One shank of veal, about 5 lbs., 1 pork hock, 1 onion, 2 stalks celery, 2 bay leaves, salt and white pepper. Cover meat when well washed, with hot water, add onion, celery and bay leave. Simmer slowly until meat is tender and falls away from theb ones, about 3 hours. Season with salt and pepper. Remove bones and undesirable skin and strain off broth. Put bones and gristle back in broth and boil down until it is reduced two cups. Chop meat or put through meat chopper (it has nicer appearance if chopped in cubes on board.) Put slices of green pepper, or strips of pimiento or slices of hard cooked egg or shreds of carrots or green peas in bottom of moistened mould. Mix strained liquor with chopped meat. Press into mould and alow to stand until cold and firm—this slices best if it stands overnight—use very sharp knife. Chilled chill sauce or corn relish makes a nice accompaniment.

Two Healthy Children

Here are the two children of Mr. and Mrs. Melville O'Brien, 280 Edinburgh Street. Jean is six and a half years old, while Marlene is two and one-half.

Enquiry Column

Conducted by Mrs. MARY MOORE

QUESTION: I have been a constant reader of your page for some time now, but this is the first time I have asked for a recipe.

Would you have a recipe for pineapple marmalade or Strawberry and rhubarb jam?

If you have either one would you kindly issue them? Mrs. G. S.

ANSWER: Your letter was timely for I had a recipe for rhubarb conserve that I wanted to crowd onto the cookery page today and didn't see where it could be done. I will give you the two you asked for and the rhubarb conserve for good measure.

Pineapple Marmalade.

Mix together 6 cups chopped fresh pineapple and juice, 1½ cups orange juice, 2 cups brown sugar. Cook these together slowly until pineapple is clear and a thick syrup forms. Pour into sterile jelly or jam glasses while boiling hot and cover with paraffin.

Strawberry and Rhubarb Conserve.

Two cups strawberries, 2 cups rhubarb chopped, 6 cups sugar, ½ cup commercial pectin. Slice the strawberries and measure aftr slicing, packing the cup until the juice flows from the top. Use tender, pink rhubarb and slice without peeling to enrich the color. Pack tightly in the cup, and fill the cup with water if the juice cannot be forced to swim to top. Add the sugar and stir until the sugar is moistened with the juices and bring to full rolling boil over heat. Boill hard for 3 minutes, stirring continually, remove from heat and stir in the pectin. Then skim and stir alternately for 5 minutes to prevent fruit rising to top of glasses. Pour into sterilized glasses and seal.

Rhubarb Conserve.

Three cups chopped rhubarb, 1 orange, ¼ lb. blanched almonds, 1 large pineapple, 1 lemon, 5 cups sugar. To the chopped rhubarb add the pineapple also chopped, the juice and rind of the lemon and orange, the sugar and the almonds. Place in then pour into clean, hot sterilized, kettle and simmer gently 1 hour, glasses and seal. The almonds may be ommitted if desired.

We hope you will like these and that we can help you again.

QUESTION: Your page is certainly popular with my friends, I know I am a little early in asking my questions. I do a lot of canning—in fact I can hardly wait till the apricots will come in. Can you please tell me what to use so my fruit will come out more solid—I don't mean is overdone. The ones you buy like Del Monte and other brands are sold and well done. Also how to can tomaties with the skins. Can you give me a recipe how to make rhubarb pie with raisins?

Do you have a recipe book? I'd love to have one, Mrs. G. S. A.

ANSWER: Thank you for your letter.

The reason some canned fruits are firm and well shaped is because they are peeled and sliced and canned before they are thoroughly ripe. The slightly underripe fruit is firm enough to keep its shape when being peeled and handled and presents a much nicer appearance than fruit that is thoroughly ripened on the tree or bush. But because I have given you this explanation does not mean I recommend it—even though fruit such as peaches, apricots, plums do give a nicer appearance when underripe, the flavor of ripe fruit when canned is superior.

Canned Tomatoes.

Wash firm ripe tomatoes, and immerse about 8 at one time in boiling water to loosen skin. Peel these and as you peel pack into sterile jars (having been boiled 20 mins). Cover with tomatoes juice which has been extracted from less choice tomatoes, brought to boiling point and poured over while boiling hot. Add 1 teaspoon salt to each quart. Put on sterile tops and rubbers and rings and screw down to within a quarter turn of tight. Sterilize in hot water bath 45 minutes, counting time after boiling point is reached. Tighten seal when done—never loosen tops.

Rhubarb and Raison Meringue Pie.

Onue and one-third cups chopped rhubarb, 2-3 cup raisins, 1 cup sugar, gue), 1 tablespoon butter, 1 tab'e-2 egg yolks (save whites for merinspoon flour. Pour boiling water over the chopped rhubarb and raisins and let stand 5 minutes—then drain. Add yolks, sugar, butter and flour and stir

Pour into unbaked pie shell and bake at 375 deg. Fahr. until custard is set and rhubarb is tender. When done cover with meringue made with the two leftover egg whites beaten until stiff with ¼ cup sugar and flavored with 1 teaspoon vanilla. Return to slow oven of 275 deg. Fahr. to bake and brown meringue for about ½ hour.

We hope you like these recipes and that we can help you again.

DO YOU EVER OVER-INDULGE?

Over-eating and drinking usually mean a bad night and an unpleasant morning after. But not for those who know the "cheer-up" value of Eno's "Fruit Salt". As far back as mid-Victorian days, when eating and drinking were favourite indoor sports, Eno saved the old-timers many a sleepless night . . . many a bad morning after.

A dash of Eno in a glass of water morning and night goes a long way in offsetting the effects of over-indulgence. Eno sweetens the stomach, sharpens the appetite, keeps the intestines free from poisonous waste, and makes you feel good all over. Eno forms no habit. It is pleasant to take and acts gently, normally, effectively. Remember, life today calls for Eno's "Fruit Salt".

So Bad With Nerves Would Lie Down and Cry

It is generally admitted that nerve troubles are more frequent than formerly and growing more so every day.

Wherever there are people whose health is poor, and their nerves shattered, they will find in Milburn's Health and Nerve Pills a tonic that will help to restore the deranged centres, and bring the nervous system back to its old time condition.

Mrs. K. M. Harvey, Bramber, N.S., writes:—"I got so bad with my nerves I would lie down on the bed and cry. Most of the time it just seemed I could not help it and would not know what I was crying for. I used to feel as if I would go crazy I was so bad.

I tried several different medicines, but received no relief. I then took Milburn's Health and Nerve Pills, four boxes of them, and started to feel better after the first few doses. Now I feel better in every way."

PAMMETT.—In loving memory of James Pammett, who passed away June 29, 1933.

He is gone but not forgotten,
And, as dawns another year,
In our lonely hours of thinking,
Thoughts of him are always near.
Days of sadness will come o'er us,
Friends may think the wound is healed,
But they little know the sorrow
That lies within the heart concealed.

—Ever remembered by Wife and Family.

OLIVER.—In loving memory of our dear husband and dad, Alfred Oliver, who was taken away June 29, 1937.

Gone, dear Dad, gone forever,
How we miss your smiling face,
But you left us to remember
None on earth can take your place.
A happy home we once enjoyed,
How sweet the memory still;
But Death has left a loneliness
The world can never fill.

—Lovingly remembered by his Wife and Daughter, Charlotte and son-in-law, Cecil Northey.

COURSEY.—In loving memory of our dear nephew, Billie Coursey, who died one year ago, Monday, June 27.

FIRE
Next Door

A fire next door is more exciting than an earthquake on the other side of the world.

It is real "home" news, close to the lives of all people who live in the same town, actually touching their personal interests. It is the sort of news that people watch for every day in the only medium that gives it to them regularly and in complete detail . . . NEWSPAPERS.

These are the chief purveyors of news with the genuine home touch, and, consequently, the advertiser's best media for making the story of his products familiar in every household.

Let consumers read about your products in the midst of their daily news, and they will come to accept them as part of their home necessities.

Tuberculosis Vaccine Reduced Children's Deaths 400 Per Cent.

OTTAWA, June 29 (AP).—A 400 per cent decrease in the number of deaths from tuberculosis among young children has been brought about recently by the use of tuberculosis vaccine, the American Association for the Advancement of Science was told today.

This development of immunity to the "white plague" among children, the most susceptible group, has been achieved by the use of the bacillus calmette-guerin vaccine, originally developed at the Pasteur Institute in Paris, France more than 10 years ago, Dr. J. Baudouin of the University of Montreal declared.

In co-operation with the Institute and the National Research Council of Canada 15,782 children have been vaccinated, he added. Dr. Armand Frappier, also of the University of Montreal, declared in a report supplementing that of Dr. Baudouin that vaccine manfuactured in his laboratories had been administered to more than 20,000 newborn babies in Canada without any harmful effects.

In the group of 943 unvaccinated children, 158 acquired tuberculosis and 50 of them died.

Resist Other Disease.

The children vaccinated for tuberculosis also showed a much greater resistance to other diseases, Dr. Baudoudin declared, while 78 of the unvaccinated children succumbed.

"In view of the fact that, as far as it was in our power, the main difference between our two groups of children was vaccination, we have no hesitation in concluding this study with the following statement: Vaccination with bacillus calmette-Guerin confers substantial resistance to tuberculosis," the Montreal scientist declared.

"This production is evidenced after years since the beginning of our work. This is not limited to the first year of life but seems to be extended in the following years. How long can this protection be expected to last? We are not yet prepared to say."

Some scientists who studied Mr. Baudouin's report declared that his conclusions might prove as forceful as those of Louis Pasteur, discoverer of immunity to disease, when he announced his inoculation to prevent smallpox.

MILLBROOK

Mrs. F. J. Smith and Mrs. G. Locke are visiting for a few days with Mrs. Walkinshaw and Mrs. Gibson at their cottage near Campbellford.

Miss Annie Armstrong has gone to spend the summer with friends in Toronto, and her niece, Miss M. L. Collins, expects to leave the beginning of next week for a trip to Vancouver, B.C., to spend a month or six weeks visiting her sister, Mrs. W Lamprey, and Mr. Lamprey.

Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Sheppard have moved this week into Miss Duncan's house on Anne street, and are getting settled in their new home.

Mrs. W. E. Lewis and son, George, of Welcome, were guests of Mrs. James N. and Dr. Edna Eastcott on Friday, and were attending the annual meeting of the Durham County Trustees' and Ratepayers' Association in the Town Hall here that afternoon.

The hostess for the June meeting of the Ladies' Aid Society of Grace Presbyterian Church was Mrs. Alex Miller, over twenty members and visitors motoring to her hospitable farm homestead, Seventh Line, Cavan. The chair was taken by the president, Mrs. J. R. Thompson. The program included a reading, "The Ladies' Aid," by Mrs. Suttle Pritchard, and an article, "The Soliloquy of a Careless Cook," by Mrs. Harry Ball.

Rev. H. R. Williams closed the meeting with prayer, after which a pot luck tea was enjoyed, self-service from a daintily-laid table on which all food had been placed, being a satisfactory feature. The resultant collection for the tea was added to the general fund of the society.

President's Broadcast Arouses Storm Of Protest

Here are four striking studies of President Roosevelt, made as he addressed the United States in a radio broadcast, from the White House, in which he bluntly announced his intention to fight all who opposed his policies, regardless of party affiliations. A storm of protest was immediately raised by anti-New Deal members of the Democratic, as well as Republican parties, who expect to bear the brunt of the President's proposed attack. Despite the protests hovering about his head the famous Roosevelt smile was much in evidence when these pictures were made.

Barrie Packers Had Good Year

BARRIE, Ont., June 29—(CP).—Sales were more than 14 per cent. above the previous fiscal year, the First Co-operative Packers of Ontario, Ltd., Barrie, reported at the annual meeting Saturday.

Net operating profit for the year amounted to $32,155, against $28,846 for the previous year, an increase of $3,309. After contingencies, there was a net balance transferred to profit account of $12,851, according to K. N. M. Morrison, general manager. Sales for the year amounted to $1,180,280, an increase over the previous year of $170,251.

The deficit account, which stood at $86,895 two years ago, has been reduced to $43,773 as at May 24, 1938.

Directors again declared a commodity dividend of 25 cents a hog to members who sold hogs to the plant on the dressed rail basis.

Shareholders, who came from Simcoe, Grey, Dufferin, York and Ontario counties, re-elected the board of directors.

It was stated the company has a farmer - shareholder membership, fully paid-up, exceeding 1,200.

Tories May Ask Bennett To Continue Job

OTTAWA, June 29—(CP).—Interest in the Conservative national convention, which opens here July 5 to select a party leader and draw up a new platform, is rising in the Capital. Provision has been made on the floor of the convention hall—the Coliseum at Lansdowne Park—for 1,900 delegates. It is expected the convention will bring more than 4,000 visitors to the city.

Talk in the clubs, hotels and in the corridors of Parliament is about the race for leadership. The suggestion that Right Hon. R. B. Bennett, who announced his retirement on March 5 because of ill health, will be drafted to continue is heard frequently.

Others discussed as possibilities are Hon. R. J. Manion, former Minister of Railways; Hon. Earl Lawson, former Minister of National Revenue; Denton Massey (Greenwood-Toronto); Colonel George Drew, K.C., Guelph; M. A. MacPherson, former Provincial Treasurer of Saskatchewan; Sidney Smith, President of the University of Manitoba, and Joseph Harris (Danforth-Toronto).

"Manion will win on the first ballot." "Earl Lawson has it in the bag." "The convention will insist on Bennett." "I'm for Joe Harris." These expressions were heard from Conservative members here to-day, proving at least that there is a difference of opinion as to who will be the next leader.

Preparations have been completed by J. R. McNicol, Joint Chairman of the Convention Committee, for seating the convention. "We have planned the seating with the delegates in separate groups," Mr. MacNicol said, "so that the ballots can be taken with the least possible confusion. Each delegate will be given ten ballots. I do not expect there will be more votes than that before a leader is chosen."

Put In Hospital

SALT LAKE CITY, June 29—(AP)—The candid camera craze put Jack Bartlett, 46, in a hospital. Motorcycle patrolman E. N. Olsson said he agreed to let Bartlett take a "head-on" picture of him yesterday. The photographer got excited as Olsson's motorcycle approached. He attempted to dodge, so did Olsson. Bartlett suffered a brain concussion.

P. S. he got the picture.

Boy Is Killed In Loading Machine

COLOMBOURG, Que., June 29—(CP)—Jean Louis Bergeron, eight years old, went out yesterday to hunt for his dog. Then he disappeared.

Jean's father, Achille Bergeron, is a contractor at colombourg, 60 miles northwest of Amos. Big scoops bite out chunks of gravel and dump them into his trucks, and the trucks carry the loads off to highway jobs.

A few hours after Jean got lost, a truck rolled up to a job with a load of gravel. Jean's body was dumped out onto the road with the gravel.

A coroner's jury decided today he must have fallen into the loading equipment.

Risk Is Refused On Air Attack

HASTINGS, England, June 29 (CP Cable) — E. G. Hicks, Labor member of parliament for Woolwich East and president of the National Federation of Building Trades, today told a meeting of the federation the refusal of insurance companies to cover the risk of damages to homes by enemy aircraft was causing a serious rise in unemployment

The insurance companies' attitude, Mr. Hicks declared, was seriously affecting the construction of houses for sale and he urged that the government make an immediate and definite announcement of its policy.

He added that the Building Trades Association opposed military or industrial conscription because it was convinced a better and more efficient means of enlisting services could be devised.

Science Medal Awarded To Canadian

Dr. Code 28, Honored For Discovering Histamine In Blood

OTTAWA, June 30 (AP)—One of the world's youngest scientists, 28-year-old Dr. Charles F. Code of the Mayo Foundation, Rochester, Minn. was today awarded the Theobald Smith medal of the American Association for the Advancement of Science.

The award, one of the highest honors in American science, was made to Dr. Code, a Canadian, in recognition of his discovery that the chemical histamine is normally present in human blood and when present in abnormal amounts indicates tubercular infection or an allergic recation to the presence of foreign proteins in the body.

When histamine is present in abnormal amounts in the blood it produces a physical condition resembling surgical shock or the reaction which follows severe burns, both of which are often death-dealing conditions due to an upsetting of the balance of chemical elements in the body.

According to the award committee, headed by Dr. Wesley C. Mitchell of Columbia University, president of the association, Dr. Code's research "opens up a new avenue for further investigation" of the chemistry of the human body, upon which all conditions of health or disease depends.

Better Analysis

One of the possibilities opened up by his research work is the differentiation of diseases now difficult to diagnose by making more careful and precise chemical analyses of blood samples, they pointed out. As an example they said that Dr. Code had found that persons suffering from allergic reactions, such as hay fever and asthma, had a relatively large quantity of histamine circulating freely in their blood. In tubercular patients, however, the chemical was carried in granular capsules in the blood.

The young physician was born in Winnipeg in 1910 and was graduated from the University of Manitoba at the age of 16.

The Theobald Smith award is made annuall yto a young medical student who makes an outstanding contribution to scientific knowledge. It is given by the association as a memorial to the U.S. department of agriculture scientist who discovered that many diseases are transmitted between animals and to man by ticks.

Plans Completed For Police Inquiry

Plans for the police department enquiry were completed by the legal committee of the council, recommending that Judge L. V. O'Connor be appointed referee at $25 a day, Leslie G. Frost, K.C., of Lindsay to conduct the examination of witnesses at $50, and a court stenographer to be brought from Toronto at $8 a day.

The proceedings are virtually taken out of local hands as a means of ensuring to the public that it is an independent investigation. The only condition suggested was that it should be held some time during July.

Army Court Bows To House On Privileges

LONDON, June 30.—(CP).— An army court of inquiry called to investigate leakage of secret anti-aircraft defence information bowed to-day to the ancient privilege of the House of Commons in the dispute between Parliament and the War Office.

The court of three high army officers presided over by General Sir Edmund Ironside, met briefly and then adjourned until after the Commons complete their own inquiry into the affair involving the privileges of members under the Official Secrets Act.

It previously had cancelled a summons against Duncan Sandys, Conservative M.P., whose possession of secret data touched off the dispute. Now the military tribunal will be idle until after the Secret committee of the House of Commons makes its report.

Although Mr. Sandys, son-in-law of Winston Churchill and an officer of the Territorial Army, was not present at the session of the military court, another territorial officer was understood to have been on hand to face charges he revealed anti-aircraft data.

Charges Threats.

The Select committee was to begin this afternoon, after debate in the House, to investigate the situation created by Mr. Sandys' allegation he was threatened with prosecution under the Official Secrets Act. Mr. Sandys charged he was threatened by the Attorney-General, Sir Donald Somervell, at the suggestion of Leslie Hore-Belisha, Secretary for War.

A third committee—the House of Commons Standing Committee on Privileges—also met to decide whether the military court was guilty of a breach of the House's ancient privileges by summoning Mr. Sandys before it.

150,000 Homes Lost; Typhoon Howls Towards Islands

TOKYO, June 30—(AP)— A typhoon howled toward Japans Islands today in the wake of two days of horror in which at least 100 persons were killed and 200 others were missing.

Tokyo was virtually isolated by the heaviest deluge of rain in Japan's recorded history and by an earthquake which levelled homes and disrupted rail and wire communications.

The Central Meteorological Institute warned all cities in Southern Japan to be prepared for the tropical hurricane blowing northward across the China Sea.

Most of the death were in Tokyo and Yokohama. In ooth cities landslides crumpled homes. A railroad tunnel collapsed near Tokyo and a main line road bed was washed away. Many rivers burst their banks, imperilling other homes beneath undermined cliffs.

More than 12 inches of rain fell, flooding 150,000 homes in Tokyo alone. The rain, greatest in 60 years, had slackened early this afternoon but roaring winds were growing steadily.

Rivers still were high and police forcibly removed families from lowland homes and areas endangered by further landslides, the cause of most of the casualties. Earth, already soaked by the torrential rains, slipped in many places after the quakes.

Landslides Kill Many.

The landslides in Tokyo and Yokohama were the worst disasters.

Eighteen persons were crushed or smothered to death in the heart of Tokyo when part of the estate of Baron Takakimi Mitsui slipped shortly after the earthquake. Forty others were entombed and their fate was not known.

A similar catastrophe buried five houses in Yokohama, where a 90-foot cliff collapsed. Two women, each with their two children, were killed. With their husbands fighting in China, they had lived under the same roof.

"There was a terrible roar like a train crossing a bridge," Yokohama newspaper said. "A huge curtain of red dust momentarily obscured the scene.

"Where, a moment before, a cluster of houses had stood, there now were only jumbled, splintered wood, twisted tin roofs, oozing mud and silence."

Toronto Bathers Ignore Pollution

TORONTO, June 30.—(CP). — East Toronto residents by the score dipped toes hesitatingly into chilly Lake Ontario to-day, decided the water was about as warm as could be expected and by their gleeful plunges into the rollers shook off as "much ado about nothing" doleful warnings of water pollution.

For of late Toronto's city fathers have been disturbed by the condition of the beaches in the eastern end of the city. Many citizens have complained sewage poured into the lake makes it unhealthy for bathers. So insistent became the demands for a remedy the Board of Health inspected the beaches and recommended the erection of a new sewage disposal plant.

But while city councillors and board of health officials deliberated the question most of the younger residents of the east end continued to enjoy their occasional dips into the lake—whenever the temperature of the water permitted. They had the tacit approval of Dr. Gordon P. Jackson, medical health officer.

"The beaches are not a prolific or dangerous source of danger to public health," Dr. Jackson told the board of health after its inspection trip. "The condition of the beaches to-day is no worse than five or six years ago." Of 344 cases of typhoid fever during the past 10 years, "only 25 cases gave any history of using the beaches at some time or other."

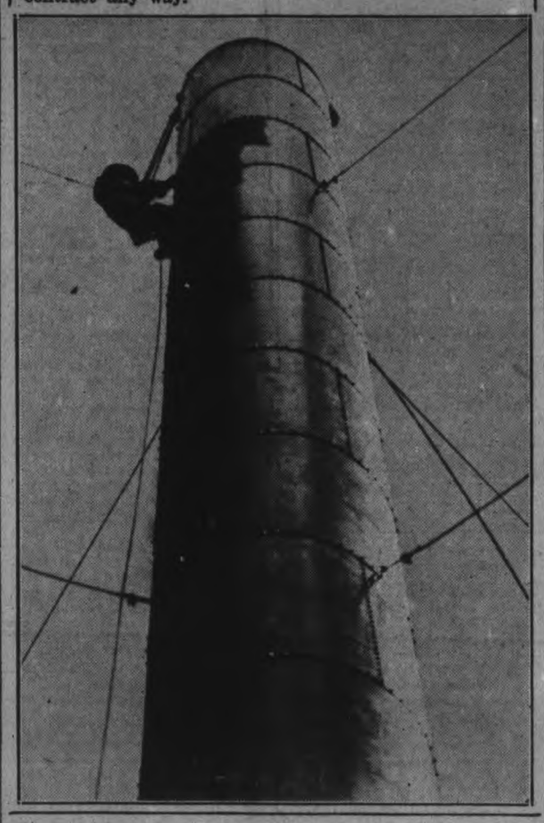
The Board Is Uncertain.

Board members, however, were dubious about the situation. Alderman Dr. Gordon Millen said he would not himself be willing to swim at the Eastern Beaches, while Alderman Ernest Bray would do so only under "certain conditions."

It all began several weeks ago when some swimmers reported they had contracted a skin irritation. About 10,000,000 gallons of sewage pass into the lake daily through an overflow disposal pipe at Ashbridge's Bay and 55,000,000 gallons daily through another pipe in that Eastern section. The sewage first is treated in a disposal plant.

Protests poured into the Board of Health. It was claimed the sewage, poured far out into the lake through long pipes, was drifting back upon the beaches and that through inadequate treating facilities some of it remained untreated. The Board finally decided not to close the beaches, and recommended to City Council a new disposal plant be built.

Fast Work E. J. Gaisely of Belleville painting the 100-foot smoke stack at the incinerator Wednesday mornnig, although his tender was not accepted by the property committee of the council until Wednesday night, and the committee's report won't be ratified by the council until next Monday night. Possibly the explanation of the circumstances may be that his $50 tender was so much lower than the bids of three or four Peterborough painters he felt safe in going ahead with the job in the certainty that he was going to get the contract any way.



Stevens Back In Tory Fold As Convention Delegate

Never Severed Party Ties He States; Mum On Bid For Leadership

OTTAWA, June 30 (CP).—Hon. H. H. Stevens, Reconstruction member for Kootenay East, announced today he would attend the forthcoming National Conservative convention as a delegate for Maisonneuve-Rosemont, Montreal. A meeting in that constituency last night named him as a delegate.

"That means you identify yourself as Privy Councillor supporting the Conservative party?" Mr. Stevens was asked.

"Yes," replied the former Minister of Trade and Commerce and Reconstruction leader in the 1935 Federal election.

Asked whether the action meant that he was leading the Reconstruction Party into the Conservative Party and whether he had consulted the Reconstruction Party executive, Mr. Stevens replied there was no executive but he had received overwhelming endorsation of the step he was now taking by the people in all parts of the country who supported him in the last election.

"It was never really a party," Mr. Stevens said. "It was a movement to meet the economic and social needs of the country."

Queried as to whether he would be a candidate for leadership of the Conservative Party, Mr. Stevens said he had no statement to make in that regard.

Unanimous Selection.

Early to-day Mr. Stevens received a telegram from J. B. Bellemere of Montreal announcing he had been selected a delegate from Maisonneuve-Rosemont at a convention last night.

The telegram stated Mr. Stevens had been selected unanimously as the delegate "and request you earnestly to accept the task as such." Mr. Stevens sent a wire accepting .

"In accepting this appointment as delegate I would like to say that I do not feel I have ever severed my connection with the Conservative party. I did hold and still hold somewhat strong views in regard to adapting the policies of the Conservative party to new economic conditions.

"For some years my view has been this can be done without doing violence to the underlying principles of the Conservative party, and I am convinced from what I have heard from all sections of Canada that the delegates to the convention are preparing to endorse broad general measures of reform calculated to meet the requirements of present day social and economic problems.

"Furthermore I believe that a reconstructed Conservative party will be the best possible medium through which sane reforms may be achieved.

"Unity is absolutely essential to Canada and as far as I am concerned all personal interests must be subservient to what is in the best interests of the country."

LONDON, June 30.—(AP)—A two-line advertisement in the "In Memoriam" column on the front page of the Times today marked the fourth anniversary of the Nazi blood purge of June 30, 1934.

The lines read: "In proud and most dear remembrance of Ernst Roehm, captain, June 30, 1934."

There was no signature.

(Roehm, a lieutenant of Adolf Hitler, from the early days of the Nazi movement, was chief of staff of the storm troopers. He was killed in the purge, charged with plotting against Hitler and indulging in immoral orgies).

New British Warships 45,000 Tons

Agrees To Monsters In Parley With France, U.S.

LONDON, June 30 (A.P.). — An agreement among Great Britain, the United States, and France setting the limit of battleships at 45,000 tons with 16-inch guns was announced in the House of Commons to-day.

The agreement, announced by Alfred Duff Cooper, First Lord of the Admiralty, was a sequel to the decision of the three Powers to abandon the 35,000-ton limit of the London Naval Treaty of 1936.

This was made public on March 31 in accordance with the escalator clause of the Treaty, invoked by the signatories because of reports that Japan was building mammoth men-of-war.

Mr. Duff Cooper indicated the 45,000-ton limit was higher than Great Britain wanted to build up to, "but that is the lowest figure on which agreement could be reached," he said.

Does Not Desire To Lead Again States Bennett

OTTAWA, June 30.—(CP).— Rt. Hon. R. B. Bennett disclosed today he has no desire to succeed himself as Conservative leader.

Speaking to The Canadian Press, Mr. Bennett indicated he would not be a candidate for the leadership, to be filled at the National Conservative convention here next week.

It had been rumored for several weeks that Mr. Bennett, who has been party leader since 1927, again would seek the endorsation of his followers despite the fact that he announced his retirement at a party conference here earlier in the year.

Mr. Bennett said that while he did not make any definite announcement at the dinner for Conservative Senators and Members of the Commons held last night, he did intimate that he had no desire to succeed himself as Conservative leader.

In replying to a toast to himself, he said he would do all he could to assist the next leader.

Always Be Ready To Help

Mr. Bennett told the dinner that he was not breaking his connection with the Conservative party and that he would remain in the House of Commons for the rest of the present parliament. Whether inside or outside parliament he would always render what service he could to the party.

With the three-day convention opening next Tuesday, the field of possible candidates is being reduced.

W. D. Herridge, Ottawa barrister and former Canadian minister to Washington who had been mentioned as a likely candidate, announced Monday night in a Halifax speech that he would not seek the leadership.

It is generally assumed in parliamentary circles here that there will be at least four candidates nominated. They are: Hon. Dr. R. J. Manion, former minister of railways and canals in the Bennett administration; Hon. J. Earl Lawson, member for York South, and official financial critic in the house this year, Denton Massey, member for Toronto Greenwood; and J. H. Harris, member for Toronto Danforth.

While some Conservatives have been urging Senator Arthur Meighen, Conservative leader in the senate, to run, he has intimated he will not contest the leadership.

Tenders Accepted

OTTAWA, June 30—(CP).—The Bank of Canada announced today on behalf of Finance Minister Dunning that tenders had been accepted for the full amount of 25,000,000 Dominion of Canada treasury bills due next Sept. 30. Average discount price of the accepted bid was $99.87942 and the average yield .479 per cent.

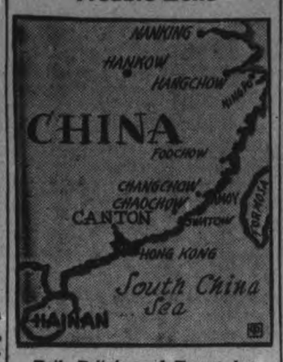
Two Fliers Killed

BAGHDAD, June 30 (CP-Havas). Flying Officer C. A. Stephen and Aircraftsman Harold Davis were killed today in the crash of a Royal Air Force plane near Haffeeniyah. Air Force plane near Hafeeniyah. burgh. Both men were attached to the 30th bomber squadron.

Trouble Zone



Both Britain and France have made known a warning to Japan to keep hands off the strategic Chinese island of Hainan, off the South China coast, revealing a pledge to act together to handle any "complications." Hainan, shown on the map above, is directly opposite northern French Indo-China, and lies close to the route between Hongkong and Singapore, Britains Far Eastern strongholds.

Last Ryan Killer Shorty Bryans Dies On Gallows

TORONTO, June 30—(CP)— Thomas (Shorty) Bryans, last surviving member of Red Ryan's gang of bandits that terrorized Ontario more than a decade ago, was hanged in Don jail here today. The trap was sprung at 7.58 a.m. and the 38-year-old former convict was pronounced dead nine minutes later.

Bryans was convicted last April 28 of a charge of slaying Norman Ford, 26-year-old one-time assistant golf professional at a Toronto club. Ford was shot to death outside a west end police station here early February 6. A short time before the shooting the two men were seen struggling.

Mr. Justice C. P. McTague sentenced Bryans to death after an assize court jury deliberated 2½ hours and found him guilty of a charge of murder. An appeal for commutation of sentence was refused yesterday by Justice Minister Ernest Lapointe.

Bryans' wife, separated from him for 10 years, several times visited her husband in the death cell of Don jail where the sentence was carried out. She said good-bye yesterday and after her visit left for her home in Northern Ontario. Brigadier E. Owen of the Salvation Army said Bryans broke down during his wife's last visit.

In Famous Escape of '23.

Bryans was a member of Ryan's gang when the notorious criminal escaped from Kingston penitentiary in September, 1923. In the famous escape, Ryan, Bryans, Arthur Sullivan, Gordon Timpson and Edward McMullen climbed a penitentiary wall in daylight. Four of the five are dead.

Sullivan was shot and killed in Minneapolis shortly after the escape. Ryan was killed when he and Harry Checkley, a petty thief, held up a government liquor store in Sarnia, Ont., in 1936. Checkley and Constable John Lewis also were killed in the ensuing gunfight. McMullen was shot to death late in 1936 by a customs officer on the British Columbia-Washington border.

Simpson worked on an ocean liner after his escape and later was arrested in New York and taken back to Kingston. He was released from penitentiary in 1933 and went to the United States where he is now living.

Defence Leak Bared To Commons

British Gun Positions Held Under Lock Learned By M.P.

LONDON, June 30—(CP Cable)—Leslie Hore-Belisha, secretary of state for war, rose in the House of Commons today and told a story which held the House, packed to the uttermost corners, under a spell with its dramatic interest.

It was a story of how a highly secret emergency plan of defence had leaked out, a plan showing the exact disposition to be taken by British guns and the exact numbers and the stores from which they were to be provided.

The plan was marked secret. The instructions were that it was to be kept under lock and key and that subordinate officers should be informed only of such details as were necessary for them to take proper action.

Yet a letter which Duncan Sandys, Conservative member of parliament, sent Mr. Hore-Belisha revealed not only that he knew details of the secret scheme but also of modifications made since the plan was prepared in April last. It was to discover how the secret leaked out that a military court of inquiry was established.

Breach Committed.

Prime Minister Chamberlain announced previously that the House of Commons Committee on Privileges had decided that a special military court committed a breach of privilege in summoning Duncan Sandys, M.P., to tell where he got secret anti-aircraft defence data.

The Army Court, constituted to find and plug the leak, already had bowed to the House by adjourning indefinitely its sittings.

The Prime Minister is a member of the Committee on Privileges which examined one phase of the controversy—the summoning of Mr. Sandys, a Conservative, to appear as a second lieutenant in the Territorial Army to answer questions.

The committee did not recommend further action in reporting its unanimous finding through the Prime Minister.

Last Minute News Flashes

TORONTO.—Mayor Ralph Day said today he was sending a letter to C. G. Gropp, German Consul in Toronto, informing him he had no control "whatsoever over any lawful act of a member of council," and that he could take no action on the consul's protest against recent remarks by a Toronto alderman about Chancellor Hitler.

30 Fascists Heads Hire Hall For Secret Kingston Rally

TORONTO, June 30 (CP)—Thirty Canadian Fascist leaders will gather at Kingston tomorrow for the movement's first national convention, to be held without fanfare of any kind.

So secret have been preparations for the convention that even Kingston authorities are unaware where the meetings Friday and Saturday will be held.

"We have engaged a private hall and will meet there," said Joseph Farr, Ontario organizer of the Canadian Nationalist party, here today. "Where is it? I'm not saying."

Farr and Adrien Arcand of Montreal, party leader, conferred here before leaving for Kingston where they have been assured no civic welcome awaits them.

The two expressed indignation at a statement made yesterday by Mayor H. A. Stewart of Kingston that the Fascists would not be permitted to use city buildings or property for their convention and would not be given a permit to parade.

Sees Welcome In Future.

"We did not ask a permit to parade," Farr said. "We did not ask to use a public building. Why does the Mayor say this. We did not ask for a welcome, but within a year they will be welcoming us with open arms."

Purpose of the Kingston convention is the setting up of a National Fascist organization. Farr said the delegates from all parts of Canada would elect a leader, organizer and committees on propaganda and other subjects.

While the convention, would be held behind closed doors, Farr said a public meeting was scheduled to be held in Massey Hall, Toronto, Monday night where admission would be by ticket only. About 2,500 tickets had been distributed.

"We do not expect any trouble at the Toronto meeting," he said. "But we are prepared in case the Reds start anything and about 100 party legionnaires will attend to protect the speakers."

Montreal, June 30 (CP)

AN ACCOUNT for $2,225 by Dr. Albert Guilbault for attending the 18-months old child of Gaston Elie, was reduced in court today by Mr. Justice Chase Casgrain to $1,000. The Judge said that while undoubtedly the doctor was a child's specialist it was necessary to consider among other things that he was only 32 years old, had only two years' practice and that he had not succeeded in saving the child's life. For two of the days he worked the doctor billed for $705, the Judge pointed out.

Two Aging Armies Meet Last Time At Gettysburg

GETTYSBURG, Pa., June 30 — Two aged armies came back to the Gettysburg battlefield for the last time today with the sound of dusty drums in their ears but with peace in their hearts.

Among the throng of old but eager veterans were two from Canada, Col. J. W. Miller, 93, of Peterborough, Ontario who fought with the Regular U. S. Cavalry under Mead in the Republican Army, and was wounded and taken prisoner at the historic battle, the other is Captain Mark Berry, 95, of Port Stanley who was a member of the crew of Union gunboat Santee, which assisted in capturing New Orleans from the rebels near the close of the war, and today these two renewed friendships with their American comrades of yesteryear.

They came—veterans of the Grand Army of the Republic and the men of Robert E. Lee—for a final reunion in the Little Blue Ridge foothills town to which weary soldiers trudged 75 years ago in search of shoes and where they found instead the bloodiest battle of the Civil War.

Many of them had been here before. Hundreds more visited the battlefield in 1913 on the 50th anniversary of Leeds last vain bid for victory. Today there were fewer than 2,000 converging on the spot where James Gettys stopped his ox cart in 1780 at the end of his search for a fertile, peaceful farm.

They will not come again. This 75th anniversary reunion is the last, and Gettysburg—which once trem-

Montreal, June 30 (CP)

RENE GAUDRY might just as well go, too. Thieves took all his belongings last night, making off with a ninety-two-piece dinner set, a cedar chest, house linen and blankets, vacuum cleaner and a trunk containing all his valuables. As there was nothing else to take, the thieves took off, leaving no clues, let alone any house furnishings.

Hint Canadian Backing For Wilkins' Trip

NEW YORK, June 30—(CP)—Sir Hubert Wilkins, Arctic explorer, announced today he will leave for Montreal Friday night to meet Canadian backers who have expressed a tentative interest in a proposed submarine exploration of Arctic waters.

If present plans materialize the expedition will start next spring, Sir Hubert said. The submarine will be built in England and the total cost of the expedition will be about $125,000.

Under-sea travel to the Arctic will have an important bearing on defence plans for Canada and the United States, said Sir Hubert.

Lapointe Minimizes Danger Of Fascists, Reds, Spies

House Passes Prison Bill, Elections Act And Shapes For Prorogation Today

OTTAWA, June 30 (CP).—Expresson of fears by "eminent men" concerned with the growth of Fascist or other subversive elements in Canada is playing into the hands of notoriety and publicity seekers, in the opinion of Justice Minister Ernest Lapointe.

Espionage rumors also raise a possibility of danger which the Minister does not minimize but such activities in Canada are completely in hand and the danger from that source is being guarded against in collaboration with United States and British officials.

Mr. Lapointe gave the House of Commons these assurances last night when dangers from these sources were suggested by C. Grant MacNeil (C.C.F., Vancouver North) and Opposition Leader Bennett.

"I implore my fellow-citizens not to be alarmed by these reports," the Minister said. He had considered introducing legislation to prohibit parades in uniform for political purposes but had not advanced it because it would give "too much importance to these people." But he would not hesitate to do it if the activities increased.

In traditional prorogation-eve manner the House ranged swiftly over a wide field of legislation, voted $29,000,000 in estimates and cleared the way for possible prorogation today. Only a few items remain on the House order paper. The Senate order papers were cleared early last night.

There is always the possibility, however, that some debate may arise to make prorogation today impossible. Seldom does parliament prorogue on the date first fixed upon as desirable.

Some compromise may have to be reached on the transport commission bill which was severely amended in the senate. Other important measures have passed that chamber with amendments that probably will be accepted.

Prorogation was in the air in both chambers yesterday with the gal-

Suggest Social System In Prison

OTTAWA, June 30.—(AP).—Men and women confined in penitentiaries and asylums would undoubtedly emerge as better citizens if they were allowed to establish their own social organization inside the walls and run it themselves, the American Association for the Advancement of Science was advised today.

Professor J. D. Ketchum of the University of Toronto, told the Association's psychology section that a group of human beings thrown together in close confinement will, if given the chance, work out their own system of living, work, culture, and mental development.

As an illustration he declared that when 3,000 men, of which he was one, were confined to the Ruhleben internment camp in Germany throughout the World War they developed in short time an almost perfect social organization. Day laborers, diplomats, army and navy officers, enlisted men, members of the English peerage and many others were thrown into the hodge-podge of the concentration camp and forced to exist in stables where 10 men slept in a stall built to accommodate one horse, Professor Ketchum declared.

Instead of sinking into despair over their lot the men soon developed a social organization, elected their leaders, organized camp activities including cricket and other sports, and in general adapted themselves to their surroundings.

"For me the word 'Ruhleben' connotes just four amazingly interesting and stimulating years which I would not have missed for anything," Ketchum declared.

Lindsay Liberal Head Denies Statements

(Examiner Correspondence.)

LINDSAY, June 30.— Mr. J. A. McLaughlin, president of the Liberal Association of Victoria and Haliburton, has denied certain statements published in the press and alleged to have been made by him relative to the appointment of A. Hodgson, Fish and Game Overseer, at the annual meeting of the Association. The statement attributed to him that the executive had tried to give the position to any other than Mr. Hodgson, was false. At no time was any other name but Mr. Hodgson's mentioned by the executive, the main objective being to secure a successor to Mr. Windsor who would be efficient, and the executive was proud of its choice, Mr. McLaughlin states. The department never at any time made mention of either Liberal or Tory being appointed, and Mr. Hodgson was chosen regardless of political color.

The directors of Lindsay Central Exhibition plan to invite the Toronto Scottish Regiment as well as the Toronto police band to the annual exhibition this year.

The member, a second lieutenant in the London Anti-Aircraft Brigade of the Royal Artillery, charged the military summons was a "gross breach of privilege" and was expected to be upheld by the House Committee on Privileges.

It was reliably reported that the Cabinet, at a meeting yesterday, decided to accept full responsibility in the case.

The Commons echoed to passages from the grand remonstrance and the bill of rights as one Labor member asserted their constitutional privileges prevented His Majesty's ministers from doing "what the ministers of Germany can do."

Cabinet Backs Premier.

The political correspondents of the News Chronicle (Liberal) and the Daily Herald (Labor) said the Sandys case was thoroughly discussed at the weekly cabinet meeting yesterday and that the cabinet was understood to have unanimously supported Mr. Chamberlain and the Secretary for War.

Ministers concerned in the case also were reported to have conferred in the Prime Minister's private rooms at the House of Commons.

The 10 members of the Privileges committee last met in 1934 to investigate Mr. Churchill's charges that Sir Samuel Hoare attempted to influence evidence given before the Joint Select Committee on Indian Reforms.

The case was regarded as an outcome of "latent antagonism" between Mr. Hore-Belisha and the so-called "Churchill group," according to the Times (Independent).

In its first comment on the dispute, the newspaper expressed surprise it had reached such proportions, pointing out that in the past the "personal tact" of ministers and members of the Commons had settled disagreements over application of the Official Secrets Act to members.

The Normal Procedure.

"In such cases," the Times continued, "the normal procedure is for the minister, in a personal interview, to explain the case, whereupon the member, irrespective of his party, his feelings or his sources of information, customarily withdraws the question.

"One fact that the House is anxious to learn before judging the personal issue is whether on this occasion the normal procedure was followed."

The political corresopndent of the Daily Mirror (Independent) wrote that Mr. Chamberlain "may be forced to offer Mr. Hore-Belisha as a sacrifice."

"The Prime Minister, however, has been informed of every step his minister was about to take, and it is believed in the Commons that Mr. Hore-Belisha's departure would bring down the Prime Minister, too,' the Mirror added.

"The crisis may bring down individual members and may dangerously undermine the government itself," said the Daily Herald (Labor).

The Official Secrets Act would "speedily become tyranny extended to the same power that brought it into being," said the Daily Telegraph (Independent), if it could be utilized to stifle debate or shield departments from the revelation of their own defaults.

The Daily Mail (Independent) commented: "Such dragooning of a private individual who at the worst can be reproached with no more than an excess of zeal in his country's service will have no approval of British public opinion."

Mr. Hore-Belisha has other worries besides the official secrets case. It is expected he will have to answer demands in the Commons for a tightening of discipline over the Royal Horse Guards. Three troopers of this famous regiment were sent to prison yesterday as a result of the rape of a 14-year-old girl in a stable at the reigment's Whitehall Barracks.

Two of the troopers—one convicted of assault, and one of abetting the assault—were sentenced to four years' penal servitude. The third was imprisoned for 22 months for attempted assault.

The case also may have important consequences on the medical profession, for it has resulted in the prosecution of Dr. Aleck Bourne, consultant at Queen Charlotte's Hospital anda noted obstetrician, on a charge of performing an abortion on the girl the troopers assaulted. Dr. Bourne, an opponent of the law as at present constituted, is making a "test case" of the affair.

bled to the clump of soldier boots along her dust-white pikes—welcomed Confederate and Union veterans.

All of yesterday the advance guard drifted in from the west, the south, the northeast, and soon after dawn today they were coming in full strength by special train, by bus and by automobile. Knotty fingers fumbled at the brims of black campaign hats as they saluted. Grey hats came off to the weak cackle of a Rebel yell. At the corners of the village "diamond" and along the road between the grey and blue camps they gathered to touch hands where once they had struck with shot and shell.

They ground they trod with uncertain feet has been transformed into one vast memorial for more than 43,000 soldiers who fell there at the turning point of the war. Cold bronze and colder marble mark for history the once-burning spot where Meade's horse danced nervously among the guns on Cemetery Hill; where Lee sat astride his white horse, Traveler, watching the fearful burst of fire across the valley; where Reynolds fell; where Armistead flourished his hat on his sword and, dying, gasped a vain call for victory before Pickett's men crumpled in the burning sun at Bloody Angle.

Levis, Que., June 30 (CP)

WHEN police here received a report of a brutal and bloody assault in a grove at near-by Martiniere, two constables raced out, only to find the youthful cook of a Scout camp, his face painted with crushed strawberries and tied to a tree, playing with all his dramatic ability the tragic role in an open-air Scout play.

Good Bass Prospects For Opening Friday

TORONTO, June 30—(CP)— The bass fishing season opens tomorrow and the Department of Game and Fisheries reported today prospects for good fishing were bright throughout Ontario.

"Black Bass have the reputation of being the most sporting fish in the world," said J. Ferrington, assistant to the Deputy Minister of the Games and Fisheries department.

The bass season is the last fishing season to open as they spawn later. Regulations are simple. The daily limit is six fish and no fish less than 10 inches may be retained.

More than 2,000,000 black bass were used to stock Ontario Lakes last year and other bass were taken from heavily-stocked Lakes to depleted Lakes.

Government facilities for breeding bass at the outlet of White Lake in Frontenac township are being enlarged this spring to ensure an adequate number of bass for next season.

Nude Girl Shot Dead Man Badly Wounded

MONTREAL, June 30—(CP). — Police kept constant vigil to-day over the hospital cot where Frank Arthur Wixler lay dying with a bullet wound in the chest while authorities probed the shooting of 25-year-old Germaine Rochon, whose nude body was found lying beside Wixler in an east end Montreal room.

The couple was found late yesterday, when police were summoned to the St. Andre street boarding house by Neighbors, who heard two shots. A single bullet had pierced the girl's body, through the left side of the chest and doctors said they believed she had died instantly.

Wixler, a .32 calibre revolver laying near him, had been shot through the left lung at close range. Powder burns had blackened the front of his pyjama coat.

Mrs. Joseph Donato said she had rented the room to the couple two weeks ago.

Speaker Urges Careful Study C.C.F. Problem

At the C.C.F. strawberry social held Thursday night, speeches were made by W. Johnson, local C.C.F. president and Felix Lazaruss, who was the first provincial C.C.Y.M. organizer.

Mr. Johnson confined his remarks to current events and reminding the C.C.F. members present that an election might be called in the fall, with the urge that all C. C.F.'ers and people who were desirous of better conditions to study the questions facing them, and to put forth every effort towards the success of the C.C.F. party. "It was not enough," he said, "for Socialists to strive during election time alone but that it was part of their duty to remain in constant contact with world policies and home affairs that they might be prepared to meet conditions of every day with as much vigor and co-operation as is shown during elections."

He extended a vote of thanks and personal gratitude for the splendid way in which the C.C.F. Social Committee had handled the affair, in providing for the excellent food and the various games of which the crowd took advantage of after the food festival. "It is co-operation such as this," he said, "which, carried into parliament will win the battle for democracy." He closed with the hope that many get togethers such as this would be had in the future.

Felix Lazuruss, visiting at Cavan, came up to deliver a message to youth. People, he stated, were always demanding that speakers speak about something new, but unfortunately there was practically nothing which could be termed as new in the strict sense of the word. "I have nothing new to speak to you about," he said, "but what might be new to some here tonight is action." Youth will invariably say, when hearing a speech on such vital questions as economics, war and world chaos, that they know all that. "This type of youth," he said "puzzles me." They claim to know it yet do nothing about it. These are the people who are won't to lay the blame for present world chaos at the door of the past generation—blaming them for their past carelessness and following blithely along under the self same philosophy — a philosophy, which unless checked will lead us into another tragic war and general upheavel and with no reward but the blame of our children who will live to reap the results of it all and who will accuse us of what this certain type of youth now accuse their parents.

He covered in brief the chaotic conditions of the world and urged that one and all take steps to educate themselves well in the causes for national economic and social collapse, for through education the value of perfectly co-ordinated mass unity will be seen and such unwanted developments as fascism and communism will be successfully repell. "Blind unreason, and prejudice will solve nothing," he stated. "It must be education and nothing else."

WINNIPEG GRAIN

WINNIPEG, June 30 (C.P.), — Advances of Winnipeg wheat futures which reached 4¾ cents for July proved transient to-day as values receded on reports of beneficial rains in northern wheat fields of Western Canada and easier Chicago prices. Final quotations were unchanged to ⅛ cent lower, July $1.02b, October 83⅞, November 82⅞b, and December 81¼b.

Flurries of dealings marked the pre-holiday session and at one time semblance of a tight July situation appeared. Houses with outside connections, including export and overseas firms, found offerings scarce and their few buying orders forced the price 4¾ cents above yesterday's close.

The new-crop months advanced as much as 1⅛ cents with Southern interests offering support in early stages. The day's volume was not large and mostly local in character.

Cross In Favor Of Retaining County Councils

LEAMINGTON, June 30.—Hon. Eric Cross, Minister of Welfare and Municipal Affairs in the Hepburn Government last night ridiculed suggestions that this country has too much Government and expressed himself as definitely and determinedly opposed to any abolition of

The stand taken by Mr. Cross is

The sand taken by Mr. Cross is believed to have had the prior endorsation of Premier Hepburn and his Cabinet. If so it sounds the death-knell to the abolition movement and dispenses with the survey of the County Council situation which the Government, at the last session of the Legislature, appeared to have under advisement.

Mr. Cross, who was speaking to a meeting of Ontario Houses of Refuge managers, and Essex County municipal officials, claimed that any movement to eliminate county councils was impractical and unworkable. The annual budget of the thirty-eight counties amounted to $55,000,000, he said. Administration evpenses added another $167,000 yearly.

Councils, he said, had given efficient local self-government, and their greatest handicap had been the tremendous demands made upon them by the taxpayers. Their abolition simply would mean he said, that the huge sums they had to meet would be transferred from one branch of Government to another, without any saving. In fact, he said, costs of Government would probably increase.

Retreating Japs Burn City

SHANGHAI, June 30 (AP).—Chinese declared today they still held the important Matowchen boom, barrier to Japan's drive up the Yangtse River against Hankow.

But the trend of what may be a crucial battle in defence of the provisional capital, 175 miles upriver from the boom was obscured behind cautious communiques from both sides.

Chinese, who earlier had acknowledged loss of one of several forts guarding the barrier of sunken, rock-laden junks, said fighting still was raging in the area.

Japanese would not discuss their brief war bulletins in detail and made no claims to possession of the boom itself.

A flood menacing Hangchow, Japanese-held Chekiang province capital south of Shanghai, and nearby cities on the Chientang river spread when breaking dikes loosed heavy torrents.

(A retreating Japanese army, in reprisal against Chinese guerilla fighters, burned the walled city of Ankwo, in Hopeh province 140 miles south of Peiping June 24, a delayed message disclosed.

(Ankwo was the fifth walled town in Hopeh burned by the Japanese in reprisal for guerilla activity foreign investigators said. They also listed 230 villages in the same area that have been similarly attacked.

(Chinese mercenaries who fought with the Japanese said they had been compelled to loot all shops when the Japanese retreated from Ankwo. Chinese business officials estimated the loss at $500,000.)

Collision Kills Flier

LEEDS, England, June 30 (CP-Havas)—Flight Lieut. William Foster Pharazyn was killed when a Royal Air Force plane crashed today near Selby, Yorkshire, after a collision in mid-air with another machine.

Lieut. Pharazyn, a graduate of the R.A.F. staff college, was attached to the 72nd fighter squadron at Church Fenton, near Tadcaster.

England's Royal Girl Guides

New Equipment For Fire Hall, Erection Of Incinerator Necessary Capital Expenditures

Construction of a new incinerator and purchase of some new equipment for the fire department are capital expenditures the city can not much longer put off, according to opinions voiced at several of the committee meetings last night. Nothing is contemplated for this year, at any rate, but it is frankly admitted that the need of replacing several old pieces of apparatus at the fire hall is becoming more apparent every month, and has already been reported from recent discussions in the council the incinerator's continued service is nearing an end.

A report by City Engineer Parsons advised the property committee last night that an expenditure of $200 for repairs to the furnace of the incinerator would be required probably in August, and that the old building might serve for another year or two. Cost of replacing it would amount to about $20,000, but for the needs of a future city of 50,000 population Alderman Wilson estimated that $40,000 would be required. Mr. Parsons advised that the present site of the incinerator should be retained.

Alderman Cotton said a 150 foot brick chimney for a new incinerator would alone cost about $8,000. Repairs made some months ago cost $200, and it is expected that another $200 will have to be spent on the furnaces on Civic holiday. This work was authorized to be done, and another motion by Alderman Dutton requested Mr. Parsons to obtain information regarding a new incinerator as preparatory to preparing a bylaw to be submitted to the people.

Bids For City Lots.

P. J. Harrison, Water Street and Park Hill Road, offered the property committee $125 for a lot owned by the city on Aylmer Street north, opposite O'Carroll Avenue, but the committee decided that Mr. Harrison could have it for $200.

Mayor Hamilton's motion seconded by Alderman Dutton instructed City Solicitor Huycke to prepare a deed of the lot owned by the city on Prince Street where the Kiwanis Club has begun the construction of a model house, the deed to be presented as a gift to the Club. This lot is on the north side of Prince Street between Aylmer and George Streets.

A. Olan wrote the council that he was willing to pay $125 for a lot at the southeast corner of Monaghan Road and Elm Street on which to build a house costing at least $3,500. The committee decided that the lot should be worth $250, and Mr. Olan can have it at that figure.

Alderman Bradburn suggested that the council might have for sale signs placed on lots owned by the city, but Alderman McCannan, chairman, said two or three hundred lots so marked would be an unfavorable advertisement for the city. As a substitute it was decided to publish a weekly notice in the Examiner to the effect that desirable lots are for sale at the city hall, the advertisements to continue for a month.

E. A. Outram, assistant city clerk, said some cities list their vacant lots, with selling prices, and distribute the lists among real estate men for reference when enquiries are made by prospective purchasers.

Restrict Some Stores.

Alderman Bradburn called attention to the city's regulation requiring restaurants and hotels to provide toilet rooms for the public, but several main street stores, he said, put in lunch counters, obtaining eating house licenses, and afford no wash room accommodation for men and women. He declared that this discrimination should not be permitted, and that the stores should be ordered to provide the same accommodation as the restaurants with which they are in competition.

Alderman Juby went further, asserting that these stores should never have been given eating house licenses. Mayor Hamilton reminded the finance committee that bylaw embodying the question mentioned by Alderman Bradburn had been considered or drafted two years ago, and that it could be revised at an early date and passed by the council if it was so desired. Alderman Bradburn said he was agreeable to that proposal, and Mr. Huycke will be asked to have the bylaw revamped.

WASHINGTON, June 30 (AP)—For the eighth consecutive year, the United States Treasury will enter a deficit on its books today when it concludes the 1938 fiscal year. The red ink figure of $1,400,000,000 will be the smallest in seven years, however. The Government spent slightly more than $7,600,000,000, while its income was about $6,200,000,000. The resulting deficit was about half of last year's.

Cordova Youth Fined $18 For Fatality

(Examiner Correspondence.)

HAVELOCK, June. 30. Lloyd Babcock, aged 20, of Cordova, pleading guilty to a charge of reckless and negligent driving, before Magistrate O. A. Langley K.C., of Peterborough, at Havelock court, yesterday afternoon, was fined $10 and $8.41 costs and a ten-day suspension of his driving permit, with the alternative of 10 days sentence in the county goal. It first appeared that the accused would be forced to spend the next ten days in the goal, however the lad's father leaving the court for a short time managed to collect enough money to pay fine. Magistrate Langley dealt leniently with the suspension of the driving permit in view of the fact that the boy derived his livelihood by means of his automobile.

Crown Attorney V. J. McElderry in presenting the facts of the case stated that the charge of reckless driving had been laid because Babcock had permitted children to ride on the outside of his car, a dangerous practice, which resulted in the death of a little girl, and not for speed.

The fatality in question took place on June 15th at Cordova Mines, when Zella Jane McCulloch, aged 11 years, was fatally injured in a fall from the side of a car driven by Babcock, as it passed over a small bridge in that village. The little girl struck her head on an iron post on this bridge which later resulted in her death in Nicholls Hospital, Peterborough, on June 17.

Nabbed For Speeding Hogg Said Abusive

PORT CREDIT, Ont., June 30—(CP)—A provincial traffic officer testified in traffic court here yesterday that Dr. T. H. Hogg, chairman of the Ontario Hydro Electric Power Commission, had given him "a lot of abuse and threatened to report me to the inspector," when he stopped the Hogg car on the highway.

Driver of the car, Norman Shaw, a Hydro chauffeur, pleaded guilty to a speeding charge and was fined $10 and costs. Dr. Hogg did not attend.

Provincial Traffic Officer C. F. Dean told Magistrate W. E. McIlveen he chased the car four miles at 60 to 65 miles an hour along the Middle road near Oakville before he stopped it. The car was apparently in charge of Dr. Hogg, the officer said.

Insults Hitler

An official protest by the German government has been made to Mayor Ralph Day of Toronto by German Consul C. G. Kropp over remarks made by Alderman William Croft (above), during an inspection of Toronto's zoo, Alderman Croft was quoted as remarking that the beaver pen at the zoo was so dirty that "the only thing I'd put in there is Hitler."

Havelock Principal R. W. Goheen Resigns

HAVELOCK, June 30.—The resignation of R. W. Goheen, Principal of the Havelock High School, for the past year was received at a special meeting of the school board held on Tuesday evening in the school building. As there was not a full attendance of Board members the matter was left over for consideration until Monday evening.

Mr. Goheen, formerly Principal at Waterford High School, was appointed last year at a salary of $1,750, following the resignation of Miss F. E. Morgan.

Seventy men attended the dinner, tendered by the Chamber in honor of Mr. Imrie who pleaded before the Commission on Dominion-Provincial relations for a vigorous and well-knit Canada re-dedicated to the broad purpose of the Fathers of Confederation.

Before we offered you THE NEW and IMPROVED BLUE SUNOCO MOTOR FUEL

it was tested by 1069 motorists in 6 large cities and

86% proved it gave better performance than 30 competing gasolines including 13 premium priced

Each car had its gasoline tank drained, then refilled with . . . "Canada's New Gasoline"—today's New, Improved Blue Sunoco.

Later, drivers of each car were interviewed, and their reports were summarized by Might Directories, Ltd.

Truth in gasoline advertising! Facts instead of claims! Blue Sunoco brings you these in the most complete, the most daring tests ever devised for any gasoline.

WHO TOOK PART IN THESE TESTS?

More than a thousand motorists—people like yourself; workmen and clerks, housewives and doctors, business executives and others were asked to test a motor fuel known to them only as "Canada's New Gasoline." They came from all walks of life, in practically all makes of cars.

HOW WERE THESE TESTS MADE?

The gasolines they had been using were drained from the tanks of their cars and replaced by this "mystery motor fuel" (the blue coloring had been omitted). Then they went out to test it—and later, their reports were collected and tabulated.

WHAT DID THEY PROVE?

86% of these experienced motorists reported that this "mystery fuel" gave a better performance than the gasolines they had been using (a total of 30, including 13 premium priced fuels). The gasoline they tested is the New and Improved Blue Sunoco we are now offering you at regular gas price. THIS, BEYOND ANY QUESTION, RANKS THE NEW BLUE SUNOCO AS AN OUTSTANDING GASOLINE.

Do as these motorists did, test it in your own car, and be convinced.

MIGHT DIRECTORIES LIMITED

TO WHOM IT MAY CONCERN—

Sealed drums of an unidentified water-white gasoline were received by our local representatives in Montreal, Ottawa, Quebec, Toronto, Hamilton and London. Our representatives broke the seals, and gave ten gallons of this gasoline to approximately eleven hundred motorists in these cities, after having drained out the gas in their tanks.

Later, our representatives called upon these motorists and obtained their unbiased answers. We tabulated the reports and certify to the correctness of the figures in this advertisement.

This Study was conducted during May, 1938.

Sun Oil Company, Limited, Toronto, Ontario.

Gentlemen:—

This will advise you that our representative was present during the filling of drums of gasoline, in both Montreal and Toronto, used in the tests which you are making on gasoline named by you "Canada's New Gasoline". These drums were sealed with our marks with tamperproof seals.

Samples of this new gasoline were compared in our laboratory with samples of the New Blue Sunoco taken at random from retail dealers' tanks. Our analyses show that the gasoline used in these tests was the same in every respect as the New Blue Sunoco now on sale to the public except for the blue coloring which, we understand, was omitted to avoid identification by motorists in the tests.

In our opinion the coloring does not affect the performance of this gasoline in any way.

Yours very truly,

Doesn't Make Sense

The Christian Science Monitor and several other United States publications have been trying to find out exactly what neutrality means because that is supposed to be the attitude which United States has assumed toward the war between Japan and China.

A statement made by Japan's ambassador to Great Britain, Shigeru Yoshida, seemed to make a good starting point from which to direct investigations. He said that Japanese raids on Canton had destroyed the lives of 7,000 inhabitants and explained that the raids were carried out for the purpose of demoralizing the Chinese people.

The next point of interest was found in statistics showing that United States had supplied no less than 54.4 per cent. of the war materials essential to the Japanese invasion of China, and that United States contributed over $1,000,000 worth of planes and parts to Japan in April alone.

We presume it is correct enough to state that material supplied from United States had much to do with the slaughter of people in Canton by Japanese bombers. The conclusion is that the two facts placed together are supposed to spell neutrality, but the answer doesn't make sense.

They All Ask For Girls

Now and then one hears the phrase "Us men must stick together." Just where it started we know not, but there is actually something in it. Apparently "us men" have a poor reputation and it starts early in life.

We say that on account of the experience of the Neighborhood Workers in Toronto who are seeking homes in the country where they can send children for holidays. These children otherwise would not have a holiday of any sort; a good many of the homes from which they come are on relief.

So far the good folk in Toronto have received 120 letters telling that families will be glad to receive one or more of the children, but 110 of these invitations stipulate that the guest shall be a little girl and most of them say she should be about five years of age. Only 10 places are thus open to a small boy. That's why we say "us men must stick together," for it appears we are not much desired not even at an early age.

Our High And Low Spots

A reader of the Examiner has forwarded this question:

"I was reading an old book about the earlier days of this city and several places there is reference to the low land around the corner of Hunter and George streets and apparently they used to have trouble with the water collecting there. I have heard it referred to as the lowest point in the city. Could you tell me whether it is."

Our correspondent is correct enough in referring to the corner of George and Hunter as a place which was somewhat of a bog in the earlier days, but it is not the lowest point in the city. From the surveys of R. H. Parsons, city engineer, the Examiner secured some rather interesting figures showing the high and low spots in elevation. At the corner of Parkhill Road and George St. North the elevation is 677 feet above sea level; at the corner of George and Hunter it is 655 feet, a drop of 20 feet, and at the corner of George and Charlotte it is 647, that being a drop of 30 feet between Parkhill Road and Charlotte St. Continuing south in the section between Lake street and Lansdowne the land level is virtually the same at all points and is 630 feet, and is thus 47 feet lower than the intersection of George and Parkhill Road.

The highest point in the city is of course Armour Hill which has an elevation of 820 feet above sea level. It is exactly 100 feet higher there than the site where the Normal School building stands.

The highest point in the city where homes are built is at the corner of Parkhill Road and Bethune, where the elevation is 745 feet. The elevation where the Court House stands is credited with 705 feet, but on Dickson Street a short distance away there is a height of 715 feet.

One of the sharpest inclines in the city is on Antrim Street from the C.N.R. tracks toward Aylmer, where there is a rise of 50 feet in a distance of 400 feet, that being what the engineering world refers to as a 12 1-2 per cent. grade, and that is admittedly steep. Also on Edinburgh from the C.N.R. tracks to Bethune street there is a rise of 55 feet in 400, making a 13 per cent. grade, and that Mr. Parsons is inclined to regard as the sharpest in the city.

At The End of a Month

A deputation from Stratford City Council and Board of Trade went to Ottawa to see Transport Minister Howe and Hon. Norman Rogers, Minister of Labor, the idea being to see if anything could be done to avert the lay-off in the car shops of the C.N.R. in Stratford. The one most hopeful suggestion seemed to be that the shops could easily handle any British munitions orders which might be placed in Canada.

The deputation in its brief claimed that in the year 1931 there were 1,020 men employed in the C.N.R. Stratford shops. When the shops open again next week there will be but 641 who will report for duty, the most recent reduction having eliminated 209 workers.

The municipality's concern in the matter is readily apparent, as in the brief presented at Ottawa it was set forth that an estimate had been made showing that of the 209 families affected by the latest lay-off 150 would be on relief within one month, and if that took place there would be a 50 per cent. increase in the relief costs. Whether such an estimate can be depended upon as being reliable we have no way of knowing, but if it is even approximately correct it raises a question which must apply to many homes in numerous localities.

There was a time when the men in the car shops could be considered as being in the preferred class of workers. The basic rate of pay was around 80 cents an hour and there was provision for their retirement on pension at 65. They have not been working full hours in recent years, and the rate of pay has also come down, but if such families are at the point where a month's cessation of income would place them in the relief line then there must be a much narrower margin for a good many who have not been as well employed.

Just what margin of safety there is in the average home where people are employed is something we do not know, but if the Stratford estimate is anything near correct then many of our Canadian people must be close enough at all times to the exhaustion of their financial resources. As a rule Canadians live well compared to people the world over, but there is plenty to think about when one is confronted with the statement that a month's idleness would put the average family on the relief list.

An Apology Seems In Order

There are unfortunately occasions when newspapers do things to individuals which should never be done. To be more specific we mean this: The other day in the columns of this well-meaning newspaper there was the picture of a pleasant looking gentleman, and the lines accompanying the photograph explained to readers that it was Prince Frederick, a grandson of the ex-Kaiser of Germany. And what had the Prince been doing? Well there is a London rumor that he is paying a certain degree of attention to the Countess Hughwitz-Reventlow, the former Barbara Hutton, who was and is very much of an heiress, but who at the moment is having trouble with her husband.

The only thing wrong with the picture was that it happened to be Principal R. C. Wallace of Queen's University at Kingston. Apart from having the wrong picture in the wrong place everything else was all right. Principal Wallace was due to have his picture published because he had been suggested as the proper individual to become chairman of the provincial commission to investigate various cancer treatments. Instead of that we put him in the rather perilous position of being interested in the London Countess who is much weighted by the tonnage of wealth. When the mistake was discovered it was rectified, but meantime the press was running and when there is an error in the paper which needs to be made right the press seems to run with greater speed than on any other day.

Just what Principal Wallace of Queen's may feel inclined to do to us is something we do not know. He has been attending to business in Kingston and he may not appreciate at all the suggestion he has been running about in London and on the continent bent upon a rather questionable errand. He may feel that he should move from Kingston toward Peterborough in the frame of mind of one who leads a punitive expedition, so while he is yet some 130 miles distant we consider it advisable to issue explanatory material in which we blame our printers, our pressmen, our desk men, our janitor and the driver of the truck, but most of all ourselves. We hope Principal Wallace is able to understand the intent and purpose of all this—we desire to apologize.

He Said Too Much

Just how far a person is justified in going when it comes to expressing opinions about Hitler or any other individual outside of this country is not certain. It is plain enough that there are a good many statements made by people which fall readily enough into the general classification of things which had much better never been said.

A case in point is that of Ald. William Croft of Toronto, a first-year member of the City Council who has been somewhat of a noisy campaigner against everything and anything which has been done or is being done by the civic administration in his city. Nothing appears to be right in his eyes, and proceeding by the inverse course, everything appears to be wrong.

Ald. Croft was making a tour of inspection of the Toronto Zoo and everything was wrong there. The lions were being fed beefsteak which was better than the people on relief were receiving, but it was soon revealed by those who knew that no beefsteak had ever been fed to the lions.

When Ald. Croft had completed his inspection of the Zoo he also came to the conclusion the place was dirty and filthy and he made the remark, "The only thing I'd put in there would be Hitler." He was talking to reporters at the time and he knew they were reporters so he was probably quite aware that what he said would be published. It was.

Now there comes a protest from C. G. Kropp, German Consul in Toronto, who has appealed to Mayor Day asking that Ald. Croft withdraw the remark which he made about Hitler. Mr. Kropp said he was acting on instructions from Dr. Erich Windels, German Consulate-General at Ottawa, who had informed him that the German government had taken exception to the remark made by the Toronto alderman. When informed of the protest Ald. Croft is reported to have stated "The German Consul can go to hell."

There are those who admire an outspoken man; at least they say they do. But it is well to remember for the moment that the British government has been handling ticklish situations for months in order to preserve peace and its members have not been telling any person to go to hell.

The truth about utterances such as Ald. Croft makes is that they serve no good purpose; they do not help to remedy a wrong, nor are they so fashioned that they provide another man with a day's work or make any person happier. They merely draw attention to Ald. Croft and when that has been accomplished he probably is satisfied that his purpose has been served. It would probably be expecting more than will be realized to hope that Ald. Croft will step forward and withdraw his poorly-selected phrase, but that is the course which he should follow. He was plainly on a detour looking for trouble when he allowed his tongue to wiggle at both ends.

NOTE AND COMMENT

The show must go on. But evidently not a circus when the management and the workers cannot agree.

Assemblies of more than five persons are banned as illegal in British Guinia. The edict would just let the Dionne quintuplets by.

It is explained that the animals in the Toronto Zoo are not being fed beefsteak. That must be a relief to the harassed taxpayer.

A suit against a Doukhobor leader has failed, despite the fact that according to what we have heard the Doukhobors do not often both about suits.

The Minister of Highways is asking motorists to drive safely over the holiday weekend. The request is timely for the traffic threatens to reach the peak for the year.

The wife of a prize fighter has been named as one of the candidates in a Toronto beauty show and now we have abandoned any idea of applying for a job as judge of the competition.

Weston council has eliminated the ragweed menace and is now going to tackle poison ivy, which sounds like a dangerous thing even for Weston council.

Summer residents in the Ottawa district claim R.C.A.F. planes fly too low over their cottages. Are they sure what they saw was not some extra large mosquitoes?

Minister of Health says there are a lot of folk in the Ontario mental hospitals who should not be there. Conversely, we suppose a lot of other people who should be in such institutions are still outside.

A Queen City paper has been asking the question whether a man should spank a nagging wife or suffer in silence. That suggests another question of how a man with a nagging wife could suffer in silence.

LAZY

¶ When it came on to early spring, I started work like anything, I had so much to do; I had new catalogues to thumb, and jotted down what must be done, all things must look like new.

¶ I even sketched some plans I had, and gazing at them made me glad, I'd plant right here and there; I knew when I came home at noon, that posies bright would be in bloom, with sweetness in the air.

¶ I talked to neighbors as they went, and told them of my good intent, and they were full of glee; they all agreed my plans were fine, and they looked forward to the time, when beauty they might see.

¶ Today there are some holes I made, but I can't really find the spade, I haven't looked too hard; I haven't hoed like how I should, the land's not looking very good, in fact it's rather hard.

¶ When it turned hot some days ago, that was the time for me to hoe, what experts said to me; but after I had worked a bit, I found it nice to go and sit, beneath my basswood tree.

¶ It's always like that in the spring, I plan to work like anything, to change things all about; but when we get 'neath summer skies, enthusiasm sort of dies—or else it peters out.

Trying To Fix Election Hours

Members of the House of Commons were debating the proposal to so change the hours of voting that British Columbia could not learn the results of voting in the Maritimes before completing the marking of ballots. The Maritimes in time are four hours ahead of B.C.

Mr. MacINNIS: I rise to support the amendment moved by the hon. member for New Westminster (Mr. Reid). I was not a member of the committee that considered this bill, but I am not unmindful of the reasons that prompted it in trying to remedy the situation complained of by the hon. member for Vancouver South (Mr. Green) and the hon. member for Leeds (Mr. Stewart). If it is intended to remedy this situation by the change now suggested, the result will be the disenfranchisement of a great many people in British Columbia. Any one who has any understanding at all of the conditions under which the manual labourers work must realise that it would be quite impossible for them to get away from their work and reach the polling booths before five o'clock. It will mean the disenfranchisement of thousands of people all over the province. It will take many of these people two or three hours to reach the polling booths in order to exercise their franchise. I have no objection to the suggestion made by the hon. member for Vancouver South, provided, as the minister said, you can keep the maritimes down. Being a maritimer myself, I know that they take their politics more seriously than their religion, and it may be rather difficult to hold them down. I do not think the solution of this problem is the one provided in the bill, and I am whole-heartedly in support of the amendment moved by the hon. member for New Westminster.

Mr. McLEAN: (Melfort): I believe the fear that has been expressed by hon. members is overstated. In 1930 the government of the day lost a number of seats in the maritimes, but they gained a number of seats in British Columbia.

Mr. GREEN: False news was published in British Columbia.

Mr. McLEAN (Melfort): News of that kind could still be published. In 1935 the situation was different. The government that had been in power between 1930 and 1935 lost seats in the maritimes, and yet they did better in British Columbia than elsewhere, as is evidenced by hon. members opposite who came here for the first time. Seven o'clock in the morning is pretty early in a province like Saskatchewan, which is largely rural, for people to be getting out to vote, and five o'clock is too early an hour to close the polls. There is always a rush at the last hour, and the closing hour of six o'clock has worked very well in former elections.

Mr. MacNEIL: I should like to present a practical problem to the minister. If the polls are closed at five o'clock in British Columbia, the result will be the disenfranchisement of many voters in the districts in the vicinity of Vancouver. Across Burrard inlet there are a number of important municipalities, such as North Vancouver. A large part of the population in these municipalities work in the city of Vancouver. The Minister of National Defence (Mr. Mackenzie) knows very well that many people in Vancouver go to points like White Cliff and Fisherman's Cove from May to September. The bus leaves there at seven o'clock in the morning, and these people must catch either the North Vancouver or the West Vancouver ferry; they must make street-car connections, and many of them have a street-car journey of three-quarters of an hour, allowing time for necessary connections. Even with two hours off, they cannot possibly get to the polling booth in time. They can just barely make it by six o'clock. It has been usual to expect a very heavy vote just before six o'clock, because it is understood that many people can just make it by that time, even though they leave their work at four o'clock. I suggest to the minister that as this parliament has power to stipulate that employers shall grant two hours to their employees, it has power to stipulate that they shall grant four hours.

Mr. POWER: The trouble is to discover how to enforce it in the law courts.

Mr. MacNEIL: This legislation will definitely disenfranchise many of the residents in these important districts. I have no alternative than to support the amendment moved by the hon. member for New Westminster.

Mr. MACKENZIE (Vancouver): I support the amendment moved by the hon. member for New Westminster. I agree with what has been said by hon. members on the other side. It is quite true that many workers in Vancouver and North Vancouver have found it impossible to reach the polling booths by six o'clock. There is no doubt that many voters will be disenfranchised.

Mr. POWER: Perhaps this section could be allowed to stand, and then we could have a further discussion of the matter.

Mr. GREEN: Would it be possible to make it an offence under the act to publish the returns by radio or by telegraph before the vote is completed in British Columbia?

Mr. POWER: I understand that was studied carefully by the committee. Apart from the fact that it would involve some interference with the liberty of the press, it would be most difficult to enforce.

CENSORS PERIODICALS.

(Australian Press Bureau)

ON THE recommendation of the Commonwealth Book Censorship Committee, 20 magazines "specializing in crime, gangster and horror stories with a smattering of sex" will be gazetted as prohibited imports with a penalty for evasion up to $400.

Thirty magazines were referred to the committee, 28 from the United States, one from Britain and one from New Zealand.

The committee decided that they were calculated to encourage depravity by ministering to the tastes of morbidity, sadism and sensuality.

• Milking the Cows In Hot Weather

(By 'Rusticus' in Stratford Beacon-Herald)

AFTER MILKING the cows on one of these first hot Summer days, when the first flies are making the cows restless, we are naturally somewhat interested in reading the description of the gigantic dairy exhibit the Borden Milk Co. is planning to have at the World's Fair in New York a year from now.

The Borden Company has leased 85,000 square feet of space in the most prominent part of the giant Exhibition, and they plan to make cows—milking cows—the centre of their exhibit. Now, they are not going to have a few cows there, with a couple of neatly-dressed milk maids doing the manipulating when milking times comes around. And there are not going to be any flies making those cows restless.

It is planned to have a total of two hundred cows in the Exhibit. These it is hoped, will consist of forty cows of each of the five dairy breeds —Ayrshire, Holsteins, Guernseys, Jerseys and Brown Swiss. The cows will be milked on a "rotolactor," a sort of merry-go-round on which the cows get a bath and are milked by machine, of course. It is said that cows take quite readily to being handled in this way. They delight in their shower bath, and possibly like the ride around. The machine will accommodate ten cows, and they will be turned out minus their yield of milk in something like an hour. It is expected that about twenty-one of the twenty-four hours will be taken up with the milking of those two hundred cows, and New Yorkers should, of course, become "milk conscious" after seeing an exhibit of that kind.

BUT, SHUCKS, what is the use of two hundred cows milked on a rotolactor? The public will never learn to appreciate the labor the real dirt farmer must put into the production of milk just from watching those cows riding on a rotolactor. That particular machine may be quite convenient for the millionaire farmer with a large herd, but so far not even the manufacturers are optimistic enough to recommend the outfit to the average small cow farmer. Oh, no, out on the farm (and the greater portion of dairy production comes from the small farms) the old-fashioned milk stool and the tin bucket are the only equipment necessary to milk a cow. The milk stool, the milk pail and a willing worker.

During the next few months there is likely to be a bit of honest sweat on the milker's brow. Quite likely his shirt is apt to be a trifle wet from that cause, and there may be times when he is apt to lose his temper a bit when those cows do a bit of switching. Of course, good fly sprays have materially lessened the fly nuisance at milking time, but the cows will switch just the same.

What of the future? Will we go on and on milking our cows in the way cow owners of Old Testament days did? Or will we eventually have rotolactors, or at least milking machines? The Borden Company plan to call their exhibit "The Dairy World of Tomorrow," and our question is, are they right? Will these ideal milking conditions such as exist in a few of the large United States farms at present, some day be common to the smaller dairy farm—or will the smaller dairy farm eventually be absorbed in the large units? What will be the "Dairy World of Tomorrow"?

Right now we envy those cows. A shower bath at milking time, especially right after milking half a dozen hot cows. Well, it might be appreciated more by those who sit on the old milk stool than by the cows; and we are informed that the cows are quite keen on their shower bath.

• When the Farmer Hires A Man

(Chatham News)

A FARMER, writing to the Peterborough Examiner, objects to magistrates advising vagrants to "go out and work on the farms." When transients, loafers and drunks appear in court, the lecture from the bench usually ends up with the advice to go out in the country and get an honest job — probably because there is no work for them to do in the cities.

But this farmer, while admitting that there is work to do on the farms protests strongly that it is not work which can or will be done by drunks and loafers. Men in the country have to get up early in the morning and work late at night. It requires brain and brawn. Men who have been riding around the country from one city to another, on freight trains, or who have been sitting around for months, or years, waiting for work to come to them, are not physically able to do the work which is required of them on the farms. A man who has had no farming experience is of little use in the country, except possibly during the harvesting season—and the farmer hasn't the time to train him, when he knows he won't stick at it anyway.

Then there is another reason for this farmer's objection. The hired man is usually treated as one of the family. He sleeps in the farmer's house, and eats at his table and associates with his family. The respectable farmer is very careful whom he thus takes into his household. Certainly loafers and drunks are not acceptable to him—and no one can blame him for being a little particular about whom he engages. Some people seem to think that men can work on a farm when they can't do anything else. They've got the wrong idea. Farming is specialized industry in these days, and requires the best that all good men have to offer.

This farmer has presented a strong case. Probably magistrates — and others—have never looked at the matter in just that way.

To The Editor

ROAD WORK

Editor Examiner.

Sir: I am writing you in regard to the contract work and what it all means, that only certain men can get work and the rest can stand back and look on. It is a quick way of getting the country built up with good roads, but a labor-killing affair other ways. Where these big shovels take the place of a hundred men and where the saw mills cannot accommodate all the demand there is going, some other way has to be found where this can be overcome by getting other works going. It don't come under contract and not make slaves out of the men and not have long enough time for a noon hour and I am rather inclined to think the time is only two months away and then men will be able to take things easier, with an 8-hour shift and a lot of the men will not have to go so far away from home to look for work. The time is just three months away when this slavish work has got to flatten out and come back again to a reasonable amount per day.

STYLES FOR MEN.

(Chatham News)

WE HOPE these dictators of styles for men will show reasonable restraint. It will be all right, probably, to brighten up a bit; but if they start this business of slimming one season and adding curves the next, and moulding figure to suit the particular style that nature never intended them to adopt, they are going to get a lot of opposition from men who "don't give a hang" as long as their clothes are comfortable, and sufficiently in style to avoid uncomplimentary comment when they are walking to and from work.

SPOONS SERMON.

(Detroit Free Press)

IN JUNE, 1917, a war year for the United States, the present Mme. Chiang Kai-shek, as a daughter of the famous Chinese Soong family, was graduated from Wellesley College.

June 18, 1938, Mme. Chiang's classmates will have their annual reunion on the shores of Lake Waban. But 1938 is a war year for China, and Mme. Chiang will not attend.

Instead she has sent a gift of silver spoons, which will be used at a reunion tea. While she sent a message that through her gift she would feel that she was sharing in the festivities, she added that the spoons are "to show that a spoon may be licked, but China can't."

Mme. Chiang's patriotism is characteristic of the new China which she and her generalissimo husband have helped to build, a new China which with old stoicism is doggedly defending itself in a war still undeclared. Her humor and love of subtle parable are likewise characteristic.

The western world should realize that these racial traits are not the least important of the weapons with which China fights an aggressor.

NOBEL BOOBY PRIZE.

(The Commentator)

WHY DOESN'T some millionaire endow a prize for useless institutions and thus, consistently, create another useless institution? Among our candidates would be: The Arundel Society in England, which exists for the purpose of prosecuting felons, and for the past 26 years has reported no criminals caught, no rewards paid; the trust fund set up by Mr. Byron Mullanphy, a former mayor of St. Louis, for the benefit of pioneers, on their way to the West, who became stranded in St. Louis; and any plebiscite conducted under the supervision of Adolf Hitler.

A Bible Message For Today . . . .

NOW it came to pass in the thirtieth year, in the fourth month, in the fifth day of the month, as I was among the captives by the river of Chebar, that the heavens were opened, and I saw visions of God....

As the appearance of the bow that is in the cloud in the day of rain, so was the appearance of the brightness round about. This was the appearance of the likeness of the glory of the Lord. And when I saw it, I fell upon my face, and I heard a voice of one that spake.—Ezek. i, 1, 28.

And it came to pass, as Moses entered into the tabernacle, the cloudy pillar descended, and stood at the door of the tabernacle, and the LORD talked with Moses....

And he said, I beseech thee, shew me thy glory. And he said, I will proclaim the name of the Lord before thee.—Ex. xxxiii, 9, 11, 14, 18, 19.

SWILL PAIL TEST.

THE HOUSEKEEPING TEST is usually a good credit test. Thomas Emerson Ripley, in his book, "A Vermont Boyhood," tells how a Vermont banker by the name of John Miller used to work. When a farmer wanted to borrow money Miller would drive out to his farm, look over his woodpile and fences, and report a winter supply of dry wood and fields cultivated close to the fence—or the reverse. He also took a glance at the swill-pail. It is said John never failed to return with an accurate report on the farmer's solvency. Character, plus the woodpile, plus the right kind of swill-pail, established the credit.—Shining Lines.

Don Budge To Meet Austin In Final Test

WIMBLEDON, England, June 30 —(AP)—Don Budge, an unchallenged champion, makes what probably is his final appearance on the centre court at Wimbledon to-morrow in the singles final with Bunny Austin.

Though he is loud in his denials, Wimbledon is convinced Budge will turn professional after the Davis Cup matches and the United States championship this fall.

He'll get a hero's farewell when and if he walked off with the challenge cup early tomorow evening.

Everywhere it is recognized that the match is more a case of "when" than "if."

No man in the past fortnight has been able to take a set from him. All told he has lost on 44 games in six matches and the most anybody has been able to take has been eight.

Favored to Win.

This record, despite Austin's excellent form in the semi-finals yesterday, has put Budge at the unprecedented and forbidding odds of 1 to 8 to win.

It is significant of Budges position in the tennis world the man who was seeded next to him and who now faces him in the final is 10 years his senior. This alone must be enough to make him wonder about the future.

Modern Wimbledon has no parallel to Budge's position this year. He has been so outstanding he actually has been ignored. Practically everybody conceded the title to him and forgot him a week ago Monday.

Bethel Resident Receives Purse

(Examiner Correspondence.)

EAST EMILY, June 30. — The members of Bethel United Church gathered in the basement of the church on Wednesday evening when a very pleasant time was spent. The main item of the evening being a presentation to Miss Dorothy Dayman, who is leaving this community to take up a new sphere of life.

Miss Dayman whose home is at Colbourne has been teaching school at S.S. No. 10, Emily, for the past three years has made many friends and has been a wonderful help in all the different societies of the church and she will be greatly missed in all the church work.

Rev. Mr. MacTavish opened the evening and community singing was lead by Ralph Hanbridge after which was a mock wedding and was most interesting, those taking part were Ira Switzer, Ralph Hanbridge, Aldon Bailey and Rev. Mr. MacTavish read the address and the presentation of a purse of money was made by Ira Switzer on behalf of the church and Sunday School. A Bible by Mrs. Harry Jackson on behalf of the W.A. Silver basket and reflector by Miss Audrey Boate on behalf of the Young People's Society.

Miss Dayman then in her very pleasing manner in a few well chosen words, thanked the different societies for the different gifts and invited all present to visit her in her new home.

The ladies then served refreshments and a happy social hour was spent.

Boy Wanders In Nude Stops Traffic, Proves Pastor's Son

Lancaster, Pa., June 30 (AP)

A NUDE LITTLE BOY, almost glistening against the dark stone of a downtown church, just about stopped traffic today. Frightened, the 3-year-old crouched, like a terrified cherubim, on a ledge. Finally the sexton took him back to his nursery that he had left for a stroll. The boy was the preacher's son.

Striding to the Fore

The Maxwell Howard Stable is rapidly gaining a name for itself as a shrewd purchaser of horse racing talent and one of the reasons is The Chief, who further established his rights to being recognized as one of the year's best three-year-olds by coming down in front of his more widely heralded stablemate, Stagehand, and capturing Brooklyn Handicap at Aqueduct. Howard purchased The Chief last fall for $14,100 and since then the Sande-trained steed has won $31,195. A fair investment.

Campbellford Win Net Games

(Examiner Correspondence.)

CAMPBELLFORD, June 30. — Taking four out of six events from the Belleville Tennis Club on Wednesday afternoon, Campbellford counted their first victory of the season in a tournament which was witnessed by a large number of spectators. Two of the locals' aces, C. Weston and Harry Free, assisted the team and assured the club of the deciding event which put them on top. These two stars of the league for many years handed a 6-4, 6-4 defeat to Bud O'Dell and Art Cole of the Belleville Club in the first men's doubles. The second men's doubles event was also a home club victory, with Wlb Kingston and Jim Heptonstall taking that event in two sets from Jerry Arnell and Ted Doyle by a 6-2, 6-1 score.

In the mixed doubles Belleville took the second in a hard fought three-set victory, and lost the first in two straight. Sheilah Burrows and J. Archambeau offered stiff opposition to Dick Ramsden and Grace Cairns, and it was only after the local pair had taken the first of the three sets 6-4 that the Belleville team nosed them out in the last two 6-3, 7-5.

Ken Kingston put up a brave battle in the singles but was no match for Fred Baines of Belleville who gave one of the nicest exhibitions ever seen on the Campbellford courts, and gave the visitors the event 6-3, 7-5, while the ladies' doubles, which went to there sets saw Eleanor Ferris and Margaret Davidson best Evelyn Jack and K. Henlay 2-6, 6-4, 7-5, to add the fourth Campbellford victory.

Urge Civil Servants Be Retired At 65

OTTAWA, June 30—(CP)—Compulsory retirement of all male civil servants at 65 years of age and of female civil servants at 60 was recommended today in the report of the special civil service committee of the House of Commons.

The report was tabled in the House by Jean Francos Pouliot (Lib. Temiscouata) and recommended that a standing committee on civil service matters be appointed at each session of parliament.

The clause dealing with the proposed arbitrary age limit was:

"Your committee recommends that no male employee shall be retained in the civil service beyond the age of 65 years and no female employee beyond the age of 60 years, and that such retirement be made compulsory without any extension.

"Your committee is of the opinion that this would materially increase the efficiency of the civil service, would facilitate promotion and create a brighter outlook for the future of the younger people in the service of desirous of entering therein."

The present age for compulsory retirement in the civil service is 70 for males and females though voluntary retirement may take place any time after 65. There is also provision in the present act for extension to 75 years by order-in-council.

The "Relative" Question

Use of influnce by civil servants to further ambitions of relatives for jobs in the services was mentioned in the following recommendation:

"No official or employee in the civil service shall make any direct or indirect recommendation or reference by letter or otherwise on behalf of any relative by blood or marriage, or have any direct or indirect participation in any competition, temporary or permanent assignment, promotion, classification in which any such relative is an applicant."

Other recommendations in the committee's report were:

No married woman shall be employed even temporarily under her maiden name.

The preference granted to war veterans shall apply when such persons are British subjects and who were resident in Canada before the Great War.

In the travelling hotel—a colonist car—the 16 boys and 24 girls will be given a chance to study the Dominion closely. The car will be sidetracked at points of interest as often as they want, and many of the youthful tourists are bringing bicycles for personal exploration tours of the countryside.

The party will visit Ottawa, and from North Bay will set out by bicycle for Callander to see the world-famous Dionne quintuplets.

Valencia Struggle Is Deadlocked

HENDAYE, June 30—(AP)—The battle for Valencia swung today on both flanks of a 50-mile front in Eastern Spain, with neither the government nor the insurgents able to gain a decisive advantage.

General Franco's forces held the upper hand in the coastal sector where they attempted to break through strong government defences guarding the important Mediterranean port.

Inland, where another insurgent column was pushing east, General Jose Miaja's defence troops were more than holding their own.

The insurgents' coastal forces were advancing slowly but steadily toward Nules, about 26 miles north of Valencu on the Castellon de la Plana-Valencia highway.

Fresh troops and heavy artillery enabled the insurgents to push back weary government militiamen to the Artana Line of fortifications protecting Nules and the highway to the west.

LONG BRANCH AND PETES BATTLE TO A 7-ALL LACROSSE TIE

Locals Below Form In Close Schedule Game

Long Branch and the Petes played to a 7-all O.L.A senior "B" draw last evening in Long Branch in the return fixture of their schedule. It was a tight, rugged battle from start to finish with the visitors looking below form, though having a margin on play. The Petes won handily in the previous meeting of these clubs here.

While play was rough in spots, there were only seven penalties drawn, mostly for slashing or charging, the homesters getting four of them. Long Branch played a fair game all-around to hold their classy rivals to the tie, while the Petes performed in quite mediocre style, the forwards bunching up in centre far too much and failing to pass the ball around. The passes that were made were off the mark or fumbled.

Both goalies looked good, stopping a flock of hot shots at close range in the torrid tussle. Chute and Miller were steady on the Peterborough defence, and Loucks showed up well in his first fray of the season. King was probably the best of the forwards, while Worthy went fair in spots. The rest were just fair at best, and did not play the type of lacrosse they have been doing most of the season to date. None of the homesters starred, all going good all evening.

In the first quarter, 4-2 for them at halftime and 5-4 for the homesters going into the fourth. The home crew, playing before a good crowd, ran in three goals right off the bat, Legge notching two and Haney one. Worthy clicked for two in a row for the Petes, and Cox counted for the Branch boys. After King and Chute had both bulged the hemp for the Scott-Randle crew, Legge worked in close to sink a nice one. Vitarelli, in his first game of the year, blazed through to tally for the Petes and keep the score close. Magee got another for the visitors but Hons and Grey rattled the twine again for Long Branch. Chute tied it up late in the fourth with a whistling drive into the corner of the cage. Penalties were drawn by Brown, Grey, Grainger, Gioletti, Loucks (2) and Miller. The teams:

NEW YORK, June 30.—(AP)—It's a long while before the football season but they are already calling for crying towels at Pitt...Coach Doc Sutherland lost 17 by graduation, and nine of his hopefuls were declared ineligible by the new athletic regulations...Sutherland now is wrapped up in a tour of Scotland, trying to forget...

Leroy Haynes, negro heavyweight got back from Europe yesterday after a disastrous tour of Europe...Connie Mack says the Yanks and the Indians have it on the Tigers... Which city will get the next heavyweight fight—Los Angeles or San Francisco?

George Kojac, former Olympic backstroke champion, announced he will try out for the 1940 games... Which southern school has its $4,000 press agent out scouting talent?... Cleveland fans are good and sore on Julius Solters, who is wrestling with the most stubborn batting slump of his career.

Recently Pinky Higgins of the Red Sox seized the American League record for consecutive hits when he got his 12th...the old record (11) was held by Tris Speaker of Cleveland...To win, Speaker finally got a hit off Walter Johnson of Washington...And he used a fungo bat to do it...To which Joe Berg, educated catcher of Boston Red Sox says: "Speakers record is unofficial ...Two of his hits came off Al Schacht."

A lot of people can't understand why the American League managers picked Lou Gehrig over Hal Trosky (who is hitting just about 80 points more than the Iron Horse) for the all-star team....Carl Hubbell, who has just turned in his 300th victory for the Giants, is quoted as saying: "Well, boys, the first 199 were the easiest."

Insiders say the Reds planked down $60,000 (not $50,000) plus Spud David and Hollingsworth for Bucky Walters....And that the Giants had to part with $40,000 for Bob Seeds instead of the 25 grand first reported....We know a couple of American League leaders who are kicking themselves for not straining a point and giving the Browns what they wanted for Buck Newsom....We still believe Henry Armstrong will attend to Lou Ambers, but Lou is going to give the negro the toughest fight he has had yet.

Cricket Notes

Peterborough Club plays St. Edmonds C.C. Toronto at Nicholl's Oval tomorrow, Friday, July 1, play to begin at 1.30 sharp, as the visitors wish to get away early. Players are requested to be on hand in good time to help prepare wicket. etc., so that a punctual start may be assured.

Digging Up the Local Dirt With the Odd Chuckle or Two

By CEC. PERDUE

FOR THE HOLIDAY EVENING, unless it is raining like all getout, we would advise folks to call around to the George St. arena and see an O.L.A. senior "B" fixture. Between Owen Sound and the Petes at nine o'clock. Two tilts in fact as there will be a midget loop scrap at 8.15 between Kinsmen and Rotary at no additional cost. The seniors should dish up another lively lacrosse tussle, and there hasn't been a dull one to date this year. They really lay into each other and play for keeps in the gutted-stick sport. Owen Sound are said to be not so dusty, husky, rugged and experienced, while the Petes play lacrosse as though their next meal depended upon it! Yeah, it ought to be another nifty game and good entertainment for fans tomorrow e'en.

* * * * * * *

THERE WAS LOTS of fun last night over at Riverside when Young Petes pulled out a 10-9 nod in overtime against Bowmanville Lions in a Junior Lakeshore Loop ball game. A fair-sized crowd of fans stayed to the very end, and they saw four pitchers in action, a flock of hard hits, plenty of errors, some weird base-running and a fist fight. Everything, in fact. The fight came about when Rice tried to put the ball through Berwick and some of his buddies resented it. A bit of pushing around and a swarm on the field, but no real damage done. The Petes were lucky enough to win out after losing a big lead.

* * * * * * *

IT WAS a very tight tussle till the fourth, with no scoring, but then the boys took the belt off and let her rattle. The Ralph gang got no less than seven runs in a wide-open fourth heat, and darned if the Lions didn't come back in a hectic fifth to rattle home nine markers! Anyone's game then, but the Young Petes kept pecking away to finally tie it up and then win out in the extra inning. Todd and Clark pitched for the locals, both going good outside of one frame, and Witheridge and Hooper had mound duty for the losers. Six of the winners got two hits apiece, while two of the Lions did most of their hitting, which probably explains the difference—as well as the losers' five errors against two. Certainly an exciting junior ball game.

* * * * * * *

OUT AT OMEMEE last night, the O's broke into the win list—don't make that wine list, Mister Printer, or we'll be sued!—at the expense of Westclox in a men's softball game, taking a 6-5 nod. A tidy tilt, we're told. One argument arose when the pitcher was on the rubber and bounced the ball in front of him. It rolled away and a runner advanced, and we're asked if the runner could do this. We would think he could, according to Sec. 21 of Rule 48: "If after the pitcher has assumed his position on the pitcher's plate, with the ball in his possession, he leave his base before the ball delivered by the pitcher has passed home plate or results in a hit." Meaning the runner would be out in this case quoted here. But the pitcher didn't have possession of the ball when it rolled away in last night's game.

* * * * * * *

AND the Church Softball League junior finalists are bothered by a rule. They say first and third were occupied with two out and the batter hit to short. The latter tried for a forceout at second but the runner got to second safely. However, he over ran the bag and was tagged out, but in the meantime the runner on third had scored. They ask does the run count. Sure, it does, provided the guy had touched second and then over ran it and also provided the gee on third had crossed the plate before his buddy was tagged out. The force was removed if the lad had touched second. Mark St. Seniors of this loop took a 22-7 win over eGorge St. Majors last night in their first play-off game at the Oval. Second of the two-in-three serial will be Monday and third, if necessary, on Wednesday.

* * * * * * *

TWO BALL GAMES here at Riverside Park in the next two days and both should pack in the customers. Oshawa GM-men play the Petes at 10.30 tomorrow (the holiday) morning, while Merritton of the Niagara District League tackles the Petes at three Saturday afternoon in an exhibition squabble. We don't know how good the Merritton men are but they come from a first-class senior setup and we are most interested to see how they stack up against a strong C.O.B.L. squad. Don't forget, folks, the Friday; joust is at 10.30 in the a.m., whilst the Saturday struggle is an afternoon affair. Most of the locals will likely see action in the Saturday exhibition, several pitchers probably getting a call to keep them in shape.

* * * * * * *

AS FOR THE C.O.B.L. contest on the holiday, it is expected that Jake Biddle and Lefty McNally will tangle in a southpaw twirling duel. The O.B.A. has suddenly bared its teeth and has suspended Kingston Ponies for the time being 'cause they used an ineligible player (Ed Pollar) here a week ago. They have also warned the Petes to drop McNally and Bob Doll or the locals will be suspended, too. And they have advised Oshawa not to play the Petes if McNally or Doll are used. But Secretary Jim Dorris of the Petes informed us today that the game would be played, here as scheduled Friday morn and it would be a league fixture. And, furthermore, McNally and Doll will be used. He says Oshawa GM-men have agreed to come here and play and will not protest either player. If Oshawa strings along with the Petes, the three teams will probably play independent ball.

* * * * * * *

SO THAT'S THE DOPE for the moment. All kinds of rumors buzzing around and there may be the deuce to pay yet—but we'll go by the secretary's statement that the GM-men will play the Petes a loop fixture Friday morning, and McNally and Doll will be used. The O.B.A. may get tougher next week, but we'll wait and see. Should have some more on the mixup for Saturday's sheet, or Monday anyway. 'Tis rumored that the Ponies may drop Pollar, who hasn't been going well anyway, and apply for re-instatement to the O.B.A., and the Oshawa outfit are contemplating falling in with the O.B.A. next week. Which would leave the locals in a spot—where they had to drop two ace players or be suspended. However, it'll all come out in the wash shortly. Meantime, there are senior games here rFriday and Saturday, and big crowds will likely turn out for both battles.

Oshawa Team Plays Petes On Friday

Oshawa GM-men and the Petes have a senior ball game to-morrow (Friday) morning at 10.30 o'clock in Riverside Park. A huge holiday crowd is expected out, if the weather is suitable, to see these classy rivals battle it out for the league leadership. They are tied on top at present. This city has always been noted for its holiday ball game on July 1st, and to-morrow should see a fine scrap between strong clubs, each of which carries a bunch of starry senior players. Manager Legge of Oshawa and his gang will be hustling to humble the homesters here, while Manager Eddie Murphy and the locals look like the class of the loop at present and will be hard to take this time.

A southpaw pitching duel is likely with Jake Biddle the probable starting choice for the GM-men and Lefty McNally expected to twirl for the Petes. These flingers, tops among lefthanders in the league this year, have not met so far, but are quite likely to get the call to-morrow morning. If so it ought to be one of the finest pitching battles seen here since the days of Al Heckman and Jack Williams. It is Biddle's turn to throw and McNally is set to go in against him and show his stuff. There will be considerable interest around the circuit and in Peterborough over this contest.

Admiral Fails In Mud Test

BOSTON, June 30 (A.P.). — The great War Admiral, reputed invincible under all conditions, revealed his inability to carry top weight in the mud against crack rivals yesterday when he trailed Hal Price Headley's victorious Menow by about nine lengths and two others by narrow margins in the Massachusetts Handicap at Suffolk Downs.

A crowd of 66,000, largest in New England's racing history, was doubly disappointed, first by the last-minute scratching of C. S. Howard's Seabiscuit, last year's winner, and then by the Admiral's unimpressive performance as he met his first defeat in 12 starts and ran out of the money for the first time in his career.

Seabiscuit, scheduled to compete against War Admiral for the second time in a month, was found to be suffering from an injured tendon as Tom Smith, his trainer, was preparing him for the paddock. Smith reported the injury to the stewards along after the scratching deadline, 45 minutes before post time. When two veterinarians corroborated his claim that Seabiscuit was unfit to start, racing followers abandoned all hopes that he ever would clash with Sam Riddle's handicap star.

Yanks Swamp Athletics For Twin Win

NEW YORK, June 30—(CP)—Volunteer medicoes who have been keeping their fingers on the pulse of the puzzling New York Yankees are heading for the safety of the sidelines. For the Bronx Bombers seem about ready to start blasting their way to the top and, when they're in a blasting mood, the sidelines is the only safe place for anyone.

The champions have looked unfitted for that title on more than one occasion this season. But they looked like nothing so much as a high-geared army tank when they returned to the stadium yesterday and shelled the Athletics into 10-0 and 13-1 submission.

With three out of four they won at the end of their western trip, that gave the Yanks a record of five victories in their last six starts, four of them in succession. It also gave the bombers an average of better than 13 hits for each game, and a home run average of two per game.

Click For 4 Homers.

Yesterday's production, which included five four-baggers, two by Flash Gordon, hit a new high of 27 hits for 49 bases. And, not to be outdone, Lefty Gomez and Bump Hadley took handsome care of the pitching department with a pair of four-hitters.

Coupled with the Yanks' twin triumphs came Cleveland Indians 4-3 defeat by Detroit—a combination which cut 1½ games off Cleveland's first-place margin and left the Tribe now three games in front, facing the prospect of playing 18 of their next 22 games on the road, where they have been weak, while the Yanks are at home for 17 of their next 22.

While the Yanks were cutting down on the Indians, Gotham's other entry also climbed a notch. For the league-leading Giants, whipping the Phillies 9-1 and 6-2, increased their lead over Cincinnati Reds to three full games. After Hal Schumacher had tossed a six-hitter that kept the Phils blanked for eight innings, Cliff Melton followed up by scattering 10 hits so well the Phils could score in only one inning.

Pirates Nose Out Reds.

With the Giants pulling away from the Reds, who were nosed out 5-4 by the Pirates, the third and fourth-place teams changed places. The Bucs victory, accomplished largely through Bill Swift's one-hit relief pitching, moved them four points ahead of the Cubs, who were beaten 10-5 by the Cardinals for their third straight defeat.

In the other National League game the Dodgers, despite two homers by Dolph Camilli and another by Toronto's Goody Rosen, lost to Boston Bees 7-6 and thus kept intact a record that has seen them lose every league night game they've played.

The Indians, beaten on homers by Billy Rogell and Hank Greenberg of the Tigers, had company in their misery. For three four-baggers helped the White Sox rout the Browns 9-5 and first-inning circuit clouts by League Leader Jimmy Foxx and Manager Joe Cronin started the Red Sox off to a 6-4 triumph over the Senators.

Mark St. Seniors Win Play-off Tilt

Mark Street Seniors took the first of their Church Softball League playoffs against George Street Majors last night at the Oval by a 22-7 score. Minus their ace hurler, Ron Akers, who was unbeaten in seven starts, the Majors did not look up to form. Wright, who started for them, was hammered plenty by Mark Street, who have been the heavy hitters all through. Mel Hunter came back to pitch a neat game, giving up but two earned runs. Theer was plenty of ragged fielding with Parsons best defensively. Gatfield, M. Hunter and Wells also went good afield. Hunter struck out three and walked two, while Wright fanned two and walked four. Hawkes hit a homer, two doubles, and there singles in a big night, and Brady got five hits, with Darwin and G. Hunter having four each. For the losers, Munroe got two hits and Wellman conked ont a homer. The teams:

LOUISVILLE, Ky., June 30 (C. P). — For the first time in more than five years of night baseball at Parkway Field, home grounds of the Louisville American Association Baseball Club, a night game was called off last night because of darkness.

YOUNG PETES GRAB 10-9 NOD OVER BOWMANVILLE IN OVERTIME

Winners Bunch Hits and Runs For Victory

Young Petes pulled out a 10-9 win in overtime here last night against Bowmanville Lions in a Lakeshore Junior Baseball League thriller before a fair crowd at Riverside Park. Earl McNabb got on base on a close play at first when the shortstop threw wide, stole second, took third on Clark's infield hit and tallied when Edmunds grounded to shurt for the winning marker in the eighth heat.

It was an exciting scrap all through. Neither team did a thing till the fourth when the Petes ran wild to score seven runs. Bowmanville came back in a hectic fifth inning to count nine runs. They were blanked from then on and the Petes got a run each in the sixth, seventh and eighth stanzas. Four pitchers were used, there were plenty of hard hits, a bunch of errors, and a near free-for-all in the seventh when Rice tagged out Berwick hard and a fist fight followed, but order was soon restored.

Four Hurlers

Todd started for the locals and went fine till the fifth when he was driven out after walking two, hitting a batsman and allowing two singles Gee Clark took over and went in cold, having a tough time getting the side out. From the fifth on he was in fine form, allowing but one hit. Witheridge started for the visitors and looked good for three frames but faded fast in the big fourth inning. He was relieved by Hooper who went fair but was nicked for some timely blows the rest of the route. The Lions' hurlers received shaky support. Both sides ran wild on the bases and there were some dumb base-running stunts pulled, also.

McNabb, Clark, Edmunds, Kelly, Berwick and Todd all got two hits apiece for the winners, Todd and Berwick hitting doubles. Girard got the other bingle. Ames topped Bowmanville batters with three in four times, one a two-bagger, and Slemon got two singles. Graham clouted a double. Some fair fielding was shown by the rivals, with a catch in short left by Nichols a feature, though he threw wild immediately for an error at third.

Experienced Vet

ROWAN CHUTE

Experienced defenceman with the Petes' lacrossers who will be seen in action here tomorrow night when Owen Sound and the locals meet in an O.L.A. senior "B" fixture.

Senior Lacrosse Here Tonight

An O.L.A. Senior B fixture is slated for Friday at nine o'clock in the George Street Arena between Owen Sound and the Petes. It is the first appearance of Owen Sound here this year and, if the weather is right, another big lacrosse crowd of fans is expected on hand to-morrow evening. Owen Sound are reported strong and experienced, having a recent victory in Woodbridge to indicate they are of about the same calibre as the locals. A number of husky experienced gutted-stick artists will be wearing the Owen Sound colors in this clash and plenty of excitement and rugged play may be expected. There have been no dull lacrosse games here this season, and this tilt should be no exception.

The Petes are playing good lacrosse lately, despite a tough loss in Brampton last Saturday, and they hope to chalk up another home victory on Friday at the expense of the visiting Northerners. Red Creighton will be back in goal, and all the gang, with the possible exception of Jerry Creighton, are expected to line up with the locals for this fixture. A league standing may be available shortly to show how far up the ladder the Petes are at present.

Buffalo Takes Series Final From Toronto

For the Bears, who hit at slightest provocation anyway seem to slug with a vengeance every time Donald is slated to pitch. Last year the righthander won 19 games and lost two for the champions, but his record wouldn't have been half so impressive if he hadn't been accorded some terrific backing at the plate.

The Bears have been changed since last season but they haven't forgotten to "dig in" at the plate when Donald is on the mound. Since coming back to the Bears from a trial with the parent New York Yankees, Donald has won seven games and lost two. In those seven victories, the Bears have supported him with an avgrage of seven runs and 13 hits a game, a pretty good working margin for any flinger.

A Cinch For No. 7.

He scored No. 7 yesterday in the first game of a double-header with Baltimore Orioles which the Bears won 15-3, Newark rammed out 18 hits to make it a cinch for Donald.

The Bears weren't as helpful to Jack Fallon and Phil Page in the windup, however. They made only eight hits off Lefty Carl Fischer's serves and went down 4-3, in the first extra inning when Joey Greenberg belted out a homer for the Orioles.

The Bears had their League-lead whittled to 11 games by Buffalo Bisons, who scored a 5-3 triumph over Toronto Maple Leafs. Old Ollie Carnegie connected for three hits and drove in two runs to pace the Bisons 12-hit attack.

Syracuse Chiefs took over third place from Rochester by winning a doubleheader from Jersey City 2-1 and 6-4, while the Red Wings were being clipped 5-0, by Montreal Royals.

Omemee Wins 6-5 Over Westclox

Omemee won their first game of the City Softball League season at home last night with a 6-5 nod over Westclox, jones scoring the winning run in the ninth on Brockley's bingle. It was a tight tussle throughout with each side having a big frame to count three runs. Stephenson on the homester's slab allowed 10 hits and four walks as he fanned seven, while Parsons of Westclox also gave 10 hits with two walks while striking out three. The fielding was good on both sides most of the distance.

J. Williamson pulled off a couple of fine catches and Curry starred with a long running grab in the sixth. Pogue also got a neat one in the eighth. Dormer led the losers at bat with a double and three singles, while Calladine clouted a double and single, and Ellis a triple and single. Jones topped the winners with a homer, doubl and single, as Brooks banged out a triple and single and A. Williamson a three-bagger. All-around fielding was shown by Pogue, J. Williamson, O'Leary, and Gainey. The teams:

Score by innings:

Westclox ..... 100 031 000—5 10 3
Omemee ..... 130 010 001—6 10 1

Umpires—Batley and Ranger.

Guess What's Happening

The dust flies as Ken Keltner, rookie third baseman of Cleveland Indians, slides into home plate, only to be tagged out by Gene Desautels, Boston Red Sox catcher, seen standing back with the ball in his hand and an odd expression on his face. There was quite an argument over the decision, and no wonder with a haze like that floating around. However, the poor old umps must see through everything.

L.O.L. Observes 10th Birthday At Lakefield

(Examiner Correspondence.)

LAKEFIELD, June 30.—The organization of the Lakefield Northern Light Lodge L.O.B.A., No. 831 on July 10, 1928 was commemorated here on Saturday evening, June 25, when a banquet was held in the Orange Hall on the occasion of the Society's tenth birthday. About 50 persons, including members and their friends, were in attendance.

The tables were most suitably decorated in the lodge colors, orange and scarlet, and a birthday cake bearing 10 candles held a position of honor in the dining hall. The birthday cake was made by Miss Eva Higgins, daughter of Mrs. Stanley Higgins, who is present Worthy Mistress of the lodge.

A delicious turkey dinner was served by the ladies, after which Allan Gill, guardian of the lodge, proposed a toast to the King. In response, everyone joined in singing "God Save the King".

Following the toasts, Miss Ruby Nicholls, who was the charter worthy mistress of Lakefield Lodge No. 831, was called to the platform where Mrs. Theodore Nicholls read an address and Mrs. Stanley Higgins presented Miss Nichols with a modern set of self-adjusting bookends as a token of her work as charter mistress during the two and one half years that she held the office.

The oldest charter member of the L.O.B.A. No. 831 is Mrs. Arthur Duggan of Young's Point, who was present and blew out the candles on the birthday cake. The cake was cut by the only outside guest present, Sister Wright of Peterborough who is the Right Worshipful Provincial Past Grand Mistress of Ontario East. Sister Wright who organized the lodge here 10 years ago, extending greetings and expressed best wishes for their continued success.

After these addresses, those present joined in a jolly sing-song of old favorite pieces, and later in games and a very delightful social time was spent.

The committee in charge of arrangements for the banquet was made up of Mrs. Stanley Higgins and Mrs. Rollie Darling.

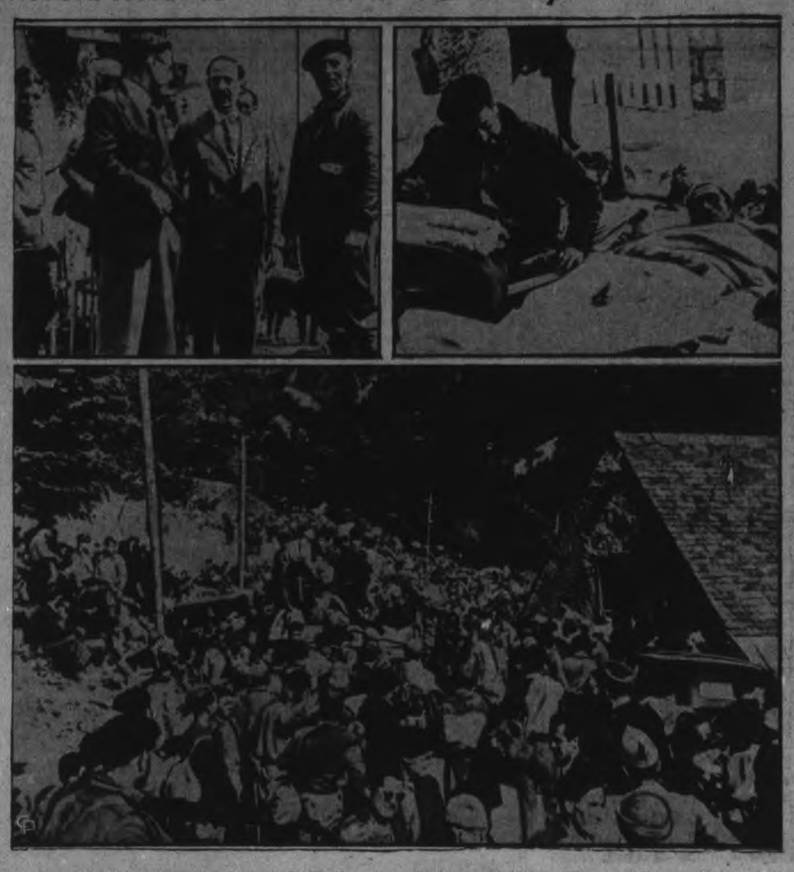
3 Prisoners Escape

SUDBURY, Ont., June 30 (CP)—Three prisoners were still at large from Burwash Industrial farm today after a successful break for freedom yesterday. Another prisoner who escaped last Thursday is still missing.

Two prisoners, Lawrence Reece of Guelph and Kenneth Mitchell of Toronto, were working in the same out-side gang when they disappeared about midday yesterday. Search parties were hurriedly organized as soon as their absence was noticed.

While the hunt for those two was being pushed, Andrew Harris of Windsor, the third man, walked away.

Modern Horatius Protects Retreat Of Loyalists



A modern Horatius is Col. Beltram (LEFT) in beret, commander of the 43rd division of the Spanish forces, who, with a picked party of men, covered the retreat of the "Lost Division," when they were trapped in the Pyrenees by insurgent troops. Col. Beltram and his small band held the insurgents at bay until the entire division had reached the sanctuary of Arreau, France. Wounded members of the division shown (RIGHT) were attended by French girls after their arrival in the French town. The main body of Col. Beltram's forces are shown (BOTTOM) as they arrived at the French border. After obtaining fresh supplies and a much needed rest the division returned to Spanish territory.

Havelock Pastor Receives Gifts

(Examiner Correspondence.)

TRENT RIVER, June 30.— Members of the Ladie's Aid sponsored their annual strawberry social on Friday in the church dining hall where tables were arranged gaily decorated with beautiful garden flowers for the occasion.

Later in the evening the gathering assembled in the church auditorium where a short program was given with Rev. S. A. Kemp as chairman.

The opening hymn Onward Christian Soldiers was sung with Miss Fleda Thompson as pianist. A reading, Kate's Visit to New York, was given by Miss Metcalf of Norwood who responded to a second reading, Joe's Comforter, both numbers delighted the audience. Miss Mary Murphy of West Seymour also gave an amusing reading, Betty at the Baseball Game, which brought forth much applause.

R. N. Umphrey then took over the program and moved a hearty vote of appreciation for their seven years' Mrs. Kemp for theid seven years service to the congregation, this was seconded by four ladies each of which represented a group of the Aid—Mrs. Henry Thompson, Mrs. Geo. Valvolkenburg, Mrs. N. C. Inkster, Mrs. Thos. K. Thompson, Mr. Kemp was then presented with a handsome leather brief case, the presentation was made by Mrs. Thos. J. Brown, Mrs. Kemp was presented with a beautiful pair of pure wool mossfield blankets, Miss B. G. French making the presentation. Lapointe Minimizes leries thronged by those interested in the last minute flurries, and with officials ready to assist their ministers as the house skipped from one department to another on the estimates.

In the house the day held several features. Outstanding among them were enactment of the penitentiaries reform bill, passage of the elections and franchise act, and the declaration from Mr. Lapointe that Communists and Fascists did not constitute a danger in Canada.

Conservative Leader Bennett's bitter opposition to the penitentiary measure collapsed suddenly when Mr. Lapointe declared he would not want to be responsible for administration of the penal system unless the bill was passed. Mr. Bennett said if that statement had been made at the start he would not have opposed the bill.

A three-man commission will be set up to administer the penitentiaries and replace General D. M. Ormond, superintendent of penitentiaries who has been in control for some years. This is the only recommendation contained in the royal commission report on the penal system to be implemented at present.

Criticism came from Mr. Bennett over the appointment of a former Ontario securities commissioner to the high court of that province at a time when the appointee was defendent in important litigation.

Not only was the appointee, (whom Mr. Bennett did not name but who has readily identified as J. M. Godfrey, of Toronto) 66 years old, but his appointment at the moment he was being cross-examined in an action taken against him for allegedly exceeding his powers as Ontario securities commissioner.

Mr. Lapointe said he had followed the general practice of not appointing men past 60 but there had been exceptions. He was not aware of the exact status of the appointee referred to by Mr. Bennett at the time the appointment was made.

Amended Elections Act.

After exhausting several proposals for offsetting the embarrassment of having Maritime province elections published in British Columbia before the polls closed there, owing to the difference in time, the House adopted an amendment to the Elections Act moved by Hon H. A. Stewart (Con. Leeds), prohibiting publication in any form of election returns from any electoral division in Canada before the polls in the province of publications have closed.

The amendment was opposed by some members of the government and was carried on a count of heads with parties split but the government generally opposed.

One proposal was to stagger the voting hours so that closing of the polls would be closely harmonized, which meant late closing in the east and early in the west. This was defeated.

A second proposal called for holding the ballot boxes sealed until the western polls had closed. This also was rejected. Mr. Stewart then moved his amendment, making it an offence under the Act to publish by newspaper or radio the results of any electoral division in a province in which the polls had not yet closed.

On the Penitentiaries Act, which was amended and revised only insofar as necessary to enable the government to set up a commission control of the penal system, Mr. Lapointe said all other recommendations of the Royal Commission on Penitentiaries would be studied at leisure and with the assistance of the Commission and any further changes would be made later.

Reports brought by Mr. Bennett that smuggling of liquor into Nova Scotia had gone beyond the powers of the mounted police to cope with, drew from Mr. Lapointe an announcement the force there would be re-organized and Inspector Meade, in charge of the Montreal division, would be sent there to take charge.

German Takes Over Austrian Industry

VIENNA, June 30—(AP). — The bulk of Austria's privately owned electrical, steel and automobile industries passed into the government's hands to-day bo be incorporated in the new state-owned Hermann Goering Steel Works.

An official announcement disclosed a majority of the stock of the companies became available to the government through the merger June 18 of the three largest Austrian banks — the Merburbank, Laenderbank and Zivnostenska — which are now under the domination of the State-owned Dresdner bank.

Included in the transfer were the Steyr, Daimler and Puch Automobile Works, the Simmering Railway Car Factory, Judenburg Steel Works and Vienna Pauker Works.

Dies In His Wagon

MELVILLE, Sask., June 29—(CP)—The body of Charlie Zarlok, middle-aged bachelor of this district 75 miles northeast of Regina, was found yesterday on his farm in a wagon to which a team of horses was still hitched. Zarlok was believed to have been dead eight or nine days and the horses apparently had grazed as they wandered, drinking from a nearby slough. An autopsy will be held to determine the cause of the death.

County Wards To Be Given Dental Service

Several questions involving county and city relations and interests were discussed by the finance committee of the city council last night.

A special committee composed of Aldermen Stocker, Dutton and Cotton was authorized to approve accounts for special medical and dental attention for wards of the Children's Aid Society, and the point was raised whether children living in the county should be included in this service.

"The county will let you pay as long as you are willing," Alderman McIntyre remarked.

Alderman Dutton explained that in the economy of the Society provision was not made for extra dental and medical care required by wards. The county council last week declined to grant $250 to the Society "that would give us a chance to do the work that is needed and meanwhile enable us to look around for new sources of revenue." Ald. Dutton said he could understand the attitude of the county in view of the increasing cost of Children's Aid work.

"They used to give us $1,000 and last year it was $4,000," Alderman Stocker said, and added that the "farmers from away back around Apsley are not sympathetic."

"If they are unwilling to share the cost, what about separation of city and county interests in the Society?" Alderman Glover enquired.

Both Aldermen Stocker and Dutton expressed the opinion that the Department would never assent to that idea. Ald Stocker said Miss Rachel Young, superintendent of the Society, is spending "75% of her time in the county."

Alderman Gordon humorously suggested that possibly the council did not send the right deputation to the county council. "I asked them for two things on behalf of the city the other day, and they granted them in full," he said.

To a proposal that the amount of money to be expended on special medical and dental services should be limited. Alderman Stocker said the sub-committee would keep close watch on account. He said he went over the finances of the Society with a microscope.

"They say you are even worse than that," Alderman Gordon jokingly commented.

The committee decided that no distinction would be made between city and county wards.

Claim Against Smith.

The fire, water and light committee's bill for $300 against Smith township for sending some of the de of the department's apparatus to fight a fire that destroyed a summer cottage in Chemong Park seemed too much to Alderman Glover although Alderman Bradburn pointed out that the city firemen saved two or three adjacent cottages.

The city's claim against Smith opened up the question as to whether the fire department should respond to any fires in the country.

"You wouldn't like to see a house burned down if we could help to prevent it," Alderman Glover said. The fact that many Peterborough residents have cottages in Chemong Park seemed to present at least a moral obligation to assist them in the event of fire.

"We'd certainly feel badly if loss of life occurred at any fire in the country," Alderman Dutton remarked.

Some cities simply adopt the policy of not responding beyond their boundaries, Alderman Wilson said, and Alderman Gordon added that a city ratepayer might succeed if he took action to prevent the fire department from going to township fires. After all, he said, the cost of the Department was paid by the city ratepayers.

Alderman Juby, chairman of the committee, was instructed to interview Smith council about a settlement of the bill. Alderman Bradburn volunteered to go along with Alderman Juby if he needed any help.

NO NEW CHARGES REGISTERED AGAINST POLICE DEPARTMENT

Former Constable Wheeler Adds To His Charges Already Made Action Promised by City Council

The advertisement asking citizens who had complaints to make against the police department to register them backed by affadavits failed to produce a single new charge, it was revealed at the meeting of the Police Commission Wednesday afternoon.

Only one affadavit was received as a result of the notice and it was from William D. Johnston complaining about a fine imposed upon him in regard to a breach of the Highway Traffic Act and concerning Gordon Puffer.

When this was read Judge Sheldon L. Smoke, chairman, pointed out that the commission had nothing whatever to do with that particular matter which concerned Puffer not as a police officer but as a justice of the peace.

Mr. Johnston will be notified that the Board has no jurisdiction in regard to his complaint and that his proper course would be to take it up with the provincial authorities.

Former Constable Joseph Wheeler sent in a fuller synopsis of his charges and this was read to the meeting. It included charges that two burglaries were frameups and could have been prevented, that a man was charged as a first offender under the L.C.A., when he should have been charged as a second or third offender, that another man was only charged $2 for a dog tag when he should have paid $10 for a kennel license, that the chief constable had allowed beer to be placed in a house on the occasion of the police ball two years ago, and an officer was placed in charge of its distribution and that after the ball two officers removed the empties and what beer was left to the home of one of them.

Further Charges.

Wheeler also made a charge against the conduct of one officer in reference to a young woman and asked what became of the beer and liquor that was confiscated by the police. He also charged that one constable had been appointed at 43 years of age and as a motor mechanic when he was not qualified as such.

Alderman James Dutton and H. I. Bradburn were present at the meeting as representatives of the city council and heard the Wheeler charges read.

"I think that the air should be cleared" said Judge Smoke.

"Do you feel that these two charges (The complaint of H. L. Garner of The Examiner against the chief constable's treatment of an Examiner reporter and former Constable Wheeler's charges warrant an investigation?" asked Ald. Dutton.

"I feel that they do,' replied the chairman. Ald. Dutton agreed with that view and expressed himself as favoring an inquiry.

Ald Bradburn stated that thanks to Ald. Gordon it had been ascertained that it would be possible to secure the service of Judge O'Connor of Cobourg for $25 a day, of Leslie G. Frost of Lindsay to examine the witnesses for $50 a day and of a court reporter from Toronto at $8 a day. He felt that the whole thing should be cleared up in a couple of days.

Ald Gordon remarked that there might be one difficulty inasmuch as Judge O'Connor wanted the inquiry postponed until September while securing the other two would hinge upon holding the probe in July or August.

The council deputation informed the commission that council would deal with the matter as quickly as possible.

Revision Sought In Taxi Bylaw

Hon. G. N. Gordon, K.C., waited upon the Board of Police Commissioners on Wednesday to urge that a bylaw should be passed fixing tests for taxi drivers both as to their morality and physical fitness, licensing taxi concerns, testing the motor vehicles used in the business and requiring taxi owners to carry insurance against injury to passengers.

Mr. Gordon said that he represented a number of taxi owners who were willing to abide by such tests and requirements. He pointed out that there had been taxi owners here who carried no insurance and from whom it was impossible to obtain anything by way of a judgment.

"I am very much in favor of licensing and governing taxicobs," remarked Judge Smoke, "and of requiring those in the taxi business to carrry a reasonable amount of insurance.

It was stated that City Solicitor W. F. Huycke is at present amending the taxi bylaw drawn up sometime ago and the whole matter brought up by Ald. Gordon will be given serious consideration.

BY-LAW IS PASSED.

The police commission yesterday passed amendments to the junk dealers' by-law, licensing collectors of junk at $1 per year. The latter are to be provided with numbers to be put on their vehicles.

Havelock Man Is Fined $200 and Costs

Pleading guilty before Magistrate O. A. Langley, K.C., in police court this moring to illegal possession of liquor, Stanley Carnrite, 60, gardener, of Havelock was fined $200 and $3.01 costs with the alternative of three months imprisonment.

Crown Attorney McElderry informed the court that Carnrite had been suspected of selling liquor for some time but the police had been unable to catch him. Finally the provincial police had discovered him in possession of liquor and the charge had been laid.

"I have never sold it," Carnrite declared.

Crown Attorney McElderry contended that it was not the case for the minimum penalty and Magistrate Langley agreed in view of the circumstances.

Scores Made Homeless By Collapse of Dam

Policemen are shown aiding a stranded farm family at Burlington, N.J., as waters from Sylvan Lake poured into the surrounding countryside when the dam on Burlington Creek collapsed. Heavy rains weakened the dam and raised the level of the lake. Scores have been made homeless by the flood, with property damage high.

Main Street Topics

Jabs and Jottings as Picked Up By Examiner Reporters

MUST HAVE SCALES

A coal yard without weight scales didn't appeal to the finance committee of the council Wednesday night, and Everett Nicholls' application for a license on that basis was rejected.

NO MORE COMPETITION.

Examination results made known to all pupils and parents this week fails to show the parent the exact standing of the pupil in the class. Every name is listed alphabetically, and grading is a thing of the past.This change is bitterly opposed by one nine year old boy who has been promised a bicycle if he passed within the first five. He passed, but he does not know his standing in the class, and so far as can be learned this information is not available.

CAR BARN RENTAL

Rental of the King street car barn to Border Transport Limited is being increased by the property committee of the council from $25 a month to $35, plus an additional $15 a month to the Burlington Refinery Company of Hamilton for the service station in front of the barn. The council's intention of renting the service station will be advertised in the possibility that some one else may wish to apply for it. The new deal provides a gain in revenue for the city.

RURAL NOTE

Another June is ending today in as fragrant an atmosphere in the country as any of all the other Junes that have gone before. The heavy perfume of alsike clover hangs over fields and highways. Farmers are busy haying. Many of the fields have already been cut, and this week should see nearly the last of the mowing. A reporter accompanied Frank C. Paterson, agricultural representative, through most of Otonabee yesterday, and obtained his opinion that the hay crop is fair to good. The first signs of ripening are seen on the fall wheat, oats are making strong growth, barley heads are filling, most of the alfalfa is being cut and is apparently a satisfactory crop, and the scented alsike is a mass of bloom, but this clover is not as tall as usual. Pasturage is exceptionally good, the strawberry crop on the farms is passing out of the seasonal picture and may be wound up by the end of the week, sprouting corn and the root crop are both making a strong start.

DRIVER REMANDED.

Alfred Johnston, McGill street charged with hit-and-run driving as the result of an accident in which a young girl was hurt was remanded until next week when his case was called in police court this morning. The crown said a material witness was absent and was not ready to go ahead. W. J. Fair appeared for Johnston.

BLIGHT ON MAPLES.

Some blight has struck the row of maples in front of the court house. Some of them are nearly dead and others are showing leaves that are turning brown. Nearly a dozen of them were counted along the top of the Victoria Park bank the other day.

WATCH YOUR HATS.

Hunter street bridge during the past week has taken toll of summer bonnets. On three occasions ladies homeward bound and laden with parcels have lost their hats, which were lifted from their heads by the wind and then went sailing over the south rail into the waters of the Otonabee below.

ANOTHER MINIATURE ZOO.

Vince Whittington is providing a little competition for Ross Dobbin in the zoo business. Vince has five red fox pups, three raccoons and a baby porcupine on exhibit at his place on the five mile turn out Highway 28, and many motorists have driven out to give their children a look at the animals.

CLAIM THEY WERE ROBBED.

Complaints were received by Provincial Constable Silvester Wednesday that two residents of Douro township, Alex. Millage and William Hanrahan had been robbed by two gypsy women. Millage said that he had lost $45 or $48 while Hanrahan claimed that the women took $39 from him. The complainants were not quite clear as to how the women had accomplished the theft, and so far Constable Silvester has been unable to get any further trace of the gypsies who are accused of the offence.

BOARD FILLS VACANCIES.

The school trustees of S. S. No. 2, North Monaghan, have appointed Miss Margaret Whittaker of this city to teach in May's school, and Miss Constance Legon of North Monaghan, to the staff of Confederation school. These appointments were made necessary by the resignations of Miss Gertrude Cox and Mr. Londerville, who have obtained positions on the staff of the city schools. Miss Dorothy Allen has been transferred to May's to succeed Miss Cox.

TAG DAYS SCHEDULED.

The Police Commission Thursday gave permission for the Children's Aid Society to hold a tag day on Saturday, September 17 and the Peterborough Workers and Unemployed Association to hold a similar campaign two weeks later.

NO GARBAGE COLLECTION.

At Herb. Withers' request the city's garbage collection service will be suspended on the holiday (Friday), giving the city's employees a holiday.

MAY ATTEND CONVENTION.

Permission for Chief Gimblett and Alderman Juby to attend the Dominion Fire Chiefs' convention at Sault Ste. Marie, July 25 to 27, was given by the Fire, Water and Light Committee of the Council on Thursday night.

TO BUY LIFEBUOY.

The city's tourist camp at Riverside was recently inspected by a representative of the Government, who made several suggestions for minor improvements. Alderman Stocker told the Council on Wednesday night all of them had already been carried out, and all that remained was to order a lifebuoy and length of rope.

BANK CLEARINGS.

Total clearing passing through the Peterborough Clearing House for the past week ending to-day amounted to $588,496, a decided increase over the same period last year when the clearings totalled $519,889. For the month of June the clearings totalled $2,594,377, while for last June they were $2,862,766.

CHECKER PLAYERS.

H. B. Cowan has received a letter from Newell W. Banks of Detroit, who claims to be the "blindfold checker champion of the world," saying he is planning to visit Canada, and will probably be in Peterborough shortly after July 12. He would like to arrange a match with a number of checker players in this city. The matter has been talked over and consideration is being given to the matter. Some of those interested are H. B. Cowan, Walter Kidd, John Buck, Vernon Russell, G. Snowden, and Dr. Annis of Lindsay, who now and then visits Peterborough to try his hand with local checker players.

WAS CALF CLUB MEMBER.

The death of Arthur Drummond of Otonabee strikes off one of the names of the junior farmers who comprise this year's Calf Club. His mother recently told F. C. Paterson, agricultural representative, that he was talking about his calf and the club in a delirium that was not regarded as leading to fatality. Nearly every place Mr. Paterson called on Wednesday afternoon the boy's death was mentioned with deep feeling of regret.

INQUEST TO-NIGHT.

An inquest will be held in the council chamber to-night into the death of Arthur Drummond, 14, of Otonabee, who died from injuries received when he was hit by a car and knocked off his bicycle on the Keene road. Eight witnesses will be heard.

AIR CONDITIONED.

New comfort has been added for passengers in C.P.R. day coaches leaving Peterborough for Montreal at 11.40 a.m. and Toronto at 4.55 p.m., through complete air conditioning, Passenger Agent T. G. M. Jamieson announced to-day.

Powder Once Used To Take Flash Picture Cracked Ceiling and Shook Room

TIME MARCHES ON bringing with it improvements in all lines of industry and often as veteran craftsmen start using the modern product, amusing incidents of the past are recalled to their memory. Such was the case this week when Louis R. Parks, local photographer took flashlight pictures at the Empress Hotel using the latest flash bulbs, which are harmless, clean, make no noise nor odor and hardly disturb the person being photographed.

As Lou remarked it was about ten years ago he was asked by Test Men of the C.G.E. to photograph a banquet in the Empress. Flash bulbs were then unknown and flash powder was the usual medium for supplying light. The test men were smoking cigars and in order to pierce the smoke laden air and get a good picture Lou put an extra amount of flash powder on the holder, two ounces to be exact. He arranged the group, then pulled the trigger exploding the powder. The explosion was terrific, the flames shot straight up, put a crack several feet long in the ceiling, knocked some articles off a dresser in the bedroom above, and frightened a woman who was ill and confined to the bedroom. It cost Lou eight dollars to redecorate and repair the damaged and discolored ceiling. To make matters worse the picture was under exposed.

This week he was also photographing C.G.E. men, at the banquet to L. D. W. Magie, and was using the flash bulbs. The smoke was just as thick but the bulbs delivered without any fuss or damage and the pictures, shown in last night's paper were splendid.

To this day when a news photographer armed with camera and flash gun steps into the Empress Hotel, Chris Graham the proprietor, recalls vividly the explosion ten years ago, and immediately checks to determine if the reporter is using the modern bulbs.

Occasionally a reporter assigned to an auto crash or to photograph a burning building during the night uses the old fashioned flash powder but for general use the powder is obsolete.

Identification Is Completed

This picture, published in The Examiner last night, has been identified as John Hampden Burnham. Several women reported that the dashing young man in the picture and wearing the latest cut tweeds and wing collar was a familiar and popular figure in this city half a century ago.

Approached by a reporter this morning Mr. Burnham confirmed the reports that it was his picture, and said it was taken on his 21st birthday by a photographer named Sproule. He added that he has never owned a wide check tweed such as was shown in the picture since that time. "How many years ago since the picture was taken, queried the reporter. "I'm not saying," answered Mr. Burnham, "but you can safely say it is more than half a century.

North Monaghan Changes Seen Of Nominations

North Monaghan council decided by by-law Tuesday night to change both the time and place of its municipal nominations. Thirty years ago the old town hall out near John McIntosh's farm was the municipal centre of the township, council meetings were held there, and also nominations. The first move was made to May's school, and now the municipality will transfer its election preparations to the Court House, and the meeting for nomination will be held at 7.30 p.m., instead of 2.30 p.m., and elections will still be on New Year's Day.

Depending finally on the approval of the Department of Highways, another by-law fixed at 30 miles an hour the speed limit of traffic on Monaghan Road from Frank street to Cameron street, which means from Byersville almost to Crawford's Grove, and on Park street from Lansdowne street to the river.

Through Streets.

The council has actually made Park street and Monaghan Road through streets, and the by-law provides for the placing of stop signs at intersecting streets.

A third by-law Tuesday night adopted the 1938 assessment as the basis of the roll for 1939. This action means that the council will not make a new assessment for 1929, but claims may be referred to the Court of Revision as usual. The next assessment will be made during the summer of 1939 from April 1 to September 30 for the year 1940. This is another departure from established custom, although a similar by-law was passed some years ago but was not put into effect because of objections from the farmers. It was passed in 1930 when John McIntosh was reeve.

Presumably the council is preparing for another change that will provide for payment of the taxes in two instalments instead of one as at present.

Director Shot

SHANGHAI, June 30—(CP). — Shen Teh-Ling, director of the Shipping Control Bureau of the Japanese-fostered Shanghai reformed government, was assassinated today. His death was the fifth political murder in 10 days by alleged anti-Japanese elements operating against Chinese puppet officials of the Japanese.

The killing occurred in the heart of the international settlement, the slayers catching Shen as he was being pulled in a jinrickisha. Their bullets also killed the jinrickisha boy and a passer-by.

LEMONADE DID IT

IVYCHURCH, England—(CP).—A fire, started in a dance hall here was put out by dance-band members with lemonade when water was not available.

Case Is Dismissed Against Driver

Criticism by defence cousel T. J. Carley K.C. that the evidence given by Provincial Constable David Silvester and Provincial Traffic Officer McClure had not been sufficiently frank featured a traffic case that took up most of Wednesday afternoon.

It was a charge of reckless driving brought against J. J. Hunter of Gooderham, following an accident at the corner of Park and Braidwood Avenue on Monday night in which a car driven by Arthur McLaren, Prince Street was overturned in a collision with Hunter's machine.

Magistrate E. A. Gee dismissed the case on Mr. Carley's motion without any defence evidence being called.

In his argument after the crown evidence had been given Mr. Carley charged that apparently everybody knew the rule of the right-of-way but the crown officers.

Magistrate Gee said that Hunter by jamming on his brakes had taken the only precaution that could have been taken to avoid an accident, while McLaren had failed to try to stop his car.

E. W. Borbridge prosecuted the case in the absence of Crown Attorney McElderry who had a case at Havelock.

Given 2 Months For Selling Homebrew Beer

Convicted before Magistrate O. A. Langley K.C. in police court this morning of the illegal sale of liquor, Bert Ferguson was sentenced to two months imprisonment in the county jail.

The accused was defended by Jacob Low while Crown Attorney V. J. McElderry prosecuted.

Ferguson was convicted on the evidence of three young men who swore they called at his house on Sunday May 29 and asked him for some beer. They told him they had no money to pay for it at the time but would leave their suit coats as security. Ferguson gave them sixteen bottles of beer and two of the witnesses left their coats. On the following Saturday they went to Ferguson's house again and paid him $3.50 and got their coats back.

Witnesses who said three girls had been in the car with them told of driving out into the country and consuming the beer, the three drinking it all. They said it was homebrew, not as strong as vendor's beer but all three described it as intoxicating.

In cross examination Mr. Low brought out the fact that before calling at Ferguson's house they had consumed 40 ounces of wine among the three o fthem. They claimed that they were not drunk after finishing all the beer they bought.

Mr. Low also examined them as to the statements they had given the police and as to charges that had been made against them by the father of one of the girls who had been with them.

No evidence was offered by the defence.

Magistrate Langley said that while there was a weakness in the case as to the proof that the beer sold by Ferguson was intoxicating, the fact that the witnesses had asked for beer and had been given it as such and that all three described it as intoxicating justified him, in the absence of any proof to the contrary, to infer that the beer was intoxicating and therefore to register a conviction.

Boy Fractures Arm

(Examiner Correspondence.)

ROSENEATH, June 30 — Oral George, 13-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred George of this village suffered a fractured arm Wednesday night while playing with his chums. Dr. Morin was called and reduced the fracture.

Smoke Stack At Incinerator Painted BeforeTender Accepted By Council

THE ELEMENTS of this little story do not seem to fit together, but the chief evidence comes from Lou Parks, photographer, and who would doubt Mr. Parks?

The property committee of the council Wednesday night accepted the tender of E. J. Gaisely of Belleville to paint the smoke stack of the incinerator, practical appointment, but nevertheless not final until the committee's report is approved by the council next Monday night.

Alderman Dutton suggested that the painting of the stack might be done on Civic Holiday, during the first week of August when the fires are out and the furnace cold.

Mr. Gaisely's bid of $50 was so far below the local tenders one of them up around $170, that the committee had written to the Dominion Canners Company at Brighton for assurance of the contractor's ability. The company replied that Mr. Gaisely's work was highly satisfactory, and when the letter was read it seems that Mr. Gaisely had already begun work on the stack.

Mr. Parks took a photograph of some one painting the stack Wednesday morning, and presumably it was Mr. Gaisely. Alderman Herb McCannan was asked to verify the information at noon today, but he replied that it was news to him.

No one at the city hall knew anything about the painting, but Mr. Parks produces the photograph, leaving the only conclusion that Mr. Gaisely was in a hurry to get at the job and likewise that he must have felt certain he was going to get the contract.

A BATTLE ROYAL

While the residents of Ashburnham near Memorial Park ball diamond slumbered peacefully two softball teams in the Immaculate Conception league battled into ten innings Wednesday night to break a 34 all deadlock. The game finished 35 to 34 for Bud Kennedy's team who downed Joe Harvey's crew. The two scores make a total of 69 runs, a record for the league and perhaps for the entire city, where softball scores are not particulary low.

Arnold E. Prest Is Retiring From The C.G.E.

Members of the Switch Gear Department of the Canadian General Electric Company did honor Thursday evening to Arnold E. Prest, retiring chief inspector of the department, when they gathered in the Canadian Legion banquet hall at an enjoyable banquet and paid tribute to the many excellent qualities of the guest of the evening and referred in appreciative terms to the many years of enjoyable relationships they had had with him.

Mr. Prest is leaving the service of the company on pension after a connection with the C. G. E. of four decades the last thirty-seven years of his service having been continuous. During all that time he has held the regard and esteem of the executives and workers of the C. G. E.

E. G. Hardie was chairman at the banquet which was catered for by the Ladies Auxiliary of the Canadian Legion.

The toast to the guest of honor was proposed by Ian McRae, assistant works manager of the C. G. E. who stressed splendid service that had been rendered by Mr. Prest, as a good and faithful employee of the company over many years. He was retiring with the goodwill of all his associates in the plant, the speaker said.

Presented With Radio.

On behalf of the staff of the Switch Gear Department James O'Brien presented Mr. Prest with a handsome radio set. In his reply Mr. Prest gave some very interesting reminiscences of his connection with the C. G. E., stating that he came to Peterborough first in 1891 and that since 1901 had been with the company continuously.

In proposing a toast to the Switch Gear department, Gordon R. Langley, referred to the co-operation and goodfellowship that had always existed between the shop, the foreman and the draughtsmen and engineers.

E. G. Hardie in acknowledging the toast on behalf of the department referred to the progress that had been made by various members of the Switch Gear department who had advanced to higher positions with credit to themselves and to the company.

The program was most enjoyable, the musical numbers including a piano solo by Miss Ruth Smith and a duet by A. Shadgett and R. Jones, while the C. G. E. movie of Lord Tweedsmuir's visit to the plant was shown during the evening.

Many Dogs Tied On Too Short Chains

At the regular monthly meeting of the Humane Society the inspector's report showed a very busy month. He reported that there were a large number of dogs tied on chains to short and he would like the public to know that dogs should have at least 10 feet of rope. The Society have in their possession pamphlets on this subject which are to be distributed among dog owners free of charge.

The local Society has been notified by the Ontario S.P.C.A. that Robbins Bros. circus that appeared in Oshawa is owned and operated by Cole Bros. circus which appeared in Peterborough. During the month the following inspections were made: Horses examined, 180; dogs to shelter, 12; dogs to shelter for city, 45; dogs destroyed, 57; cats to shelter, 16; cats destroyed, 13; cats given to home, 3; animals examined, 48; performing animals and birds, 1 bird destroyed; summons issued, 2; convictions, 1; complaints investigated, 30; warnings olssued, 8; telephone calls, 250.

THE FRIENDSHIP between Buckshot Brown, aged 71, and Ellen Dale, aged 23, grew rapidly during the ensuing days.

Buckshot had been married and lost his wife before he was 20. Ellen had never remembered a father, nor even an uncle. Something deep in each of them responded to the other's sincerity and kindness of heart, although two more opposite types—in manner and appearance—could not well be imagined. Ellen held the dainty city girl voice and polish; Ephriam Brown was a diamond in the rough.

"Listen to me, Uncle Buckshot," Bill roared at the old man one afternoon, "you can't sit out here all winter and make love to Ellen Dale. There's better men than you in love with her."

"Yeap. But they ain't making the progress I am. They git hacked, or blind, or something."

He had fashioned a crutch from a crooked limb so that he hobbled around camp right handily. At odd times he would sit on a rock and shoot at tin cans with pistol and rifle, paying young Pablo Rivera an occasional dime or so to set up his targets. Bill noted that the old-timer held an accurate eye. Once Buckshot took a long bead on an inquisitive coyote that drifted too near the camp, and brought the wild dog down.

He taught Ellen to shoot, stressing the essential that a trigger must be squeezed, not "pulled"; also that a hair's breadth on the sights may mean 20 yards error out where the target is. He taught her how to clean a gun, and that fundamental concept of where not to point it.

"Never direct th' muzzle of any gun at any man, even if it ain't loaded or even in fun, onless you want to kill him," he said.

With his gold dust he offered to buy a horse one morning, saying he felt well enough now to get out of the way. Ellen was instantly disturbed by it.

"No! Where will you go, Uncle Buckshot?" She had unconsciously followed Bill in calling him "Uncle".

"I got claims. Back thar." He pointed toward the high hills.

Bill Baron entered the conversation then.

"Why can't you work here on the ranch? I can't be here all the time, nor can Ellen. Somebody's got to be boss when we're gone. Somebody who can think. And maybe handle a gun. Somebody with judgment. You can't let Ellen down like this!"

Bill's last sentence was a shrewd one. He had observed the old fellow's growing attachment for the girl. It was better than coldly telling him he was too old to live alone in the mountains any longer. With a bit more pretended reluctance, Buckshot took the job, secretly relighted.

He demanded work to do at once, and got it.

"You say you remember considerable about the old Durango ranch house," said Bill. "All right, you are builder's consultant. We are trying to restore that house exactly, plus a few modern innovations as to plumbing and lighting. You work right with the builder and architect. Think back to every little detail. Will you?"

The older man nodded. "It was a grand place," said he. "I c'n just remember the old don hisself, but I know more about th' house. It didn't all crumble till years after th' Redskins wrecked it."

The foundation was already in, but Buckshot caused two rooms to be added, carrying out the original rambling style. The architect protested that it wasn't efficient. Buckshot clouded up on him with some choice words, and Bill backed up the old man. Buckshot wanted to know if there was to be a cornerstone.

"Let's have one!" Ellen cried. "What'll we put on it?"

She and the old-timer gave it serious thought, like two children. They evolved a plan of molding a cement block, cutting in the dates, the ranch brand, and the handprints of the builders after the fashion of Hollywood's Chinese theater foyer.

Bill was left out of these slow, sentimental hours of planning and building. He did a prodigious amount of physical labor himself, and sometimes he would scarcely see Ellen for two or three days. He was gone much of the time, purchasing materials and hiring men. Ellen caught him one evening when he was eating a late supper before a campfire, having just ridden in.

"Will you stop long enough to come and put your fingerprints in our cornerstone tomorrow?" she asked.

"Fingerprints?"

"Handprints, I mean. The whole hand."

He was eating, and did not reply at once. "No thanks," he said eventually. "It's your ranch. Your house."

He didn't say anything impolite, nor did his tone imply a discourtesy. Nevertheless, his matter-of-fact refusal hurt Ellen more than anything Bill had ever done to her.

She stood before the fire, watching the dancing life of it but unconscious of the beauty. She glanced at Bill again. He was intent on a bowl of stew, miner's stew made of practically everything, thick and meaty and nourishing. He wasn't even looking at her.

The subtle telegraphy of emotions caused her to sense at once that he was unhappy, but she also knew she could do nothing about it then. She herself had been active of late; there was so much to do about a new ranch and a new building. She suddenly realized that Bill hadn't discussed anything but business in more than a week.

The thought shocked her a little, and yet she knew it didn't make sense. Just what did she expect him to discuss with her, when he was working for her almost day and night? Or what did she want?.

She knew what she wanted, but she had ceased to hope for it, almost. Ellen Daggs had known heart hunger all her life. Not even financial success had assuaged it. Sudden popularity and wealth had purchased diversion, but had not touched the deeper longing and never could, she knew. Grizzled old Buckshot Brown had, surprisingly, partially filled the ned by being kind and adoring as a father would by representing the stern, dependable character in older folk which youngsters have always leaned upon. And yet, contradictorily, he hadn't really helped either, his coming had seemed somehow to intensify her yearning!

She didn't want Bill to be morose. It was unlike him. Unlike the carefree dare-devil sort of boy with whom she had adventured. Standing near him there before the campfire, she saw him now as the man he was. It suddenly dawned on her that he was seven years older than she. The thought made her feel not 23, but near 16; made him seem more remote than ever.

A tear splashed down her cheek and she squatted to warm her hands, turning her face from him. The Mexican girl came then, bearing a slab of raw meat and a long fork, also bread and salt. Bill speared the steak deftly through its side and began broiling it over ironwood coals that he had pulled from the blaze. Ellen watched with interest. When generously, turned and cooked the the meat had seared, he salted it other side. The odor of it assailed her, revived her own hunger. White suet around its edges was dripping, browning, crusting. Bill cut a piece of the suet to put on top the lean meat and keep it moist. In 10 minutes the steak was deliciously done. In all that time he hadn't spoken.

"Would you like a piece of it, or all?" he asked then, politely, precisely as he would have invited a strange guest to share.

She smiled wanly and shook her head. He began eating. "Goodnight," she said, and walked away.

Old Buckshot's combined tent and lean-to had been set up near her own—he had been shunted into the role of chaperon by mutual unspoken agreement—and Bill's was nearly 100 yeards away. A lantern still shone in Buckshot's, so Ellen dropped in for a good night call. The night was chilly, but the old fellow was comfortable with a tiny stove.

"Uncle Buckshot," the girl murmured, deep in her own thinking, "do you know anything about jealousy?"

"Eh? How's that?" He had been poking wood in his heater. She didn't speak again for a long moment, and then slowly.

"I said—do you think—money—ought to stand in the way—if someone loves somebody?"

DOROTHY DIX

DEAR MISS DIX—I came from an average American family. I was clever and graduated from high school just before I was 16. My parents refused to let me have any boy friends, or go to parties, or dance, and I was crazy, like all young girls, for the innocent pleasures that the other young people enjoyed. I got a job as soon as I graduated, making $20 a week. I offered my mother fifteen, but she demanded it all. She bought my clothes without consulting my taste, or made over her old ones for me. I was high-spirited and resented the home tyranny and before I was 17 I ran away and took an apartment of my own. I didn't know it was wrong to have the gang in every Saturday night and to let as many as would stay over until Sunday. And so I fell. I soon got a bad name, but I didn't mean to be bad. I only wanted a good time. I would have been contented with a couple of dates a week and having my friends in my mother's house, but this was denied me. So I took what I could find, and when my mother refused to let me come home on the first Christmas I was away I just didn't care any more. However, God was good to me. I met a man who loved me enough to forget my past. We have been married eight years and have three beautiful children and you can be sure that when my girls grow up they will have good times, but they will have it at home, with their mother watching over them and seeing that it is an innocent good time. They will not have to suffer what I have to suffer in regret for the things I did because my mother drove me out of my home. X.Y.Z.

ANSWER:

I commend this letter to the careful consideration of all mothers of adolescent daughters because it contains a terrible warning for those women who, in trying to be good mothers, so overplay the part that they are the worst mothers in the world.

No doubt the mother of the woman who writes this letter was a conscientious woman who was doing what she thought to be the right thing by her daughter in denying her all the pleasures of youth. No doubt she thought she was keeping her daughter safe by not letting her have dates with boys, or dance, or go to any place of amusement.

But the result of her strictness did not quench in the girl her love of fun, or her desire for excitement and going places and having good times. Nor did it turn her into an Alice-sit-by-the-fire, who was content to spend her evenings at home doing crochet or reading an improving book, with only Mamma and Papa for company, while all the other youngsters were dancing and going to the movies and enjoying themselves.

All that it did was to drive the girl away from home and send her out on the road that leads to ruin. It deprived her of the protection of a home, of the guidance of her parents. It took away from her every restraining influence and just because all of her natural craving for pleasure had been suppressed so long she went the limit when she could do as she pleased.

It is folly, it is stupid folly, it is criminal folly for parents in these days of the emancipation of youth, and when practically any 16-year-old girl can support herself, to think that they can keep their daughters from harm by making them recluses in their own homes; by taking away from them the money they earn; by refusing to let them have young company in their homes; or to go about with boys; or to go to dances and places of amusement and do the things that the other youngsters are doing.

The inevitable result of such tyranny is to drive the girls away from home to fill blind dates; to make pick-ups on the streets; to go to questionable places, since they are not permitted to go to decent ones; to make rash marriages; or worse.

Youth demands pleasure and youth must be served. You can't get away from that initial fact in life, and it is just as much a mother's duty to provide her growing girls with innocent amusement as it is with wholesome food. And it is her duty not to keep them under lock and key, but to teach them how to have the right sort of good times. She should teach them how to judge boys so that they will be able to distinguish between gentlemen and cads. She should teach them how to have pleasures that leave no bad taste in their mouths. And, above all, she should teach them how to draw the fine line between liberty and license.

DEAR DOROTHY DIX—My husband and I have been married nineteen years. Have two boys, one 17, one 15. For many years my husband has been in love with a woman and begging me to divorce him, but I have refused because I love him so much I cannot bear to give him up and, besides, he does not make enough to support two homes. I do not want my boys' home broken, and I have felt that they needed a father as well as a mother. He is very quiet. Never quarrels with me. But he is very unhappy. And what I want to know is whether I should give him up now, or when the boys graduate from college, or force him to live the rest of his life with me, knowing as I do that he loves another woman and longs for her all the time? If I give him up, I do not know how I can live, as I am not trained to any trade. Do you think that there is a chance that he will come to realize that he loves me after all?

UNCERTAIN.

ANSWER:

I cannot advise you about divorcing your husband. That is a matter between you and your own conscience. But in deciding the matter there are several facts that you will do well to look squarely in the face. The first is that if your husband has been faithful to this other woman for a number of years there is no chance of his ever coming back to you. Don't delude yourself any longer with that hope. Often a married man is temporarily fascinated by some woman and after that has worn off he realizes that the woman he really loved all the time was his wife, and returns to her humbled and chastened, and is thereafter as faithful as the house cat.

But your husband's case is different. His love for the "other woman" has stood the test of time and you must reconcile yourself to the fact that in some way this other woman appeals to him in a way that you do not, and that he is as much lost to you as if he were dead and in his grave.

You must also face the fact that you can look forward to no happiness in holding the body of a man whose heart and soul have escaped you. If you love him as you say you do, it must be a torture to you to know that every hour he spends with you and away from the other woman he loves and desires to be with is a martyrdom to him, and that in his soul he must hate you because you stand in the way of his happiness. DOROTHY DIX.

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

WRITTEN FOR THE EXAMINER

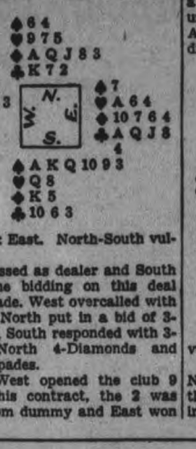
"The Authority on Authorities"

WHAT IS HIS REASON?

WHEN YOUR partner does not lead the suit he bid, there must be a reason. If the contract is at a suit, isn't his choice of another lead usually due to one factor? Such being the case, what do you do if you win an early trick and happen to hold the ace of his suit? Don't you lay down the ace to see if he plays a high card to urge its repeat?



(Dealer: East. North-South vulnerable.)

East passed as dealer and South started the bidding on this deal with 1-Spade. West overcalled with 2-Hearts, North put in a bid of 3-Diamonds, South responded with 3-Spades, North 4-Diamonds and South 4-Spades.

When West opened the club 9 against this contract, the 2 was played from dummy and East won with the J. He now cashed the club A, and figuring that West's play indicated he wished to ruff that suit, continued with a third club. West won and returned a diamond, which South won with the K. After three rounds of trumps, declarer led to the diamond J, and on the A and Q discarded his two losing hearts.

Even if East figured West wished a ruff in clubs, his correct procedure was to have played the heart A first and find out from West's discard just what he desired.

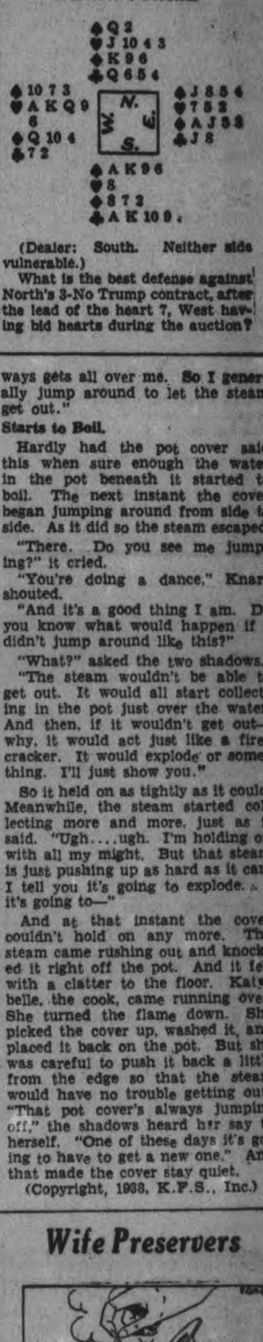
Tomorrow's Problem



(Dealer: South. Neither side vulnerable.)

What is the best defense against North's 3-No Trump contract, after the lead of the heart 7, West having bid hearts during the auction?

Goodnight Story

By MAX TRELL

"People don't think we have any life in us at all," the pot cover was saying the other afternoon to Knarf and Hanid, the shadow children with the turned-about names. The pot cover was standing on a pot of water with potatoes in it.

"Yes," the pot went on, "most folks think that just because we're made of metal we never move around or anything. I can move by myself. In fact, I'm going to jump around in a few minutes."

"Do you see me jumping?"

"You are?"

"Oh yes. Just you wait and see. You notice there are some potatoes beginning to boil in the water just under me. Well, I don't care much to stand over boiling water. It's much too hot. And the steam always gets all over me. So I generally jump around to let the steam get out."

Starts to Boil.

Hardly had the pot cover said this when sure enough the water in the pot beneath it started to boil. The next instant the cover began jumping around from side to side. As it did so the steam escaped.

"There. Do you see me jumping?" it cried.

"You're doing a dance," Knarf shouted.

"And it's a good thing I am. Do you know what would happen if I didn't jump around like this?"

"What?" asked the two shadows.

"The steam wouldn't be able to get out. It would all start collecting in the pot just over the water. And then, if it wouldn't get out—why, it would act just like a firecracker. It would explode or something. I'll just show you."

So it held on as tightly as it could. Meanwhile, the steam started collecting more and more, just as it said. "Ugh....ugh. I'm holding on with all my might. But that steam is just pushing up as hard as it can. I tell you it's going to explode. . . it's going to—"

And at that instant the cover couldn't hold on any more. The steam came rushing out and knocked it right off the pot. And it fell with a clatter to the floor. Katybelle, the cook, came running over. She turned the flame down. She picked the cover up, washed it, and placed it back on the pot. But she was careful to push it back a little from the edge so that the steam would have no trouble getting out. "That pot cover's always jumping off," the shadows heard her say to herself. "One of these days it's going to have to get a new one." And that made the cover stay quiet.

Mrs. E. Kitney Lends Home For Meeting

Mrs. Ernest Kitney lent her pretty home on River Road last night to the King's Own Bible Class of St. James' United Sunday School for their final meeting of the half year, when about forty members with their friends, gathered to enjoy a happy combination of business and pleasure.

The treasurer, Mrs. A. Davis also reported a most satisfactory half-year, making possible a generous donation to the steward's board of St. James' Church and toward a new lantern for the SS. Mrs. E. Eakins the quilt convenor reported splendid work done by the Friday afternoon meetings.

The program was then taken over by Mrs. H. F. Doig, when delightful solos were contributed by Mrs. Arnold, humorous readings by Mrs. Geo. Rowe. The contests were won by Mrs. F. Craik and Mrs. C. Wilson, after which Mesdames E. Frost and B. Pitchford expressed the thanks of the class to Mrs. Kitney for kindly hospitality and to all who assisted in making the evening a success.

WOMEN'S WORK AND INTERESTS

Mildred Moncrief Weds Kenneth E. Syer

A lovely lawn wedding was solemnized at one o'clock Wednesday afternoon at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Moncrief, North Monaghan, when their youngest daughter, Mildred Annie Luella, was united in marriage to Kenneth Edmund Syer, son of Mr. and Mrs. Eber Syer, Cavan.

The ceremony was performed under two large white bells which hung from the centre of a graceful evergreen arch entwined with roses by Rev. E. M. Cooke of Fraserville. The wedding music was played by the bride's sister, Mrs. John White of Ida.

Given in marriage by her brother, Kenneth Moncrief, the bride was lovely in a gown of white satin with a ruffle of lace at the throat, and lace insets, trimming the yoke and sleeves. Her embroidered net veil fell gracefully into a long train at the back from a pleated net halo banded with orange blossoms, and she carried a bridal bouquet of red roses and baby's breath tied with ribbons of tulle.

Little Marion McElroy of Keene, niece of the bride, was the only attendant, frocked in pink satin, toe-length, and trimmed with lace and pink baby ribbon. She carried a small basket of white and pink roses and blue delphiniums.

At the reception on the lawn which followed the ceremony, the bride's mother, wearing black triple sheer with matching hat and corsage of roses, received, assisted by the mother of the groom, who was in figured sheer with rose corsage.

Later the bride and groom left for a motor trip to Montreal and Niagara, the bride travelling in a blue suit with white accessories.

On their return Mr. and Mrs. Syer will live at the groom's farm in Cavan.

Honors Daughter At Trousseau Tea

Mrs. Robert Powell, 465 McDonnel street, entertained at a charmingly arrange trousseau tea Monday afternoon in honor of her daughter, Miss Marjory Powell, whose marriage to Mr. William S. Johnston took place Wednesday.

Mrs. Powell, wearing navy embroidered chiffon with corsage of pink sweet peas, received the guests with the bride-elect, who was gowned in a powder blue sheer with pink and blue sash. She wore pink rosebuds in her hair, and a corsage of matching rosebuds and sweet peas.

Ferns, palms and colourful baskets of flowers were used to decorate the rooms.

Mrs. W. Hanes, sister of the bride-elect, welcomed the guests at the door wearing brown and beige printed crepe with sweet pea corsage.

The tea table, laid with a lace cloth, was arranged with a tall silver basket of pink roses and ferns, tall, lighted pink tapers in silver holders, and silver tea services at each end.

Tea was poured by Mrs. W. F. Johnston, mother of the groom-elect; Mrs. Howard Hall and Mrs. Ludbrook, assisted by the Misses Doris Royea, Peggy Cooney, Eunice Barnes, K. Dinesen and Mrs. K. Ray.

Miss Edna Kennedy, Miss Vera White, Mrs. H. Oudette and Mrs. Fred White displayed the trousseau and the many lovely wedding gifts.

Over 200 guests were present.

Style Whimsies

The strapless brassiere for off-shoulder evening gowns is expected to continue its popularity into the fall season.

The wood bead bags in Roman stripe colorings again are in high favor this season.

The "baby sweater" of angora is being worn over print dresses. The fluffy little sweaters appeal to the young girls.

Top handles continue in favor for all styles of summer bags.

The new summer clothes are just a little softer, dressier and more feminine than we have seen for many seasons.

An especially popular style with the younger set is the two-piece dress which has a dark, dotted cotton skirt, with natural cotton-and-linen hopsacking for the jacket-blouse.

WEDDINGS

Downey—Davidson

MILLBROOK, June 30.— A very pretty wedding was solomnized at the home of the bride's aunt, Mrs. T. C. Ingram, Anne street, on Wednesday at 3 p.m., when Thelma Mary, second daughter of Mr. Talbert Davidson, and the late Mrs. Davidson, of Fleetwood, became the bride of Ivan George Downey, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Downey, of Reaboro.

The ceremony took place before a bank of pink and white peonies, interspread with ferns, tastefully arranged at the west side of the large living-room, and was performed by the Reverend R. M. Patterson, of Sunderland.

The bride entered the room to the strains of Lohengrin's Wedding March played by Miss Ruth Thorndyke, and was given in marriage by her father. She looked lovely in her wedding dress of ivory satin, made on Princess lines, floor length, with quaint fitted bodice, lace inserts on the shoulders, stand up collar of lace, and with tiny satin buttons from the neckline to the skirt hem; it had long sleeves, coming over the fingers, a little train, and her veil, worn coronet style, was of filmy embroidered net, caught with the orange blossoms worn by her mother on her wedding day. She also wore her mother's gold locket, and carried an arm bouquet of Ophelia roses; white kid shoes, sandal style, completed the ensemble.

The bride was attended by her sister, Miss Vivian Davidson, of Toronto, who wore pink triple sheer, on long lines, with shirred sleeves and bodice; a blue Leghorn hat, shoes of pink and blue, and carried an old-fashioned nosegay, frilled in lace; she wore also long blue lace mittens. The flower girl was the bride's youngest sister, Lorraine Davidson, who looked very dainty in white sheer crepe, with matching shoes, and lace-frilled nosegay.

The groom was supported by his brother, Mr. Ross Downey, of Reaboro; following the ceremony, an informal reception was held, and while the bridal party were signing the register, Miss Vanita Ingram sang, "I love you truly."

The wedding breakfast was served in the dining-room which was fragrant with summer blossoms, the bridal table being centered with the four-tiered wedding-cake, and with a color scheme of pink and white, the streamers coming from the large white wedding-bell immediately overhead, tall pink tapers burning in silver holders, and in other details.

Among those who assisted with the service of the guests were: Misses Muriel Burns, of London; Myra and Muriel Davidson, Ruth Thorndyke, and Vanita Ingram. Later the bride and groom left by motor for their wedding trip to the Thousand Islands, thence into New York state, and home by way of the Niagara peninsula. For travelling Mrs. Downey chose a dress of blue triple sheer, with pleated bolero, white hat with nose veil, and other white assessories. Upon their return Mr. and Mrs. Downey will reside on the groom's farm, three miles west of Omemee.

Out of town guests included Rev. R. M. and Mrs. Patterson, of Sunderland; Miss Muriel Burns, Reg. N., London; Carmen Ingram, of London; Messrs. Jack and Joseph Davidson, and Mr. and Mrs. George Shay, of Fleetwood; Mr. A. Archer and M. Irvine, of Lindsay; Mr. and Mrs. George, and Mr. Ralph Downey, of Reaboro.

Succesful Picnic Held at Oval By St. Andrew's S.S.

A diversified sports program that was enjoyed by both children and adults was part of the St. Andrew's Sunday School picnic program held Wednesday afternoon and evening in Nicholls Oval, and the highlight of the fun was a tug of war between five huskies captained by Jim Wharry and five other led by Harry Vass, with the former winning.

A softball game before the supper was served gave the boys a victory over a girls team which was strengthened by the addition of Rev. E. W. Young, Jack Ridyard and Fred McNeely. The Women's Association arranged and served the supper with the following having charge of departments: Mrs. Paige Rowell, Mrs. V. Hamilton, Mrs. Fred Johnston, Mrs. B. F. McNeeley, Mrs. E. W. Drummond, Don Crawford, Miss Florence Trebilcock, F. H. Dearborn, Paige Rowell, George Gillespie, H. R. H. Kenner and several others.

An ice cream booth manned by Mrs. V. Hamilton, Miss Elizabeth Scott, and Hugh Kenner did a thriving soft drink and ice cream business.

Sports program was run off without a hitch and the adults, many of whom competed had as much enjoyment as the kiddies. The Men's Association were responsible for this part of the picnic and the minister, Rev. Dr. E. W. Young, headed the committee composed of D. McTavish, Don Crawford, Harry Vass, James Johnston, and Jack McKone.

Diseased Virginia Potatoes Destroyed

TORONTO, June 30—(CP).—Officials of the Ontario Department of Agriculture said today they believed all supplies of diseased Virginia potatoes brought into the province recently had been destroyed and the situation now was "cleaned up."

Some 40 carloads of Virginia potatoes imported two weeks ago were found to be infected with bacterial soft rot. Federal and provincial government agricultural authorities co-operated in tracing an destroying the shipments.

It was learned here that Hamilton Board of Health yesterday seized and destroyed 1,200 barrels of the potatoes. "More than that have been destroyed in Toronto," said J. A. McNiven, Dominion Fruit Inspector here, but he was unable to give exact figures.

One car of the potatoes was turned back at London yesterday without being opened. Contents of another car which had been distributed were traced and destroyed.

Tourists Now Follow Routes Of Explorers

Release 15 At Hospital Kirby Orders

TORONTO, July 30.—Retirement of a number of senior officials of Ontario mental hospitals may follow, it is understood, the drastic check-up which Hon. Harold J. Kirby, Minister of Health, has ordered made of these institutions with a view to releasing from them scores of patients he believes are confined there contrary to the spirit of the Hospitals Act.

Over the week-end, Mr. Kirby personally inspected one of these hospitals and as a result of his visit some 15 inmates will probably be released within the next 10 days. None of them, according to the reported admission of the Superintendent, had any reason, in the light of the law, to be there.

Since the Health Minister, three weeks ago, made his first public pronouncement that the "jail" features of these institutions were to be abolished, he has been severely criticized from some quarters, but the stand he is taking has been more than borne out by the check-up which is now in full swing.

Too many patients have been committed in the past on the certificate of one doctor—an arrangement that will be corrected, he said, as fast as legislation can bring it about. Too many people, he said, have been shunted into hospitals by local medical officers of health, unable, he says, to withstand pressure from their respective municipalities. This situation will also be remedied, he promised.

Tourists To Be Exempt From Radio License

OTTAWA, June 30—(CP).—Tourists will be able to enter Canada and enjoy exemption of the $2.50 licence for automobile radios, if the House of Commons accepts the amendment which the senate railways committee put into the government's radio act Tuesday. The minister of transport, however, might suspend the privilege under conditions of emergency.

Prior to being amend the bill empowered the governor-in-council to exempt tourists from the fee provided the tourist's home country accorded similar privilege to Canadians. Senators felt, however, that since Canada was keen on encouraging the tourist industry, complete exemption should be written into the act. Transport Minister Howe indicated the amendment would be accepted by the government.

Chorley Park Bare Last Furniture Sold

TORONTO, June 30 — (CP). — Long a stopping place for princes and potentates, Ontario's Government House was just a bare, out-of-date old home to-day, stripped of its fine furnishings and fittings.

Unimpressed Toronto citizens wandered through the marble halls and high-ceilinged rooms last night, floors ringing hollowly beneath their feet. In the big ballroom an auctioneer droned out the words that sold the last of Chorley Park's ancient furniture.

Someone bought a 97-pound, six-foot rocking chair for $3.50 after the auctioneer announced gravely that the Prince of Wales and the Duke of York sat in it at the same time. Some of the customers laughed a little.

"If I were furnishing a house I wouldn't have any of that furniture," chorused Frances Gowanlock of Windsor and Terry Roach, of Toronto, a couple of 18-year-old girls who have become used to compact Chesterfields and Lowboy radios.

White Spitz Of 16 Gives Birth To Single Pup

Detroit, June 30 (CP).

LIZZIE, a 16-year-old white Spitz dog gave birth to one puppy here Friday. The case is said to be the only one of its kind in Detroit and even in the United States and Canada. The mother and babe are both doing well.

"Eight years is old age for a dog to have pups," Neil Campbell, general manager of the Michigan Humane Society, said. "And 16 years is about the equivalent to 80 in a person. Never in my 10 years experience with animals have I heard of a 16-year-old dog having a pup."

Lizzie, in her younger days had eight pups—all in one batch.

Preparation Urged Of Banking Plans

EDMONTON, June 30. — Social Credit members of the Alberta Legislature decided in caucus here that the provincial treasury department in conjunction with the department of trade and industry should prepare for "satisfactory services" in the event bank branches in rural areas close.

A statement issued by Chairman J. H. Unwin shortly before the two-day caucus ended yesterday said a situation was created "by the threatened withdrawal of banks from rural areas" and warned that if the banks insist on continuing "present conditions" and the Dominion Government refuses to act "an acute issue will arise as to the right of the banks to continue to block all means of relieving these conditions in Alberta."

The statement said the government had no intention of entering the banking business.

(Two of Alberta's bank branches were closed recently, three more will close tomorrow and another four will close July 16).

Machine Gun Profit Limited To $267,000

OTTAWA, June 30 — (CP). — Profit of John Inglis Company of Toronto on the manufacture of 7,000 Bren machine guns for the Dominion Government will be limited to $267,000, it was disclosed today in a copy of the contract tabled in the House of Commons, on a motion by William Mulock (Lib., York North).

The contract, dated March 31, 1938, is on a nominal basis of cost plus 10 per cent. but the actual profit margin will be reduced considerably by the exclusion of taxes, royalties, licences, bank interest and certain other charges from the basis on which profits will be allowed.

It is the largest contract to date made by the Defence Department on the cost plus basis and, according to an official, is "the closest yet."

The Inglis Company holds a prior contract with the British Government for the manufacture of 5,000 Bren guns and the 64-month delivery period is scheduled on the 12,000-gun basis.

Agreement is made that in time of emergency, such as war, the government may take over the Inglis plant.

Girl of 19 Accused of Bad Complexion

(Before Mr. Justice Kruschen)

JUDGE: Jane Smith, you have had a fair trial and you have been found guilty of the charge made against you.

PRISONER: Y-y-yes, my lord.

JUDGE: Very well, then. Your crime may not have been deliberate, but it was one of serious neglect. You admit that though you do not get enough time for adequate open-air exercise you have never troubled to take steps to prevent constipation. Your complexion inevitably suffered.

COUNSEL FOR THE DEFENCE: My lord, I protest that there are other causes.

JUDGE: I said that constipation inevitably causes bad complexions; your client admits to the cause and plainly suffers from the effect.

PRISONER: It isn't my fault, my lord. I couldn't help it.

JUDGE: You could help it and you shall help it. This is the first time a charge has been made against you; let it be a lesson to you that young women may not neglect and spoil the good looks that Nature gave them. Your duty to your parents, to your friends, to your future husband is to make the most you possibly can of yourself.

JUDGE: (continuing): You will be placed on probation for 3 months and I order that you drink one cup of coffee or tea, or a glass of water at breakfast every morning—

PRISONER: But I always do!

JUDGE: (sternly): Don't interrupt! One cup of coffee or tea or a glass of water every morning into which you shall put as much Kruschen Salts as will lie on a 10c piece. You will get rid of constipation and when you do you will never find yourself in your present predicament again.

After consultation with counsel, the judge announced that costs to the extent of less than 1c a day should be borne by the defence. "I believe I am right in saying," said his lordship, "that a 75c bottle of Kruschen contains 96 doses. That is much less than 1c a day."

TASTELESS IN COFFEE OR TEA

Kruschen is a combination of several mineral salts which your body must get, in some way, to keep the blood pure, the inside clean, and the system generally toned up, but which you can't get in Nature's own way without abundant exercise and fresh air. You should have those salts every day; hence the importance of the "little daily dose", Every drug counter sells Kruschen in 25c, 45c and 75c bottles. It's the little daily dose that does it.

Had Indigestion Gas and Pains In Stomach and Bowels

The process of digestion depends largely on the condition of the stomach, and when it is unable to do its work properly there will be a rising and souring of food, a gnawing and burning sensation in the stomach, belching and pressure of gas, flatulency, etc.

MISS M. C. WEISS, Mapova, Alta., writes:—"For a long time I was troubled with indigestion. My stomach would not digest my food, and I would have gas pressure and sour stuff coming up in my mouth.

I used Burdock Blood Bitters, and after taking one bottle I felt a change for the better, so I decided to keep on, and after the third bottle I could eat anything and not be bothered with the rising and souring of my food."

RHEUMATIC PAINS

Don't let them spoil your Summer

It sometimes seems as though those spiteful Rheumatic twinges in your joints bring you up with a jerk deliberately—just when you're specially enjoying yourself. How often the prods of pain catch you the very minute you bend over at work or play. Don't listen to pessimists who say there's no relief from Rheumatic trouble with its Uric Acid crystals that prick and pain. You can help dissolve these crystals, and curb Rheumatic pain.

Wealthy people "take the waters" at some European Spa. Nothing better for those who can afford it. For those who can't there's a simple remedy of a similar nature. Fynnon Salt is its name—a name echoed gratefully by many Rheumatic sufferers.

Take a ½ teaspoonful in a glassful of water every morning. It liberates Sodium, Potassium and Lithium—a combination of 'Salts of the Earth that help disperse Uric Acid and remove from your system the poisons that cause it. Take Fynnon Salt, the enemy of Rheumatic pains, and see how fine you feel, how soon pain goes. Large bottle of Fynnon Salt, 75c at all druggists.

THIS WILL MAKE YOUR MOUTH WATER

Release 15 At Hospital Kirby Orders

TORONTO, July 30.—Retirement of a number of senior officials of Ontario mental hospitals may follow, it is understood, the drastic check-up which Hon. Harold J. Kirby, Minister of Health, has ordered made of these institutions with a view to releasing from them scores of patients he believes are confined there contrary to the spirit of the Hospitals Act.

Over the week-end, Mr. Kirby personally inspected one of these hospitals and as a result of his visit some 15 inmates will probably be released within the next 10 days. None of them, according to the reported admission of the Superintendent, had any reason, in the light of the law, to be there.

Since the Health Minister, three weeks ago, made his first public pronouncement that the "jail" features of these institutions were to be abolished, he has been severely criticized from some quarters, but the stand he is taking has been more than borne out by the check-up which is now in full swing.

Too many patients have been committed in the past on the certificate of one doctor—an arrangement that will be corrected, he said, as fast as legislation can bring it about. Too many people, he said, have been shunted into hospitals by local medical officers of health, unable, he says, to withstand pressure from their respective municipalities. This situation will also be remedied, he promised.

Tourists To Be Exempt From Radio License

OTTAWA, June 30—(CP).—Tourists will be able to enter Canada and enjoy exemption of the $2.50 licence for automobile radios, if the House of Commons accepts the amendment which the senate railways committee put into the government's radio act Tuesday. The minister of transport, however, might suspend the privilege under conditions of emergency.

Prior to being amend the bill empowered the governor-in-council to exempt tourists from the fee provided the tourist's home country accorded similar privilege to Canadians. Senators felt, however, that since Canada was keen on encouraging the tourist industry, complete exemption should be written into the act. Transport Minister Howe indicated the amendment would be accepted by the government.

Chorley Park Bare Last Furniture Sold

TORONTO, June 30 — (CP). — Long a stopping place for princes and potenates, Ontario's Government House was just a bare, out-of-date old home to-day, stripped of its fine furnishings and fittings.

Unimpressed Toronto citizens wandered through the marble halls and high-ceilinged rooms last night, floors ringing hollowly beneath their feet. In the big ballroom an auctioneer droned out the words that sold the last of Chorley Park's ancient furniture.

Someone bought a 97-pound, six-foot rocking chair for $3.50 after the auctioneer announced gravely that the Prince of Wales and the Duke of York sat in it at the same time. Some of the customers laughed a little.

"If I were furnishing a house I wouldn't have any of that furniture," chorused Frances Gowanlock of Windsor and Terry Roach, of Toronto, a couple of 15-year-old girls who have become used to compact Chesterfields and Lowboy radios.

White Spitz Of 16 Gives Birth To Single Pup

Detroit, June 30 (CP). LIZZIE, a 16-year-old white Spitz dog gave birth to one puppy here Friday. The case is said to be the only one of its kind in Detroit and even in the United States and Canada. The mother and babe are both doing well.

"Eight years is old age for a dog to have pups," Neil Campbell, general manager of the Michigan Humane Society, said. "And 16 years is about the equivalent to 80 in a person. Never in my 10 years experience with animals have I heard of a 16-year-old dog having a pup."

Lizzie, in her younger days had eight pups—all in one batch.

Preparation Urged Of Banking Plans

EDMONTON, June 30. — Social Credit members of the Alberta Legislature decided in caucus here that the provincial treasury department in conjunction with the department of trade and industry should prepare for "satisfactory services" in the event bank branches in rural areas close.

A statement issued by Chairman J. H. Unwin shortly before the two-day caucus ended yesterday said a situation was created "by the threatened withdrawal of banks from rural areas" and warned that if the banks insist on continuing "present conditions" and the Dominion Government refuses to act "an acute issue will arise as to the right of the banks to continue to block all means of relieving these conditions in Alberta."

The statement said the government had no intention of entering the banking business.

(Two of Alberta's bank branches were closed recently, three more will close tomorrow and another four will close July 16).

Had Indigestion Gas and Pains In Stomach and Bowels

The process of digestion depends largely on the condition of the stomach, and when it is unable to do its work properly there will be a rising and souring of food, a gnawing and burning sensation in the stomach, belching and pressure of gas, flatulency, etc.

Miss M. C. Weiss, Mapova, Alta., writes:—"For a long time I was troubled with indigestion. My stomach would not digest my food, and I would have gas pressure and sour stuff coming up in my mouth.

I used Burdock Blood Bitters, and after taking one bottle I felt a change for the better, so I decided to keep on, and after the third bottle I could eat anything and not be bothered with the rising and souring of my food."

RHEUMATIC PAINS

Don't let them spoil your Summer

It sometimes seems as though those spiteful Rheumatic twinges in your joints bring you up with a jerk deliberately—just when you're specially enjoying yourself. How often the prods of pain catch you the very minute you bend over at work or play. Don't listen to pessimists who say there's no relief from Rheumatic trouble with its Uric Acid crystals that prick and pain. You can help dissolve these crystals, and curb Rheumatic pain.

Wealthy people "take the waters" at some European Spa. Nothing better for those who can't there's a simple remedy of a similar nature. Fynnon Salt is its name—a name echoed gratefully by many Rheumatic sufferers.

Take a ½ teaspoonful in a glassful of water every morning. It liberates Sodium, Potassium and Lithium—a combination of Salts of the Earth that help disperse Uric Acid and remove from your system the poisons that cause it. Take Fynnon Salt, the enemy of Rheumatic pains, and see how fine you feel, how soon pain goes. Large bottle of Fynnon Salt, 75c at all druggists.

Machine Gun Profit Limited To $267,000

OTTAWA, June 30 — (CP). — Profit of John Inglis Company of Toronto on the manufacture of 7,000 Bren machine guns for the Dominion Gomernment will be limited to $267,000, it was disclosed today in a copy of the contract tablea in the House of Commons, on a motion by William Mulock (Lib., York North).

The contract, dated March 31, 1938, is on a nominal basis of cost plus 10 per cent. but the actual profit margin will be reduced considerably by the exclusion of taxes, royalties, licences, bank interest and certain other charges from the basis on which profits will be allowed.

It is the largest contract to date made by the Defense Department on the cost plus basis and, according to an official, is "the closest yet."

The Inglis Company holds a prior contract with the British Government for the manufacture of 5,000 Bren guns and the 64-month delivery period is scheduled on the 12,000-gun basis.

Agreement is made that in time of emergency, such as war, the government may take over the Inglis plant.

Accused of Bad Complexion

(Before Mr. Justice Kruschen)

JUDGE: Jane Smith, you have had a fair trial and you have been found guilty of the charge made against you.

PRISONER: Y-y-yes, my lord.

JUDGE: Very well, then. Your crime may not have been deliberate, but it was one of serious neglect. You admit that though you do not get enough time for adequate open-air exercise you have never troubled to take steps to prevent constipation. Your complexion inevitably suffered.

COUNSEL FOR THE DEFENCE: My lord, I protest that there are other causes.

JUDGE: I said that constipation inevitably causes bad complexions; your client admits to the cause and plainly suffers from the effect.

PRISONER: It isn't my fault, my lord. I couldn't help it.

JUDGE: You could help it and you shall help it. This is the first time a charge has been made against you; let it be a lesson to you that young women may not neglect and spoil the good looks that Nature gave them. Your duty to your parents, to your friends, to your future husband is to make the most you possibly can of yourself.

JUDGE: (continuing): You will be placed on probation for 3 months and I order that you drink one cup of coffee or tea, or a glass of water at breakfast every morning—

PRISONER: But I always do!

JUDGE: (sternly): Don't interrupt! One cup of coffee or tea or a glass of water every morning into which you shall put as much Kruschen Salts as will lie on a 10c piece. You will get rid of constipation and when you do you will never find yourself in your present predicament again.

After consultation with counsel, the judge announced that costs to the extent of less than 1c a day should be borne by the defence. "I believe I am right in saying," said his lordship, "that a 75c bottle of Kruschen contains 96 doses. That is much less than 1c a day."

The prisoner left the court smiling.

TASTELESS IN COFFEE OR TEA

Kruschen is a combination of several mineral salts which your body must get, in some way, to keep the blood pure, the inside clean, and the system generally toned up, but which you can't get in Nature's own way without abundant exercise and fresh air. You should have those salts every day: hence the importance of the "little daily dose". Every drug counter sells Kruschen in 25c, 45c and 75c bottles. It's the little daily dose that does it.

200 Children As Japs Bom[illegible]

HONG KONG, July 2—(AP)— Four hundred civilians, including school children, were killed or wounded in yesterday's Japanese bombing raid on the South China port of Swatow, Chinese reported today.

More than 100 bombs were dropped by the nine planes which attacked the city. Many of the bombs fell in crowded residential sections.

The large number of casualties among school children resulted when a school building was struck as they were leaving their classrooms. Other buildings damaged included Red Cross headquarters and the municipal government [illegible]. An inspector of the civil aviation department, Ottawa, arrived here last night to make an investigation. Chief Coroner Dr. J. Huerner Mullin visited the scene of the accident but issued no statement concerning an inquest.

On dominion day seven years ago five Canadians died when their machine crashed as it was taking off from the same field where Chapple lost his life.

Chapple was taking part in a three-plane good-will flight which was scheduled to take the planes to St. Catharines, 30 miles east of here.

R.A.F. School In Canada Is Opposed

King Willing To Test Policy At Polls; Bennett Indignant

OTTAWA, July 2 (CP).—In what may prove to be his last major utterance in parliament as leader of the official Opposition Conservative Leader Bennett denounced the government for its stand against the establishment in Canada of a British air force training or other military establishment.

"If it was to be my last word in this House and uttered with my last breath," Mr. Bennett declared yesterday he would say no Canadian was worthy of his heritage who would refuse the partner who established Canada the right to set up here the training facilities conditions at home made inconvenient there.

Prime Minister Mackenzie King declared Canadian governments had well-established the principle that in this country there should be no military establishment not owned by the Dominion and responsible to the Dominion Parliament.

The Prime Minister made clear, however, he was referring only to times when the Empire was at peace. There might be a necessity, in time of war, for an ally of Canada to set up military establishments in Canada. This policy was in the interests of Empire solidarity and the avoidance of controversy.

He was ready to test the opinion of the people in an election on this policy, Mr. Mackenzie King declared.

"I am bound to say—so am I," Mr. Bennett retorted.

This phase of the discussion did not develop.

Shortly after this incident Mr. Mackenzie King and other leaders were uniting in tributes to the Conservative leader, who is expected to leave that office next week when a national convention will choose a chieftain at Mr. Bennett's suggestion.

No Actual Request.

In any event, the Prime Minister and Defence Minister Mackenzie assured the House, there had been no request from the British Government for permission to establish training fields in Canada. There had been "exploratory conversations."

Mr. Bennett said he was well aware the British Government would not make a direct request without first ascertaining whether such a concession was likely to be granted.

Mr. Mackenzie defended the government's action in arranging and assisting the John Inglis Company of Toronto to manufacture Bren machine guns for the Canadian and British Government. He would favor a policy of publicly owned munition factories, but it was not feasible at the moment.

Reports of failure of Canada to co-operate with the British Government in Royal Air Force training were described by the Defence Minister as "insidious and false in every respect."

Canadian trained pilots were going to the British Air Force at the rate of 120 a year for additional training, Mr. Mackenzie said.

Mr. Mackenzie King also declared the Royal Air Force could arrange for training pilots in Canada, but only in Canadian-owned and controlled flying establishments.

Difficulties in England.

Because of the density of population it was not possible for the British to establish needed training fields, and they had naturally looked to the Dominions, declared Mr. Bennett. He was critical of a government that would refuse this concession to a power on which it admittedly depended mainly for defence.

"If England goes, we go," Mr. Bennett warned. England was Canada's "ancient partner" and that partner, on which Canada relied, was to be denied the facilities so greatly needed for defence not only of the British Isles but of the Empire.

No person in parliament had more respect for or believed more strongly in the British Empire, Mr. Mackenzie King said, but he believed the unity between members of the Commonwealth could be best served by each conducting its own affairs.

Parliament Ends Session Of Dozen Highlights

Prominent Feature Is Labor Minister's Long-Range Development Program

OTTAWA, July 2 (CP).—The longest and most eventful session of parliament since the Liberal Government was elected in 1935 is ended. After five months of legislating and debate, keyed to a high pitch in the past week, prorogation came in mid-afternoon yesterday.

The session had a dozen highlights. A housing program was passed, the sales tax was lifted from building materials, the Bank of Canada was nationalized, the government's transport bill finally met with Senate approval, provision was made for loans to municipalities and the Senate conducted a long probe into Canada's railway problem.

Several measures introduced or contemplated by the government were sidetracked. The Senate killed Justice Minister Lapointe's bill to set up a penitentiaries commission, the bill to control political expenditures was left over until next session, the Commons threw out the Senate bill widening the grounds for divorce and regulation of small loan companies' charges was deferred.

Until a month before closing it was hoped a new trade agreement with the United States would be ready for ratification. Officials of the government have been in Washington since Easter negotiating details. As the members dispersed there were hints the treaty might be signed during the summer and an autumn session called to ratify it. Should this not happen it is unlikely parliament will assemble until January or February next.

The session ended on the eve of the National Conservative convention which will select a successor to

France Puts Ban On Importing Japanese Goods

PARIS, July 2—(AP).—Growing coolness between France and Japan over the war in China has resulted in a French order suspending importation of Japanese merchandise on the quota list.

The drastic move, coupled with the relative small volume of foreign trade involved, caused observed to link the commercial break with diplomatic incidents growing out of the Far Eastern conflict.

Foreign traders said France never before had taken such severe commercial action against any country.

Yet the quotas involved—about one-fourth of Japan's exports to France—make up only half of one per cent. of total Japanese exports, and slightly less than that percentage of French imports. Imports of raw silk were not affected.

France imported 338,300,000 francs of Japanese merchandise of all kinds in 1937 (about $9,134,000 at present rates of exchange).

One apparent reason for the break was failure of Tokyo to keep an agreement of February 19, to take as much or more French goods in 1936 as in 1936. Because of exchange shortage, Japan has sharply restricted imports in order to turn all her resources to pursuit of the war.

In the background, however, were the strained relations that began with Japan's attack at Shanghai late last summer. There the French Concession is one of the main commercial outposts of France in the Far East.

Japs Discover Soviet Plot To Murder Stalin And End Moscow Rule

Scheme Comes To Light In Capture Of Eastern Commission And Involves Secret Police

TOKYO, July 2 (CP-Havas).—A Soviet secret police plot to assassinate Joseph Stalin and overthrow the Moscow government was revealed in a letter written in human blood and other documents carried by a Soviet official who fled to Manchoukuo, it was claimed here today as the Japanese press found a new diversion from the realities of the war in China.

Other Soviet secrets, including military information, were said to have fallen into Japanese hands with the arrest June 13 of General Bemlich Lushkoff, Soviet Far Eastern Commissar for Foreign Affairs.

It was asserted that Lushkoff, who in addition to his other duties, was said to have directed the Soviet secret police in the Far East, was the leader of the plot to kill Stalin and that he fled the country because of its discovery.

According to the Hsinking correspondent of the Ashai Shimbun, the letter written in blood was penned by General A. Y. Tapin shortly before he committed suicide in a Soviet prison.

Lushkoff first scented his peril, it was said, when M[illegible] Vassily Bluecher, Co[illegible] Chief of the Far Ea[illegible] returned to Khab[illegible]cow in May. He [illegible]koff for alle[illegible]ed by [illegible]sults obtained [illegible]tary [illegible]

Fascists Keep Session Site Secret

TORONTO, July 2 (C.P.). — A group of blue-shirted followers of Adrien Arcand of Montreal gathered for the "first national convention" of Canadian Fascists to-day, their meeting-place remained a secret.

Arcand, registered at a small Toronto hotel here last night, said the convention would be held at Kingston, but he refused to say where, in Kingston, the meeting would be held. He promised a statement would be released after the conference.

The Quebec leader said he and several other delegates were in Kingston yesterday for a short meeting. Newspapermen and curious citizens were unable, however, to find trace of the assembly.

Arcand said secrecy in the [illegible] was to avoid trouble and to [illegible] preserving "law and order." He declared 35 representatives [illegible] from every province except Edward Island to attend the convention where provincial units will be "melted together" in a single body. The official name of the organization will be chosen at the meeting.

After the convention ga[illegible] Arcand plans to return to T[illegible] where a meeting of the organiz[illegible] is scheduled for Monday night in Massey Hall.

Barred From Party Man Shoots Three

SUDBURY, Ont., July 2.—(CP)— Provincial Police today sought Enrico Baiochai in connection with the gunshot-wounding at a party here last night of three Sudbury men. Two hours after the shooting, which started when Baiochai was refused admittance to a party in Guido Ferri's home, the hunted man returned to his home, near Ferri's, collected clothing and disappeared again, police claim.

The wounded men were C. Tarolin, who was detained in hospital with what may be a punctured lung, and B. and C. Tozzobon, who were released from hospital after treatment for slight gunshot wounds. Ferri's son Orvando suffered chest and hand grazes.

Deny Neutrality Pledged By George V

BERLIN, July 2.—(CP-Reuters)—Dr. Kurt Jagow, Archivist of the House of Hohenzollern, published in the Berliner Monatschefte yesterday a flat denial of the story that King George V misled Germany on the eve of the Great War by pledging British neutrality.

The late King is claimed to have given the pledge to Prince Henry of Prussia, the Kaiser's brother, during an interview at Buckingham Palace July 26, 1914.

Dr. Jagow said it was in accordance with Prince Henry's wishes that the legend of "the King's word which was not kept" should "be disposed of once for all time."

Letter to Kaiser

The archivist quoted a letter to the Kaiser of July 28, 1914, in which Prince Henry wrote "he (the King) said literally 'we shall try all we can to keep out of this and shall remain neutral.'"

"I am convinced this statement was meant seriously, just as much as I am convinced England will remain neutral in the beginning, but whether she will be able to do this in the long run I cannot judge. But I have misgivings in view of the relations with France," Prince Henry continued.

The author referred to two communications of Prince Henry to newspapers. The first, published in the Monatshefte in December, 1921, read in part: "In reply to my most urgent insistence of the desirability of co-operation between Germany and England, the King replied, with a shrug of the shoulders, "Ah well, well try to keep out of it. We shall probably remain neutral."

"Probably" Significant

Dr. Jagow drew attention to the word "probably," which weakened the contents of the original phrase. The second of Prince Henry's communications, published in the Sudeutsche Zeitung, was to similar effect.

"This most vivid description by the Prince," Dr. Jagow continued, "excludes any possibility that the word used by King George could have been an assurance or promise [illegible] if he had not used the word [illegible]ly.'"

Still Pursuing the Spy Ring

United States Attorney Lamar Hardy, and his daughter, Micheline, are pictured on the S.S. Normandie as they sailed from New York for Europe. The young lady is going to Europe for a vacation, but the attorney is going to run down several "definite leads" in his inquiry into the widespread ramifications of the Nazi spy ring. Sensational new disclosures were promised. He will not visit Germany where 13 persons, who are under spy indictments, are said to be living.

Among the visiting clergy present for the farewell evening were Rev. Mr. Reddick, Rev. Dr. Fenwick, and Rev. Mr. McNeely, all of whom spoke to the gathering.

Following the banquet which was held in the church basement, the presentation of a handsome purse was made to Rev. S. A. Kemp, a beautiful walnut dinner wagon was presented to Mrs. Kemp, and a fine leather duffle bag to Grey Kemp. Appropriate replies to the gifts were made by all three.

Parliament Ends

Rt. Hon. R. B. Bennett as leader of the chief Opposition party.

The Developmnt Program

One of the prominent developments of the session was the enunciation of what Labor Minister Rogers described as "a long-range, nation-wide program of conservation and development." Designed to stimulate employment on useful works and increase the national income, the program found expression in new housing legislation, loans to municipalities and liberal appropriations for national park developments, tourists' roads and certain other public works.

The old Dominion Housing Act was enlarged and extended and an additional amount of about $17,000,000, made available for the government's share of load risk under its provisions.

A new provision was for a loan fund of $30,000,000 which the federal treasury will make available to municipal or private local authorities for construction of low-rental housing projects at small interest rate with long term amortization.

A third effort in encouraging low salaried citizens to acquire homes of their own under the housing act was a provision empowering the government to pay the municipal taxes on new homes of $4,000 or less at the rate of 100 per cent. for the first year, 50 per cent. the second year and 25 per cent. the third year.

Then, a fund of $30,000,000 was established from which loans may be made to municipalities for self-liquidating projects, such as gas, light and water works.

It was not a contentious session, judging by former meetings of parliament. The opposition approved the chief tax change in the budget, the exemption of building materials from the eight per cent. sales tax. This was part of the government's general program of national development calculated to stimulate employment through a revival of the building industry.

Dunning's Budget.

Mr. Dunning, taken ill towards the end of the session, announced a deficit of $13,775,000 for the fiscal year, 1937-38 compared with the estimated deficit of $35,000,000. His forecast for 1938-39 admitted the possibility of a deficit of $23,000, but also contained the hope of a much lesser deficit should world economic conditions improve or the western crop prove satisfactory.

Throughout the session a troubled international situation was constantly in the minds of the members.

Prime Minister Mackenzie King asked members to watch their words lest they add to the difficulties abroad and maintained the position taken at the previous session, that Canada should not be committed in advance either to participation in war or to neutrality.

National Defence estimates aggregating more than $30,000,000 were approved with less opposition than at the previous session.

A Nationalized Bank

Complete nationalization of the Bank of Canada was made possible by a bill directing the government to buy 10,000 shares of the bank held by the public. The shares have a par value of $50 and will be bought at $59.20 each.

The bank was established by the Bennett Government in 1935 with a capital of $5,000,000 in 100,000 shares. When the Liberals came into office the Bank of Canada Act was amended to give the government majority ownership of shares and a majority representation on the directorate. Now it will have complete ownership.

Passage of the bill to transform the board of railway commissioners into the transport board with regulatory authority over rail, air and certain water transportation, climaxed a long struggle extending over two sessions.

This session Mr. Howe int[illegible]uced a new bill in the commo[illegible]gh- regulation clau[illegible] in [illegible]ear's bill[illegible]ut [illegible]as [illegible]e regulation of the commission.

Other amendments eliminated restrictions against Great Lakes bulk carriers transferring to package freight business and ruled that agreed charges will not apply to transport by water of goods in bulk.

Agreed Charges

Introduction of agreed charges, which will enable railways to give a shipper special low rates if he sends all his goods by rail, will mark the first time this principle of transportation economics has been used on the North American continent.

A report on the textile industry following an extensive investigation by Mr. Justice W. F. A. Turgeon was brought in March 31. It dealt with labor conditions in the industry, profits and methods of capitalization.

The National Employment Commission report was table on April 1. It recommended greater assistance in housing projects and this was later implemented in the Housing Act.

The penitentiary report, made by a commission headed by Mr. Justice Joseph Archambault, severly criticized many conditions in penitentiary administration and recommended the management of the penitentiaries be turned over to a three-member commission.

Justice Minister Lapointe moved prompetl yto implement one recommendation. He introduced a bill to turn control of these institutions over a permanent commission. It passed the House of Commons but was defeated in the senate and action must await another session.

A Seaways Proposal.

A draft treaty proposed by United States to Canada for a St. Lawrence-Great Lakes deep waterway and including provisions for protecting the scenic beauties of Niagara Falls was tabled in parliament on May 31.

Chief interest in the Senate centred around the enquiry conducted by a special committee into the railway problem. Opportunity was thus opened for disclosure of proposals, sponsored by Sir Edward Beatty, Canadian Pacific Railway president, relating to unification of that system with the Canadian National Railways. Sir Edward suggested savings of $75,000,000 annually could be effected if the railways were operated under unified management.

His evidence disclosed examinations had been carried out in great detail by C.P.R. officers into unification. Their conclusions, however, differed from those of C.N.R. officers who had performed a similar task.

To reconcile the differences, Sir Edward suggested the Senate engage the services of a firm of engineering accountants.

The Upper House had no authority to do so. But next year the likelihood is that its committee will be reconstituted with a view to continuing the inquiry.

The Ontario Government's plan to build a bridge over the Niagara River, to replace the structure which collapsed last January in an ice-jam, had a stormy career in the Senate Committee after an equally stormy passage through the House of Com[illegible]

Little Resting In Store For Cabinet

OTTAWA, July 1—Prorogation does not spell holiday for the Canadian cabinet. Its just an 11-letter word meaning more work for the majority of the ministers. They plan to keep on slugging away at administrative problems for most of the summer despite the fact the parliamentary session wound up yesterday.

Looking fit after the strenuous five-month session, Prime Minister Mackenzie King will spend a few days leisure at his Kingsmere estate, near here, but will be in constant touch with his office and remain in Ottawa most of the summer. A cabinet council is scheduled for Tuesday again.

In the fall, Mr. Mackenzie King probably will tour western Canada and visit his own constituency in Prince Albert, Sask., which he has not seen since the 1935 general election.

Finance Minister Dunning and Postmaster General Elliott are the only ministers who will not be actively engaged in departmental business for a while. Mr. Dunning collapsed in the government lobby during a warm day last week and is making satisfactory recovery.

Mr. Elliott has been ill for several months and is not expected to return to his job for a considerable time.

Euler in Glasgow.

Trade Minister Euler, who has handled the post of ice department along with his own duties most of the session, is considering making a trip to Glasgow to attend the Empire exhibition there and look over the Canadian exhibit which has been the subject of considerable comment.

Justice Minister Lapointe's work is not going to let up. Before July 8 he will decide what action, if any, the government will take concerning the disallowance of the Quebec padlock law.

With the problem of unemployed men in British Columbia and many other matters before him, Labor Minister Rogers does not anticipate he will have much time to even visit his cottage near Kingston, Ont. Transport Minister Howe plans to remain in the capital most of the summer, playing golf to keep fit. There is a possibility he may visit Western Canada in mid-summer, but it will be a quick trip, likely by airplane.

Defence Minister Mackenzie will remain on the job here and later in the summer will travel to his Vancouver constituency.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, July 2—(AP).—Late jumps of rye and oats markets, together with renewed soaring of securities, more than overcame wheat declines Thursday that at times totalled 1¼ cents.

Maximum gains of 1⅜ cents for oats and 2⅜ cents for rye were attributed to unfavorable crop reports and removal of a Federal tax of 3 cents, effective yesterday. Cereal manufacturing interests were active buyers of oats, July delivery in particular.

Transient setbacks of wheat values resulted largely from new unofficial monthly crop estimates. These, although nearly 100,000,000 bushels under the average a month ago, were well above both an estimate issued Thursday and the 1937 final figures. Latest forecasts of spring crop production, domestic and Canadian, too, were bigger than most traders had looked for.

At the close, Chicago wheat futures were unchanged to ¼ cent higher compared with Thursday's finish, July 73¾ to 73⅞, September 75⅛ to 75¼. Corn also unchanged to ¼ up, July 57⅛ to 57¼c; September, 58⅜ to 58½c; oats, ⅞ to 1¼c advance, rye showing 1⅝c to 2c bulge, and provisions 2 cents to 30 cents gain.

Oats and rye crop advices indicated that too much moisture is being received by both grains, and that danger of a wet harvest exists. A notable scarcity of offerings of oats and rye futures was apparent.

CAMPBELLFORD, July 2. — A nine year old Toronto lad came near to being the first drowning victim of the season when on Thursday afternoon he stepped beyond his depth while playing along the canal north of town and though he tried to recover his position further up the sloping wall his rubber soled shoes would not hod and it was only the alert action of Pat Glenn, 10 of Campbellford, which saved the panic stricken youth from drowning.

The Toronto youth, Robert Babcock, has been visiting his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Sutton, and although he was unable to swim had no fear of the water, and it was no doubt partly due to this that he was playing in such a dangerous spot with a number of other children.

the Old Covenant. The , princes and people, t Jehovah was their tribal God Who hao made a covenant with them. He proved it in the days of Isaiah by His extraordinary deliverance of Jerusalem from Sennacharib. It was an outward and visible sign of His love and favor for Jerusalem and the Jews. Once more the enemy was at the gate. Again in the past Jehovah would save the City by a great deliverance, he had made His covenant with His people. They had kept their part by offering Him sacrifice and worship. But it was Jeremiah's painful lot to tell his people that Jehovah would deliver the City unto the enemy's hand because the people had ground down the poor, murdered the innocent and despised Jehovah's moral laws. They would go into captivity for their sins. It was a fearful burden to place upon any man. It brought him condemnation, hatred and imprisonment.

Through Jeremiah's personal experience of God's word to him came the thought that in the same way God would speak to the individual and not to the prophet alone. It would be a new covenant written on the hearts of men. Jeremiah had felt the force and power of that writing on his heart. It brought him pain and anguish of mind. "I am a child; I cannot speak," he cried. "The Lord touched my mouth and said unto me; behold, I have put My words in thy mouth. Be not afraid for I am with thee." Slowly and painfully the thought grew in the mind of Jeremiah that the Lord would make a new covenant with him, writing on his own heart; and he could not but obey. And he pondered upon it he felt that this experience would be some day common property, the experience of the individual.

This is the mystery of the Book. It has power to sink into your heart. Its words by the Spirit of God will be written on your heart. When you least expect it the voice will cry: "This is the way, walk ye in it." It will be the way of the Cross —the stress and strain of your own will against the higher Will. You will feel the upward and the downward pull. But as you obey there will come a peace to your soul and mind. "For I am with thee" is the divine promise.

It is the power which enable the Book to hold its own in every generation. In the day of the war a Scotch corporal and three privates of the Contemptibles found themselves left behind in the retreat of Mons. Expecting death at any moment the corporal read the twenty-third Psalm to his three comrades. It strengthened them in that hour and brought a mysterious peace and calmness into their souls. It was the word written on their hearts. Have you had any such experience?

Are you passing through dark days; are the burdens of life heavy? St. Augustine, the Latin Father, had his share of troubles and always turned to the 72nd Psalm for comfort. He gives a helpful interpretation upon a famous verse: "The mountains shall bring peace and the little hills righteousness to his people." The mountains are great souls, like St. John, the little hills are the comon souls like ourselves. Never should we have received the lights of faith had not the great mountain tops lit up by heavenly wisdom passed them on to us. How many Christians despise the scholarship of teacher and preacher of the Word.

Here we see the progressive revelation from God. God writing on the tablets of stone and moving to the tablets of the heart. Then finally in the fulness of time the Word was made flesh and dwelt among us. Then came the still greater revelation that the Word would dwell in the hearts of men and women and reveal Himself through them.

Surely it is your desire "THAT CHRIST MAY BE FORMED IN YOU."

Joshua—A Choice of Loyalties

"BRASS TOCKS" ON THE SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

By DR. ALVIN E. BELL

The International Uniform Lessons, on July 3, begins a three months' course on "Messages from Israel's Early Leaders", this first lesson being on Joshua, based on Numbers 27:15-23; Joshua 1:1-9; 24:1-31, particularly Joshua 1:2-6; 24: 14-21 with Joshua 24:15, the Golden Text: "As for me and my house, we will serve Jehovah.")

"GOD BURY the workmen, but carries for the work." The time comes for of us when "we rest from our and our works do follow us."

Joshua Succeeds Moses.

The proof Moses' greatness as a leader is not only in his own colossal but also in his selection and ing of his successor, who was forward his work ready to carry remove him from God should did not pout and picture. Moses was to be removed because he He played the game leadership. no sign of jealousy a man with Joshua's success be- terness and ful anticipation. Moses' joy- can step down gracefully that Joshua, the son of "And of the spirit of wisdom was full had laid his hands upon Moses the children of Israel hearkened to him and did as Jehovah commanded Moses." Joshua succeeded "Moses' minister". His position of nation through the school learned to take ted himself his loyalty unto himself loyalty to

"Moses, my servant, is dead; now therefore arise, go over this Jordan, thou, and all this people, unto the land which I do give to them." Thus God commissioned Joshua to succeed Moses. Moses had led them out; Joshua was now to lead them in. And as God calls, so he equips, and sees us through that to which he calls us: "Every place that the sole of your foot shall tread upon, to you have I given it, as I spake unto Moses. . . . There shall not any man be able to stand before thee all the days of thy life: as I was with Moses, so I will be with thee; I will not fail thee, nor forsake three." Thus for us and our work, as for that of Moses and Joshua, when God puts us on a job he foots the bills!

Joshua's Part—and Ours

But Joshua is to have his part in which he must be found faithful, "Be strong and of good courage; for thou shalt cause this people to inherit the land which I sware unto their fathers to give them. Only be strong and very courageous to observe to do according to all the law, which Moses, my servant, commanded thee: turn not from it to the right hand or to the left, that thou mayest have good success whithersoever thou goest." God pledges his own presence and power, but he also binds us to follow his word: "This book of the law shall not depart out of thy mouth, but thou shalt meditate thereon day and night, that thou mayest observe to do according to all that is written therein: for then thou shalt make thy way prosperous, and then thou shalt have good success."

A National Message

Israel in the New Testament. 1.

If we are to comprehend the Divine plan we must take the Old and the New Testaments as a connected whole, not as separate revelations. Our Lord told the Jews: "Ye search the Scriptures" (the Old Testament) "and these are they which bear witness of Me."

Now we know that the Abrahamic covenant was conditional as to Abraham, but we also know that he fulfilled the condition (Gen. XXII, 18): "because thou hast obeyed by voice," but it was unconditional to his seed, and because of the oath God sware to Abraham, his seed have not been cast off. "For I am the Lord, I change not; therefore ye sons of Jacob are not consumed." Also in Jer. XXXI, 35-36, it is stated that as long as the sun, moon and stars give light there is to be an Israel nation. "If those ordinances depart from before me, saith the Lord, then the seed of Israel also shall cease from being a nation before me for ever." This cannot be the Jews, for they ceased to be a nation after the destruction of Jerusalem in A.D. 70. Daniel also assures us that this stone Kingdom of Israel is to endure for ever.

Many objectors think that Israel is not mentioned in the New Testament, but they forget that the new covenant was made by the death of the Testator, our Lord Jesus Christ, with the House of Israel and the House of Judah (Heb. VIII), because of their transgressions under the first covenant (Heb. IX, 15). This error arises from the idea that God had finally cast off both Houses of Israel and Judah, and they read this meaning into St. Paul's statement in Acts XXVIII when turning from the Jews who refused to hear him. "Be it known therefore unto you, that the salvation of God is sent unto the Gentiles (Nations)" IGNORING his words, "Who are Israelites; to whom pertaineth the adoption, and the glory, and the covenants, and the giving of the law, and the service of God, and the promises" (Rom. IX, 4); and again (Rom. XI, 1, 2), "I say then, hath God cast away His people? God forbid." God did not cast off His people which He foreknew.

If read carefully, it is clear that the Epistle to the Galatians is addressed to Israelites whose fathers had been under the Mosaic Law, for he remonstrates with them for "again" wanting to be under the law. See chapter III, 23-24 and IV, 3, 5, 9.

Cathedral Musings

The idea that the "safe return" to God (wrong translated 'salvation') is an automatic process, started by an act of faith and continuing of itself without further effort, is entirely contrary to the truth. It is a spiritual law that progress demands effort, but this effort is not, paradoxical as it may seem, of ourselves. To try, of ourselves, to be consciously 'good' will get us nowhere. It is, rather, an inward polarisation God-wards, the 'one-pointedness' of the Oriental mystics, by means of which our thoughts and acts are colored, as it were, by the spiritual tincture within us. It is a somewhat similar attitude to that of those who, on a far lower plane, seek material success and wealth to the exclusion of all else. With this latter class every thought and act is colored by their aim in life and everything that contributes to their material success is eagerly turned to account. So must be the attitude of the true aspirant on the Path. Every thought and act must be colored, not by an self-seeking desire, not even for his own 'salvation', but by his love for God and altogether irrespective of God's love for him.

That is what is meant by spiritual polarisation. It is an attitude that will assuredly bring us to the point where God will work in and through us. It is not the righteousness of the Pharises, but of an infinitely higher order. That it means the abnegation of self is not surprising, for there is no room in man for both Christ and self. It also gives an insight into the mystical aspect of the Redemption. As Jacob Boehme says: "The Christ, the Eternal Word in the Father, must become man and be born in you if you would know God." And again: "He alone, therefore, in whom Christ lives and exists is a Christian." From this true inner mystical standpoint the biblical history is the story, repeated again and again in different forms, of man's spiritual progress around the circle, or wheel of incarnation. It begins with the descent of man into material existence and form, and ends with the four-square celestial city of the New Jerusalem. The Man Celestial, freed from the bonds of life and death, in whom the Christ is the Light and the Life for evermore.

The Human Side of the News

By EDWIN C. HILL

The world is not yet so dulled by the machine that high adventure has lost its thrill. Here is Captain Bob Bartlet sailing once more for the Arctic, not for money or even for fame, but to add a little bit more to human knowledge. He has turned his stout old ship, Morrisey, toward the open sea to collect specimens for the Smithsonian Institution, at Washington, and for the Cleveland Museum of Natural History, and to make scientific observations for the Hydrographic Office of the United States navy.

CAPT. BOB BARTLETT

Captain Bob, squat and solid, 58 years old and 210 pounds of Newfoundland brawn and muscle, will stop first at Newfoundland, proceed westward to Labrador and go on to Kent Basin. In addition to his regular crew, Captain Bob is taking eleven boys on the cruise, and they will stand regular deck watches, learn to steer the ship and handle sails. They should have the time of their lives, these kids, before they get back about September 15.

Bob Bartlett has been pushing through Arctic ice for well nigh 40 years. Twelve times shipwrecked and four times crushed in the ice, he tells you, in quaint speech that has both burr and brogue. "I do love the sea as a dog loves its master, in spite of the clouts he gives it."

The Bartletts were fishing for cod off Newfoundland when Thomas Jefferson was president of the United States. Bob was hunting seal at 17, and in 1909 sailed Peary to within a hundred miles of the North Pole when Peary set off over the ice toward his goal. And when the admiral took with him Matt Henson, a Negro member of the crew, Bob silenced his clamoring friends with the blunt remark:

"I'm a better sailor than Matt. But he's a better dog driver. The admiral knows his business."

"Women? They break your heart."

Seriously, he believes that seafaring men should not marry. His greatest consolation, the many times he has looked death in the face, was that no wife or child would mourn his loss.

As Captain Bartlet tnavigates his trim schooner on its journey to the Arctic, another small craft is making its way on an errand of mercy to Labrador. This craft belongs to that great humanitarian of the bleak coast of Labrador, Sir Wilfred Grenfell.

Sir Wilfred steers his ship this year much earlier than in previous years, due to the great need which exists in Labracor. The Grenfell Association of America collects clothing, books, magazines, old silk stockings — to be used in making hook rugs—all such useful things for distribution in the mission centres which Sir Wilfred established many years ago.

He is one of the truly great souls of the world. Forty-six years ago, God remembered Labrador. All along that bleak coast were human beings by the thousands in the most abject misery, starving and coughing their lives out. The worst coast in the world. And then, on June 13, 1892, a little sailing vessel set out from Yarmouth, England, bearing a young London doctor named Wilfred T. Grenfell. He was on a mission of mercy without precedent in history. And that mission was to save a lost race from extinction.

Alone and without money he began his work, and to-day his reward is six hospitals, seven nursing stations, four hospital ships, four orphanage boarding schools, fourteen industrial centres, three agricultural stations, 12 clothing distribution centres, a Seaman's Institute at St. John's N.F., a supply schooner, a co-operative lumber mill, and a haul-up slip for schooner repairs.

No man will ever know how many lives he's saved. Single-handed he ministered to the scattered fishing hamlets and to the Eskimos. He fought disease, privation, and the country itself. There was a night in the dead of winter when he drove his dog team across the ice to reach the bedside of a sick man. The ice gave way and Dr. Grenfell was marooned on a floating block. Only by killing three of his beloved dogs and wrapping himself in their skins did he escape from freezing.

It was a long time before the world came to know of Grenfell and, through him, of Labrador. But learn it did, and the King knighted him. Younger hands carry on for him. He's now 74, worn and weary, this man who comes as near to sainthood as is likely possible in the human flesh.

Union Services Start On Sunday

Union services for Trinity and St. Andrew's Churhces will be held in Trinity church during the month of July. Rev. E. W. Young will be in charge of the services, and will respond to any calls in cases of sickness or trouble amongst the families of both congregations. Morning and evening worship will be conducted and the evening service will begin at 7.30 p.m.

The subject of the address on next Sunday evening will be Brownings well known lines—"Gods in his heaven—All's right with the world". We must remember that the poet was young when he wrote "Piffa Passes" from which these lines were taken. He was born in Camberwell in England in 1812. His family had belonged to the upper middle class, and had therefore known little of the peculiar sufferings that are associated with poverty. He used a seal and a coat of arms both of which indicate traditional wealth.

These lines have been criticised by many thoughtful people. A correspondent writes to his minister, "But there is the earthquake, the flood, the tornado that ruthlessley wreck, and devastate, and leave untold suffering in their path. Has the being whom we are taught to adore as the creator and source of physical and spiritual law lost control, or is he indifferent to these dreadful forces?

These are questions which people are bound to ask, and the minister of religion must have an answer. He cannot evade the issue, the problem of suffering is written into the very fabric of the universe.

One Thing Missing

There was a story published in the papers about the execution of Thomas Bryans. He was hanged in Toronto for shooting a man on the 6th of February. The story told at length who Bryans was; explained how he had been with the late Red Ryan when they made their escape from Kingston Penitentiary; told too of last minute efforts which had been made to have the death sentence lifted.

The one thing which was not told was how it happened that Bryans had a revolver with him on the 6th of February when he shot a man to death in Toronto.

We have noticed the same omission in a number of other stories, all of which are somewhat similar. When there is reason for a man to draw a gun he can usually do so, and that must mean he has been carrying the weapon about with him for some time; also that he has been able to secure the shells which are necessary to make it effective.

...laws have made people register their ...ns, and that is right enough in its way, ...but it has served little purpose. Those ...who go forth and register are not the ones ...who shoot people. We haven't done ...much yet to get the guns from the rats who will use them to shoot down the man who stands in their way.

His Bill Was Too High

A doctor in Montreal, 32 years of age, sent a bill of $2,225 to the parents of a child he had treated. The child had died. It was explained in court that the doctor was a specialist although he had been practising for only two years. For two of the days the doctor worked on the case it was revealed he had billed for $705. The decision of court was that the bill must be reduced to $1,000.

And that of course apart from being the history of a case in Montreal leads to the plain question of how a doctor charging such fees thinks the general public is going to be able to purchase his services. It also raises the question of the process of reasoning by which he considers his services to be worth so much.

We know little or nothing of the case but the child died, so apparently the specialist produced no better results than the most humble family practitioner might have achieved.

When a professional man goes in for specialization and then makes his charges high he makes it impossible for the public to do business with him. He deals only with those who are wealthy and who can afford to pay. He is not devoting his life to the welfare of humanity.

Another Tax Sale

Middlesex County held a tax sale because people had not been paying up the levies which the County made against their properties. Most of the land reverted to the municipalities because there were no bids received or they were too low. In all there were 75 parcels offered for sale.

and doughnuts seem to be closely associated so dunking is also allied in thought with the same surroundings.

We do not know if anything much can be said in favor or defence of promiscuous dunking. There is not much need for those who are possessed of plenty of good teeth to engage in it at all, but for those with lesser or poorer equipment something may be said. When one has passed through the experience of having parted with many teeth there are apt to be great open spaces where they do not click and then it is that dunking enters as the pleasant way to deal with either a doughnut or a piece of toast. Then there are those, and their number is large, who have plates in their mouths, and they find them strange fellows with which to get acquainted. Hence they find it convenient to dunk and each individual who walks forth with plate teeth adds to the prospects who may easily enough enlist in the army of dunkers. Thus the custom grows.

What Would They Do?

The Overseas Settlement Board in London believes it is time to go ahead with more immigration of British people. Contention is they should go in larger numbers to British dominions.

Canada has not been doing much about attracting outside settlers since business turned dull in 1930. Last year only 15,640 people entered, 2,972 from Britain and 5,643 from United States. The balance came from all other countries. In that same year 5,209 Canadians returned from United States.

Those figures look rather small when compared to the year before the war when we had 382,000 immigrants, of whom 125,000 came from Britain and 100,000 from United States.

We doubt whether the view of the Overseas Settlement Board will make much impression in Canada at the moment. There is the argument that more people call for more goods and more services, and that an increase in population is the very thing we need. But we doubt if many people believe that; they cannot well understand how things would work out that way.

If there were a great movement of incoming people just now what would we do with them? If, for instance, we had 500 come to Peterborough, what would they find to do? We don't know. And if they could find nothing to do how long would it be before they would be expecting the community to assist them through the operation of the relief office. We believe the extent to which relief has grown across the continent is one thing which will more than anything else cause people in a good many communities to refuse to consider favorably the idea of increasing immigration. We are certain enough that view will not be misinterpreted in Britain.

Accepted His View

There was something rather reasonable in the House of Commons when Hon. Ernest Lapointe, Minister of Justice, was urging that progress be made with a bill he submitted for changing the management of our penal institutions following the report of the Archambault commission.

Hon. R. B. Bennett had protested the admission of the bill, his contention being there had not been sufficient time for members to make a study of it.

Mr. Lapointe explained it was necessary to proceed at once with the appointment of a commission as the present system was wrong and it would be unsafe to continue it any longer. Then it was that Mr. Bennett said that if Mr. Lapointe had made such a statement in the first place he would not have offered his objection. The maintenance of law and order was of first importance and if the Minister responsible for it felt a change was imperative he would not oppose the change.

And that we believe is a rather large way of looking at public business. If the Minister of Justice was convinced a certain change should be made then Mr. Bennett was content to allow that view to decide the issue as far as he was concerned. Rather good we think.

When Conservatives Gather

We have received a number of editorial clippings from several newspapers, and a few more have come from offices which apparently are seeking to turn public opinion this way or that before the Conservative party holds its convention to name a leader in succession to ...n. R. B. Bennett. Truth is we are not ...ting any of this pre-convention ...l because it all looks like pro... ...a for various candidates.

...an only hope that the 1,800 dele... who gather will have a clear cut ... what they are going to do and ...ey are going to do it. The Con...ve party—and we prefer to call it Conservative rather than the ...l-Conservative party—has had its ...are in the affairs of Canada. Its ...es have been poor in recent pro... ...l and federal contests but its total ...g power has not seriously diminish...

... Bennett has been candid and ...st with the party. He has stated ...itely before the convention gets ...r way that he is not going to be in ...running again; he is not playing ... the position or looking for a vote ...pproval. He is through. Neither is ... seeking to direct affairs so that his ...fluence will be placed behind or ...inst any candidate whom the party ...e consider. If there has been a ... Mr. Bennett's conduct of party's affairs then that weakness has grown from the man's own strength. He has unusual capacity for debate; he has his hand on everything and his store of national knowledge is profound. A man of that type dominates the situation and he is not apt to feel the need for gathering around him strong and coming young men, neither does he feel the need of delegating authority and responsibility to others. A great leader himself, he does not develop the quality of leadership in others. Reading the official report of debates in the House of Commons throughout the entire sessions reveals that Mr. Bennett has always led the Opposition; it is he who always directs the attack and he always conducts something which closely resembles a competent cross-examination of a witness.

When Mr. Bennett was Prime Minister it was noticed that when he was absent from the House the conduct of business dragged; at times it almost stopped because there was not another front bencher who felt competent to step in and take up the leadership of the Government. We believe it fair and correct to say that Mr. Bennett has been so mentally vigorous and so saturated with public affairs that his usual strength has not been turned toward developing the genius or technique of leadership in his political lieutenants.

It is of interest and importance to the Canadian people that the Conservatives in convention shall select well; one might hope the delegates will not of necessity be swept off their feet by merely a great speech; the rebuilding of their party should go deeper than the naming of a new leader; it should include much toward which a new leader can point his efforts and direct his attention. Actually we wish the Conservatives well in the task which is before them. In these days when strange notions are being attractively placed before our people it is above all else necessary that so great an organization as the Conservative party should renew its strength and dedicate its energy to the service of the Canadian people.

HUMBLE

(By A. R. K.)

¶ An agent came to call on me, he was as expert as could be, and he knew how to talk; he had a scheme that sounded good, and he talked on as best he could, of some new fangled lock.

¶ If I put one on every door, I wouldn't have to worry more; I'd never be disturbed; he talked so easy in his way, I think it's right enough to say, he measured every word.

¶ No one would prowl in when 'twas late, and steal away the family plate, or precious things and rare; when burglars came against that lock, they'd see the thing and get a shock, they'd have to pause right there.

¶ They'd likely stand out there and curse, because they could not steal my purse, they'd go away and stay; nor could they enter in my home, and pilfer all the bonds I own, and take such things away.

¶ It pleased me thus to hear him talk, and tell me of this fancy lock, of bonds and heavy plate; he must have thought that I had wealth, kept dollar bills piled on a shelf, and sort of lived in state.

¶ I simply close the door at night, and figure things will be all right, I never lock the gate; if men came of the burglar kind, I know quite certain they would find—just nothing they would

'Breaking Out' Is An Offence

Apparently members of Parliamen were a little hazy as to what was meant in amendments to the Crimial Code dealing with "breaking out" of a house. The discussion was like this:

Mr. BENNETT: This clause reads, "the breaking out of a welling-house by night after having entered such dwelling-house." It would be difficult to break out of a house unless it had first been entered.

Mr. LAPOINTE (Quebec East): There might be legal entry.

Mr. BENNETT: It does not say that. It says "breaking out after having entered." It would be difficult to break out without being in, would it not?

Mr. LAPOINTE (Quebec East): Unfortunately it is the language of the past which is still responsible.

Mr. BENNETT: The minister should not be so conservative.

Mr. LAPOINTE (Quebec East): I like tradition.

Mr. SLAGHT: The language is "after having entered." He might have been carried in or have been in there perfectly legally.

Mr. BENNETT: If he breaks out by night he is going to commit a crime. It says "after having entered such dwelling-house." How in the name of heaven could he break out if he had not entered?

Mr. SLAGHT: Suppose he had been carried in?

Mr. BENNETT: He would be in anyway.

Mr. SLAGHT: But he would not have entered.

Mr. BENNETT: He would still be in the house. I think we should not let it go in this way. The present wording does seem almost ridiculous.

Mr. LAPOINTE (Quebec East): We do not need the words "after having entered such dwelling-house."

The breaking and entering of a dwelling-house by night—

That is clear:

—or the breaking out of a dwelling-house by night after having entered such dwelling-house, either by day or night.

Mr. LAPOINTE (Quebec East): He may have entered the house illegally during the day or during the night.

Mr. BENNETT: No, this is prima facie evidence of an intent to commit an indictable offence.

Mr. McGEER: The only qualification there might be of that is the one suggested by the hon. member for Parry Sound, namely that a man might not have entered the place voluntarily; he might have been carried in.

Mr. STIRLING: He is doing a very wise thing to break out, then.

Mr. BENNETT: And if he found himself in the wrong place he might want to break out.

Mr. McGEER: It may be clumsy, but it does cover the case mentioned by the hon. member for Parry Sound. Where a man is in a place not as a result of having entered it by his own action, it covers that as well. A man who entered a house perfectly legally, perhaps as a guest, may have decided to conceal himself in the house in the afternoon to break out during the night. The section covers such a case.

Mr. BENNETT: This is either by day or by night.

Mr. McGEER: He could enter legally either by day or by night and break out illegally either by day or by night. This section is not as loosely drawn as it appears to be.

Section agreed to.

WHY BOTHER HIM?

(Maclean's Magazine)

WE KNOW of a police official of Goderich, Ont., who is in a somewhat bewildered state of mind these days. After many faithful years of service on behalf of the municipality of Goderich, Police-Sergeant A. C. Ross had come to have a pretty fair-opinion of his own constabulary capacities. He had captured criminals, thwarted evil-doers, preserved the peace with notable success all this time, and he had got around to feeling that he was equal to any crisis that could possibly confront a police-sergeant in so normally law-abiding a community as Goderich. It will readily be understood, therefore, that he was badly let down the other evening when a motorist, parked by the curb, hailed him with this astounding request.

"Officer, make my wife sit up in the front seat with me."

Police-Sergeant Ross, faced with so unusual a problem, was completely at a loss. Nothing in his experience or in the law, Dominion, provincial or municipal, as he knew it, could guide him in such an emergency. A brief enquiry disclosed the fact that the wife, being angry with her spouse, not only refused to sit in the front seat with him, but declined absolutely even to speak to him.

Recognizing an impasse, Police-Sergeant Ross withdrew from his untenable position. "Man," he said, "you married her, not me. If you can't do anything with her, what on earth do you think I can do?"; and went on about his business. But he feels that he will never be quite the same carefree officer he was before.

THREATS TO LINDBERGH.

(New York World-Telegram)

MANY Americans will be shocked, we think, by the news that, because of letters threatening the safety of their two children if they return to the United States, the Lindbergs still feel they must continue to live in Europe. Even on an island off the Brittany coast protection of the French police is deemed necessary!

Whether these threats come from cranks or criminals, their sources in the United States should be diligently sought.

Current news shows how far from free this nation is yet from dastards whose minds dwell on the cruel crime of kidnapping.

It would be public service, warning and protection to run down any persons, criminal or unbalanced, who are still threatening the exiled Lindberghs.

• Too Much Mystery In This

(Woodstock Sentinel-Review)

THE CANADIAN PUBLIC has occasion to be puzzled and uneasy over the mysterious answers given by members of the government to enquiries about British negotiations for manufacture in this country of aircraft and munitions. Hon. Raoul Dandurand, when pressed by Senator Meighen for information, first definitely stated there had been no "request" from British authorities regarding establishment of flying schools, and later admitted there had been "informal conversations," but said he could not enlarge upon that statement. Hon. Ian Mackenzie, Minister of National Defence, denying a recent circumstial report that the Canadian government had forbidden placing of British munitions orders here, said: "There has been no interference .... The Canadian government is not taking any part in Britain's plans at all."

Recent visit of the British aircraft mission led to belief that Canadian plants would be utilized. The late head of the Air Ministry gave encouragement to that idea. In respect of munitions manufacture, there is good reason to believe that the British authorities recognize the desirability of operations in this country because the plants could not readily be attacked by any nation in the least likely to be at war with the United Kingdom. For Canada to play this part would mean the expenditure of millions in this country —and do we need it! What, then, is the trouble? Is it that Quebec is afraid of the Dominion becoming involved in war and that the government dare not offend Quebec?

"What is in Mr. Mackenzie's mind," demands Ottawa Journal, "when he says that the Canadian government is not asking any part in Britain's plans at all? Why shouldn't it take part in Britain's plans in this country? Why shouldn't it help them? Those plans are to defend the Empire, to defend Canada, to defend liberty and democracy. Why should we hold aloof from them?"

At the moment it is announced that a survey will be made, in response to a request from C.N.R. workers at Stratford, to ascertain if the railway shops are suitable for turning out war supplies, but The Canadian Press "learns that there are not enough Canadian orders in prospect to keep any considerable number of C.N.R. workers busy, even if the shops should be found suitable." As to the possibility of placing arms orders from Britain, Hon. Mr. Mackenzie was silent.

A few years ago, when the government of the day was erroneously accused of blocking a deal to trade Canadian cattle for Russian oil, certain newspapers and platform public speakers rang the changes in denunciation, on the ground that Canadians were being deprived of much needed business. That deal—even if it had been in the realm of the practical — was insignificant compared with the production of munitions for Britain. It seems almost incredible that such plans should have been discouraged in any degree by the government of Canada. On the contrary, it should lend its aid, its organization and personnel, in getting action quickly. If the ugly rumors in circulation are unfounded, government spokesmen should say so in language which cannot be misunderstood. Evasion, as The Ottawa Journal says, may well challenge a spirit in this country that will insist upon the truth.

• When the War Factories Close

(Christian Science Monitor)

THE BRITISH government has issued a circular to local authorities asking them to survey the program of public works which they wish to undertake during the next five years and to submit their proposals to the ministry of health. Such an inquiry can serve two purposes: (1) assist the comprehensive planning of public works to be put in operation when industry is flagging; (2) encourage local authorities to press forward with local defence plans and to postpone public works to a time when defence may be a less pressing problem.

A year ago activity in munitions factories was not a decisive factor in prosperity. But since then there has been a tendency toward trade recession and an immense speeding up in the production of military equipment. This abnormal activity is playing an important part in staving off a slump in employment. It is stimulating employment. It is stimulating employment as would a large program of public works.

But what about the time when this artificial stimulant is stopped — as everyone in Great Britain must hope that it soon will be ? Is there not a danger that slowing down of war industries may precipitate a slump of the greatest magnitude? The question suggests the need to have plans prepared. Economists agree that the sudden adoption of emergency schemes in an atmosphere of flurry and panic is uneconomic, wasteful and never adequate to the circumstances of a big trade collapse. To be effective, public works should be planned ahead with a view to the real consumption needs of the nation, so that the jobs pressed forward in an emergency may be useful jobs serving a good purpose.

The active propagandist body with which Mr. David Lloyd George is associated, the Council of Action, asserts that rearmament is no lasting remedy for unemployment, and that it tends to conceal the real nature of the problem. A well-planned scheme would provide a program of work, waiting to be carried out, on to which industrial energy could be switched when the moment comes.

• Only the Prisoners Are Right

(Sault Ste. Marie Star)

IT COST the ratepayers $88,000 to have three amiable gentlemen of the Royal Commission investigate our penitentiaries. They have presented a 400 page book with the bill.

Of course the report is full of the usual sort of stuff. Nobody is admirable,—with the possible exception of the 1,800 prisoners serving time for serious offenses. General Ormond, the head of the jail system, is "arrogant" and one thing and another though many people have not discovered these generous faults during his six years in office.

Ever since Arthur Kennedy a competent newspaper man gave the Kingston prison a careful looking over and reported his findings, and ever since the Kingston Whig-Standard flatly contradicted the sob sister stuff about the jail in the lachrymose Globe, this paper has taken little stock in the political party will go to any length to cook up a situation and blacken a staff if it looks like a good party move. There are always dizzy people who can see no good in jail officials, and so rabid do these folks sometimes become that,—if they are right and fair,—it is remarkable that we do not just hand over our jails to the inmates and shove the officers in the cells.

Of course people don't like being in jail. Nobody wants to put them there. Inmates are usually a little unstable and many of them are said to be subnormal. A jailer be he ever so kindly and sympathetic, has discipline to enforce and the law to carry out. He can't possibly please all the people in his charge. So it is easy to dig up complaints from his charges against him, and when three verbose gentlemen are doing the digging a 400 page report may be expected.

People are bored with prison probes and political fault findings. It is a wonder that Ottawa doesn't know this.

STUDY OF GAMBLING

(Christian Science Monitor)

IN LOS ANGELES COUNTY, five times as much money is gambled at the racetrack in two months as is doled out for relief in eight months. This is perhaps the most startling fact contained in a series of three articles on pari-mutuel gambling in California now running in this newspaper. Conditions uncovered in Robert W. Desmond's survey are typical of the bad social and economic effects of race-track gambling in practically every State where the relief problem is largely entrusted, have sanctioned a system that enlarges that problem. The state legislatures have bargained away the public morals and public welfare. It is they which must right this wrong.

STARTLED THEM.

(The Argonaut)

CITIZENS of Maine were startled by a Canadian proposal to buy a small five-mile corner of the state. The area involved is in the far northern section and is separated from the rest of Maine by a dense forest, and is occupied by about one hundred persons. It is claimed that their only means of communication with the outside world is through a Canadian town. Little seemed to be thought of the proposal in the Pine Tree State, and Governor Barrows summed up public opinion by declaring that "We're getting along nicely as it is."

APHORISMS OF THAGES

IN THE UNITED STATES 50 years ago another book found a place beside the Bible and Aesop's Fables. It was entitled "Poor Richd's Almanac" and was a collection of aphorisms compiled by Benjamin Franklin, a printer in Philadelphia. Franklin did just what Solomon did for the proverbs, and what Aesop did in making a collection of wise sayings. He made a collection of maxims especially applicable to his time, put them in his own words, and he was no slouch of a paragraphe, and provided a best seller.

To show how much out of date some of Franklin's sayings, which used to be accepted as sound philosophy, are today, here are a few:

"Experience keeps a dear school, but fools will learn in no other."

"It is hard for an empty bag to stand upright."

"What maintains one vice will bring up two children."

"If you would know the value of money, try to borrow some."

"What signify wishing and hoping for better times? We may make these times better if we bestir ourselves."

"The money standard once fixed should be unvariable."

"No state or potentate can settle the prices of all kinds of merchandise, since plenty and scarcity must govern that."—Independence Examiner, Missouri.

In 1936 Stanley Martin, prominent potato grower in Dufferin County had his potato so tested. Notes on this test showed that phosphates were moderately low in the top soil and low in the subsoil. Potash tested very low in both top and subsoil while the reaction was about neutral.

Three plots were laid out in this field No. 1 being a check plot with no fertilizer; No. 2 given the usual application of 750 pounds 4-8-10 while No. 3 was given the fertilizer the soil test indicated as being required. The yields of marketable potatoes from these plots were on No. 1 plot—107 bush... No. 2 plot—147 bus., and No. 3 plot—... bushels.

Mr. Martin followed the same practice in 1937 and had a gain of 37 bushels per acre of Katahdin potatoes and 20 bushels of Dooleys where the fertilizer mixture was based on the soil test over the regular 4-8-10 potato fertilizer.

VETERAN CORINTHIANS WIN FIRST OF THE PHELAN CUP PLAY

Corinthians Triumph In Phelan Play

A surprise in local soccer circles took place on Thursday night when Manager William Downer trotted out his new team—Corinthians—composed of veterans of the code, into a first class aggregation from the goal out, when they trimmed the C.C.F. four goals to nothing, in the Father Phelan cup competition on King Edward Park. The winners now meet the Brinton next Tuesday night and the final will be played on Thursday night. The C.C.F. custodian was the outstanding performer.

Vets Take Command

The C.C.F. wing men carried the play into the Corinthian territory to find Craig and Blowers in full command through their interception of the offensive tactics outside the shooting zone and abided in cool action to frustrate the Politicians whenever they got dangerous. Both custodians were called upon to clear their charge but it was after ten minutes of play that McMaster (Jack) and Clark wing outplayed the C.C.F. full backs to get the better of the argument when McMaster sent an oblique shot into the rigging to open the scoring. The losers forced the issue for a while but seemed to get nowhere in the vicinity of the goal. The following incident which took place in the C.C.F. area as Logan dribbled his way towards goal and Denisin, C.C.F. goalie, ran out to clear. He kicked the ball up-field to find his own player being knocked out with the smashing drive that winded him and the ball rolled back into goal for the second counter. Thereafter, the Politicians bombarded the Corinthian's goal to find the full backs relying upon the ability of Richea in goal who was unbeatable. On one occasion, they rattled drive after drive upon him to find no hole vacant to register. While the half-back line of Bromley, Wade and Nicholls indulged in the close passing game to have their legs from running which resulted in their forwards showing the finer points of the code to advantage. Before the interval, Smelt and Thorne drove hard for the corner to witness the goalie clearing his charge. Half-time: Corinthians 2, C.C.F. 0.

Increase Lead

On resuming, the losers broke away repeatedly on the wings to send openings right across the goal that never failed to go to an opponent when crossed. The C.C.F. hammered away to get nothing tangible as they endeavoured to break down the defensive system of the Corinthians. Wade headed out a dangerous shot and transferred the play to left wing where Rankin beat two men and finally registered the third counter, on a close drive. Ten minutes later, C.C.F. got the decision of handling inside the dreaded area to be awarded a penalty shot that Lang failed to convert. The Corinthian goalie just grasping the ball from mid-air to kick clear. No matter what the losers did it always went the opposite the way permitting the veterans [illegible] to indulge in combination through an individual effort by George Logan.

C.C.F.: W. Denisin, goal; F. Lawrence and G. McDonald, full backs; F. Dyer, W. Beggs and E. Jobe, halves; S. Henwood, J. Chamberlain, P. Thorn and R. Smelt, forwards; subs, E. Denisin.

Corinthian: F. Rishea, goal; T. Craig and G. Blowers, full backs; F. Nicholls, J. Wade and A. Bromley, halves; G. Clarke, Jack McMaster, G. Logan, T. Westwood and W. Rankin, forwards; subs, D. Best. Referee—T. Foster. Linesmen—J. Fletcher and G. Downer.

Inside Sportin' Dope

BY A. WISE CRACKER

Mister Sporting Editor:

Well, Mac, I aint quite sure whether the baseball powers-what-be is giving us a long count or skipping in a kidney punch but whatever it is the ball situation in these parts at the time of writing aint healthy enough to cause the populace to get out and light bonfires in the street. Just what is going to happen I aint in the position to even guess at the present moment but any way you look at the jam it aint so hot, if you get what I mean. Here is the Kingston ball club outlawed and the Petes threatened with the same if they doin't quit using Mister Robert Doll, our apple-slugging 3rd sacker, and Mister McNally, the port-sided flinger who tosses them in with rare abandon with his left flapper.

You Can't Do It

Personally I aint surprised at the developments. I aint never seen any way of throwing a defi at any governing body in sport and still remain in good standing. We been treating the Ontario outfit as if they wasn't there and we didn't care what they done and yet we been expecting to string along in a league affiliated with the O.B.A.A. It simply don't make sense.

The Ony Way Out

They is only I way I can see of keeping the Central Ontario loop from going on the rocks and staying, that is for Kingston and Peterborough to ask permission from the governing body to continue with the players that is eligible. If they don't do that the League is through and it is going to take more than an inhalator to breathe any life back into it again next year if she really crashes now. Mebbe it's already too late to do anything to save it but if it aint they should be some action before senior baseball is sunk for years in these parts.

The Acid Test

They aint been much change in the big show since my last, Mac, and the real test so far as the Amercian loop is concerned will come now when the Cleveland team is on the road. If them babies can overcome their old weakness of nose-diving when they get away from home cooking and make a decent showing on this trip they's going to be a merry old race during the 2nd half of the schedule for them Yanks is only 3 games back and their machine is beginning to click both with the old power up at the plate and with more effectiveness on the pitching mound too, and Boston is sticking well within range.

In the other loop I'm still calling the Giants. The Cubs seem to be fading a bit and while the surprising Cincinnati Reds is proving tough opposition the New York gang is still leading the parade and I think they is due to stay there.

Well that's enough for a rainy holiday afternoon so tallyho.

Sportfully yours,
A. WISE CRACKER.

NEW YORK, July 2 (C.P.). — Back hot dope from St. Louis says Frank Frisch and the Cardinal front office are on the outs and that the veteran Burt Shotton of Columbus will be in there next year. Even California scribes are yelling that Max Baer should be made to prove himself against Bob Pastor or somebody else before they feed him to Joe Louis again. . . Starting batteries for Wednesday's All-Star game in "Cincinnati" will be Vandermeer and Lombardi for the Nationals and Gomez and Dickey for the Americans. . . . Why does Tony Galento want more time to train for John Henry Lewis? . . . Didn't the beer truck arrive?

Philadelphia may be the best big league town to turn on the lights . . . . If Joe Louis refuses the fight again this year, what will Mike Jacobs do for a September extravaganza? . . . . We offer you Schmeling vs. Jimmy Braddock (which may be announced any day now) . . . . Guess you noticed Don Budge didn't drop a set from the first round through the last at Wimbledon. . . . The Chattanooga lookouts haven't dropped a game since Rajah Hornsby hopped into the saddle.

Larry MacPhail of the Dodgers is sending Freddy Fitzsimmons to the all-star game with railroad fare, hotel accommodations, and all other expenses paid in recognition of the old boy's fine pitching lately. . . . We have a hunch—mind you, it's just that—that Helen Jacobs will get even with Mrs. Moody in a big way to-day.

Toronto Job Changes Hands

Following a disastrous slump on the part of Toronto Maple Leafs in the International League, during which they slid from fourth to last place in the standings, a surprise move was made by the management when it was announced that Jack Burns, LEFT, first baseman, would succeed Dan Howley, RIGHT, as manager of the club. Howley is only out as manager, however, and will be retained in a business capacity.

Digging Up the Local Dirt With the Odd Chuckle or Two

By CEC. PERDUE

IT SEEMS that the O.B.A. has suspended Kingston Ponies for using Ed Pollar here a week ago, and the Ontario body has also suspended Kingston Locos of the Bay of Quinte intermediate loop. The Locos played the Ponies a few nights ago with the seniors copping a 7-2 win, Paczkowski pitching against Williams, Campbell and Utronki. As the Ponies were under suspension, the Locos got it too! The latter club claim they got permission to play the tilt, provided Pollar were not used, by Prexy Ken Colling of the Quinte loop and Secretary Newt Thompson of the C.O.B.L. The O.B.A. has also warned the Petes not to use McNally until his case is considered at their next meeting on transfers, and not to use Bob Doll, who has been turned down. Oshawa has been advised not to play against our gang, if McNally or Doll is used, and not to play against the Ponies until they are re-instated. They may be re-instated by dropping Pollar and applying for re-instatement—when their case will be considered.

* * * * * *

KINGSTON scribe says: "The Central League has a legitimate complaint with the O.B.A. in regard to the residence rule, which has been set at March 15th while the associations in Eastern Ontario and Northern Ontario have a residence date about May 15th. Players can leave C.O.B.L. clubs to go north or east May 15th and they are eligible for the Ontario playdowns, but players who come into the Central League at that time are banned. The Central Loop did not object to newcomers this year in an effort to revive fading interest when it was doubtful if senior ball would operate in this district. Peterborough and Kingston made late arrangements to strengthen and Oshawa had its championship collection. Oshawa has promised to stick with the Central League but will insist that the Petes drop McNally and Doll for Friday and the Ponies drop Pollar for Saturday."

* * * * * *

QUINTE columnist comments: "There is no use denying Pollar has received a transfer, simply because the Ponies did not make application for the same, but there are other players in the O.B.A. without transfers so why single out Pollar and the Ponies for the example? Just what will follow is hard to determine. The Petes and Ponies are willing to carry on but what of Oshawa? Last year Oshawa lost money in the playdowns, due to the T.A.B.A. winners, so why should C.O.B.L. clubs continue to fatten the coffers of other O.B.A. branches, especially after having been denied assistance from the parent body when the C.O.B.L. wanted a fourth club or an interlocking schedule to carry on this spring?"

* * * * * *

AND THE OSHAWA writer orates: "The Oshawa club officers are in the middle of the fuss because they are clean in the eyes of the O.B.A. but they also wish to 'play ball' with their C.O.B.L. mates. Oshawa is willing to play against the Petes and Kingston, regardless of U.S. imports, but now that the O.B.A. has issued suspensions the GM-men cannot be expected to risk automatic suspension themselves. Oshawa will play the Petes Friday but the latter will likely have to use homebrew talent at third and on the mound. Kingston and Peterborough may be ready to tell the O.B.A. to take a jump and that's where the ticklish part of the situation comes in. If the Petes and Ponies decide to go ahead and play their games and use their players then both teams will be suspended and that'll leave Oshawa all by themselves or still in the C.O.B.L. and suspended along with the others."

* * * * * *

THE DOPE we get is that the Ponies could try to get their suspension lifted by the O.B.A., by dropping Pollar. And that Oshawa will definitely line up with the O.B.A. and not play us if McNally or Doll are kept, or the Ponies until they are okayed. Which means we'll have to drop McNally and Doll to stay in the Central Loop, or keep them and have no more games with the Ponies or GM-men! The O. B.A. also claims it can appeal to the Sports Federation and cause trouble for any C.O.B.L. ballster in other lines of sport like rugby and hockey. The Petes are pretty burned up about it all and are still debating the various angles—no definite decision as yet, so far as we know.

* * * * * *

WHILE OUR SENIOR GAME was rained out on Friday, Merritton of the Falls' district are scheduled to play the Petes an exhibition tilt this aft at three in Riverside. Oshawa were billed to play the Ponies in Kingston, but the GM-men will likely decline to tackle the suspended Ponies today. Kingston officers have notified Max Swanston, loop prexy and O.B.A. member, that they will drop right out of baseball if Oshawa do not show up for the contest today. Mr. Swanston informed us this a.m. that the O.B.A. might be right, according to book rules, but he felt the Ontario body should show some consideration and not get too tough with the Central League and the Bay of Quinte circuit. Else the game might decline in this district and be years ere it is revived. "If Kingston has to fold because of the O.B.A., I may send in my resignation to the O.B.A. next week," he stated. "After all, we're all working to keep the game going up this way and it's money out of our pockets, not into them." He's right.

SOME 500 HOLIDAYERS ankled down to the lacrosse arena last eve and saw the Petes pull out a 10-4 win over Owen Sound. Not a bad game but nothing to rave about. The visitors were a little late arriving—no excuse on a holiday—and then only had two subs. But they worked hard and turned in a nice clean contest. The Petes presented several changes in their lineup with Bill Rogers of Norwood going good in goal and Red Creighton up front. Ned Vitarelli was back in harness and ditto Mike Loucks. The latter looked pretty fair and so did Buster Whitton and Norm Worthy. Crowe was vacationing and Chute out of town. Westonfelt wasn't on hand, and Dallin was parked in the stand somewhere. Len Smith made a good job of it refereeing and deserves an orchid for tearing around and acting as coach and referee for the kids in between periods.

HOCKEY CLUB will hold a general re-organization meeting near the end of next week, date to be announced about Monday. It is felt that early plans should be made for next winter and a good executive lined up. Next winter the club will be squaring around for an artificial ice arena and also the main squad here might have to seek a senior "A" grouping with, say Oshawa and a couple of Toronto teams. If the Fliers drop out. Players and others interested are advised to drop around to this meeting next week and put in the officers they feel will best put the club over with a bang. Our criticism a week or so ago was not directed at the club prexy or some of the other stalwarts, nor was it—as a gee asked us—a rap for not getting some graft. The graft one makes on this job wouldn't buy a straw hat in a year but it would rob up of the right to criticize—and we will never lose that! However, a few changes on the executive, and a few on the senior team, wouldn't do any harm.

GRAB-BAG: Girls' Softball League schedule is in tonight. . . . A new softball team (we suppose it is a man's team) in Cobourg wants games here and in Cobourg with local squads. . . . Teams to pay own expenses; write Vic. Bevans, Box 917, Cobourg. . . . One E. Foote down that way is still yelping at our loop for not embracing the Lakeshore lasses this year. . . . Lacrossers will practice tonight at nine in the local arena. . . . Kiwanis and Lions' midget lacrosse teams were to play today, with Kiwanis and Kinsmen meeting Monday. . . . Omemee men softballers tackle Motorists here on Monday p.m. . . . . The DeLaval-Motorist game Thursday was rained out. . . . Don't forget that rugby boosters' dinner for the Orfuns a week from next Friday. . . . Kingston Ponies wonder how the O.B.A. knew Thursday a.m. that the Locos played them Wednesday night, and how come Merritton were ordered to play Napanee instead of Kingston. Maybe some of the pals in Napanee of the ex-Napanee players, now in Kingston, 'phoned Snyder . . . . Nope. Ignatz, the O.B.A. doesn't really mean Order of Baseball Autocrats—not quite!

Toronto Soccer Players Beat Petes 4-2

After a steady downpour in the early morning, the weather cleared up sufficiently to permit the soccer game between Port Credit and Brinton Athletic to take place yesterday (Friday) afternoon on King Edward Park, before a good crowd of spectators. The rain quit just as the play started and the field was in perfect shape although a little slippery in one of the goals. The visitors won 4 to 2.

After the game the Brinton executive entertained the visiting club in the Brinton plant. An excellent repast was served under the capable direction of Mrs. Lindsay and Mrs. Jack Withers who were assisted by a number of young ladies.

Beautiful Combination.

The spin of the coin fell in favor of the Petes. Gibb set the ball arolling to become settled to an aggressive game led by Captain Watt who concentrated in swinging the ball from wing to wing that opened up the play thereby giving the outside men every advantage to test the Peterborough goalie who was well nigh unbeatable. Jones transferred the ball to the other end where the forwards missed two splendid openings with the custodian well beat, although Clark's rising drive from 10 yards out skimmed the cross-bar at a terrific speed. They came back again to find Newt Downer slamming the ball across the goal awaiting the gentle touch. This insistent attack resulted in the visitors' half-back line frustrating the alert forwards to dominate the play with a steady pressure upon the Brinton goal where Crannell, Brinton custodian pulled off some spectacular saves from all angles. Beautiful combination was shown by the players in an endeavour to get the break but it never materialized until an unfortunate handle by a Brinton player gave away the penalty shot. Jim Forrest was trusted with the kick and made no mistake with the low grounder that found the back of the net.

Goals Aplenty.

On resuming, keen tactics prevailed with neither team making any progress against the defensive system of the half-backs that were studying the positional plays in an attempt to solve the fast moving attack on either line. Eventually Richardson accepted the ball up the centre to dribble his way towards goal where he slipped the ball over to his pivot who beat the visiting goalie at close range. Beehive's half backs altered their style, placing ahead the attacking forward which flung heavy work upon the full backs that were faltering at nothing to offset the swinging style of attack. Watt broke up two Peterborough attempts to carry the ball to the other end where the left wing of Brooks and Bricks worked like a perfect machine to be a thorn in the attack against the Brinton defense. It was from one of their neat combination plays that Gibb, centre-forward, headed a smart goal into the corner of the rigging. Thereafter, the Brinton team faltered in attack which terminated in the visitors registering another counter. Both goals went under a steady seige with no further scoring taking place although Crannell was a busy man in between the sticks and deserves credit for the small score for the wonderful exhibition of goal tending against a sharp-shooting attack. Beehive 4, Brinton 2.

Beehive (Port Credit)—R. Hutchison, goal; J. Purdie and J. Mitchell, full backs; L. Brooks, C. Watt (captain) and J. Simpson, halves; Jack Forrest, Jim Forrest, J. Gibb, T. Brooks and L. Brick, forwards.

Fund Bill Approved

OTTAWA, July 2 (CP).—A committee of the House of Commons today approved the objects of a Government bill relating to campaign funds and shelved detailed consideration until next session because of lack of time.

The bill would limit campaign expenses in constituencies on a direct ratio with the number of voters and would set up a system to publish contributions to central campaign funds.

The committee spent weeks reviewing another bill recasting the general election law and decided the campaign fund bill was too important to rush through in a day or two.

Lawn Bowling

By HERB MARTIN

That old saying 'Rain before seven, stop before eleven', did not hold good yesterday (July 1) and as far as the local bowling was concerned everything was called off. Notwithstanding the fact that it rained most of the night, four rinks motored to Oshawa to play in their annual men's tournament. The play got underway about 1.30 p.m. and the first game was run off in a heavy drizzle and after that while it was quite heavy and cloudy, there was no more rain. We'd like to look in at Oshawa today and see the condition of their greens.

As far as the local end is concerned Harold Freeman's rink won third prize in the tournament. He was supported by J. Fitzpatrick, C. Calley and S. Trowbridge.

Notices are out for the men's rink annual tournament to be held next Wednesday, July 6. It says play will commence at 2 p.m. for the Stratton cup and six sets of prizes, 3.15-end games at $6 per rink. . . . If the weather stays fine, and it looks just now as if it will, there will be the usual Saturday night mixed tournament tonight at 7.30.

Three Players Show Promise At Wimbledon

WIMBLEDON, England, July 2 (AP)—At the end of a one-sided men's singles championship on Wimbledon's courts, won for the second straight year by Donald Budge, only three players who played here during the past two weeks show definite promise of developing into top-notchers.

They are Eric Filby of England, Franz Cejnar of Czechoslovakia and Owen Anderson of Los Angeles.

Filby, who took Bunny Austin deep into the fifth set before going down, is only 21. He has weaknesses that go with this age, but he is volleying at the net and taking the ball earlier than anyone here except Budge. And even Budge has been watching him closely. He has the best chance of anyone in England of taking Fred Perry's place.

Blond, graceful Cejnar showed he had all the shots against Budge. His experience on grass courts is limited but when he gets used to the surface he is going to upset the ranking lists.

Anderson, a University of California at Los Angeles student came over here for practice and by the time he went down in five sets before the seeded Ferenc Puncee of Yugoslavia in the 3rd round, Jacques Brugnon and Jean Borotra both were watching him and predicting he soon would be playing on the United States Davis Cup team.

PETES GRAB OFF 10-4 LACROSSE WIN FROM OWEN SOUND HERE

Local Gang Are Much Superior League Game

Before a holiday crowd of over 600 fans here last night, the Petes tacked up a 10-4 victory over Owen Sound in an O.L.A. Senior B fixture in the George Street Lacrosse Arena. A big second frame, when they had a 4-0 margin on play, gave the locals their main advantage in a fair struggle. It was 2-1 for the homesters in the first, 6-1 at halftime, and 8-2 going into the fourth.

The visitors were short-handed, having but two subs, and otherwise might have made it an interesting tussle. But the Petes looked superior on the night's play in a clean contest which was none too exciting. There was one fist fight, E. Creighton and Moses mixing it up, and the home squad drew four of the six penalties passed out. The winners were minus a few regulars also, and presented to the public a lineup with several chances, Rogers, Vitarelli and Loucks being on hand, and Red Creighton playing as a forward.

Worthy, Whitton and Loucks turned in a good consistent game on the attack, with several of the others shining in spots. The defence was strong most of the route and Bill Rogers, ex-Norwood goalie, made plenty of fine saves in the local cage. Couch shone in the losers' net, while Standevin, Moses and Murdoch good throughout. The Petes had a better passing play and checked more effectively, grand goal-tending by Couch the first half robbing them of half a dozen markers.

Locals Start It.

King and Worthy counted on individual effots for the locals in the first heat, with Moses bulging the twine for Owen Sound. No penalties were drawn. The Petes rammed home four in a row without a comeback in the second, E. Creighton and Worthy tallying on solo plays and Vitarelli getting one from R. Creighton and Worthy another from Loucks. The latter went off for charging. McLeod scored in the third for the visitors, with R. Creighton notching a nice one and Magee tallying from Pammett. Moses and E. Creighton were gated for fighting and Vitarelli followed for tripping. In the fourth, Standevin scored twice on passes from Murdoch for the Northerners, while Whitton took Worthy's pass for a local counter and Vitarelli blazed in R. Creighton's pass seconds before the final bell. Moses was chased for charging, and Vitarelli got it for slashing.

Owen Sound — Goal, Couch; defence, Standevin and McLeod; centre, Moses; wings, Murdoch and Burnett; rover, Cole; alternates, McDonald and Noble.

Graceful Yacht on the Rolling Deep

Heeling slightly and skimming along before a spanking breeze, the yacht, Actaea, sails across the starting line in the Newport to Bermuda race, off the U.S. Atlantic coast. Owner Henry Sears, of Boston, is at the wheel as his graceful ship glides through the water to start the 635-mile trip. The race is held every two years by the Cruising Club of America.

Jimmy Foxx Is Big Help To Red Sox

NEW YORK, July 2 (AP)—Unless the American League's pitching talent can do something soon about Jimmy (The Hammer) Foxx, the prized runs-batted-in record the National League has been guarding so jealously since Hack Wilson's heyday is going to be wiped out.

Wilson's mark has been in the books since 1930. That year, he drove 190 tallies across the plate, and it takes some pretty fair clouting to come anywhere close to that figure. Consider for instance, that Babe Ruth never made it, and Lou Gehrig, who holds the American League standard, never got over 184.

But along comes Jimmy The Hammer to travel at a clip so far this season that indicates he'll pass the 200 mark if he can keep it up. The Wilson record has been especially precious to the senior circuit, because in the last 15 years or so most of the slugging standards have been taken over the American swat set, like Ruth, Gehrig, Lazzeri and the like.

Returns To Form

Foxx was slowed up for a while in the last couple of weeks, and it looked as if he might not keep up the pace. But since the Red Sox have returned east, he's back in there fence-busting and well on the way to the record. Yesterday he added five more to his total for the year, hitting a homer and a double to help Lefty Grove down the Athletics 12-7.

Those five gave him a total of 88 for the 63 games the Red Sox have played this season. That's an average of about 1.4 per game, which if carried out to the end of the campaign, would come to around 215 for the year. Wilson's average-per-game was about 1.2.

Despite Jimmy's help, the Red Sox victory didn't pull them any nearer New York Yankees, in second place in the American League. The Yanks called on their No. one runs-batted-in producer, belting Bill Dickey, and Sweet William obliged with two homers, one with two on and the other with the bases loaded, to lead the way to an 8-0 victory over Washington Senators, the sixth Yankee triumph in a row. Spud Chandler took care of the pitching, with a six-hitter, for his seventh victory against one defeat for the year.

Yanks Climb.

Since the league-leading Cleveland Indians were idle, the Yanks thus climbed to 2½ games from the pace. The Indians and White Sox were rained out. The Detroit and St. Louis Browns weren't scheduled.

In the National League, the Giants' newest member, Bob Seeds, late of Newark, clouted a homer with two mates on base to give the league leaders a 3-1 win over Brooklyn Dodgers. This victory increased the Giants' lead to 4½ games.

The Phillies' pitchers, Claude Passeau and Lefty Lamaster, tossed a pair of five-hitters and trounced Boston Bees twice, 4-1 and 5-0.

Chiefs Wallop Newark Bears By 9-4 Count

TORONTO, July 2—(CP). — If the Newark Bears don't pin their ears back in the next few days, Syracuse Chiefs might make things interesting i nthe monotonous, one-sided International League race.

In third place, 2½ games behind the second place Buffalo Bisons, and 12½ games astern of the league-leading Newarkers, the Chiefs aren't in much of a position to threaten Bears at present. But the Chiefs, who are getting the best pitching in the circuit right now, have been stepping fast since Dick Porter took over the managerial reins early in May.

They won their fifth game in a row—not counting a tie with Jersey City Thursday—when they walloped the Bears 9-4 last night. It marked the fifth straight time that the starting pitcher was still around when the lights were doused.

The Chiefs have been hitting behind the steady flinging and they slugged out 19 hits to give Red Barrett plenty of support against the Bears in the series opener. Behind 4-2 going into the eighth inning, the Chiefs bombed Marius Russo off the mound with a five run attack that was featured by Lloyd Russell's double with the bases loaded.

Every man in the Syracuse lineup, excepting Barrett, got at least one hit. Ed Longacre bagged four, and Bonglovanni and Al Glossop, got three each.

Barrett was reached for 12 hits, including three by Buddy Rosar, but he had the Bears hitting into the dirt with men on the bases.

The game was the only one played in the circuit as rain washed out the other contests.

HAD ONLY SEEN HIS FATHER SIX TIMES IN FORTY YEARS

Plymouth Man Ordered to Pay 12 Cents Weekly Towards Maintenance

ABANDONED AT TWO

Plymouth.—In 40 years, Albert Reginald Sidney Becker saw his father half a dozen times.

At Plymouth a short time ago he was summoned to contribute to his maintenance.

"He abandoned me when I was a baby two years old," Becker said. "I was brought up by other people; they have been my parents.

"There is a gentleman here now whom I have always called father.

"My sister was abandoned at the same time. She was taken care of by people in North Devon, but it was not until two years ago that I could trace her.

"Then I found she had been dead 30 years.

"My father does not know it; he does not know I am married and have three children—his grandchildren he has never seen.

"He has not seen me half-a-dozen times in my life. Now he comes along and says I am his son and must maintain him.

"He has never paid a halfpenny toward my maintenance, so is it right?"

The magistrate's clerk, R. McDonald, pointed out that it was not the father who was asking for maintenance. "Your father is chargeable to the Poor Law authorities," he said. "They have discovered that you are his son and you are legally responsible to help to maintain him."

Becker replied he was not trying to avoid his obligations. "I have not paid, so that I could take this opportunity of saying what I have not been allowed to say before," he said.

A nominal order for payment at 6d (12 cents) a week by 43-year-old Mr. Becker was made.

PARACHUTE LANDED ON ROOF IN BRISTOL

R.A.F. Bombing Squadron Reservist Left Hanging On to Chimney

Bristol.—Where was Albert?

The pilot of an R.A.F. plane missed him when flying over Clifton suspension bridge.

Albert, surnamed Gourd, of Cairn Rd., Bristol, 17-year-old research wist in 501 Bristol bombing squadron, had jumped at 6,000 feet and had been carried a mile into the city by his parachute, which eventually landed him on a roof top in Woodland Rd.

There he remained hanging to a chimney stack until rescued by ladder.

He had been "chipped" by his friends because he had not realized an ambition—to make a parachute jump.

"I told people that one day I would have to jump," he told me. "I was going to R.A.F. for permission, but it was refused.

"This evening I went up as an air gunner. The pilot did not know what I intended to do. I just took a parachute off the rack, attached it to the harness which we have to wear and went over the side head first."

COLORED CANADIAN WRITES LORD MAYOR

Negress Wants London's Chief Magistrate to Find Music Teacher

London.—A Canadian colored girl who wants her voice trained by a "great teacher," and who is willing to marry her benefactor if he is "passing good-looking," has written to the lord mayor of London asking him what he can do about it.

The lord mayor, Sir Harry Twyford, read her letter, and others that he has received, at the dinner in London of the Grenadier Guards Comrades association.

The girl stated: "Dear sir, I am a very attractive colored girl, medium complexion, aged 21, and with a university education.

"I have an excellent singing and speaking voice and desire to be trained by a great teacher. I hope you will find a patron or patroness for me interested in my future.

"I am willing to work to help defray expenses and will even marry a man of any race, creed or color who will guarantee to help me in my career, although I would rather not.

"However, if it did come to that, I want him to be passing good-looking and fairly prosperous."

STEAM TANKS SETTLE THREE-YEAR DISPUTE

London.—Steam rollers settled a three-year-old dispute that had baffled North Oxford officials and forced residents of a Cuttleslowe working-class estate to walk a block around a wall to reach the main road.

The working class wanted the wall knocked down. More aristocratic residents of an estate on the other side wanted it left up. The parliamentary committee of the city council decided it should come down.

Next day steam rollers appeared, rolled up and down, backed and pushed, while residents cheered, [illegible]

480-TON STRUCTURE HANDLED BY 4 MEN

Swing New Railway Bridge Into Place With Winch

Coventry.—Four men operating hand windlasses rolled a 480-ton railway bridge spanning the London road into position at Coventry.

The new bridge had been built on trestles alongside the old. Shortly after midnight rail traffic from Birmingham and Coventry to London, and road traffic under the bridge, were diverted, the old bridge demolished, and the new one substituted.

TWO WOMEN CLAIM HAM MISER'S ESTATE

Recluse Store Proprietor With Few Friends Hoarded $5,000

Ham, Surrey.—For 30 years Norman Thatcher, miser and recluse, puzzled the villagers of Ham.

He allowed no one past the counter of his general store, had no friends, spoke to few.

But, with his death, there has come a greater puzzle.

Everyone thought him a poor bachelor. A villager paid for his funeral. Now it is revealed that he had hoarded £1,000 ($5,000) in a tin box. And a woman has come forward, claiming to be his wife.

His only sister, Miss Gertrude Thatcher, has been traced to Windsor.

She told a reporter: "It is 40 years since I last heard of him. I was given to understand I might inherit the money.

"Now I have been told that a woman who claims to be his wife has come forward. I am told she is abroad."

SEVENTEEN PAY FINE FOR COCK-FIGHTING

National Campaign Against Blood Sport Launched in England

Hackthorpe, Westmoreland. — A national campaign to stamp out cock-fighting, the only blood sport which in Britain can flaunt public opinion and parliamentary statute, is to be intensified.

This development follows the successful prosecution here of men charged with having assisted in the conduct of a cock-fighting main.

The case, which resulted in fines of £350 ($1,750) being imposed on 17 men—charges against four of the defendants were withdrawn—is the first brought by an animal welfare association.

It has taken 14 months to prepare, and cost Our Dumb Friends' league, the organizers, more than £600 ($3,000) in addition to legal expenses.

The whole resources of the league are now to be made available to strengthen the fight against a form of sport which is believed to be on the increase.

KING AND QUEEN AT ASCOT OPENING

Owing its inception to Queen Anne, who created the meeting on the royal heath at Ascot, Berkshire, in 1711, the opening day of the races at Ascot is one of the most fashionable of the year and is now a traditional part of English sporting life. The event is always attended by members of the royal family. At the recent opening, the above photograph was taken as the King and Queen and the Duke of Kent, with the Earl of Harewood who appears with his back to the camera, drove down the course on their arrival.

PLAN USING WOMEN IF BOMBS DESCEND

Will Assist Men Calming Raided Streets in London

London.—Women wardens would be needed in a future war to assist men in calming a raided street, organizing first-aid treatment, and battling through the effects of gas and incendiary bombs, states Air Raid Precautions Handbook No. 8, "The Duties of Air-Raid Wardens." This is issued by the home office (air raid precautions department).

Each warden will receive one armlet of standard design, one steel helmet, and one civilian respirator.

Apart from technical training, the warden must know the people living in the sector, and should have a list of telephones for emergency.

As soon as the action warning signal is heard the streets should be cleared, all vehicles, except those on official duty, stopped within five minutes and their occupants sent to shelters.

The warden is not expected to remain in the open during a raid unless there is something definite to do. Reports to headquarters should be short and clear.

HAD DOG IN HANDBAG

Folkestone.—A performing Pomeranian dog cost its mistress £2 ($10) at Folkestone when she was charged with landing it from France contrary to ministry of agriculture regulations.

Miss Minnie Violet Williams, a circus artist, of Batoum Gardens, W., was stated to have had the dog in a handbag, partly covered by her coat, when stopped at the customs barrier.

'PLAUSIBLE ROGUE' POSED AS DOCTOR AND CLERGYMAN

Bride of Six Weeks Gets Rude Awakening After Whirlwind Courtship

HUBBY IS JAILED

Liverpool.—Visions of a romantic honeymoon cruise to Egypt were shattered for 28-year-old Mrs. Margaret Faulkner, bride of six weeks.

At Liverpool quarter sessions she heard the husband who, after a whirlwind 10 days' courtship, had married her described as "a plausible rogue" and sentenced to 18 months' imprisonment for fraud.

He was William Cecil Faulkner, 42 years old, gray-haired, who pleaded guilty to charges of false pretences.

It was stated that, posing as a doctor, Faulkner had obtained a post as locum tenens at a Bristol mental hospital in 1931.

Masquerading as a clergyman, he had conducted burial services and preached in churches. His latest pose was as a director of a firm engaged in erecting mills at Basra.

Inspector Sullivan said that as a boy Faulkner ran away from his home in Belfast. After serving in the R.A.M.C. during the war he was married in February, 1920, but his wife left him in December of the same year.

In 1929 he established a sun-ray clinic in Nottingham and engaged a widow with two children as a nurse.

From her he obtained £350 ($1,750) and left her penniless.

At Nottingham, in 1929, he was charged on six counts with false pretences, and was sentenced to 15 months' imprisonment.

In 1931 he applied for and obtained a post as surgeon to a North Borneo company. He bigamously married a woman before sailing and borrowed a total of £170 ($850) from her father.

In support of his application for the post he had forged testimonials which stated that he had been engaged by the American Church Missionary society at Lucknow university.

He was sentenced at Somerset assizes in 1932 for bigamy and false pretences to five years' penal servitude, and was divorced by his first wife in 1933.

In March, 1936, at Clerkenwell police court, he was sentenced to six months' imprisonment for false pretences.

Before his arrest he had arranged for four first-class passages to Alexandria—for himself, his wife, and two engineers who, he told Mrs. Faulkner, he was taking to Basra.

'QUEEN VICTORIA' HAS NINETEEN-INCH WAIST

Birmingham Woman Takes Role in London Pageant

Birmingham.—Mrs. Monica Bealing, of Birmingham, is proud of her 19-inch waist, even though it is one inch more than was at first thought necessary for the woman who plays the part of Queen Victoria in the city's pageant.

But, if her measurements are not exact, Mrs. Bealing has a striking resemblance to the famous queen.

FIREARMS MYSTERY EXPLAINED AT LAST

Somerset.—The mystery of the firearms recovered from Emborough Lake in Stone Easton Park, Somerset, the home of Commander R. J. E. Hippisley, has been solved.

They were dumped in the lake a few years ago, following the tightening up of the Firearms Act, when many persons surrendered souvenirs in response to the police appeal.

"The arms were obsolete and could not have been used," a reporter was informed. "They should have been taken to the other end where the water is much deeper."

$33,335 IN JEWELRY MISSING FROM FLAT

Youthful Operator Bound Over on Condition He Enters Hostel

London.—A youth and two men appeared on remand at Marylebone in connection with the theft of jewelry, value £6,667 ($33,335), from the flat of Lady (Gwendoline) Humphery at Park West, Edgware Road, W.

Michael Hackett (17), telephone operator, charged with stealing the jewelry, was bound over on condition that he live in a hostel.

Edward George Buswell (22), cafe manager, charged with receiving the property, was sentenced to one month's hard labor.

The case against Benjamin Richard Ling, car dealer, of Playford Rd., Finsbury Park, charged with being concerned with Buswell and two others not in custody in receiving the jewelry was put back, bail being allowed.

Detective-Inspector Stevenson said that Hackett had associated recently with undesirable characters.

Buswell had lately turned professional boxer. He was very good at it, and was spoken of highly by everyone. It was possible that he had been influenced by people he met at the cafe, of which he was manager.

Magistrate Ivan Snell: Do you know what Buswell received in the way of profits out of this?—In his statement he says £75 ($375).

AIRCRAFTSMAN FORCED SON HOLD HOT COALS IN HANDS

Explained He Was Anxious to Teach Boy Not to Steal

IS FINED $125

Brighton.—A seven-year-old boy who was alleged by the prosecution to have been forced by his father to take live coals in his hands was brought into court at Brighton, and said: "It hurt very much, and I cried."

Stanley Parrack, aged 27, a leading aircraftsman and an accounts clerk of the R.A.F. station, Hendon, was fined £25 ($125) for assaulting and ill-treating his son Dennis in a manner likely to cause the child unnecessary suffering.

Parrack, who wore uniform, pleaded not guilty.

J. Raymond Barry, prosecuting for the N.S.P.C.C., said: "The case shows the conduct of a course of deliberate and ruthless cruelty, including one specific act (handling of live coals) which amounts almost to inhuman barbarity.

"That, apparently, was Parrack's idea of punishing the child for some offence he may or may not have committed."

Mr. Barry said Parrack visited his home at Brighton most weekends, staying with his wife, Dennis, and a baby daughter.

Dr. S. J. Firth, medical superintendent of Brighton municipal hospital, said the boy's left ear was bruised and swollen to three times its normal size. The palm surface of each hand was badly blistered and septic, consistent with having been burned.

The boy, brought into court, held up his hands to show the palms, and said, "I had to pick coals out of the fire. I took a watch and gave it to a girl in the street.

"When I got home daddy hit me and then, when mummy went up to bed, he made me take coals out of the fire."

Parrack, giving evidence, said that until Dennis was seven he lived with his grandparents, and went to live with him and his wife last August. "I found," said Parrack, "that he had been mollycoddled. I also discovered that he had been in the habit of stealing money. I told him the cure for taking what did not belong to him was to have his fingers burned."

Parrack said that later Dennis admitted stealing a watch, and added:

"I told him he knew what happened to boys who stole. A coal had already fallen out of the fire—it was black, and as far as I knew was not hot. It told him to pick it up. Dennis did so, and did not make any bother about it. I was not aware he had burned himself to the extent which has since been stated. I never intended to hurt him."

BEGGARS OF CROYDON CHASED BY TYPHOID

Croydon.—When the typhoid outbreak was at its height beggars and buskers disappeared from the streets of Croydon. Now they are back in greater numbers than ever.

The streets are lined with musicians, singers, match sellers, toy vendors, and even jugglers; Croydon is once more the buskers' paradise.

Shopkeepers protest that street singers drive away trade by causing potential customers to walk on the opposite side of the road.

DON'T USE BACON FOR BOOK MARKS

Eastleigh, Hants.—Borrowers from the public library are not, after all, in the habit of using rashers of bacon and kippers as book-marks.

A suggestion that they were arose at a meeting of the borough council when Alderman S. F. West said that 1,500 books out of the total stock of 16,000 had to be withdrawn last year owing to their greasy condition.

"No—no," said J. E. Hoskins, the librarian, to a reporter. "We have never found a rasher of bacon or a kipper as a mark in a returned book. This was the chairman's way of drawing public attention to the treatment of the books."

All the same free book-marks are to be issued.

ASSYRIAN PATRIARCH FORCED INTO HIDING

Picturesque Figure Carrying Out Spirit of British Foreign Office Ban

London.—Exile in London for five years, Eshai Mar Shimun, 29-year-old patriarch of 180,000 Assyrians scattered over six countries, has gone into hiding.

He has had to do this to carry out the spirit of a foreign office ban.

He plans to spend his life travelling among his flock after obtaining British nationality.

Meanwhile the foreign office has put him on parole not to take up the cause of his people officially while in England.

So great has been the interest aroused by his situation that he has decided to "disappear" to avoid embarrassment.

Eshai Mar Shimun, spiritual and temporal leader of the Assyrians, has at present no nationality.

Hundreds of his people, he fears, are dying of famine in the Khabur settlement in northeastern Syria.

In Cyprus and America bishops are waiting for his consecration. But he cannot visit them because the passport on which he could formerly travel expires in a few days.

As soon as his British citizenship is granted, he will leave for Cyprus and America, where, clad in turban, black robes and scarlet-lined cloak and sash, he will perform his official duties among Assyrian exiles.

MINE WHEEL TURNS THREE MEN INJURED

Thrown Into Pit 12 Feet Deep at Welsh Colliery

Cardiff.—Five men were repairing a 30-foot high fan wheel at Britannic colliery, Gilfach, Glamorgan, when it unexpectedly began to revolve.

Three of them were thrown into an inspection pit 12 feet deep.

Mansel Davies, of Garden Village, who was working at the highest point of the wheel, was carried completely round before being thrown clear.

His life was saved by the presence of mind of his workmate, Alwyn Thomas, who, although badly shaken, jumped clear and stopped the wheel.

By this time Davies had become dizzy and could not have held on any longer.

David Lewis, colliery mechanic; Percy Richards, his assistant, both of Gilfach Goch, and Alfred Brown, of Tonyrefail, were taken from the colliery in ambulances, but were found not to have been badly injured.

70-Year-Old Hairdresser Finds Self in Court

Wokingham.—A Sunday Trading Act inspector saw Harry Evans, 70-year-old hairdresser, leave his home in Orme St., Reading, on a bicycle with a box containing the implements of his trade.

The inspector followed five miles to the village of Twyford, and there found him cutting the hair of a farmer in a farmyard.

The story was told at Wokingham police court when Evans pleaded guilty to an offence under the act.

The summons was dismissed under the Probation of Offenders Act. "Don't do it again, not in the open anyway," the chairman said.

Anyway, the new reform shows that the French ministry of war and general staff have still found some time for fashion problems, despite the armament race and war psychosis.

KING'S MUMMY HAND IS GIVEN NEW SHRINE

Rested in Budapest for 900 Years—Hungary's Most Sacred Relic

Budapest.—A shrine containing the mummified right hand of St. Stephen, the most sacred relic in Hungary, was moved recently for the first time for 900 years.

It was taken in a golden train from Budapest to Estergom, where St. Stephen, a king of Hungary, was born in 977. He died in 1038.

The specially constructed carriage, in which the shrine reposed on a cloth of red velvet, was richly gilded and ornamented. In its glass sides there gleamed stained glass portraits of Hungarian saints. Sixteen "guardians of the Hungarian crown," in red uniforms and white cloaks, kept watch over the shrine during the journey.

As the train steamed out of the decorated West station, all the church bells in Budapest and Estergom were rung in proclamation of the news.

Many religious celebrations followed in Estergom, which is the residence of Cardinal Seredi, prince primate of Hungary. Eight foreign cardinals assembled there following the International Eucharistic congress in Budapest.

TRIBES YELL INSULTS BUT CAN'T SPAN GAP

Anthropologist Says New Guinea Natives Have Old Egyptian Customs

Melbourne, Victoria.—A new high in neighborly squabbles was reported here by E. C. Chinnery, government anthropologist, when he returned from a trip in the hinterland of New Guinea. He told of fortified mountain villages on peaks so close to one another the natives hurled insults across the gaps.

Chinnery said he found stone pestles and mortars like those used in ancient Egypt for recovering gold from quartz, and declared the New Guinea natives also mummified their dead. He found well-cultivated terraced and hanging gardens, and permanent parks maintained for tribal ceremonies.

The code of one tribe required each youth to kill a man before he could be initiated to manhood.

WOUNDED PANTHER ATTACKS MAHARAJAH IN AUTOMOBILE

Aide-de-Camp Accidentally Shoots Self in Leg During Tussle

TWO IN HOSPITAL

New Delhi.—As the maharajah of the junior state of Dewas, central India, was returning to Bombay from a shooting expedition in Khandwa forest, a panther leaped into his car from the edge of the jungle and mauled him.

The maharajah, who took two aides-de-camp and a beater with him, had shot three panthers and had wounded a fourth, which escaped.

When the party had gone a quarter of a mile on their return journey the panther jumped into the back seat of the car and attacked the maharajah.

One of the aides tried to hit the animal with the butt of his gun. The gun went off and a bullet pierced the aide's leg.

The beater then shot the panther.

The party drove to the nearest railway station where first aid was given to the maharajah and the A.D.C.

On arriving at Bombay the two men were taken to hospital.

New Insanity Aid May Slow Up Divorce Actions

LONDON, July 2—(CP). — An apparent insanity cure through use of a drug has prompted the medical profession to view with increased mistrust the divorce law provision enabling a petition to cite "incurable" insanity as a cause.

The British Medical Journal cites the case of a woman who had been confined for seven years to an asylum suffering from schiz-phrenia (split personality) of a depressive type and whose husband was contemplating divorce proceedings against her.

The woman's history said that after her admittance to the institution she suffered apparent progressive demenita with faulty habits, complete self-neglect and impulsive suicidal tendencies extending over years.

Last March she was reported to be emaciated and "portraying little evidence of mind."

A month later she had a spontaneous epileptic seizure and for the next two days showed great mental improvement. She spoke rationally and started knitting.

Within a few days she lapsed into her former state. Physicians decided to induce further epilepsy by injections of pentamethylenetetrazol. The woman's condition improved immediately, both physically and mentally, so that she was "scarcely recognizable as the same person."

The report said:

"She shows ever promise of making a good recovery and her physical improvement is equally marked. All faultiness of habit has disappeared and she now takes pride in her personal appearance.

"An interesting side aspect of this case lies in the fact that her husband, regarding her as hopeless, contemplate divorce proceedings under the new matrimonial act. Within the short period of one months the complexion of this case has totally altered and it affords an instance of the need for extreme caution before adjudging an apparently hopeless case as incurable."

SARNIA, Ont. July 2 — (CP). — Police Magistrate C. S. Trent River Collie Loses Her Pups So Adopts Two Kittens

(Examiner Correspondence.)

Trent River, July 2.

WHAT SEEMS a strange freak of nature—a dog mothering kittens—can be seen at the home of Mr. V. Chaplin.

The collie had a litter of pups which mysteriously disappeared. The house cat had a batch of four kittens — three weeks old. "Queenie" the dog, to console herself, decided to adopt two of the kittens and going to the house carried two, one yellow and one grey in color, by the back of the neck to her house. The kittens get nourishment from "Queenie."

Each time the kittens are taken back to their mother, the dog immediately goes and picks out the same two kittens and carries them away. When the mother cat comes for her offspring "Queenie" shows her disapproval by growling.

Civil War Days Lived Again By 2 Canadians

GETTYSBURG, Pa., July 2 (CP) —Two aged Canadians on Friday looked back through the dimming years to the days when they fought by land and sea in the war between the States.

The Canadians who attended the seventy-fifth anniversary of the Battle of Gettysburg, where more than 2,000 surviving veterans of the blue and the gray are now bivouacked, are:

Captain Mark Berry, 94, of Port Stanley, Ont., who served as a gunner on the frigate Santee in the capture of New Orleans by Admiral Farragut of the Northern Navy, and Colonel J. W. Miller, 93, of Peterborough, Ont., who enlisted as a boy of 14 under the name of his brother, William F. Miller, to be accepted.

Colonel Miller is one of only twenty-seven veterans registered here who served with the Sixth United States Cavalry in the Battle of Gettysburg. Captain Berry is believed the sole survivor of Santee's personnel.

Wounded At Fairfield

"My regiment was detached from brigade to intercept some confederate wagons at Fairfield," Colonel Miller said. "We came on a heavy body of Confederate cavalry in a valley, and swooped down on them, though our force was inferior in numbers.

"One of them slashed my head with a sword. My heavy campaign hat saved me from being killed, but I fell and when I came to my boots had been stripped off and I was a prisoner."

Colonel Miller said he stayed two months in Libby prison, at Richmond, Va., before being exchanged.

"We had to sleep abreast in prison, so close that if one wanted to move, the lot of us had to. They pretty near starved us, but I liked the Southerners. They did not have enough to eat themselves."

Colonel Miller, attending with his son, Burton Miller, took his family, including two other sons and three daughters, to visit the spot where he was captured, when they arrived. They are Mrs. Lillian Snyder, Misses Ada and Ethel Miller, and Frederick C., and Gordon C. Miller, all of Peterborough.

Ruddy-cheeked Captain Berry, licensed to sail on fresh or salt water, had two ships sink under him in storms on Lake Erie, when he turned commercial skipper after the Civil War.

"I was oyster fishing in New Orleans when the war broke out," he chuckled. "I was just 18 then. I went back as far as Buffalo and enlisted in the United States Navy when they were paying Canadian sailors good money to join."

Born in Sussex, England, he moved to Canada with his family when eight years of age, and soon afterward became the support of his mother and seven brothers and sisters, when his father died.

Too Much To Eat

As captain of his own vessels, he cargoed lumber, coal and iron on the lakes, once sailed around Cape Horn, and worked two years in the African trade.

"It's a great git-up here," he observed, "they're giving us too much to eat, though."

A number received treatment, mostly for over-exertion. None was in serious condition. The old soldiers scorned to take their ease, ride in wheel chairs or summon Boy Scouts and other attendants. Most of the men who faced each other once as foes, tramped ceaselessly over the fields where they fought under Lee and Meade.

Picnic Rained Out On Dominion Day

(Examiner Correspondence.)

APSLEY, July 2. — The United Church's annual July 1st picnic was somewhat handicapped by the morning's rain, and it had to be turned into an indoor affair. Supper was served in the parish hall, where there was also a fancy bazaar, sale of work and other attractions, and in spite of the threatening weather a good crowd attended the function. In the evening "The Path Across the Hill," a three-act play, was performed before a large audience, the performers coming from Bancroft at short notice. The play was well acted throughout and deserved the approbation with which it was received.

CHAPTER 28

THE FOLLOWING days were extremely busy ones for all of them. It is amazing how much is to be done when a new estate is being set up, especially of the owner and builder are anxious to have personal contact with it, to put heart interest into practically every board and stone.

Ellen had discovered the beauty of rocks when she had first come to her ranch acerage, and instantly had developed ideas.

"I want a great big room somewhere," she had ordered, "for a sort of den, or hobby place. I want to put our own-my own collections in it."

"Going in for animal heads, men, or postage stamps?" Bill had teased good-naturedly.

At any rate she gave this room her personal attention. She would ride out for three hours, return with saddle bags stuffed with rocks she had picked up on the hillsides. Red stones bigger than her fists would sometimes be streaked with brilliant turquoise green—a manifestation of copper mineral. Other pieces were bronzed, or slate colored, or pink, or blue. Some were clear like crystal. Some had stripes and patterns. One day she came home in considerable excitement and sought out Buckshot Brown.

"It was as big as a fireplace log, almost!" she told him. "A piece of rock just like a tree, Uncle Buckshot! It really was. It even had a perfect knot, a limb sticking out an inch or two on one side. It was a beautiful red. It looked just like part of a tree. It—"

He interrupted her then.

"Why you young dude, thet was a tree! Ain't you never heard of petrified wood? Th' petrified forest up in nothern part of th' state? There's logs like thet scattered here'n there all around th' southwest!"

The piece weighed more than Ellen, so he rode out to help her pack it home. Together they ensconced it on the center of a rock table she was building in her den. He told her petrified wood is almost the hardest mineral to be found, save for diamonds; and he rigged up a hand-cutting and polishing outfit, from which he was soon turning out some beautiful, gleaming, picture stones suitable for bracelets and rings. Black, yellow, green and orange stain in some of the chipped wood fragments often combined to make sunset scenes, or forest fires in lovely miniatur.

The oldster and the girl thus were constantly like children at play, but the ranch house became all the more complete and inhabitable therefor. The adobe brick walls were up soon, and the great oak poles were laid on for supporting, the roof, protruding through the walls a foot or two. The original Durango home had been more pueblo than "Spanish," although Spanish architecture as Amercia knows it practically all has been an adaption of Indian style. It [illegible] point of fact, the only truly [illegible]rican" architecture yet evolved. [illegible]. Durango had to fight In[illegible]ans, so he built hisself a breast[illegible]rt on a part of his main walls," Buckshot recalled. "It was just more [illegible] built up four feet so's they [illegible]d shoot through portholes cut [illegible]."

Ellen immediately caused the par[illegible]ts to be restored as nearly like the original as Buckshot could remember them.

"For a long time there was a old carreta standing about here," Buckshot next said. He was pointing to a spot in the front area or yard, near a boulder.

"You mean a cart? A wooden cart?" Ellen had seen one down in Sonora. "They're darling! Picturesque!"

"Th' same. Wooden wheels and all. I can't rightly say as to how purtlin' it was, because they always look like a devil's wife. But there they was. Its wheels was made of boards pegged together. It was there when th' Indians come. They stole it part, but some pieces lay there a long time."

Nothing more was said about it then, but next day Buckshot was quite busy with his own affairs. He rode his horse away in the morning and was gone all day. The following morning an elderly Mexican man, introduced as Juan Salazar, came into camp, and he and Buckshot went to work.

The two had been nominal friends for many years, Juan being an impecunious wood peddler who sold his burro loads of faggots in Nogales for enough money to live on. He was glad of a chance to work on the new Dale-Durango ranch. He gathered the proper boards and timbers. Labored amid much leisurely conversation, smoking, reminiscing and hammering, out in the autumn sunshine.

Nobody bothered them, and Bill quietly gave orders to the contractor on the scene that the old men were to have anything in the way of tools they required. Within a week the carreta had begun to take shape, and Bill drifted by.

"What's it gonna be, a barn?" he jibed, seriously.

"Listen here, you young Tejano," Buckshot snarled at him, "ain't you got sense enough to know what this is? Them old carretas was pic'resque; and darlin', by dads! We aim to have a genuwine one for purposes here."

"What purposes?" Bill prodded.

Buckshot threw a hammer at him and the young man dodged, laughing fit to kill. Old Juan grinned.

Nevertheless the carreta was indeed picturesque, and when Juan had done with his Mexican touches—such as wooden nails, rough handhewn tongue and bed timbers, hardwood axles, thick rawhide thongs—the carreta was an authentic Spanish restoration which would have been a valued item in any museum collection.

Ellen was delighted with it, promptly had Juan hitch his burros to the thing and take her for a slow, jolting, squeaking, but altogether happy ride. The entire force of workmen and others who now made the rancho their homes stopped to look at them, and Bill got out a camera to take pictures of Ellen riding at Juan's side. The aged Mexican felt sudden importance; dignity descended upon him.. And, to cap it all, Buckshot Brown took it as a personal affront because Ellen had chosen Juan in stead of him for that first ride, and so sulked in his tent for the remainder of that day.

The amusing aspects of the episode so warmed Bill Baron that much of his gaiety seemed to return. Ellen observed toward evening. He thought to bedevil Buckshot more about the affair, but she stopped him.

"You let him strictly alone, you big bully!" she commanded, smiling. He acquiesced, grinning back, but he didn't stop teasing her and Juan, to the delight of all the others present.

After supper he came to her tent. His mood was distinctly brighter, in sharp contrast to that which he had shown in the past two weeks, and Ellen felt happiness again welling within her. He made a brief business report, then lingered to discuss nothing in particular.

Ellen, strangely excited, wondered if he really was paying a social call and what she should do to keep him in this better mood. "Men are won through their stomachs" she had heard somewhere, but she had never learned to cook. That thought suddenly struck her as appalling. Concepcion Rivera would be commanded to teach her, tomorrow morning.

"I have never ceased to admire the bracelet you gave me," she said, with quick enthusiasm, holding up her arm. "It has never been off since it came day or night." She looked wistfully up at him.

"That's real appreciation, Ellen," he declared, and meant it.

It was a glowing moment, a beautiful interlude there in the mountain darkness with only glints of light from her tent stove. Each of them felt it. Each felt a strange lack of something to say, sensed the quiet intimacy, felt the potentialities, even the dangers there.

They to admire the stars. In arid Arizona the stars invariably are doubly close. It is not enough to say that they twinkle; they are almost intrusive with their brilliance and flickering, literally commanding attention. It is, of course, an atmospheric phenomenon, but it is extremely significant esthetically too. Ellen, gazing up in rapture, wanted to slip her hands into Bill's. But she didn't quite dare.

DOROTHY DIX

DEAR MISS DIX—I am a man in my early thirties and have been married two years. Up to the time I married I was the chief support of my family, who own a family resort hotel which I had been operating and supporting financially. When I married I left the hotel, leaving a brother in his late twenties, who could have taken my place, but who has been unable to earn any money, due partly to present circumstances and partly to his vision of becoming a big business man. Lately the family have gone deeply in debt, due to changes which were made contrary to my advice. When I married I was heavily in debt myself. I have finished paying those debts and am now paying for our household furnishings and other necessities, depriving my wife and myself of all the things that should be possible with my income. I am constantly begged and beseeched by my family for money, and although I manage to buy substantial grocery orders to send to them, I am unable to do any more than that. I tell them that I can just manage to make both ends meet, but a few days later they come begging again, and when I tell them that I can give no more they think I am cold and selfish, and that makes me sick at heart. All of this is driving me mad. What can I do?

Answer:

There is no problem harder to settle than how for a man should permit himself to be victimized by a predatory family. There are so many things to consider in it, because the heart pulls one way and the head the other, and it takes more backbone than most of us possess to say "no" when those we love come crying to us for succor.

By what process of selection a family elects one of its members the family goat, and expects him or her to spend the balance of his or her life in supporting it, no one knows. But all of us see it happening around us. Susan or John get a job as soon as they get out of school, and thereafter mother and father and the sisters and brothers sit down on the do-nothing stool and take life easy.

Father suddenly decides he is too old to work any more and chucks his job. Mother takes Susan's or John's pay envelope and uses it as she sees fit. Many times she spends her industrious child's hard-earned money in giving the other children pretty clothes and advantages and indulgences that Susan or John never had. And the younger brothers and sisters take all that the older ones have earned as their right, and neither they nor their parents feel that it is just as much up to Percival and Maud to help support the family as it is to Susan and John.

And Susan and John never stop to consider whether in enslaving themselves to their families they are not doing them more harm than good. For while it is true they support them physically, they are undermining their morale. They are breaking down their self-respect and independence and making them idlers and loafers. Certainly a husky, middle-aged man would be a better citizen if he was forced to support himself than he is living on the work of a frail young daughter. And certainly the boys and girls who were compelled to do their part in supporting the family would develop finer characters than those who are parasites on a sister of brother.

I am think now of a case of a family who for forty years kept a generous brother's nose to the grindstone. This man worked hard. He was a good money-earner. But he denied himself and his own wife and children everything but the barest necessities because first his mother and father, and then his brothers and sisters and their families made continual demands upon his purse. They were alway getting into debt and about to be sold out of house and home. They were always having operations and doctor's bills that they couldn't pay. And so they always came begging him for help that he never refused.

Finally the good brother died and there was no one to help the family any more, so all of the idle never-do-wells had to go to work to support themselves. The result was that they prospered amazingly, and now every one of them is well-to-do, independent and far happier than they were when they were depending upon brother for handouts.

* * * * * * *

DEAR MISS DIX—When I was in my early twenties I kept company with the dearest girl, who was all the world to me. Why I did not propose to her, I don't know, because we loved each other devotedly. My mother brought pressure to bear upon me, and I married a woman whom she selected. In a way she is superior to my former love, in that she is a better homemaker. She is madly in love with me and does everything she can to make my children and myself comfortable. I have the greatest admiration and respect for her. But after twenty years I am still obsessed with a desire for my young love. I can't eat or sleep, and my position is endangered, as her image is before me all the time. I see her occasionally on the street, but that is all, as she is too good to come between a man and his wife. So I must go on to the bitter end alone. Why is it that so few of us get the one we want and who was meant for us? And why is it that we always idolize the one we never marry?

A Victim.

Answer:

You have said it. It is because we didn't marry them that they remain our hearts' desires. If we had married them, we would have found them past as full of faults, just as cantankerous and as hard to live with as the ones we did marry.

The only perfect husbands and wives are the ones who married somebody else. The girl we didn't marry would never have grown old, or lost her figure, or got gray. She would always have been young and beautiful and slim and glamorous. She would never have had fussy little ways, or a high temper. She would never have nagged. She would never have objected to our staying downtown and playing poker with the boys, or been jealous of our stenographers. She always have been calm and reasonable and blind to our faults and dumb about our failings. And she would have been a perfect cook and a wizard financier and a thrilling entertainer. And so on and so forth.

And the man we didn't marry wouldn't have grown bald and paunchy, or grumbled over bills, or been niggardly about money, or been critical of our housekeeping, or a would always have been the Fairy Princess of our dreams. the only thing that can console us about having missed these paragons is that they are creatures of our imaginations, and no such persons ever existed.

COUNT UP TO NINE

IF YOU SEE the declarer has a couple of suits which will furnish most of the tricks needed for his no trump game, it is well to count a bit. When the total you get is pretty close to nine, perhaps only one shy of it, don't blindly go ahead and set up a sure trick for him by continuing your own suit. Take a whack at the one remaining suit.

South's opening bid here was 1-Club, West called 1-Heart, North and East passed and South bid 1-Spade. North's response to this was 1-No Trumps, and when South rebid his clubs, North jumped to 3-No Trumps.

East led the heart 7 and West immediately cashed his three high hearts and led a fourth heart to clear the suit. The fact that he had no entry to cash the remaining heart, as well as the fact that he set up what apparently was a very necessary trick for North, never seemed to occur to him. He had a splendid chance to wreck the contract by switching to the diamond Q, as the dummy's cards made the contract seem very likely unless his side could find a weak spot in diamonds.

That play could have given his side seven tricks before North could have gained control.

Goodnight Story

By MAX TRELL

"Ah, good afternoon—I'm glad to see you!" Ting-a-Ling greeted Knarf and Hanid, the shadow children, who had just come down into the blue China plate. "I haven't seen you in such a long time I've just thought of a wonderful new improvement."

"An improvement, Ting-a-Ling?" Hanid exclaimed.

"What kind of an improvement?" Knarf wanted to know. Some of Ting-a-Ling's improvements were pretty curious, like the stairs that only went down and never went up, and the cellar which was on the roof because it was too damp down below.

"It's a wonderful improvement."

"Oh," said Ting-a-Ling, "it's really a wonderful improvement. It's for making curls in girls' hair."

"That must really be wonderful," said Hanid, who had very nice curls. "What is it like?"

"It's a comb. All you have to do is comb your hair with this improved comb and—presto! the curls are all made. But it's not an ordinary comb. It's much different from any other comb you've ever seen."

Teeth Are Curly.

"How is it different, Ting-a-Ling?"

"Well, in an ordinary comb the teeth are all straight. In my comb the teeth are all curly. In fact, they're made of the curliest things in the whole world. They're made of little pigs' curly tails. Nothing is curlier than little pigs' tails, that's why my new comb is so wonderful. It makes curls in girls' hair the instant it touches it."

Hanid was quite excited about the new comb. She wanted to try it at once. "Let me see it, Ting-a-Ling," she begged.

"Oh, I forgot to tell you. I haven't made it yet. But it won't be much trouble. All I have to do is find some little pigs and get their permissions to cut off their tails. I don't think they'll mind, do you? They don't use their tails for anything."

And Ting-a-Ling smiled again. He was one of the happiest persons in the world, always making improvements in things.

TOKYO, July 2—(AP).—Twenty-one persons were known dead and 15 were missing to-day as the worst rains in 20 years engulfed all Japan's main islands.

At Yokohama a cliff caved in, crushing five homes and killing 12 persons, most of whom were believed to be Koreans. Other casualties included seven killed at Mito and Yokosuka when houses collapsed.

Almost 50,000 houses were flooded in Tokyo. Railroads and power lines were disrupted.

Wife Preservers

If you like to wear rubber gloves when doing dirty jobs about the house, and perspiration makes your hands sticky and hot, wear white cotton gloves under the rubber ones. Get rubber gloves large enough so that they will not cramp your fingers.

We Noticed

....Tho' Friday's gentle rain may have interfered a bit with well-laid plants, it didn't keep everyone indoors; the streets were dotted with bright spots of colour as Peterborough folk sauntered forth, jauntily attired in slick, colorful raincoats, and carrying gay umbrellas.

....Particularly interesting was one lovely combination, when a transparent lavender cape of the material so closely resembling cellophane was worn over a dress of purple which had a rose silk scarf draped at the neckline.

....Interesting also the oilcloth coat of leaf-green belted trimly at the waistline, its wearer carrying an umbrella of sunny yellow... and a tweedy raincoat with black background, brightened by the addition of a flowered oilsilk umbrella and the huge red bag the young lady carried under her arm.

In passing the Grade 2 theory examination with first class honors, which was held recently by the Toronto Conservatory of Music, Miss Northey is a pupil of Miss Laura Grylls of Lakefield.

Peterborough was today visited by Miss Rhea M. Muir of Hamilton, who for the past ten years has been active in international travel promotion between Canada, United States and England, eight years of which she has represented the Broadway of American Highway Association, extending from New York to San Diego, Cal., via Washington, along which one-third of the United States' population resides.

Claim Canada's Air Defense Is No Defense

GUELPH, July 2. — Repeating his recent charge that Canada's air defence was in reality no defence at all, Colonel George Drew said last night that unless Canadians who had the opportunity of know the facts were prepared to forget politics and tell the truth, the country would be confronted with a situation "beside which the Ross rifle scandal will seem unimportant."

Colonel Drew made this statement in an address at the Dominion Day dinner of the Western Ontario Imperial Veterans. He warned that Canada was less able to defend herself to-day than at any time since she became a nation. To back up this assertion he pointed to the fact that the speed of Royal Canadian Air Force machines, including bombers and fighting craft, was more than fifty miles an hour less than the speed of ordinary commercial planes flying in the United States.

140 M.P.H. Against 300 M.P.H.

Speed of Canadian machines did not exceed 140 miles an hour, yet this was the type of aircraft with which the Royal Canadian Air Force was supposed to defend Canada against fighting aircraft capable of hurtling through the air at more than 300 miles an hour, the speaker pointed out.

"In the face of these figures, the simple and inescapable fact is that in the air we have no real defence at all," said Colonel Drew. "In 1933 the Canadian Legion went on record as being opposed to private profiteering in the primary implements of warfare, such as rifles, machines and artillery weapons which have no possible use except in war. Veterans' organizations across Canada should reiterate that demand in one strong voice.

Duty as Well as Right.

"If it was necessary to form munitions boards, composed of men who really knew something about producing munitions, before the British Armies were properly equipped during the Great War, surely it is no less necessary to do the same thing at a time when the British Empire again finds itself in need of military equipment," said Colonel Drew. "It is not only the right, it is the duty of those whose experience gives them special knowledge to point out to the Canadian public that, having regard to the dreadful increase in the quantity and efficiency of military equipment throughout the world, Canada is less able to defend herself to-day than at any time since she became a nation."

Although the weapons with which the Militia units of Canadian infantry, cavalry and artillery train were all obsolete, they were relatively much better than the equipment of what was supposed to be the first line of defence—the Royal Canadian Air Force, he continued. Colonel Drew said the suggestion that it was a breach of confidence to give the speed of Canadian aircraft was a "grim joke on the Canadian public."

For the first time in history both North and South take part in the anniversary encampment.

Rains Increase Chinese Floods

SHANGHAI, July 2—(CP).—New rains swept the middle and lower Yangtse River valley today, increasing flood dangers in the path of a Japanese offensive against Hankow, China's provisional capital.

The campaign, apparently, was stalled at the Matowchen Boom, a sunken barricade in the Yangtse, about 175 miles downstream from Hankow.

Chinese reported today they had recaptured defence positions two miles east of the boom with reinforcements brought up to oppose Japanese efforts to blast an opening for naval vessels.

Air forces of both nations continued to operate despite rain and fog. Chinese reported a Japanese bomber shot down in the Yangtse sector.

Chinese expressed belief the Japanese might attempt to strike south of the river to cut the Canton-Hankow railroad, main avenue of imported war supplies, at Changsha, 250 miles southwest of Hankow.

Capture of Changsha would serve two purposes—isolate Hankow from the south by severing the railroad and open a new line of attack on the capital itself.

Rap Gangster Movies

PHILADELPHIA, July 2 — (AP) —A United States ban on gangster movies and crime magazines was advocated yesterday by the Knights of St. John, National Catholic Beneficial organization, at their biennial convention. A resolution to that end as unanimously adopted by the 300 delegates.

Driver Cleared In Death Of Otonabee Youth

Investigating the death of 14-year-old Arthur Drummond of Otonabee as the result of a car-bicycle accident on the Keene road on the evening of Thursday, June 23, a coroner's jury which sat under Dr. Herbert Young in the police court Thursday night exonerated Archie McIntyre, 23, of Otonabee, the driver of the automobile involved from all blame.

After stating that the young bicyclist had come to his death as the result of toxemia, originating from an injury to his knee occasioned when his bicycle was struck by a car driven by McIntyre, the verdict concluded as follows:

"We are of the opinion that while this is a very regrettable case, still we hesitate to blame the driver of the car, Mr. McIntyre, who we think used his best judgment in trying to swerve around the boy's left in order to pass.

Apparently the victim of the accident became confused and changed his direction just as Mr. McIntyre was about to pass him and rode in front of the car with the above result."

There was some conflicting evidence as to several features of the accident.

The two boys who were with young Drummond testified that he had been riding his bicycle on the left side of the road and that he was attempting to get back to the right side when he was hit, while the driver and Frank Turner, a passenger in his car, swore that the accident occurred when Drummond turned still further to the left as the automobile was about to pass him. Again the other two bicyclists declared that they did not hear the sound of a horn until the car was almost upon them and then only heard it once and on the contrary, McIntyre and two other witnesses stated that the car horn was sounded continuously for several hundred yards.

Crown Attorney V. J. McElderry, K.C. examined the witnesses, nine in all.

L. L. Maguire was foreman of the jury and the other members were Harry Campbell, William Lynch, Chas. Ireson, Matthew J. Allen, Joseph Odette, Earl Maniece, W. J. Jamieson, John Gibson, John Grimison, W. L. Sharpe and Nicholas O'Toole.

Going For Swim.

After William Drummond, father of the boy, had given identification evidence Allen Drummond, one of his companions on the night of the accident, testified that he, Arthur Drummond and Stewart Manley had been on their way to Keene for a swim when the accident occurred at the foot of Pine Hill on the Keene road. The witness said he and Stewart Manley were riding bicycles on the right side of the road and Arthur Drummond was riding his wheel in the left hand track, as the three went down the hill. Suddenly they heard a car behind them. Witness said he saw Arthur Drummond look back when the car was 30 or 40 feet away. The car was very close to the left side of the road within a foot or two and young Drummond tried to get across to the right side but couldn't make it because the car was too close. The automobile was going about 15 miles an hour when it struck the rear wheel of Drummond's bicycle and when the witness got off his wheel and went to the scene, the boy and his bicycle were both in the ditch. He saw Archie McIntyre, the driver of the car, pick the boy up and put him in his automobile and drive away with him.

In answer to a question from the Crown Attorney the young witness said that he had not heard the sound of a horn before the accident.

Provincial Constable David Silvester described the scene of the accident. It had occurred, he said, on Pine Hill, on a good gravel road, with a driving surface of 22 feet. From the brow of the hill a driver could see ahead for a mile and one-half to two miles and from the top to where the accident occurred would have a clear view for a quarter of a mile.

Death From Toxemia.

Dr. A. G. Howson, gave medical testimony as to the injury sustained by young Drummond and as to the cause of his death. He said the boy had a horse-shoe shaped wound on his left knee, with a long flap of the skin lifted up and some of the muscle tissues crushed. Subsequently infection set in and although all the customary precautions as to cleansing and disinfecting had been taken, toxemia developed and the boy's death followed.

Dr. H. Wright of Keene, to whose surgery young Drummond was taken by McIntyre following the accident gave similar evidence as to his injuries which included numerous abraisions and bruises in addition to the cut on the knee which was filled with sand and grass when he first saw it. Speaking of the blood poisoning that developed after young Drummond had been in St. Joseph's hospital for several days Dr. Wright said that it was not the ordinary form of infection which produced pus but was a much more poisonous type.

Stewart Manley, 16, who was with the two Drummonds when the accident happened corroborated Allen Drummond's evidence as to the position of the three bicycle riders when the car approached.

"Did you hear an auto horn blowing", asked Crown Attorney McElderry.

"Yes, I heard the horn when the car was very close to us".

"Did you hear it more than once?"

"No, I only heard it once".

"I heard the car brakes go on", said the witness", and I saw Arthur look back and as he did so he sort of lost his balance and wavered more toward the left ditch. Then he tried to get over to the right side and was hit".

Witness Collapses.

The witness suddenly collapsed in the witness box at this point and was assisted outside by Coroner Young and Detective W. Meagher. He quickly recovered and returned to complete his evidence, being allowed to sit down.

He said Arthur Drummond had been riding a bicycle for some seven years and was a good rider.

Clayton Turner, who lives near the scene of the accident, told of hearing the horn of McIntyre's car as it came over the hill. At the same time he saw the boys riding down the hill on their wheels. The sound of the horn was loud enough to attract his attention as he sat in his house, and he testified that it continued in one continuous blast for several hundred yards. He estimated that the car was travelling at 30 miles an hour when it came over the hill, and it was going at the same speed as it descended. Witness heard the crash but did not see the accident.

Turner estimated that the scene of the accident was at least 300 yards from the brow of the hill.

"The driver would have clear vision all the way?" asked Mr. McElderry, and the witness agreed.

Frank Turner, brother of the last witness, testified that he was riding on the front seat of McIntyre's car and that they were on their way to Keene for a swim. He said that when they drove over the brow of the hill at 25 or 30 miles an hour they saw the boys ahead of them on their bicycles. "They seemed to be taking up the whole road," witness stated. "One was riding on each side and the third in the centre."

Horn Was Blowing.

McIntyre, he said, blew his horn all the way down the hill. Arthur Drummond, according to the witness, looked round when the car had got about 10 yards from his bicycle, started to waver on his wheel, pulled over to the left, rode for about 10 feet near the grass, and then got into the gravel. McIntyre's car was over as far to the left as it could get when the collision occurred.

"Why couldn't he have gone between the boys?" asked the Crown Attorney.

"I don't think there was room," replied the witness.

"Why didn't he go into the ditch or stop his car before striking the bicycle?"

"The ditch was pretty deep there."

"Wouldn't it have been better to have gone into the ditch rather than strike the boy?"

"Yes," replied Turner, slowly.

Archie McIntyre's version of the accident was much the same as that of the previous witness, except that he said that just after he had driven over the brow of the hill, there were two other bicyclists not mentioned by any of the other witnesses. He had sounded his horn and they had pulled over to the right to let him past. Then further down the hill were the other three boys on their wheels. He said he blew his horn continuously and put on his brakes as he approached the boys.

Arthur Drummond was over on the left side of the road and McIntyre said he thought his best course was to get well over to the left to pass him. He accelerated a little to go past, and as he did so the boy turned further over to the left and was struck. McIntyre said his brakes were in good shape, and the horn could be described as loud. He had been driving for years and had never had an accident except for the matter of a hub cap.

View the Car.

McIntyre's car was parked on the Market Square and the jury expressed a desire to inspect it and test the horn before considering their verdict. On their return to the court room, Coroner Young said that it was their duty to decide how an accident could happen on a road where there was a clear view and in broad daylight.

Wife Who Was Cross and Touchy

Put Herself Right With Kruschen

"I am 39 years of age," a woman writes, "Yet some days I have been feeling and looking 100 years old. I would get fits of exhaustion for no good reason at all. I was not fit to live with because I would be so cross and touchy. I did not seem to have an ambition to do my housework, and was tired all the time.

"Two years ago I had sciatica all down my left side from the hip My doctor says all this is caused through my nerves. I took Kruschen and found it helped me very much. Since I started taking it I am a different person. My work seems a lot easier and I have a lot more energy."—(Mrs.) G.M.

The "little daily dose" of Kruschen puts an end to tiredness and depression because it restores the eliminating organs to proper activity by providing them with the daily reminder and daily aid that they need. Cleansed and invigorated blood is sent circulating all over the system, carrying new vitality to every nerve and new vigour to every limb.—Advt.

Wells.

The program was brought to a close by another guitar number by Miss Scott and Blewett, and following words of thanks from Mr. Williams to those who had provided the entertainment, and assisted in any way in making this annual popular event a success, the National Anthem brought the evening to a conclusion.

Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd J. Byam have bought the Grandy property from R. Cardwell who purchased it recently after September 1st, they expect to make their home there.

262 Already Reported Dead As States Celebrates

150 Die In Auto Mishaps On Highways, 70 Drown, Toll Mounts Hourly

NEW YORK, July 4 (AP).—At least 262 persons died violent deaths as the United States celebrated the 162nd anniversary of its independence, and the toll mounted hourly as the three-day holiday weekend drew to a close.

Reports from 46 states and the district of Columbia showed more than 150 motorists met death in highway crashes. Approximately 70 persons drowned as dense throngs sought relief from July heat at beach and lake resorts.

There were 11 suicides and at least 31 deaths from firearms, falls, heat prostration and various mishaps.

The toll, while exceeding that of the 72-hour Memorial Day weekend when 250 were killed, was still far below that of a year ago. Accidents during the Independence Day holidays last year claimed 563 lives.

Fireworks caused numerous injuries, but no deaths were reported early. Exploding fireworks in a Floral Park, N.Y., store did $10,000 damage and injured three persons.

Pennsylvania led the nation with 24 motor deaths, including six motorists killed in a collision with a trolley.

Lightning killed one persons in Indiana, and a nine-year-old boy in Mississippi was fatally injured when a driverless stunt car crashed through a fence at a fair.

Boy Is Missing In Bush Land North Of Apsley

The wild bush country in the neighborhood of Rose Island in the Township of Cardiff, in Haliburton County, is being scoured by a posse that yesterday numbered over 60 men in search of seventeen-year-old Ellwood Anderson, son of Ernest Anderson, Sr., who has been missing since last Thursday evening.

Young Anderson left his home, north-east of Apsley, that evening to round up his father's cows, which were in the woods half a mile away, taking his pet dog with him. Later in the night the dog returned alone, and the family realized that the boy had either met with an accident or was lost.

No trace of him could be found on Thursday night, but on Friday, when other residents of the district had joined in the search, footprints that were thought to be those of the missing boy were found near a small lake. Since then no further clue has been discovered. The country is sparsely settled, and mostly timber and rock.

Many men from Coe Hill and some from the Apsley district augmented the ranks of the searchers yesterday and an appeal was made to the Peterborough police for assistance in securing bloodhounds to help in the search. The local department had to reply that they knew of no such dogs in this district.

Three were killed and seven wounded by a bomb thrown at a bus in the Jewish quarter here and one was killed and three others hurt in a fight. Bombs thrown at the Jaffa-Tel Avive boundary killed four and wounded five.

Several villagers were kidnapped in the Samaria region. The mayor of Jericho was robbed while travelling on the Jerusalem highway.

Boy Aged Ten Drowned At Hastings

Steps Into Hole While Bathing Had Sister's Hand

(Examiner Correspondence.)

HASTINGS, July 4. — Charles Philpott, aged ten, of 152 Oak Park, Toronto, drowned here on Saturday night about 8.45, standard time, in the first fatality of this kind here this year. The accident occurred when Charles, accompanied by his sister Jean, aged fifteen, and Sylvia Kirk, aged ten, of Hastings, went bathing just about dark.

Charles and his sister waded into the water holding hands about 200 yards west of the locks and at the end of the canal wall. The shore at this point drops at almost a 45-degree angle. The unfortunate boy, who was unable to swim, walked out beyond his depth, still holding sister's hand. She quickly released his grasp when the boy began to struggle, fearing he might pull her under.

Plenty of People Around.

"There were lots of people around but no one would help me, so I ran across the road and told a lady at one of the houes," Jean told The Examiner.

Her screams were apparently disregarded by campers not 20 yards away. There were about ten tents pitched on the park. Across the road, less than 100 feet, are a row of residences. Miss Mary Barry, residing across the road, soundes the alarm.

The body was recovered after 20 minutes in 12 feet of water by Albert Scriver and Cecil Scriver with grappling irons. Dr. W. N. Campbell, Hastings, assisted by bystanders, worked over the body for an hour before he was pronounced dead. Coronto Dr. C. C. Armstrong of Warkworth investigated.

Arrived on Saturday.

Charles and Jean arrived here with friends on Saturday afternoon for two weeks' holidays. Their parents arrived here early on Sunday morning, and said they believed their son suffered a heart attack, as Dr. Campbell found no water in his lungs on examination as soon as he arrived.

Churchill's Swans Worth $150 To Him

WESTERHAM, England, July 4 (C.P. Cable). — An ornithological development attributed to the Official Secrets Act investigation was disclosed to-day when Winston Churchill posted a reward for the return of three black swans which fled his lake at Chartwell Manor during last week's Parliamentary storm.

Mr. Churchill offered £10 ($50) for the return of each bird, or five shillings for information leading to their recovery. It was explained the statesman was so busy with the case in which his son-in-law, Duncan Sandys, is involved that he forgot to order his keepers to clip the birds' wings.

The veteran Conservative imported the swans from Australia. The birds were so confused at the change of seasons that they hatched six cygnets on Christmas Day when the ground was covered with snow.

MacPherson Possible Tory Dark Horse

OTTAWA, July 4 (CP).—As delegates for the National Conservative convention arrived on every train and by motor along all highway approaches to Ottawa, experienced party men today began to wonder whether a "dark horse" might carry off the leadership when the votes are counted Thursday.

The name most prominently mentioned in this connection is that of Murdock A. MacPherson of Regina. A former attorney-general and treasurer of Saskatchewan, Mr. MacPherson is looked upon as one of the ablest of the younger men in the party.

6-Year-Old Delegate

OTTAWA, July 4 (CP)—William Herridge, Jr., six-year-old son of the former Canadian minister to Washington, will be the youngest delegate to the Conservative national convention opening here tomorrow.

The convention committee today named the boy, a nephew of Conservative Leader Bennett, a delegate-at-large. He will have full voting rights but whether he will attend and use them is not known.

A Warmish Job

TIMMINS, Ont., July 4.—(CP).—A colony of bees arrived at the home of D. L. Stefanich and disturbed the peace by chasing people, so Stefanich called the police. Constable Jack Atkinson used rubber gloves, cheese cloth and prayers and got the bees into a barrel. The bees, whose owner could not be located, were given to a farmer just outside Timmins.

Wouldn't Buy Wheat Off Democracies Even If Starving Says Il Duce

Aprilia, Italy, July 4.

PREMIER MUSSOLINI declared today Italy would need to buy no wheat despite this year's short crop.

He told cheering citizens of this grain growing area, on the day when the first wheat was being threshed, Italy would not have bought from the "so-called democracies" even if bread necessary for life had been lacking.

When the Premier finished his brief speech he stripped to the waist, donned dark glasses, and helped the farmers with the threshing.

363 Ascania Passengers Saved As Liner Hits Rock

Emergency Squads Begin Lifting Cargo Including $1,500,000 Gold

QUEBEC, July 4 (CP).—Not far from the spot where 1,200 lives were lost in the foundering of the Empress of Ireland 24 years ago, emergency squads of longshoremen worked today to unload the liner Ascania so that the stranded liner might be towed to Quebec for repairs to a ripped hull.

The longshoremen, brought here last night to help lighten the cargo, which included $1,500,000 in gold, worked all night, loading freight aboard the lake vessel Lethbridge and the coastal ship Jean Brilliant. But it was expected four days would be required to unload cargo sufficient to permit the towing to Quebec, 155 miles away. And meanwhile, water continued to pour into the grain-laden forward holds, ripped open early Saturday when the 14,000-ton Ascania struck Alcide Rock, a submerged ledge off Bic Island.

All Passengers Saved.

Within 20 miles of the spot where word of the Empress of Ireland first was flashed to the outside world, 363 passengers were removed from the Ascania without confusion or panic. All were brought to Quebec aboard the sister-ship Ausonia, more than 200 later embarking on the liner Montclare and continuing their interrupted trip. The balance remained on the Montreal-bound Ausonia, where they were to entrain for New York and sail on the Cunard White Star liner Queen Mary.

No estimate could be made of the damage to the 13-year-old Ascania.

Passengers brought to Quebec on the Ausonia said there had been no panic. The ship had suddenly "shuddered," rolled a bit and then settled at a slight list to port." But after passengers, emerging from their staterooms to learn cause of the "grinding," were assured there was no danger, many of them returned to their bunks. Some of them believed they had struck a small boat.

Hamilton Air Crash Probe Continues

HAMILTON, Ont., July 4 (C.P.).—Inquiries into the mid-air collision between two Hamilton Aero Club airplanes on July 1, when Homer S. Chapple, 27, a private pilot, was killed, were continued to-day by Kenneth E. Whyte, Inspector of the Civil Aviation Branch, Department of Transport, Dr. J. H. Mullin, chief coroner, and Provincial Police. No decision yet has been reached whether a public inquest will be held.

"The whole trend of the fatality will be summed up as soon as all available witnesses have been interviewed," said Inspector W. T. Moore, Provincial Police. "We have been trying to avoid duplication, and it may be that an inquest will not be held. Our investigation has suggested that bad weather was responsible for the crash and that nothing contributed that would indicate it would have happened in clear weather."

Reliefers Acquitted

BRAMPTON, Ont., July 4.—(CP)—Four Lakeview men charged with keeping their children out of school were acquitted by Magistrate W. F. Woodliffe today.

Charges against the four, Fred Bailey, Elmer Meeker, John Noble and Albert Carey, were laid at Premier Mitchell Hepburn's order after the men and children formed part of a relief delegation which recently interviewed the premier at his Queen's Park office in Toronto.

Bailey is awaiting trial also on a charge of unlawful assembly, being free on $2,00 bail.

Meighen Balks But Stevens May Join Race

OTTAWA, July 4 (CP).—As Conservatives poured into the capital today for the first national party convention in 11 years, three members of parliament and a former cabinet minister were definitely in the race to succeed Rt. Hon. R. B. Bennett as party leader.

Interest in the political rally drummed up to fever pitch and tomorrow the scene will shift from the downtown hotels to the coliseum at the Ottawa Exhibition grounds on Bank street where the three-day convention will be held.

The convention committee meets today to draw up final plans for tomorrow's formal opening. Wednesday evening the nominations for the new leader will be taken and Thursday afternoon the vote will be held.

Hon. R. J. Manion, former minister of railways and canals in the Bennett administration, will be one of the nominees. Hon. J. Earl Lawson, member for York South and former minister of National revenue in the last months of the Bennett government will be another candidate along with Denton Massey, youthful member for Toronto-Greenwood and Joseph H. Harris, member for Toronto-Danforth.

Meighen Staying Out

Senator Arthur Meighen, a former leader and prime minister, has been mentioned as a possible nominee but it was learned over the weekend that a group of Parry men endeavored to persuade him to run and were not able to shake his determination to remain out of the contest.

Pre-convention speculation centred on the possible attitude Hon. H. H. Stevens, Reconstruction member for Kootenay West and former minister of trade and commerce under Mr. Bennett, would take when he takes his seat on the convention floor as a delegate from the Montreal constituency of Massoneuve-Rosemont.

Mr. Stevens has indicated he favors the Conservative party despite his break with Mr. Bennett in 1934, which led to his resignation from the cabinet and his formation of the Reconstruction party which fought the 1935 general election, but only elected one candidate — Mr. Stevens himself.

He is expected to make a statement to-day clarifying his position regarding the leadership and his stand at the convention. A whirlwind of contradictory rumors ran through Ottawa during the week-end, some indicating he would seek the party crown being relinquished

Fewer Apples

OWEN SOUND, Ont., July 4. — (CP)—George Mitchell of the Georgian Bay Fruit Growers estimates the apple crop this year will be 50 per cent less than last year's near-record crop, but this year's apples will be of much better quality. Cool spring weather with frosts caused the reduction in yield.

Holiday Rush Sets Up New Record

Low Accident Toll Proves Feature Of Double Event

TORONTO, July 4 (CP).—A mass invasion of Canada's highways and byways, believed to have been the greatest tourist movement Canadian traffic officials have ever had to handle, tapers off tonight with the end of Independence day in the United States.

Starting Thursday night, on the eve of Canada's Dominion Day, motorists began flocking to the country in steady streams that showed the importance of the tourist industry as never before. Many Canadians holidayed Saturday from work to give themselves a long week-end. United States residents, with a holiday today, swarmed through border points in a procession that taxed immigration facilities.

What amazed authorities was the scarcity of serious accidents. Two persons were killed in motor crashes Friday. On Saturday Mrs. James Reid of Brandon, Man., and Mrs. G. McCuaig of Minto, Man., were killed when cars in which they were riding overturned, and at Montreal five-year-old Pierrette Milot suffered fatal injuries when knocked down by an automobile. Thomas Anderson, 69, was killed when struck by an automobile near Havelock, Ont., last night.

Eight Drownings

To a toll of three drownings reported Friday were five more Saturday and Sunday, all in Ontario. Garth Lockhart, 23, of Toronto, drowned when a canoe upset in Lake Ontario and Donald Bradley, 18, of Chelmsford, while swimming in a creek near his home. Billie Ray, 12, is believed to have slipped into a quarry near Cornwall while leaning over to get a drink. His body was recovered a few minutes later.

Ten-year-old Charles Philpott of Toronto got beyond his depth in the Trent River near Hastings and grappling irons were required to recover his body. Watching the swirling Niagara River, Louis Cedenese, 5, of Niagara Falls, Ont., tumbled in from a water gauge and drowned despite his brothers efforts to save him.

Record-smashing at border points started at Gananoque, Ont., when 212 automobiles were brought across from Clayton, N.Y., on the ferry Saturday—the previous high mark was 203. Approximately 6,500 cars crossed the St. Clair River into Sarnia, Ont., in less than two days from Port Huron, Mich. The population of Midland, Ont., doubled overnight as tourists arrived to swim and fish in Georgian Bay.

Windsor, Ont., and Fort Erie, Ont., starting points on the shortest route between Buffalo and Detroit, were crowded with United States visitors. At Fort Erie immigration men said the movement of tourists was 15 per cent greater than last July 4 week-end, when a record of 25,000 automobiles was handled. The Fort Erie authorities said they were 'too busy" to arrive at a definite figure and Windsor officials were too busy to guess last night.

Stolen Auto Tour Nets Thief Year

COBOURG, Ont., July 4 (C.P.).—Sidney Cowley of Toronto, who toured Ontario stealing automobiles and other articles during June, was sentenced to-day to five terms in jail all concurrent with the longest sentence one year definite and six months' indefinite.

Police told the court Cowley stole an automobile in Toronto on June 19 and abandoned it in Port Hope when he stole another owned by Warren Dunbar of Port Hope. He abandoned this near Cobourg and rode by freight train to Kingston. He returned to Cobourg in an automobile he stole at Napanee and abandoned it at Cobourg when he stole a truck owned by Sam Stover of Cobourg.

He abandoned the truck at Newcastle, where he stole Floyd Brown's automobile.

Footprint Confuses Murder Theory

HOLLYWOOD, July 4 (AP).—Discovery of another man's foot print in the car that carried King D. Gray to his death confused today the police theory that the 52-year-old movie cameraman was slain by a jealous woman.

The imprint on the rubber floormat was clear and was made about the time Gray was shot last week as he sat in his coupe in front of the Hollywood post office, reading a "Dear Daddy" letter from Miss Frances Bleakley in New Castle, Penn.

"It is still possible he was killed by a jealous rival," said Lieutenant Miles Ledbetter. "We know he led a double life with one woman and might have done the same with others."

Paraffine tests of the victim's hands proved conclusively that he did not take his life, police reported.

Weekend Tourist Business Sets Kawartha Record

Greatest Influx Of Tourists Visit Kawartha On Holiday Weekend

Peterborough district witnessed the greatest influx of tourists for the past five years over the recent weekend, and summer resorts on many lakes report that for the first time they received so large a crowd of visitors they were unable to accommodate them.

Some indications of the buying wave which reached record proportions is revealed by the fact that gasoline sales at local service stations in comparison with the same period last year are away up. Two local bread companies sold every loaf of bread in their shops, and at Apsley a stranded motorist could not buy a gallon of gas. It was all gone. He reached Burleigh on a quantity siphoned from a friend's car.

Local fishing tackle merchants are satisfied the July 1st crowds topped the buying record of any year in the last five, and several of the stores laid in new tackle supplies this morning.

A motorist on Highway 28, driving north to Peterborough, counted 310 cars on the 27-mile stretch between here and Rice Lake resort.

Officials at the Chamber of Commerce described the flow of enquiries as coming "thick and fast" today and it was also learned that summer resorts all through the district were filling up fast.

To top the tourist business boom the muskies, bass and pickerel were biting in rare form, and from Bancroft to Chemong, east to Tweed and south to Campbellford, the fishermen and women brought home catches of fish that added new laurels to the reputation of the Kawarthas as a fisherman's paradise.

A forecast made early this year that there would be a greater number of tourists but less money spent has been exploded. The tourists certainly are arriving in great numbers, and instead of spending lightly are in an orgy of buying that has brought the smile of contentment to the face of many a local merchant.

Havelock Man Is Killed By Motorcar

(Examiner Correspondence.)

HAVELOCK, July 4. — Thomas Anderson, 69, single and a pensioned railway employee, who resided just east of this village, was instantly killed at the eastern outskirts of Havelock at 9.25 o'clock standard time Sunday night when he was hit by a motor car driven by Russell West, 17, of Stirling, as he was crossing Highway No. 7.

Anderson had walked along the sidewalk at the north side of the highway until he came to the end of the walk and was heading across the road to the sidewalk on the other side when the car driven by West crashed into him. He was close to the side of the road when struck. Death was instantaneous, the victim of the crash having both legs broken and suffering severe head injuries.

Skid marks on the pavement indicated that West, who was on his way home to Stirling from Peterborough, had applied his brakes some 78 feet before hitting the aged pedestrian.

The accident was investigated by Coroner Dr. J. C. Smith of Lakefield and Traffic Officers Lloyd McClure and Gordon Broughton of

C.C.A. Say Torch Emblem Theirs Can Never Be Fascist

TORONTO, July 4 (CP).—Members of the Canadian Corps Association emphatically protest the decision of the National Unity Party to adopt the flaming torch as its emblem, Major G. R. M. Dingle, national president of Corps Association said today. He was referring to the announcement of Adrian Arcand of Montreal that the Fascist organization he heads had decided upon the torch as its emblem.

"For more than 20 years the flaming torch has symbolized the service to their country of men who served in the Canadian Expeditionary Force," Major Dingle protested today. "For that reason it became the emblem of the Canadian Corps Association and before the end of the month it will be worn by more than 100,000 war veterans at the corps reunion in Toronto. These men are as determined as they were during the war that the principles and privileges of democracy are not to be undermined in this country.

"Every school child who has read 'In Flanders Fields' knows what the flaming torch stands for and what it signifies. The flaming torch can never and will never stand for Fascism or a Fascist organization in the Dominion. No Fascist sects can appropriate this emblem any more than they can appropriate the uniform of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police," he said.

Major Dingle said no action regarding the torch emblem was contemplated by the Corps Association. "Stealing names and labels as camouflage for subversive isms is a trick that fools nobody," he said.

Found Dead In Chair

TORONTO, July 4 (CP).—The body of James McDonald, 37, who was in good health when last seen alive Thursday, was found last night at the home of his mother-in-law, Mrs. Lillian Reith, Queen street.

Coroner Dr. W. J. O'hara said that while there were no signs of violence and the room's appearance was orderly, an autopsy would be held today. Mrs. Reith and McDonald's wife were out of town for the week-end. Authorities said the man, a harbor employee, had been dead about three days.

Slugs Wife Then Heeds Her Plea For Kiss As She Dies

SEATTLE, July 4 — (CP) — A husband who police said fatally bludgeoned his socially-prominent wife and then heeded her dying request for a farewell kiss was held today for action by the District Attorney.

The slaying, victim of which was Mrs. Emily Zigler Butte, 58, well known in San Francisco and Indianapolis social circles ended tragically a romance which once resulted in a $100,000 alienation of affections suit.

Charles Felix Butte, 58, once wealthy engineer and contractor, was held on an open charge after detective Captain Ernest Yoris quoted him as admitting he killed the woman, his second wife, as the climax to a family quarrel Friday.

Yoris said Butte told how he struck his wife with a heavy, wooden pole when they quarrelled on the eve of a projected second honeymoon which was to have followed the patching up of a recent estrangement.

Asks Farewell Kiss.

"She opened her eyes after I struck her the last time and said 'kiss me goodbye—I'm dying'," Yoris said Butte related.

"I knelt down and kissed her, and then she was dead."

In 1934, the year Butte and his second wife were married, she was named defendant in an alienation of affections suit filed in San Francisco by the first wife, Mrs. Lenor Butte, and Yoris said Butte blamed the suit for troubles which led to the slaying.

The detective said Butte told him he had turned approximately $500,000 in property over to his sons after his first wife filed her suit, and for four years had been in straitened circumstances, leading to quarrels with the second Mrs. Butte.

Butte told Yoris he planned to commit suicide. Three poison tablets were found secreted in the hollow bedpost in his young Men's Christian Association room.

"Happiness Thermometer" Sought For Damage Suits

LONDON, July 4 (C.P.). — Mr. Justice Langton wants a "thermometer of happiness" to help in assessing damages for loss of expectation of life.

He said as much in Admiralty Court hearing cross-appeals from compensation awards for relatives of nine drowned seamen.

"Some men enjoy life when they are most miserable," he remarked. "Men who have led the most miserable existences have enjoyed it infinitely more than men who had a sheltered, comfortable and untroubled career."

O. L. Bateson, one of counsel in the case, suggested a young man enjoyed more of life than an older man and compensation shguld therefore be on a more generous scale.

"I do not think a person enjoys life more at 23 than at 44," returned Mr. Justice Langton.

"I do not know whether the millionaire or the dustman has the best of it," he continued. "There must be dustmen who regard life as a much better adventure than does the jaded and careworn millionaire, who is disillusioned and blase about everything."

He recalled one court which awarded £1,000 ($5,000) to a man of 70, taking into account the added zest imparted to life by the fact he played golf.

"Are we to make it more valuable to lose a husband than to retain him?" asked Mr. Justice Langton.

Drought and frost of last winter have reduced Poland's crop expectations.

20,000 Indians Die In Cholera Epidemic

LUCKNOW, July 4 (CP-Havas).—India's death toll in the cholera epidemic sweeping the united provinces today reached 20,000 and was expected to mount still higher as native populations failed to cooperate with medical authorities.

Efforts by one medical unit at Stahu to disinfect the town's wells resulted in an attack by hostile villagers who believed they were attempting to poison the water supply. Attackers were beat off and police arrested 15.

In the last 18 days the death toll has been increased by almost 6,000 persons.

Jap Troopship Cracks Boom But Advance Short-Lived

Chinese Hurl Transport's Army Back With Heavy Casualty Count

SHANGHAI, July 4 (AP).—Chinese reported today they had recaptured the town of Niangniangmio, eastern point of Japanese advance along the Yangtse River toward Hankow, and had forced the Japanese to retreat from Pengtseh nearby.

Both towns are on the south bank of the Yangtse below Matowchen, where an estimated 100 Japanese warships were being held up by a submerged boom, 176 miles downriver from the provisional capital.

Japanese troops were landed at Niangniangmio after a transport, riding flood waters in the Yangtse, managed to pass the Matowchen boom Saturday. The troops at Pengtseh had advanced up the river bank after the transport negotiated the boom.

Chinese said 200 of the 800 Japanese who landed at Niangniangmio were killed and that the remainder had been forced to retreat toward Matowchen.

They also reported General Chiang Kai-Shek's forces were rapidly throwing a defence line between Lake Chao, west of Wuhu, and the Yangtse River where it runs along the border of Anhwei and Kiangsi Provinces.

The purpose of this line was said to be to block any Japanese attempt to advance overland on Hankow across Southern Anhwei Province.

Conflicting Reports.

France Braces For War This Summer

PARIS, July 4.—(AP)—France is braced for war this summer, but thinks it can be avoided.

The Government believes the armed might of France and Great Britain will make Reichsfuehrer Hitler cautious in his effort to "protect" the 3,500,000 Germanic minority of Czechoslovakia.

Political leaders and the man in the street generally agree war or the threat of war alone can halt Hitler, and they say "if it must be war we might as well have it now."

The approaching visit of King George and Queen Elizabeth to France has been taken here as significant warning to Germany that the two great powers will move together if necessary to block Germany's supposed "Drang Nach Osten" (March to the East) through Europe.

Foresee War of Revenge.

Many Frenchmen regard war—if it comes—as a defence of France because if Germany takes Czechoslovakia they have come to believe Hitler will dominate Europe, and eventualy might make a war of revenge upon France for the humiliation and defeat of 1914-18.

Political leaders admit that farmers and villagers, who compose half of France, have lacked any desire to march into Germany to save Czechoslovakia. These leaders, however, believe that spirit is changing.

Several factors make immediate war uncertain, if not unlikely:

1. Czechoslovakia may settle her difficult minority problem.

2. Hitler may bide his time peacefully, thinking Czechoslovakia will come to him as Austria did.

3. Even if Germany should invade Czechoslovakia, France might refrain from war as a remedy worse than the disease.

The situation is even more complicated than appears, because both in France and Britain people disagree on the need to halt Hitler. Some argue Hitler has obtained everything peacefully and may continue to do so. If he uses violence to enlarge Germany, they say, he

Cheesemakers Will Watch Grading

CAMPBELLFORD, July 4.—Cheesemakers of the district will have an opportunity to see the actual grading of their cheese on Thursday of this week, according to John Murray, district dairy inspector, who was present at the meeting of the Campbellford Cheese Board on Saturday. Although the grading is generally done in the morning it is planned to have J. L. Irwin do the grading in the evening in order to give all makers an opportunity to be present. Mr. Murray also pointed out that of the 1,252 boxes graded last Thursday there were 40 undergrades owing to flavor being poor. The new temperature controlling system which has been installed at the cold storage warehouse is giving very satisfactory results it was reported.

Board members were pleased to learn that the Cheese Patrons' Association of Ontario were contributing a prize of $100.00 which will be divided into thee prizes to be given the makers of Central Ontario.

Man Is Convicted On Vagrancy Count

Lavergne Dunford was convicted of vagrancy before Magistrate Gee in police court this morning after the evidence of Provincial Traffic Officer Lloyd McClure had been heard.

McClure swore that while he was investigating a traffic accident near the filtration plant on the Lakefield Road in the early morning of Sunday June 26 he had seen Dunford walking up the middle of the nighway, under the influence of liquor and trying to thumb a ride from passing motorists. When they refused to stop, the accused was not very complimentary in his references to them the officer said.

Dunford told the court his parents lived in Detroit and he had been born in Peterborough county and had a job here at the present time.

He was found guilty of vagrancy but Magistrate Gee took cognizance of the fact that he had been in custody for a week and allowed him to go.

"If you do not like the way people treat you in this country" he told the accused, "You had better go back to Detroit. Motorists do not have to be abused by people who want a ride."

Leahy was approaching the canal from the Douro side and told Provincial Traffic Officer MClure in reporting the accident that his view of the bridge was blocked by some bushes that prevented him from seeing until it was almost too late that he was almost into the canal. He turned his car into the side of the bridge and escaped with only a damaged bumper.

Rift Separates Woolworth Heiress and Her Count

Here are principals in the tangled skein of the former Barbara Hutton's marital affairs, now before English courts with the possibility of a divorce for the five-and-ten heiress in the offing. The pictures were snapped as the various figures went about their separate efforts to untangle the snarl. LEFT to RIGHT we have Count Haugwitz-Reventlow, Danish husband of Babs, in Paris shortly after news of a warrant for his detention should he land in England were circulated; young Lance, son of the count and of Barbara, playing unconcernedly in the grounds of Winfield House, London; Barbara herself entering the closely guarded mansion, and Edward H. Hutton, father of the countess, leaving the Ritz Hotel in Paris after a luncheon engagement with his son-in-law during which a discussion involving custody of the child and a financial settlement reportedly took place. Two-year-old Lance will some day inherit about 40 Woolworth millions.

Toronto Ready For Friction With Fascists

TORONTO, July 4 (C P)—Police will stand by to watch for clashes when Fascists and anti-Fascists stage four meetings in Toronto tonight.

Fascists will enter the doors of Massey Hall by invitation to hear leaders of the newly organized National Unity Party of Canada. Various organizations will conduct anti-Fascist meetings in Maple Leaf Gardens, in Queens Park and on a street-corner. Police said they would make no attempt to block the meetings.

During the week-end a handbill circulated throughout Toronto exhorted foes of Fascism to "keep the black-shirt gangsters out of Toronto." About 40 blue-shirted Fascist leaders came here today for the mass meeting from Kingston, Ont., where the new party was formed during the weekend at a national convention.

Adrien Arcand, Montreal newspaper editor, was unanimously chosen national leader at the Kingston convention, and Joseph C. Farr, Toronto leader of Ontario Fascist, was named national organizer.

More than 3,000 invitations have been sent out for tonight's mass meeting here, Farr said. Chief speaker would be Arcand, tall young national leader. All leaders, the convention delegates, and about 150 local members of the party would be in blue shirt uniforms, Farr said.

Arcand was expected to speak on the policies of the party as evolved in secret meetings at Kingston. The party slogan is "Canada for Canadians," and the flaming torch was chosen as the official symbol. Arcand proclaimed July 1 "Nationalist Day" in future, because the party took form on Friday.

Unsuccessfully sought in Kingston for two days by a squad of newspapermen, Arcand issued a manifesto Saturday night, declaring the National Union Party intended to set up a corporate state. Arcand amplified the written statement by stating the party intended to achieve its aims by constitutional means and would eventually seek a majority of House of Commons seats.

The platform calls for "official recognition and defence of Christianity, many social reforms based on the axiom that the commonwealth supersedes private interests, financial and credit reforms, elimination of class struggle to make way for class co-operation, abolition of the party system and patronage." Under the corporate system, it was pointed out, political parties would be eliminated and candidates for parliament would be chosen from representatives of trades and professions.

The convention named 15 national councillors; representing Ontario are Joseph C. Farr, James Duncan Jr., George Clark and Eric Miller, Toronto.

12 In Family Poisoned All Improving

QUEBEC, July 4.—(CP).— Reported a "little better," nine members of a rural family recovered slowly in hospital to-day from what physicians believed to be poisoning caused by contaminated food.

Reporting lower temperatures in the cases of 52-year-old Jules Lortie and eight of his children, doctors checked the possibility contaminated food caused the mysterious illness which struck 12 members of the family one by one last week.

Also stricken in their home at Stoneham, a village 19 miles north of Quebec, were the mother, another child and Lortie's father, but their conditions did not warrant hospital treatment.

Doctors still were unable to learn the exact nature of the illness. None of the patients, they said, was in critical condition.

CHICAGO GRAIN.

CHICAGO, July 4. —Wheat fell about a cent a bushel here on Saturday after a brief flurry had carried the market fractionally higher.

Hedging and scattered selling influenced by an increasing movement of grain from parts of the southwest winter wheat area and lack of export business depressed prices as much as 1⅜ cents from early highs. Traders generally anticipated an accumulation of new wheat over the week-end holiday.

Also acting as bearish factors were reports of weather favorable for growth and harvest of North American wheat crops and weakness at Liverpool.

Beneficial rains fell in the Canadian Province of Saskatchewan, which had not received earlier rains that aided the Manitoba and Alberta crops. Rainfall of one to four inches in the south-eastern section of the Province did much good. Some rain also fell in the United States north-western spring wheat area. Weather south-west was clear and hot and favorable for harvest operations there.

Only One Fatal Accident

TORONTO.—The sudden drop in serious highway accidents over the weekend—when only one person was killed in Ontario—indicated that "accidents such as we have had in the past are not inevitable or unavoidable," Attorney-General G. D. Conant said today. "The people are to be commended for their care, caution and reasonableness," he added.

Jewish Priest Clubbed

WARSAW.—Father Thaddeus Puder, a Jew who became a Roman Catholic priest, was badly clubbed as he stepped from the altar today by Rafael Michalski, a shoemaker, who cried out "Let's beat the Jew." Parishioners, among whom were many Christian Jews, overwhelmed and beat the assailant.

Dominion Day Service Held Trinity Church

A Dominion Day service was held in Trinity United Church Sunday morning. Miss Mabel Clarry, organist of the church, presided over the music, which included Forsyth's setting of "The Lord's Prayer" and a solo by Miss Olga Westbye. St. Andrew's congregation is holding united services with Trinity Church during July and August. "The Song of the Fathers" from the Book of "Ecclesiastcus" was read as a lesson.

Rev. E. W. Young, in speaking on the early settlers in Upper Canada 100 years ago, said that they faced natural conditions which required patience and courage. There was a thin line of population in 1834 from the Ottawa River to Sandwich and Richmond, now known as Windsor. The greater portion of the land was forest, and the trees were counted as the enemies of men. They had to work hard and were limited to the bare necessities of life. The climate was inhospitable, and in winter they suffered severly from the cold. Their homes were in some cases rough shacks, in others log cabins. There were scarcely any roads at all. The trees were cut in half and the flat side laid on the clay soil. There was no attempt at drainage. Mrs. Anna Jameson found it a misery to travel over them. Yet these people received strength from God to fulfill their tasks.

Severe Strain on Health.

Physical conditions imposed a severe strain upon their health. The "ague," which was a form of malaria, took a heavy toll of human lives. Cholera too was prevalent. In 1832-4 severe epidemics ravaged Galt and Bytown, and the newly-formed Toronto, and carried off four to five hundred people, including some of the best citizens. These epidemics were caused by lack of sanitation, the sewage sometimes ran down the side of the main street. Ill-protected, shallow wells received all kinds of refuse and filth. Tuberculosis was rife in every part of the land, and small-pox caused its ugly disfigurement, and sometimes death. There were no hospitals worthy of the name except one in Toronto. A medical school was set up in St. Thomas to train doctors, but it was ill equipped. There was little opportunity for the treatment of diseases, the doctors were far apart, and received scant respect in that early time.

The moral conditions were on a low scale. The business ethic was shady. This was caused by the lack of a circulating medium. There was little or no money in the country, and most transactions were a matter of barter. The "Yankee peddlar" went around the country, and it was a battle of wits between him and the country woman. Money has a moral value in that it establishes a standard. Most of the settlers came to Canada to make a fortune, and they laid aside the restraints of the home land. Drunkenness was, however, the greatest moral evil. There were 20 taverns on the road between Toronto and Hamilton, and 7 in London with 1,300 people. Most of the liquor consumed was raw whisky, which drove the people almost mad. Mrs. Jameson in her early journey from Toronto to London, found drunken men everywhere. From 1828 onwards there was a rising tide of temperance reform: 1834 saw 100 temperance societies in British North America, but there was not at that date one total abstinence society in Upper Canada. Alcohol was one of the worst enemies of the people 100 years ago, and it is one of the worst enemies today.

The spiritual environment. There were three main Protestant churches in Upper Canada. The Church of England, of which Archdeacon Strachan was the head. Its strength lay in the fact that its leaders were in close touch with the governors of the province, who sought to have an established church in Upper Canada. One-seventh of the land had been set apart for the "clergy reserves," and belonged almost exclusively to the Church of England. There were of course many zealous clergymen who worked for the good of the people.

The Presbyterian Church was recruited largely from Scotland. There were numerous churches but few settled ministers. William Proudfoot of London and Jessie Kitchener of Toronto were noted missionaries.

The Methodist Church had an itinerating ministry. William Case, Anson Green, Egerton Ryerson were noted leaders. "The saddle-bag preachers" filled a noble place amongst the scattered settlers.

The ministers of these three churches were heroic men who looked for no earthly reward.

At this Dominion Day service let us give ourselves afresh to the task of making Canada a better country. She has had a splendid tradition, but we must not dwell in the past. We must face the problems of our own time as the settlers of 100 years ago faced things—with vision and courage.

GAS ALL SOLD.

So great has been the demand for gasoline by tourists and other motorists in the village of Apsley over the week-end that the entire supply was exhausted at ten o'clock Sunday night. One Peterborough motorist who ran out of gasoline near the village borrowed a gallon from a resident which carried him southward to the next filling station. Merchants and service station owners say the number of tourists arriving in the Apsley district will set a record. All dealers have arranged for an abundant supply of gas to be delivered early this morning.

Tweed's Old Boys and Girls Re turn Home For Re-union

Tweed Old Home Week Celebration concludes tonight, winding up the gayest program in the history of the pretty village. At the Fair Grounds on Saturday Mrs. Peter Rivers of Tweed won a 40-pound loaf of broad with the largest family on the grounds, and her two oldest boys are holding the loaf in (1). Their names are Morris, Ray, Ronald, Clifford and Madaline. In (2) the winners in the Fat Ladies' Race are shown: Mrs. Joseph Dion, Tweed, and Mrs. Fred Stewart, Belleville. Keen competition in the 3-mile bicycle race was much enjoyed by the 2,000 spectators, and the two finishing first and second are pictured in (1), Gerald Farrar, Trenton, LEFT, and Doug. Connor, Tweed. J. Lonjoie, 68-year-old resident of Tweed, placed second in the old time fiddlers' contest, and is shown in (4) with the two judges, W. Bottoms, Gananoque, and A. E. Dobbie, editor of the Smith Falls Record. Hon. Colin Campbell officially opened the beautiful new three-span steel bridge across the Moira River this morning, and the bridge is shown in (6), looking southeast down the river. The largest 'lunge of the current fishing season (5 inset) and a mark to shoot at was caught in the Moira River near Tweed village last weekend. The muskie weighed 36 1-4 pounds, and is exactly four feet overall. It was landed by Grant Simmons and Frank McConnachie after a battle lasting more than an hour.

The Rambling REPORTERS

WERE THEY DEER?

Robert J. Tuller reports that he saw "two unusual deer" last evening near Best's Station, about a quarter of a mile east of the C. N.R. tracks. Weighing perhaps 150 pounds apiece, the animals had tails a foot long, Mr. Tuller said. "There was no doubt they were deer," he stated. "I saw them clearly in the field a short distance away, good chestnut-colored deer, but I didn't think they should have tails so long." The animals tried several times to cross the tracks before summing up enough courage to hope over them and then disappear from view.—P.

Fine Catch Made Bancroft Area

Bill Bolam and Harold Freeburn, both former residents of Peterborough, and now employed at the General Motors plant in Oshawa, returned home Sunday night with a beautiful catch of bass, pike and lake trout after a four day holiday with their wives in the Bancroft district.

The party fished Echo Lake, Papineau Lake, Fraser Lake and the York River and their catch included 10 small mouthed black bass, 19 pike, 8 lake trout and 20 large brook trout.

Mrs. Bolam supplied the excitement when she toppled fully clothed into Echo Lake as she attempted to step from a raft into the boat and disappeared in the water. Her husband hauled her to safety, and she still hung on to her fishing rod.

Just south of Apsley the rear tire picked up a horse-shoe nail, bringing bad luck in the form of a flat tire, and aside from this the party had a thoroughly enjoyable time. They report fishing all through the district is excellent.

RECKLESS DRIVING CHARGES.

Officer McClure says there has been a lot of that kind of driving recently and he proposes to lay charges against all the offenders if there is not a speedy improvement.

A MONSTER MUSKIE.

Hundreds of visitors at Tweed Old Home Week viewed a 32 pound maskinonge which reposed in a pan of ice in a store window of the main street of the village on Saturday. The fish was caught in the Moira river near the vilage by Grant Simmons and Frank McConnachie assisted in landing the battler which kept the two fishermen engaged for more than an hour before he was safe in the boat. It is the largest fish reported in the Kawartha district so far this year.

HAVE JOINT CELEBRATION.

The Examiner has received from David G. H. Melton, now at Lake Placid, N.Y., on a vacation, a copy of a programme for "the American 4th of July and Canadian Dominion Day Week-end," the celebration being under the auspices of the North Elba Park District, Chamber of Commerce, Municipal Board, Merchants, Citizens and Guests. On the first of July one of the features was a hockey game between Lasalle and Canadian all stars; the Governor-General's Band of Canada is given a prominent place on all days and on the Fourth of July it appears as the chief musical attraction. Mr. Melton remarks in an accompanying note that the manner in which the plans are being made indicates "a growing friendship."

CARE ARE DAMAGED.

Cars belonging to W. B. White of Oshawa and A. Shadgett of 513 King street, were both damaged when they collided at the intersection of Aylmer and Hunter streets on Sunday afternoon. None of the occupants of the machines was hurt.

NEW STOP SIGN.

The Department of Highways has placed a stop sign on the west side of George Street north of the McDonnel Street corner against traffic from the north. Cars will be required to stop before crossing the George-McDonnel intersection as a safeguard to traffic from west turning off McDonnel into George Street.

ONE ACCIDENT AT TWEED.

Just one minor accident was reported by Provincial police assigned to the Tweed Old Home Week celebration. On Saturday night, Mr. J. Thompson of Moira, age 76, was knocked down as he crossed the street in the heart of the business section. He received slight injuries to his leg and a small cut behind the ear. Provincial Constable Sam Irwin of Belleville, investigated.

BUSINESS MEN'S MEETING.

A general meeting of the members of the Peterborough Business Men's Association will be held this evening in the Chamber of Commerce, beginning at 7.45 o'clock, for the election of officers and discussion of the future activities of the Association. The Examiner's champion carrier boys will give a sales demonstration during the meeting.

AMATEUR SHOW WINNERS

Tweed auditorium was jammed to capacity on Saturday evening as an amateur show was held in conjunction with the Old Home Week celebration. Winners in the junior section were: Mary Bongard and Jean Watson, Belleville; Geraldine Farrar, Trenton and Hugh Phillips, Tweed. In the senior division, first award went to the Senior Quinte Male Quartet from Trenton, second to Ken Dougan also of Trenton and third prize went to Charles Cummings of Marmora.

TRAFFIC VERY HEAVY

Motorists on highways leading from Toronto found last night's traffic the heaviest they had ever experienced, all agreed today. For miles and miles along highways 2, 11, and 7, cars were alternately crawling and speeding along, each a few inches behind the next.

When one car turned turtle near Bowmanville the crash halted cars for five miles back. Traffic officers were harassed, motorists' nerves were frayed, only the gasoline station proprietors were happy.

BACK FROM CONVENTION.

Chief Constable Samuel Newhall arrived home on Saturday from attending the annual convention of the Dominion Chief Constables' Association held at Edmonton Alta. and reports a successful convention and a very enjoyable trip to the West.

CONSIDERABLE DAMAGE.

Considerable damage was done to both vehicles when a car owned and driven by Roy Courneya collided with a large truck driven by Alton Beavis, Frank Street, and owned by the Coca Cola Company at the intersection of Townsend and George streets at 11.15 o'clock Saturday night. Neither driver was hurt, nor was Vincent O'Connell one of the passengers in Courneya's car while Harold O'Toole who was also a passenger escaped with a cut on the side of his face.

DRIVER IS FINED.

George Douglas of Oshawa who pleaded guilty a week ago to reckless driving on Water Street was up before Magistrate Gee in police court this morning and escaped with a fine of $10 and costs when Inspector Reid explained that the accused had paid all the costs of the accident in which he was involved.

Free Inspection Brakes Planned

Free inspection of brakes and other equipment effecting safety of motor cars will be made on Water street from Dublin to Park Hill Road from Wednesday to Saturday this week by an arrangement of the garage men of the city. The strip will be used for this purpose daily from 9 a.m. to 9 p.m. with the consent of the city council who designated this block for the testing service. It is entirely optional with drivers, and no charge is made. Tests will not require more than four or five minutes. By this accommodation motorists may assure themselves that their cars are operating efficiently from the standpoint of safey. Thousands of motorists in other cities have availed themselves of this free service, and it is expected that the car owners in Peterborough and district will take advantage of it this week.

Testing is being carried on in Campbellford to-day, and the shift to Peterborough will be made in time to receive the first cars Wednesday morning at 9 o'clock.

Firemen Rescued Young Bank Clerk

Firemen rescued Frank Newby, Bank of Montreal clerk, early this morning (Monday) when fire broke out at the home of Miss Linden Hall, 17 Fleming Place, where he was a boarder.

Placing a ladder against an upstairs window, the firemen brought Newby to safety before extinguishing the flames that gutted the entire kitchen. Cause of the blaze is unknown. The alarm reached the fire station shortly after seven o'clock and the entire kitchen was blazing when the department reached the home.

A quantity of winter clothing, which had been placed in the kitchen preparatory to storing it away, was destroyed by the flames, together with a radio and other household furniture. Smoke damage throughout the remainder of the house was heavy. Chief Gimblett estimated the loss at $600. The home is owned by the Sanford Fleming estate.

Bad Grass Fire Stoney Lake Island

A stubborn grass fire which broke out Sunday morning on the Stoney Lake island of Mrs. Edna Waddell of Peterborough kept a large number of east end cottagers busy Sunday fighting the blaze which was fanned by a brisk breeze. The Waddell island is long island that forms one of the arms of Young's Bay and there are two cottages on it, one at the eastern extremity owned by Joseph Dunkerley and the other at the west end, the property of the Waddell family. A one time the situation was regarded as serious enough to warrant an appeal to the Peterborough fire department for assistance.

Charge Woman Drunk Driving Near Norwood

The trial of Mrs. Helen Fisher, charged with drunken driving on Highway No. 7 on the night of June 25 got under way before Magistrate E. A. Gee in police court this morning but only one witness had been heard when an adjournment was made for luncheon.

Mrs. Fisher, who was defended by T. J. Carley K. C., pleaded not guilty.

Glen McColl of Deloro an employee of the Smelter plant in that village testified he was driving north on Highway No. 7 when some two and a half miles west of Norwood he noticed another car approaching from the west. McColl said he was driving on the right hand side of the road at a speed of 45 miles an hour and when the other car got close to him it swerved over to his side of the road, came right at him for some distance and then started to turn back to the other side of the road when the crash came. He had a Miss Osborne in the car with him.

After the collision he had got out of his own car and went to the Fisher car to see if anybody had been hurt and Mrs. Fisher had asked him why he had run into her. There were two small children and a man named Marsh in the Fisher car and Mrs. Fisher was in the driver's seat, back of the wheel. McColl said that she was under the influence of liquor, her speech was thick and she staggered on the road. Marsh was drunk.

In answer to Mr. Carley, McColl denied that he had been driving with one arm around his companion and that she had been sitting over close to him. He said that before the Fisher car had swerved across the road he had seen it for some distance and it seemed to be coming along in a normal manner. He could not say as to its speed and was not prepared to state that it wa sany les sthan that of his own machine.

The case is proceeding.

Rangers Return From Camp

"The efficiency and conduct of all ranks was highly commended by the camp commandant and staff," declared Lt.-Col. J. A. Dewart this morning, commenting on the Prince of Wales Rangers' summer camp at Connaught Rangers, near Ottawa. The regiment returned Sunday afternoon.

Nearly two hundred officers and men attended the camp for a full week, together with seven other Canadian regiments. It was the Prince of Wales Rangers' first camp since their organization in 1936 and Lt.-Col. Dewart, commanding officer, expressed himself highly satisfied with the showing the men made. The only regret either he or the man had was that the camp did not last another week.

The entire camp was under command of Brigadier F. H. Hertzberg, C.M.G., D.S.O., M.C. Lt.-Col. Dewart was in command of the Prince of Wales Rangers, with Major R. T. E. Hicks-Lyne second in command. Lt. Graham Faulkner was adjutant, Lt. H. Willis acting as assistant adjutant. Company commanders were Major A. R. McNabs, Major G. R. Melton, Major James Turnbull, Major H. G. Mason and Lt. J. Duncan. Captain D. A. Loomis, M.C., was Quartermaster; Lt. Ross Hood, transport officer; Major G. R. Scott, medical officer; Major Gordon Monkman, M.C., paymaster; Lt. A. E. Chalmers, signal officer. Captain R. T. F. Brain was chaplain.

Popularity of the band, under comand of Lt. W. H. Peryer, was a hightlight of the camp, Col. Dewart said. They fulfilled a number of invitation engagements at various mess dinners and were highly appreciated, he said.

While in camp the soldiers engaged in machine gun range practices, musketry practices, revolver shooting, anti-gas training, and received instruction on the new Bren machine gun. They performed tactical exercises and on the last day of camp took part in a gigantic movement by all troops present at the camp. There was practically no sickness in all the regiment while at camp.

Other regiments represented at the camp were the Governor-General's Foot Guards, the Cameron Highlanders of Ottawa, the Lanark and Renfrew Regiment, the Regiment de Hull, the P.W.O. Regiment of Kingston, the Princess Louise Dragoon Guards of Ottawa, and the Brockville Rifles.

Who Is Responsible?

Some of the latest news from China tells of the bombing of the South China port of Swatow. There were nine planes and in all 100 bombs were dropped. Many of the bombs fell in crowded residential sections.

A school house was struck when the children were leaving their classes for the day and 200 of them were killed.

Of course the civilized world will have the sensation of being shocked and horrified.

But there is this to think about—

Japan could not have carried war into China if it had not been for the supplies of war-time material which she was able to purchase from the civilized nations of the world.

The bombs which the nine planes carried were made with material secured in the markets of the world, and the planes which carried and dropped the bombs were of similar origin.

Go back a few steps and you may find who is responsible for slaughtering the 200 children in the Chinese school house.

Yes—We Warn Them

Do people want to be protected? Probably most people would answer that by saying "Sure they do." Not long ago we read of two young fellows climbing over a fence to see what was inside. One of them came in contact with wires, and how he managed to escape death no one seems to understand. There were signs on that place warning of the danger and telling people to keep away.

Today we read about a road accident on a sharp curve, and as a result three persons were taken to the nearest hospital. The place is some distance from Peterborough, but we know the curve well enough. The road is plainly marked with curve signs and there is one of those red warning signals plainly displayed. The Highways Department has done all it could to tell drivers there is a bad and a dangerous curve. And yet this particular car went around that curve at such speed it could not straighten out and therefore took to the ditch.

Three days ago a pedestrian was walking on the side of the highway when he was struck by the side of a truck. There were injuries, but fortunately not serious. At that place we learn there is a path where people can walk in safety, and most of them do. But this pedestrian preferred to take a chance on the edge of the highway.

Health authorities have found water at the bathing beaches in the East end of Toronto to be polluted. They have stated plainly that a great amount of untreated sewage is pouring into the water near there and nothing but a better sewage disposal plant will remedy the defect. They have made numerous tests of the water and the answer always comes out the same. But do the people keep away from those bathing places? Indeed they do not. We read where they go and jump in just the same as though the health authorities had placed their O.K. on the situation.

All of which raises the rather pertinent question: Do people want to be warned and do they pay much attention to warnings?

Will Not Reduce Hours

The Federated Shop Crafts in the various C.N.R. centres have made it plain that they will not reduce the number of hours per week below 40 in order to spread employment to others who are being laid off. The suggestion was made in Monteral a few days ago that if the hours of work were reduced from 40 to 32 per week it would permit 1,800 men to keep on working the shorter week instead of being out of employment entirely.

Joseph Corbett of London says the opinion of the members of the Federated Shop Crafts is very definite on that point; they will not go below 40 hours per week to share employment. The claim is that when they go below 40 hours per week it is just a case of sharing their misery with others. The men are paid on an hourly basis and cutting the hours is the same as cutting the wages.

That answer may be satisfactory enough to the majority of the men who keep on working, but it fails to solve the problem of the 1,800 who now find themselves out of employment.

He Can Do Nothing

Mayor Day of Toronto received a letter from German consular authorities asking that a remark made by Ald. Croft of Toronto should be withdrawn. The remark itself having to do with some place in the Zoo which was dirty being a fit place to put Hitler was sufficiently offensive, but it was made by the alderman on his own account and there is nothing the Mayor can do about it.

It was not a statement made in a council meeting where the Mayor as the presiding officer might have checked up on it, and even had it been made in council His Worship might have had trouble in forcing its withdrawal.

One would think that German consular authorities in Canada would have sufficient knowledge of the way in which municipal bodies in this country are formed to know that a Mayor has no authority over what an alderman says when he is not attending a meeting of council. The fact that Mr. Croft is an alderman gives to Mayor Day no control whatever over what he may say when wandering through the Zoo or elsewhere in Toronto. And having no control the Mayor of Toronto can do nothing about the matter.

A Neglected Birthday

Our national birthday seems to have arrived at the point where it just comes and goes and we pay little attention to it. Perhaps a wet day makes a difference, but one could look over a good many streets in Peterborough on July 1 without seeing evidence of anything which indicates a mild interest in any form of celebration. The individual does not seem to have it strongly within his mind that he should put up a flag or a bit of bunting at his home, and if he had a deep-rooted sort of feeling in him that he desired to do a little something about celebrating our national birthday we believe he would get out a flag or some bunting.

We depend a good deal on a program of sports to mark the day. If a stranger from some other land were passing through here on the first of July he would not be much impressed. He might find from the closed places of business that it was a general holiday, but by our actions and mild enthusiasm we would not be conveying any message to him. A loyal people we are and proud of the country in which we live, but we are backward and a trifle dull when it comes to giving evidence of it.

Worth Investigating

Prime Minister King declared in the Commons at Ottawa that Britain could not establish any military training base in this country unless it was controlled and operated by the government of the Dominion of Canada. Mr. King was speaking of times such as the present when Britain was not at war, but he admitted it might be necessary in case of war for a Canadian ally to operate such stations in this country. The point under discussion was air training and Mr. King stated his Government had not received any official request from Britain for the establishment of such training stations. The statement was undoubtedly important, but there was not actually any definite case on the horizon.

Hon. R. B. Bennett immediately challenged that statement and said he was ashamed of it; it was not the attitude which might be expected from the Government of this country. Mr. King's answer was an invitation to Mr. Bennett to go to the country on that issue and test public opinion.

But when he made that statement Mr. King was fully aware that Mr. Bennett was through as leader of the Conservative party, and that delegates were already on their way to the national convention to appoint a new leader and name a new platform. There could not be under such circumstances any possibility of Mr. Bennett going to the country for the purpose of testing public opinion on that rather delicate matter.

On close inspection all the furore of these two statements seems to evaporate. In the first place there was no request from Britain to establish training stations in Canada, and secondly there was no chance of Mr. Bennett going to the country as the head of a party which he is not going to lead any longer.

Getting Too Scientific

It may be that baseball will yet be made so scientific that it will hardly be worth while watching. That suggestion comes from having read of the performance of Johnny Vander Meer of Cincinnati Reds who pitched two games in succession which there were no hits and no runs. Of course we believe it takes remarkably good fielding to help make such a record, but it also takes a remarkable sort of pitching.

Never before has any pitcher done such a thing. Good pitchers may have two or three such games to their credit during their full years in baseball but they do not get two in a row. In a way we hope it never comes to that. Sitting to watch such a game would be rather awful. There would be no such episode as the bases full with a powerful clouter coming to bat and knocking the ball over the fence. Unless the pitcher were inclined to walk some of the more dangerous batters none of them would ever get to first, and there would be no chance to rise in the seat and call the umpire a robber for calling a man out at second, third or home. Unless one were a devotee of science and efficiency he would find little of interest in such a game.

We prefer to get our money's worth when going to a ball game. We think it fine to see a batter pick out the club he prefers and walk like a rooster to the plate; if he rubs his hands in the dust so much the better; if he hops about and shows a certain liveliness then that increases the value of the show. Then we prefer to see the pitcher wind up well and unwind like a windmill and put something on the ball. After which we admit to having strong preference for hearing that sharp click of bat against ball and watch the runner tearing around the circuit, sure of three bases and with a chance of making the complete circuit. It is then that outfielders have to work; they have to find the ball in the first place and then relay the thing toward home plate, and that means action and uncertainty and it is difficult to sit still while all that is happening. So we hope baseball does not get so scientific that the whole thing rests in the hands of the pitcher. That we submit would produce monotony.

NOTE AND COMMENT

Parliament has adjourned but Ottawa will continue to get publicity until the Conservative convention is over.

Somehow or other we are beginning to arrive at the conclusion that the Nazi administration is suffering from a lack of a sense of humor.

Kingston has barred a Fascist parade and now the good folk there have nothing to look forward to until Queen's reopens in the autumn.

Scientists say the potential supply of clothing in the world is inexhaustible. Judging by the quantity worn nowadays future supply is a matter of very small importance.

Hon. Eric Cross says he is opposed to the abolition of county councils. Is the Minister of Municipal Affairs expressing the opinion of his Premier in that statement?

Tecumseh council has decided that bathing suits are not proper apparel for shoppers. That is probably because they offer no place for the customers to keep their money.

General Ormond's position seems to be in jeopardy. In other words, what is going to happen to him is what all his former charges would like to have happen to them—that is being let out.

The Don River has been condemned as unfit for swimming but probably with an ice-breaker to break a way through the scum it might still be used for that purpose.

Winnipeg jeweler bought lumps of solder believing them to contain gold. He should not feel badly as a good many people in one way or another have been doing the same thing for a long time.

The charge made by a member of parliament that Canadians fail to celebrate Dominion Day properly is one to which the country will have to plead guilty.

A news story tells of an indifferent swimmer losing his life trying to swim across the Rouge River. That is the kind of stunt indifferent swimmers should never attempt.

A hiking club has been organized near Bronte and we feel like warning them to do their hiking across country and not on the highways if they want to remain healthy.

The Globe and Mail complains very little was done in the session of parliament just closed. But at least it will have to be fair enough to admit that the taxes were not raised.

Edmonton city council was going to raise the fee for fortune telling from $200 to $500 a year. One local soothsayer appeared in protest and reasoned this way: If she had to pay $500 she could not make a living; if she could not make a living she could not support her six children; if she could not support her six children they would all go on relief. So the council left the fee at the old mark. Strange case perhaps, but it proved that there is such a thing as taxing people into the relief line.

HOLIDAYS

(By A. R. K.)

¶ Alfalfa plans to go away, and she'll be off most any day, her progress has been slow; she had so many things to get, that she is not quite finished yet, and funds are running low.

¶ She picked a while, likewise she chose, Alfalfa needed many clothes, she made a lengthy list; she had to get some summer frocks, for sitting out upon the rocks, and nothing she had missed.

¶ The gowns she had would never do, because they weren't exactly new, no quickened glance they'd win; Alfalfa likes to see men turn, and all the dandies start to squirm, when she comes sweeping in.

¶ She had to have another frock, when she set out to take a walk, a simple thing but swell; she got another fluffy thing, she has it planned that she will spring, right on the dinner bell.

¶ And well away Alfalfa's laid, her socks and boots of every shade, from sun tan unto peach; she had a bathing costume too, in which the strands seem all too few, when she goes toward the beach.

¶ When dear Alfalfa goes away, she plans her steps aright each day, she'll twist the manly hearts; the thing that bothers her just now, is that she's figured out as how—she's broke before she starts.

Gettysburg Was Start Of The End

(St. Thomas Times-Journal)

STARTING on July 1 and continuing over until next week Veterans of the Union and Confederate armies will assemble at Gettysburg for the dedication of an Eternal Peace Memorial at which President Roosevelt will speak. It is 75 years this week since the battle of Gettysburg was fought, and yet some 2,500 members of the Union army and 1,000 former foes are expected to be present. What tales those men will be able to exchange.

The battle of Gettysburg was not in itself decisive but it did mark the beginning of the end for the cause of General Robert E. Lee. And that battle was very nearly not fought at all. It begun with a minor clash which happened accidentally; other units were drawn into it and soon 82,000 bluecoated Unionists and 75,000 greycoated Confederates were locked in a combat that caused over 20,000 casualties on each side. It began when General A. P. Hill, Confederate leader, sent a few cavalrymen to the town of Gettysburg to buy shoes. They happened on a small body of Union cavalry which was scouting, shots were exchanged, and gradually the action spread, altering the plans of General George G. Meade who had intended to fight at Pipe Creek, several miles southeast. The fight was most severe in and around a cemetery, and was marked by the famous charge of Pickett's Virginians who advanced after the concentrated fire of 140 guns. The Federal troops did not reply, but when the 15,000 Southerners came into view across a mile space the Northerners let go with all they had. Ten thousand of Pickett's men were casualties. General Lee came down from the north on the second day, and after the fourth day of battle his forces were in retreat. Two years later General Lee surrendered at Appomattox. Today the whole battlefield is a national cemetery, some 6,000 men being buried there.

The result was a virtual defeat for Lee, though it might be said to have been a drawn battle, since Meade made no effort to follow up Lee's retreat, though the flooded Potomac delayed his crossing, where had Meade been quick and fallen upon him, the war might have been shortened nearly two years. This lack of boldness and prompt initiative was the bane of the Union command. Lincoln could not refrain from a word which Meade inferred meant dissatisfaction, and offered to resign, but Lincoln refused, and salved Meade's feelings. Lord Charnwood, in his "Life," observed that "characteristically Lincoln relieved his sense of Meade's omissions in a letter of most lucid criticism, and characteristically he never sent it." These are among the little things that go to make history.

Gettysburg was one of the biggest and bloodiest battle in American history, yet it is probably best remembered in that country, and even more so abroad, because of the brief address made a few months later when President Lincoln unveiled a memorial to the fallen. "Uncle Abe's" speech at Gettysburgh surpasses in fame and immortality the battle itself. The chairman, Edward Everett, spoke for two hours and what he said nobody remembered or cares. Lincoln, rising to address a tired audience, only took a few minutes to express himself. His words must have been impromptu because it is unlikely that as the chief figure present he only intended to say a few words. He must have been mindful of the time taken up by the chairman and resolved not to weary the listeners further. In those two minutes he composed his thoughts to deliver an address that received scant notice at the time, probably because American audiences had a habit, which is still not eradicated, of measuring the value of a speech by its length. Therefore, his hearers may have felt Abe made a poor contribution to the occasion. But it was one of the noblest speeches in the history of mankind, a classic of phrase and sentiment. It is inscribed on one of the several memorials erected on the field.

STARTLING THE MEDICOS.

(Montreal Star)

WHEN A WELL known doctor, one moreover who specializes on the subject, says that "red" meat won't hurt you if you are rheumatically inclined, that's news. Dr. Douglas Taylor's pronouncement to that effect made just before setting out to attend a convention in Halifax at which rheumatism was expertly discussed, should set the heather on fire with a vengeance.

For we have always been taught, generation after generation of us, that meat was bad for rheumatic subjects, and red meat something worse than merely bad. Every one that way inclined, from the first creaky twinges to the stage of gnarled and burning joints, has been told by the family physician or the specialist-expert to cut from his diet certain things, chief among them red meats of every kind.

And now along comes Dr. Taylor and blows that venerable belief skyhigh. There is, it appears, no such thing as a standard diet for arthritis. You work out your own salvation by fitting your diet into your own brand of rheumatism.

A MONSTER COMPANY

A SCHEME is afoot to send an expedition, equipped with natural scientific instruments, to investigate the mystery of the Loch Ness monster—the expedition to be financed by a limited liability company, with shares at a shilling. Considered as an investment, this appears somewhat perilous; for the monster cannot be floated so easily as the company, and if he insists on the complete liquidation of his environment, his example must spread, one imagines, to the company's affairs. On the other hand, this may be the gesture for which he has been waiting; and with a battery of telephoto cameras, range-finders, and sounding apparatus trained upon him, he may well feel that his performance will at last be recorded in a manner worthy of it, and attain the public it deserves.

• The People Who Live In Tin Shacks

(By Pearl Strachan in Christian Science Monitor)

NEW RESIDENTS for New England! Nine thousand dollars' worth of advertising by the New England Council, this spring, will urge individuals throughout the United States to satisfy that yearning "for a bit of tradition, a wisp of mellow atmosphere," by investing in a renovated "run-down property." Attention is called in the publicity to the choice of New Eengland for a summer home by such celebrities as Booth Tarkington, Eva Le Gallienne, Gene Sarazen, Lily Pons, Sinclair Lewis.

It is both commendable and enjoyable to take some dilapidated farmhouse, overgrown with vegetation which is reverting to the jungle, and re-establish it in its original, livable condition, retaining in furnishing and manner of living the character of the Maine of Massachusetts, or Vermont or Rhode Island, or New Hampshire or Connecticut home.

Summer people from New York or Boston or Chicago may not be particularly interested in the hideous one-room huts that straggle beside the highway, over which they drive to the White Mountains or Bar Harbor.

If, however, the summer people should become really interested in the families occupying the shacks, if they should leave the highroad and wander into the back lanes of the countryside, getting out of their cars and walking where the roads become impassable for automobiles, they would find more and more houses being abandoned in the little towns of the New Hampshire hills and the Vermont valleys, and more and more tarpaper shacks rising in the woods and in deserted villages, where the old schoolhouse blinks windowless and silent, plundered of glass and roof slates and some of its bricks; where oak trees of some years' growth stand rooted in cellar holes of once comfortable farmhouses; where the wildcat and porcupine overrun a wilderness that was formerly cultivated land.

IT WAS ABOUT five years ago that I first noticed the tin huts and crude shacks that had begun to sprout along the back roads near Ossippee. The untidy, poverty-stricken houses of the villagers who chopped wood for the summer people, washed clothes, and sold them huckleberries, had always been there, it seemed. But the shacks were a new growth. The owners were from other parts. They kept to themselves. They did not attend the village church. They were seldom seen in the village store.

I am not writing of habitual wanderers, of homeless families trekking into New England from depressed areas in other regions, but of the native stock whose ancestors built the churches and schoolhouses, the bridges and town halls, and the pleasant, substantial homesteads which the more prosperous summer people are taking over with justifiable happiness and pride.

Dr. McConnell sent eight of his University students to make a survey of one area which had become repopulated with shack dwellers and persons living in barns and corn cribs. A man who had been driven from an industrial town, where the textile factories had closed, and forced to part with his cosy small-town home, invited them to a Communist meeting, for, while they had no other center of activity, the shack dwellers had a Communist headquarters where they held meetings in the summertime. One of them stumped the countryside as candidate for the gubernatorial nomination prior to the last elections. The agitators do not find it difficult to influence a man who feels he has nothing to lose, and nothing to gain by any other means.

• How Does The Minister Get Paid?

AN EDITORIAL from The Cowichan Leader, Duncan B. C., is reprinted herewith.

Who in paying the minister and helping to keep up the church? The Cranbrook Courier asks this question and then follows it with a soliloquy provocative of thought.

I am sure I don't know. I haven't contributed a dollar to the church this year. It is all I can do to feed and clothe my family and keep up my insurance and pay club and lodge dues and do my part in little social entertainments, and buy gas to run my car.

I have to pay for haircuts, shaves, shines, permanent waves, shampoos and face-lifting. These fellows won't work unless they get the money.

I have to pay my doctor and my dentist or they will balk on me. I am glad I don't have to pay the minister. He goes right on preaching twice on Sundays and looking after our souls during the week. If you die, he will bury you and brag about you at the funeral without any fee. But the undertaker has to be paid promptly; I have to keep a little money on hand for an emergency like that.

I love my minister, and I love my church, and if I had anything left over after providing for the above necessary things, I would give a little to help support the minister and the church.

I know the minister is willing to baptize my children, marry them, and visit in the home in the hour of sickness and distress, but I shall have to let the fellow with more money pay him.

Some folks think that if you don't help to keep up the church you can't prosper. But that is not what is the matter with me, that I am broke. I went to church on Sunday and dropped a dime in the plate, but it didn't help, for I didn't make any more money than usual that week.

I would not mind giving a lot to the church if I knew I would get it back (as some say I will), than a dime on that kind of a but I am not willing to risk more gamble.—Finance Committee.

• Commissions Cost Us Too Much

(Brantford Expositor)

THERE HAS BEEN a tremendous amount of criticism throughout the Dominion in regard to government by commissions. The other day in the House of Commons at Ottawa A. D. Hyndman, the member for Carleton, raised this question in debate. He pointed out that seven commissions that have recently been at work, including those on textiles, the marketing of grain, penitentiaries, war veterans' assistance, coal commission, lobster-fishing, and the Royal Commission to investigate Federal and Provincial relationships to date, have cost the country $815,000. That is an average of more than $115,000 for each investigation. The Veterans' Assistance Commission cost $326,000 and that investigating textiles $180,000. These were the most expensive.

Mr. Hyndman was particularly caustic regarding the allowances made to certain members of the Commissions, amounting to $35 per day. He pointed out that accommodation could be secured at the Chateau Laurier, including an excellent room with bath for $6 per day, breakfast for $1, lunch for $2, and dinner for $3, and tips $2. This would amount to $14 per day, which is by no means a niggardly allowance. It is just as well that Mr. Hyndman ventilated this question on the floor of Parliament, as some of the things which he said demand explanation. This habit of government by commission in Canada is getting to be an expensive luxury. It would not be so bad if any tangible results beneficial to the country were achieved, but for the most part these reports are merely pigeon-holed. Expenditures like these should be critically examined in a session that has already lasted for five months with very little vital legislation to its credit.

TO CUT ELECTRIC COSTS.

(St. Catharines Standard)

JOHN R. MACNICOL, M.P., Davenport, urged in the House yesterday, non-partisan control of the polling booths, and he charged that under the present system there was stuffing of ballot boxes and switching of votes. Mr. MacNicol's suggestion was practical. There are two men in each polling booth, the deputy returning officer and the poll clerk. Let the major parties appoint one each. And in that case the cost of elections would come down appreciably, it being no longer necessary for parties to have scrutineers who in most cases are paid for the day. But the suggestion was not incorporated in the bill before the House.

Argentina expects to save $3,000,000 a year by replacing steam trains by Diesels.

WHY THEY GO.

(Port Arthur News-Chronicle)

MAX SCHMELING may at least qualify for the restaurant business. James J. Braddock, who had a similar experience, started in that line in New York and reported receipts for the first week of $12,000, while $3,000 would take care of the overhead. There is the possibility, on the other hand, that people went to Braddock's cafe to see a man who paid back money received while on relief. After winning the world's title J. J. returned to the government a considerable sum that had been given him while unable to find employment.

To The Editor

EX-IMPERIALS

Editor Examiner:

Sir: Once again I would be pleased, with a little space in your valuable paper to make another appeal to all Ex-Imperial men and women to join the British Imperial Comrades Association.

We believe there are 300 men and women in Peterborough who have served in war and peace in some British regiment, nursing service, V. A. D. etc., and who, banded together with the rest of the 200,000 from coast to coast can be of wonderful assistance to any of our ranks who may be in need.

The Association means a closer touch with each of us who have shared the trials of war and peace, with an inspiration, still to do our remaining share.

The aims and objects of the Association are of course the same as the Canadian Legion only that we must look to the British Government for treatment, medical and financial aid.

These aims and objects will never be ours without persuasion and united efforts, so let us all rally together with this purpose in mind to meet together at the Legion Hall on July 13.

Ask No Questions

The minister was loud in praise of the juicy goose his colored host provided for dinner, and asked: "Where did you get such a fine goose as that?"

In Good Times ...and Bad

there is no decline in the interest every citizen takes in the essential service the daily newspapers perform.

The local daily newspapers are the daily bread in the mental diet of the people.

It is a significant fact that, during the period between 1929 and 1937, the total circulation of the Canadian daily newspapers increased by more than 270,000 copies daily.

This increase in circulation is but one of many reasons why successful companies spend a large portion of their advertising appropriation in the medium that has the greatest number of readers, the greatest sustained interest, and whose services are obviously an essential part in the daily life of every community — the Canadian daily newspapers.

Pirates Upset Tradition Of Past Years

NEW YORK, July 4 (C.P.). — National League fans, already more than a little bewildered by the numerous unexpected happenings through the first half of their pennant race, probably are wondering if they haven't succumbed to vertigo when they see Pittsburgh Pirates up there in second place.

It's become something of a senior circuit tradition that the Pirates look good for a month or so and then collapse in mid-season. This year's Bucs instead of collapsing have begun to spurt.

Pittsburgh trimmed St. Louis Cardinals in both games of yesterday's double-header, 6-5, 6-2, before the day's largest National League crowd, 26,868. That gave them a record of five straight triumphs and 21 in their last 29 games—a drive that has carried them from fifth place to second.

Split Double With Boston.

The league-leading New York Giants, meanwhile were splitting a bargain bill with Boston Bees, winning 5-3 from their ex-nemesis, Jim Turner, then losing 2-0 to Lou Fette. As a result they came up to July 4, traditional turning point of the season, with a 3½-game lead, but all square with the Pirates in the losing column.

New York Yankees took an even more important step when they whipped Boston Red Sox 9-3 for their eighth straight victory while Cleveland was breaking even with Chicago White Sox. They thus gained a chance to capture the American League lead to-day if they can win two more and the Indians lose twice.

The other major development yesterday came when Chicago's Cubs handed Johnny Vander Meer of Cincinnati his first defeat in 10 starts, 4-3, and took over third place from the Reds. Vander Meer gave up 11 hits before he was yanked for a pinch hitter in the eighth.

It was Mace Brown, the guy who never starts a game, who pulled Pittsburgh through its 12 inning opener against the Cards. He relieved Jim Tobin in the eighth and gave up only two hits to the finish while Pep Young's single with the corners crammed and two out in the 12th won the game. Bus Bauers followed with a six-hitter and Arky Vaughan contributed a homer to the second victory.

Brooklyn Dodgers rounded out the National League slate by winning their first double-header of the year. They beat the Phillies 3-1 and 2-0 on the smart pitching of Vito Tamulis and Bill Posedel.

Bill Dickey drove in four runs, three with a homer, to pace the Yankees to their victory. Cleveland won the opener 2-1 behind Johnny Allen's seven hit flinging, then dropped another well-pitched game 3-0 as Thornton Lee held the Tribe to four blows.

St. Louis Browns made it three straight over Detroit by winning a twin bill 6-5 and 6-2. They had to score five runs in the 10th, however, to take the opener. The Athletics and Washington both ended five-game losing streaks as Philadelphia won the opener 3-0 on George Caster's four-hit flinging and the Senators came back to win 14-2 on a similar job by Monte Weaver.

Hubbell's 201st Victory.

On Saturday Carl Hubbell scored his 201st major league victory and his ninth this season as the Giants defeated Brooklyn Dodgers 8-1. Rookie Bob Klinger of Pittsburgh scored his sixth straight with a six-hitter against St. Louis, won by the Pirates 5-1. Boston Bees defeated Philadelphia 2-1. Cincinnati and Chicago were not scheduled.

In the American League the Yankees had four homers, by George Selkirk, Joe DiMaggio, Bill Dickey and Red Rolfe, as they downed Washington 12-2. St. Louis began their week-end trouncing of Detroit with a 13-5 win and the Red Sox defeated Conny Mack's Athletics 6-5 in the day's only other games.

Two Great Teams Of Past Years Perform For Cleveland Fans

CLEVELAND, July 4 (AP) — Cleveland turned back the pages of baseball history Sunday at League Park to give its 1938 pennant-mad fans a glimpse of its two greatest teams of the past.

Nearly 7,000 persons came out to see Tris Speaker's 1920 worlds champions battle the Naps of 1908, lead by George Stoval because of illness kept 1908 Manager Larry Lajoie at home. The "youngsters" won the game, 8-0.

Their batting eyes somewhat dimmed and their stride a bit slower, the former greats of Cleveland baseball hadn't lost an ounce of their spirit.

Elmer Smith drove a home run over the right field wall in the seventh inning, and recalled to fans his performance in the 1920 series when he homered with the bases filled to beat Brooklyn.

Speaker started the same lineup that won that year. Stanley Coveleskie hurled his famed spitter into the glove of Steve O'Neill. The infield had "Doc" Johnston at first, Bill Wamby of triple-play fame at second, Joe Sewell at short and Larry Gardner at third. Charley Jamieson, Speaker and Smith started in the outfield.

Cy Young, unlimbered his 71-year-old arm for the Naps and retired the side scoreless in one inning he pitched. Big Ed Walsh, Glen Liebhardt and other heroes of the past followed him to the mound.

The Naps started Joe Birmingham, Bill Hinchman and Elmer Flich in the outfield, Stoval, George Perring, Roger Peckinpaugh and Bill Bradley in the infield. Among their catchers were Harry Bemis, Paddy Livingston and Nig Clark.

Suzanne Lenglen Tennis Star Dies In Paris

PARIS, July 4 (A.P.) — Dynamic Suzanne Lenglen died early to-day of an illness aggravated by her absorbing interest in tennis, the game she once ruled as world queen.

Doctors attributed her inability to throw off pernicious anaemia to a general breakdown, resulting from months of intensive work as head of a new government tennis school.

The 39-year-old Frenchwoman, who named herself "the great Lenglen," lived for tennis almost to the moment of her death. Over the week-end, despite her weakness, she demanded newspapers and read the result sof the Wimbledon tournament, where she was supreme from 1919 to 1925, except in 1924 when she did not play.

It was there she kept Queen Mary waiting in 1926 after an audience was arranged, and then refused to play, declaring she was "indisposed."

Shortly after, she turned professional for an exhibition tour of Canada, the United States, and Cuba. With money—estimated at $200,000—from the tour she retired to live quietly, playing tennis only for pleasure until she took over the government school.

Lenglen, who won her first championship at the age of 14 and the following year made a clean sweep of world titles for women's singles, women's doubles, and mixed doubles, put all her energies into the school designed to turn promising young French players into world champions.

A little over two weeks ago doctors announced she had been ordered to take an extended rest. For the last few days, friends admitted her only chance of recovery was her indomitable will. She grew steadily weaker over the week-end, and was unable to take any further blood transfusions to which doctors had resorted a week ago Wednesday.

Insurgents Resort To Flank Attacks

HENDAYE, July 4—(AP).—General Franco's insurgents, unable by frontal attack to smash through Spanish Government defences on the Teruel Highway to Valencia, have resorted to a wide flanking movement.

They hoped by the flank attacks to force the government militiamen to withdraw from their strong positions at the western end of the 50-mile eastern front, positions which planes and tanks were unable to crack.

The insurgent high command announced to-day that the tactics brought a 7½-mile advance in the past two days along a nine-mile segment south of Puebla de Valverde.

This included Aldehuela, three miles from the highway, and a region about Cubla, four miles further south.

Other sectors of the front were quiet, except for advance guard clashes near the Mediterranean coastline.

The capture of Aldehuela was of considerable strategic importance in Franco's offensive, which has Valencia as its ultimate objective, because it placed his troops to the extreme east of the Puebla de Valverde sector and broadened his salient north of Teruel.

Conant Asks Heavier Term For Martin

TORONTO, July 4.—Announcement was made over the week-end by Attorney-General Conant that an appeal will immediately be taken by his department to the Ontario Court of Appeal, asking that the two-year sentence recently imposed by Judge James Parker on N. L. Martin, for conversion of estates assets valued at $140,000, be "substantially increased."

"I am not at all satisfied," Mr. Conant said last night, "that this sentence is in accord with the fundamental principle and absolute necessity in law enforcement that there must be equal justice for all."

The forthcoming appeal follows a review of the sentence which was instituted at the Attorney-General's direction last week. It is also believed at Queen's Park to be the forerunner of a considered policy of studying all sentences closely with a view to effecting the "equal justice for all" condition which Mr. Conant stressed in his observations on the Martin sentence.

Some further significant public pronouncement in this regard is expected from the Attorney-General at an early date. Last night, however, he declined to discuss that possibility.

PETERBOROUGH CRICKET CLUB MEETS DEFEAT IN TORONTO

Toronto Club Wins 101-19 From The Petes

After being "washed out" of their match against St. Edmunds at the Oval on Dominion Day, the Peterborough Club on Saturday went to Toronto to be "wiped out" by the West Indians taking the small end of a 101 to 19 score. They batted first and the loss of Kelly before a run was scored seemed to demoralize the team and the innings became just a procession. Gore (6) started well and seemed out for a score when he fell to a fine catch by Carter. J. Chambers made 5 and the other ten batsmen got 4 between them. Of the West Indian bowlers, who were treated with undue respect, Marion took 8 wickets for 17 and Michael 2 for 2.

The West Indians tied the score before a man was out and consistent batting throughout the side took the score past the century mark. A fielding feature was a fine one-handed low down catch in the slips by Chambers. The wickets were shared by Kelly, Stewart, Chambers and Williams. The captain, F. Dyer, could not make the trip and was sorely missed.

On Saturday, Sept. 3, the West Indians come here and the locals hope to avenge tthe defeat and to return in some degree the lavish hospitality extended to them on Saturday.

Pethericks took a lead of three in thier opener and stayed out in front all the way. E. Ingram and J. Watson each gave their team a home run and D. Holmes and A. Reid the only others who scored twice were helped by errors.

Digging Up the Local Dirt With the Odd Chuckle or Two

By CEC. PERDUE

OVER AT RIVERSIDE Park on Saturday, before a goodly number of fans, the Petes got a 4-3 win over Merritton in an exhibition ball game. Not a bad tussle, as exhibitions go, with the Niagara District Loop team always in the hunt. Russ Kitchen had one bad inning but went good the rest of the route. A guy named Wedsworth pitched a big Nothing Ball for the men of Merritton but he did it in such a manner that some of the lads couldn't get a big piece of it. Others did, though, and Calladine, Clark and Cadd yonked out two safeties each, including two doubles and a triple. Everyone got one safe blow. Several of the visitors also clicked for a couple of hits. Some neat fielding shown in spots, also.

* * * * * *

NOPE LEFTY McNally nor Bob Doll didn't see service for the Petes. And we don't expect Doll will be playing with the locals any more. Nor McNally, either, unless he is okayed at the next O. B. A. meeting on transfers. Looks like the O. B. A. officials have to rush of authority to their heads and they intend to show the C. O. B. L. who is boss if it wrecks the best paying senior loop in the province! Vern Dawson, local club prexy, is asking for a joint meeting of the C. O. B. L. and O. B. A. sub-committee in Oshawa early this week to try to clear up matters. Dunno if it'll be arranged or what will come of it.

* * * * * *

THE PETERBOROUGH Baseball Club has an investment here this year and the officers don't want to see it shot to smithereens in mid-season. And these manufacturers and merchants who are the officers of the club are sportsmen who want to see baseball flourish locally. The players want to play and the fans want to see games. The same applies in Kingston. And if the O. B. A. clamps down too hard on this loop and kills it off this summer, organized senior ball in Central Ontaro is liable to be a dead issue for a long time. The same set of badgers killed the senior game in places like Lindsay, Port Hope, Cobourg, Bowmanville, etc., some years ago by changing the residence date from May 15th to Jan. 1st. The C. O. B. L. eventually had it moved ahead again to March 15th, but it should be set May 15th, the same as in Northern and Eastern Ontario.

* * * * * *

SMALLER TOWNS can muster up fair teams, of maybe an intermediate "A" calibre. But if they were allowed to import a few players, like an ace battery, late in May—when they could get work in the summer months—these towns could play senior ball. They did it over a decade ago, and we had the best Central Ontario League then that we've ever had. It's all very well for the O. B. A. to say they must stick to their rules—and it's true the Petes and Ponies brought in late imports—but why isn't the O. B. A. consistent? How many senior clubs in Ontario are really spotless Did Udy Blazetich move directly to Toronto this spring? Didn't Buzz Bennett leave Oshawa and then return? Hasn't Jack Turner resided in Toronto and played ball for the GM-men? And so on.

* * * * * *

IT WOULD seem to us that the O. B. A. officials (that means the sub-committee) are slicing off their schnozzles to spite their faces. They didn't have to interfere with this loop till the time for playdowns. They just got tough because they felt they were being flouted. They didn't need to suspend the Ponies without warning, nor the Kingston Locos. We must admit the O. B. A. has the authority, backed by the Sports Federation—which has the power of the old Amateur Union—but why kill a senior league to show it? There must be a middle course, a bit of give and take. We imagine the GM?men had no choice about sticking with the C. O. B. L., as the big shot in General Motors is Harry Carmichael, a former O. B. A. man.

* * * * * *

PREXY KEN COLLING of the Bay of Quinte Loop writes in his Belleville column: "Permission was given the Locos to play the Ponies only after a careful checkup by the league official who was informed late Wednesday, he tells us, that no official notification of any suspension of the Ponies had been received by the president or secretary of the C. O. B. L. The Locos were scheduled to play in Napanee Friday but the Gibbardites called proceedings off, we suppose pending subsequent rullings from the O. B. A.. In the meantime, the Locos claim a league victory without even having to field a team. They say they were ready to play, but rumors are rife to the effect that Ernie Gibbard took care of the situation by calling Secretary Snyder of the O. B. A. and getting a ruling on the matter, with the ultimate outcome that the Locos were then suspended for playing the Ponies. It's all a fine kettle of fish and perhaps the best way out is to hold a joint meeting of the C.. O. B. L. and Bay of Quinte league in conjunction with O. B. A. as early as possible."

CHURCH SOFTBALL League may wind it all up tonight at Nichols Oval when Mark St. Seniors clash with George St. in the second struggle of the final playoffs. A win for the Ashburnham outfit will give that team the shield for this year, and 'twould be for the third time. A win for George St. would force a third tilt and it would be played Wednesday. Other loop sections have cleaned up their championship playoffs, and the seniors will wind it up tonight or Wednesday. It may be just nip-and-tuck which circuit, the Church League or the Central Loop, is finished first!

WHILE OMEMEE men softballers play the Motorists tonight at seven bells in the Bowl, the C. G. E. lasses journey to Keene. No Bowl battle Tuesday, but Wednesday sees Lindsay ladies playing C. G. E. here, with Motorists meandering up to Omemee. Westclox teams are on vacation this week and next but will have a flock of games when they return. Ab Delahaye's damsels from Armour Hill won the Bank of Commerce Cup in Brighton last week when they knocked off C. G. E. gals, 16-12, in a challenge game in the rain. It was part of the sports' program lined up for Brighton's Old Home Week. There was a ball game there Sat'day morn with Merritton and Napanee going to a 1-1 tie in nine heats.

PICKING 'EM off the grapevine: Kingston Ponies notified the C. O. B. L. that they were through for the season, as Oshawa refused to go there Sat'day. . . . Tony and Jo-Jo Graboski, ex-Oshawa puckists, will play hockey in England next winter. . . . Bill (Flash) Horrocks, local boxing coach, was in Kingston on the holiday braving arranging for good pugs there to take part in a future show here. . . . Ward Wright did the century in 10.2 the other day in a trial sprint at the local Exhibition Grounds track; he was clocked by witnesses. . . . Wright plans to run in Oshawa and in Toronto next month. . . . Herb Handford has left for Toronto, but the Ponies may not need him anyway. . . . Peterborough Hockey Club has a general re-organization meeting this Thursday twilight at eight in the chamber of Commerce. . . . Lacrossers practice tonight at nine, and play in Brooklin tomorrow; O. L. A. standing is in tonight. . . . Young Petes have two junior ball games in the Motor City next Sat'day. . . . Merritton Ballsters are in third place in a seven-team loop. . . . Four good junior golfers from here made neat scores last week in Ontario championships. . . . Looks to us like Cincy Reds and N'Yawk Yanks in the world serial now, but one never can tell . . . . Guess the Petes' ball club should take out O .B. A. as well as rain insurance henceforth!

Junior Golfers Get Good Cards

The Peterborough Golf Club was well represented in the Ontario Junior championship. Four of the leading boys from here played some good golf but found the fast Royal York greens tricky. H. Cutting played well with all his clubs but his putter gave him lots of trouble. His scores of 84 and 85 were quite good on the tough Toronto course. R. Akers scores of 83 and 85, were also splendid. "Bob" Garner, after a shaky first round, found himself and played a lovely 85 in the after. Don Diplock also went better in the late round but he also found the greens quite fast.

A large entry faced the starter here Saturday in a kickers handicap against a hidden par which turned out to be 68. Some of the players took too many, others not enough. Three players guessed and played just right. They were: D. B. Falkner 86-18, 68; D. T. Diplock 88-20,68; W. F. Huycke 90-20, 68.

Others were: A. Donnelly 63, R. E. Cutting 72, J. G. Wharry 74, H. Cutting 70, J. H. Vernor 75, W. J. Hardill 76, H. T. Cranford 72, Ron Akers 70, R. L. Dobbin 71, G. Munro 62, Stan Payne 71, J. F. Helen Moody Takes Eighth Title

Losing only four games to her arch-rival, Mrs. Helen Wills Moody defeated Miss Helen Jacobs on Wimbledon's famed centre court to capture the all-England women's singles tennis championship for the eighth time in her career in straight sets. The scores were 6-4, 6-0. The veteran Californian was invincible in the climax to her Wimbledon comeback while Miss Jacobs was hampered by a leg injury. Mrs. Moody is shown here in a typical action picture.

All-Star Game Be Hard Fight

NEW YORK, July 4 (A.P.). — The annual mid-season battle between picked stars of the National and American Leagues on Wednesday afternoon at Crosley Field in Cincinnati promises to bear slight resemblance to the original "dream game" played so light-heartedly six years ago.

What started as a frolic for charity has developed into something dead serious.. There is talk that the contest might be abolished after next season, and it probably will be if the National Leaguers don't start winning.

There will be hard playing on the field on Wednesday. The two circuits are actively antagonistic these days. They fell out at their joint winter meeting over the type of baseball to be used, and they pulled still further apart the past spring over that magazine piece, "The New Minor League—The National."

The Nationals were, and still are, burned about that article. They honestly consider themselves a stronger league from top to bottom. They largely blame the all-star game for having cast them in poor light. Their only victory in the five games played was in 1936.

Originally, the fans were supposed to select the two clubs, but that didn't work.

The managers began slipping in some ringers. And the American League in particular jammed all the power it could find into its line-up.

Montague Still Good

SAN JOSE, Calif., July 4.—(AP).—John Montague, Hollywood's one-time mystery man, teamed with George Von Elm, former United States' amateur champion, to defeat Eddie Duino and Bill Wall, local professionals, in an exhibition golf match 3 and 2 yesterday. Montague carried 66 over the long par 71 Hillview golf course. Von Elm had 70, Duino 70, and Wall 68.

Cotton Dislikes Sun-Baked Greens

SANDWICH, England, July 4.—(AP)—Henry Cotton, famous for the outspoken way in which he mentions his likes and dislikes, doesn't care much for the sun-baked greens at the Royal St. George course, but he's expected to win his third British open golf title on them this week.

Cotton, among others, said he didn't like the hard course as he set out for today's and tomorrow's qualifying rounds. Last week's rains helped, but the course isn't in perfect shape and the weather report indicated this week will be hot.

Regardless of the conditions, Cotton was a strong favorite largely because there wasn't much opposition in sight. The odds against him were 6 to 1 today while the two British pros who are expected to be his closest rivals, Alfred Perry, 1934 open winner, and Al Padgham, champion in 1936, both were held at 8-1.

What Bertie Likes

PHILADELPHIA, July 4 (AP).—What appeals to a handsome 26-year-old Prince, wavy-haired Prince Bertil, who has fluttered hundreds of girls' hearts by his appearance at functions celebrating the settling of the Swedes here, said to-day he like Greta Garbo (a Swede), swing music, fast motor cars, and Scotch and soda.

Lawn Bowling

By HERB MARTIN

As a rule, in our open tournaments the number of entries received from our local club make up one-half of the total entry. In this men's tournament to be held on Wednesday, July 6, we have no idea how many will be entered, but we do know that a lot of the boys would go in if only the older and more experienced bowlers would show the way. The games commence at 2 p.m., and the fee is $6.00 per rink. Last year we had 32 entries from the city and surrounding district.

Entries for the provincial playoffs close to-morrow night (Tuesday). If the committee receives no entries for singles, doubles or rinks, they will appoint representatives. But if more than one entry is received in each competition, the committee will draw for the honor of representing our club to play against Oshawa in Lindsay on Monday, July 11.

The rained-out Tip Top Tailors competition will be held on Friday evening of this week. On account of the games being played in the evening, the number of ends has been limited to ten. So therefore, it will be three 10-end games, 2-1-0 system being used—$2.00 per rink entry fee—and for schedule rinks or rinks of schedule calibre only. Entries must be in the hands of the secretary by Thursday night. This will help the committee to have the draw all made and ready to start at 6.30 p.m. on Friday evening without delay. The co-operation of all rinks will be greatly appreciated.

Aussies To Face Fast Bowlers In Third Match

LONDON, July 4.—Australia will face new English fast bowlers in the third cricket test, scheduled to start at Manchester July 8. The first two matches of the five-game series played at Nottingham and London were drawn.

Four changes are made in the thirteen players nominated for duty at Old Trafford, from whom the eleven to make up the team will be chosen Friday. Don Bradman has given no hint of Australia's team, although it is possible Sidney Barnes, New South Wales youngster, may be among those selected. He injured his wrist en route to England and played his first game last week.

Kenneth Farnes, Essex, fast bowler, and Arthur Wellard, Somerset, fast medium, have been dropped from the English eleven which played in the second test a week ago. Morris Nichols, 38-year-old test veteran, also of Essex, is preferred to Farnes, while Wellard gives way to T. F. Smailes, Yorkshire, fast medium trundler. The latter, new to international competition, is at the peak of his form and performed well for his county against the Antipodeans at the week-end.

An amateur, also a newcomer to test cricket, will take the place of the injured Leslie Ames behind the wickets. He is P. A. Gibb, 25-year-old Cambridge University and Yorkshire player. Ames fractured a finger at Lord's a week ago.

The fourth change brings T. W. Goddard into the list of eligibles in place of Reginald Sinfield. Both are Gloucestershire spin bowlers.

Wally Hammond, England's captain, is reported to be quickly rounding into condition, although still undergoing treatment for a torn thigh muscle. The Gloucestershire amateur will go to London for further treatment today or Tuesday, but his appearance in the lineup is regarded as certain.

The English team will be selected from: W. R. Hammond, Barnett and Goddard, Gloucestershire; P. Gibb, Verity, Hutton and Smailes, Yorkshire; Compton and Edrich, Middlesex; Paynter, Lancashire; Wright, Kent; Nichols, Essex; Hardstaff, Nottinghamshire.

PETES GET 4-3 EXHIBITION WIN OVER MERRITTON SENIORS

Russ Kitchen On Hilltop For Homesters

In a neat exhibition senior ball game on Saturday afternoon in Riverside Park, the Petes pulled out a 4-3 victory over Merritton of the Niagara District League. About 500 fans saw a close contest, a good exhibition of baseball with the locals having a little edge to gain the nod. It was half an hour late starting, the Merritton gang having played a morning tilt against Napanee in Brighton.

Russ Kitchen hurled good ball for the locals, who played without Doll or McNally, according to an O.B.A. edict. Outside of one bad frame—the fourth, when two runs tallied—Kitchen was master of the situation and seldom in serious danger. He allowed 10 hits and three walks while sending back eight on strikes, bearing down well in the pinches. Wedsworth, a right-hander with an odd delivery, was on the Merritton mound. While nicked for a dozen hits and three walks, he left a flock of the Petes stranded on the sacks. He fanned just one. The fielding was fair on both sides, with a few costly bobbles.

Leading Hitters.

Calladine, Clark and Cadd led the locals at bat with two hits apiece, one of Clark's being a triple and Calladine conking a double. Russ Kitchen also hit a three-bagger. Every one of the homesters got at least one safe blow. Doresco, Jackson, Leeson, and Hallett had two hits each for the losers, Jackson's including a triple and double. There were three double-plays pulled off, while a running catch by Burton and a lovely pickup by Clark were defensive features.

The Petes got a run in the first when Calladine walked and Clark tripled, later being out at the plate. They got two in the second on singles by Kingdon and Hollingsworth, an error and Calladine's double. One more scored in the seventh when Cadd doubled, moved upon a passed ball, and raced home on Whatley's single. Merritton tallied twice in their big fourth frame on singles by E. Nestor, Leeson and Hallett, and a double by Jackson. Their other run scored in the sixth when Jackson tripled to deep right and crossed the plate on Leeson's single. Aside from those two heats the visitors got but one runner to third, but the Petes had men die on third in three of their scoreless stanzas.

Starred For Petes

AL CLARK.

Whitby Tennis Players Here

It was a combined squad composed of members of the three Kawartha League teams which entertained the Whitby Tennis Club on Saturday afternoon at the Kawartha courts. Local players had rather an easy time of it as they captured eight of the ten doubles matches played. In spite of the fact that the total count was one-sided, individual matches were quite well contested. During the tea hour, it was decided that Kawartha should return to Whitby on Saturday, July 30th.

In ladies' doubles: Margaret Jackson and Mrs. Wm. Jackson, Kawartha, won by only the narrowest of margins in two straight short sets, 6-5, 6-5, from Misses A. and E. Correll; Misses A. Davis and Nan Boorman, Kawartha, defeated Mrs. Demery and Mrs. Rorke 6-5, and 6-3; Misses M. Matheson and G. Richardson. Whitby, emerged on the long end of 6-4, 5-6, 6-5 scores over Hazel Jackson and Ruth McKee.

Men's Doubles

In men's doubles: C. Crowe and J. Donaldson, Kawartha, trimmed S. Harris and R. Dancy without difficulty after a shaky start by scores of 6-3, 6-1; Dr. McGee and Rolly Hull took the measure of the Beaton brothers in straight sets, 6-3, 6-4; Don Hull and Bob Maybee added another point to the Kawartha side of the ledger as they whipped C. Rorke and D. Wigmore by 6-4, 6-2; J. H. Bell and Bert Blanchard, Kawartha, drove C. Wigson and Y. Thomas nearly crazy with long drives and high lobes, setting them down with 6-0, 6-2 scores; D. Watts and D. Beaton did their best for the Whitby cause by taking their match 6-4 and 6-5. They opposed Jack Patterson and Jean Desmerais.

Both mixed doubles went to Kawartha. Muriel Donaldson and Art King walloped Miss E. McBride and A. Price 6-2, 6-3. Anna McKenzie and Orm Benson breezed through their contest with Miss E. Correll and W. Thompson 6-1 and 6-1. Miss McBride was hitting a good ball and Misses Donald and McKenzie cashed in on many fine chances at the net.

Joe Burk Wins Diamond Sculls In Record Time

HENLEY-ON-THAMES, England, July 4.—(CP).—Joe Burk, of Philadelphia, who holds the Canadian and United States singles sculling championships, has added the coveted Diamond Sculls of the Royal Henley Regatta to his growing list of titles.

Burk clipped eight seconds off the old record Saturday as he sculled the 1 5-16 miles in 8 minutes 2 seconds, and finished nearly 100 yards in front of L. D. Habbitts of the Reading Rowing Club. The Englishman crossed the finish line 51 seconds after the Philadelphian. The old record of 8:10 was made by F. S. Kelly in 1906 and equalled by H. Buhtz of Germany in 1934.

Makes It a Runaway.

Burk started in leisurely fashion, giving his rival a brief lead. Then he cut loose. Stroking forty to the minute, he rapidly left Habbitts behind and made a runaway of the race in the last half mile.

The Leander Club made a successful defense of the Steward's Cup, defeating Trinity of Oxford easily in 7 minutes 33 seconds. The Oxonians steered an erratic course, troubled by a diagonal breeze, and hit booms fifty yards from the finish.

Kent School of Connecticut defeated the London Rowing Club in the final for the Thames Trophy, after eliminating Yale's lightweight crew earlier in the day. Time was 7 minutes 3 seconds.

Leander Club won the goblet when Wolson and Laurie were victorious over the Bigland brothers of the Royal Chester Club in the record-equalling time of 8 minutes 8 seconds. The Biglands led for the first half of the course, after which Leanders assumed the lead.

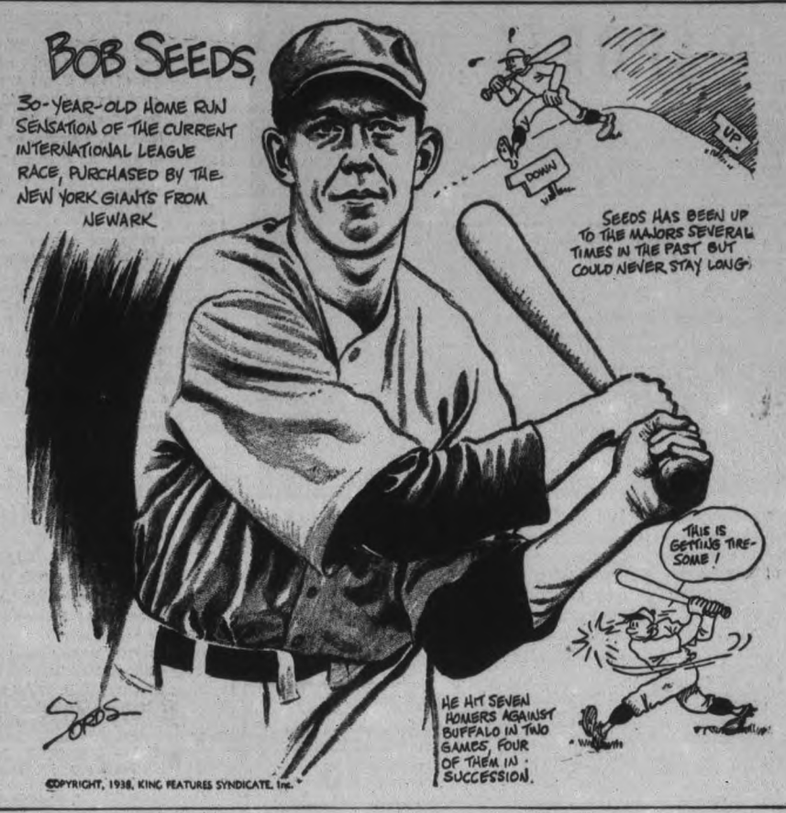
Another Record Falls.

In the final of the Visitor's Cup, Oriel College, Oxford, stroked by the Dark Blues' varsity stroke, A. B. Hodgson, established a record for the event, beating Third Trinity, Cambridge, easily in 7:18. The old record of 7:30 was set in 1908 by Magdalen College, Oxford.

The Ladies' Plate went to Radley School in a great performance. It beat Pembroke College, Cambridge, by 1¼ lengths in 6.56.

London won the Grand Challenge Cup over Trinity Hall, Cambridge, by a 1 1-3 lengths in 6:58.

The Wyford Cup remained in the hands of London "B" oarsmen, who triumphed over Royal Chester R.C. by four lengths in 7 minutes 41 seconds.



Hamilton Whips Buffalo Team In Exhibition

TORONTO, July 4 (C.P.). — It's no fluke that Hamilton Dominions are leading the Hamilton and District Senior Baseball League. The Dominions, undefeated in league play this season, proved they have plenty of class on Saturday by whipping a semi-pro outfit from Buffalo, 3-1, in an exhibition contest.

The Dominions scored over the Bufaflo All-Stars behind the five-hit pitching of Lefty Braun, who issued only two walks and struck out 11 batters. Macey of Buffalo held the Dominions to three hits and struck out seven.

In Niagara District League games, St. Catharines Saints defeated the Niagara Falls Brights 3-2 and Welland topped Fort Erie 5-4. Arn (Lefty) Trapnell, pitching his second game in four years, allowed Brights only six hits, one being a homer by First Baseman Hardison. Shortstop Jack Goss paced Welland to victory with three hits in four times at bat. Goss tripled in the sixth with the paths jammed to score three runs. In the eighth, with the score tied at 4-4, he scored the winning run when Bobby Hughey tripled to bring him home.

In an Inter-County League exhibition contest, an Intermediate all-star team defeated a senior all-star group 6-1 as Bob Lamb, 23-year-old pitching ace of Galt Terriers, limited the seniors to eight hits, and held them scoreless until the ninth inning.

IS STAR PITCHER

CLEVELAND—(CP).—Johnny Allen of Cleveland has the best lifetime won and lost average among major-league pitchers, with 85 won and 30 lost for a .739 percentage. He registered 15 victories last season.

Silas Johnson Wins His 7th For Rochester

TORONTO, July 4 (CP).—Stocky Silas Johnson may have been right when he protested against being sent down to Rochester by St. Louis Cardinals. At least his performances since he joined the Red Wings indicate he's a good man to have around on a double-A minor league club and might be of some help to a major league outfit that's trying to get into the first division.

Silas rang up his seventh victory in nine decisions for Rochester yesterday when he beat Montreal Royals 8-2. He yielded a dozen hits, a good many more than he has allowed in some of his games, but pitched so craftily he had a shutout in hand up to the ninth.

The Wings gave "old" Si a start on Johnny Hopp's homer and three runs in the first and he never had to work hard as they made most of their 11 blows.

Split Double Bill

Syracuse Chiefs managed to stay in third place, half a game ahead of Rochester, by splitting a double-header with the league-leading Newark Bears. Johnny Geet pitched a seven-hitter for Syracuse to win the opener 4-2 and gain his eighth mound triumph. Jack Fallon duplicated that effort for Newark in the nightcap and gained a 6-4 decision with the aid of successive homers by Les Scarsella and Bill Holm in the third. Nino Bongiovanni and Al Glossop clouted homers for the Chiefs.

Buffalo's second-place Bisons kept pace by splitting with the last-place Toronto Leafs. Joe Sullivan limited the herd to eight hits and contributed a homer to Toronto's 9-1 opening victory. Woody Abernathy hit his 17th homer and drove in five runs as the Bisons came back to win 6-3.

Jersey City Giants got their third straight low-hit hurling performance, A three-hitter by Glen Gabler, and beat Baltimore Orioles 3-1 by bunching four blows off Carl Fischer for two runs in the seventh and eighth.

In Saturday's games Newark won a 10-inning game from Syracuse 4-3, Bill Harris pitched a six-hitter as Buffalo defeated Royals 3-2 and Jersey City snapped a five-game losing streak with a double win over Baltimore 2-0 and 3-2. Toronto won one game of a night doubleheader from Rochester 4-3 but lost the first 6-0 as the Red Wings scored five runs in the fourth inning.

Man Breaks Out Tweed Jail During Reunion

(Examiner Correspondence.)

TWEED, July 4. — A brother and sister were arrested on charges of escaping from prison and of aiding and abetting at Tweed on Friday. Leonard Rashotte, 20, of Tweed, and his sister, Mrs. Raymond Bennett of Chicago, who was home visiting her relatives during the Tweed Old Home Week, were on Saturday put in the Hastings County Jail, Rashotte being charged with jail breaking and his sister with aiding and abetting him.

Rashotte was arrested in Tweed on a charge of assault on Thursday night, and was lodged in the Tweed village lockup. During the height of the re-union celebration Rashotte managed to gain his liberty, escaping after having successfully forced a small door in the lockup. Outside awaiting him was his sister, Mrs. Bennett.

Later Rashotte and the woman were arrested as they were driving from Tweed in Mrs. Bennett's car. The pair were later taken to Belleville and officially charged with jail-breaking and aiding and abetting, and later held in custody in the County Jail.

A few of the other octogenarians who attended were: Levi Crivea, 82, Bancroft; David Perks, Picton, 83; John G. Wood, 82, Ivanhoe; and Thomas York, 82, of Bancroft. Mr. Stanley Beatty came from Halifax, Mrs. W. F. Touris, was registered from Oakland, California and Mrs. E. J. Ketcheson, from London, England.

Calithumpian parades have been held every week-day since the celebration got underway on Thursday and Saturday's array of vehicles, bands, clowns and relics of pioneer days, including yokes of oxen, delighted the crowds that lined the main street and all along the route to the Exhibition Grounds, where a sports program and midway held the attention of the merry-makers.

At five-thirty Saturday, Jim Hunter, radio newscaster, made his regular broadcast from the judges stand in exhibition park, and during the newscast, Reeve W. H. Sayers, general chairman of the Old Home Week voiced a welcome and an invitation to all the listeners to attend the five-day program of fun. Alfred Scadding, hero of the Moose River mine was a guest of honor and spoke briefly at an amateur show held Saturday night in the Tweed auditorium.

Special Old Home Week church services were held in all the village churches on Sunday morning and the A.F. & A.M. held a parade at 11 o'clock to St. James Anglican church. At 2.30 yesterday afternoon, Oddfellows and Rebekahs decorated the graves at Victoria Cemetery, and members of the Tweed L.O.L. marched to the cemetery with the Tweed I.O.O.F. Tweed Citizens Band headed the parade. Last night and Saturday night, the Salvation Army Junior Band from Peterborough gave band concerts at Stoco Lake park, which were much enjoyed.

Toronto ladies' baseball team of the Sunnyside Senior League captured the $15 silver trophy presented at the Tweed Old Home Week celebrations, Saturday, when they defeated Crofton's of the Beaches League in two of three games.

The trophy winners took the first game 3 to 2 but lost badly in the second when Crofton's handed them a 13-5 setback. Smart pitching by Evelyn Enright brought the Toronto Ladies the cup when they won the final fixture, 13 runs to 9.

U. S. Communist Chief Admits Tie-up With Moscow

To a direct question as to whether the Communist party in United States was responsible to the Communist Internationale in Moscow, general secretary of the party Earl Browder told a Washington legislative committee appointed by Congress to investigate isms of varied hue, that it was. His declaration was unqualified and Mr. Browder asserted that the American group had never found its policies at cross-purposes with those emanating from the Moscow central body. Here is the No. 1 U.S. Communist, RIGHT, testifying before the committee headed by Senator McNabee.

by Mr. Bennett while others indicated he would merely be a voting delegate and not taking an active part in the rally.

Speculation On Bennett

Some speculation continued concerning Mr. Bennett's attitude towards the leadership despite his statement of last week that he had no desire to succeed himself and his previous announcement last March that he had made an irrevocable decision to retire as leader.

Yesterday, the Conservative leader celebrated his 68th birthday quietly in his hotel suite here.

Hundreds of resolutions which came from all over Canada to the Resolutions committee were being sifted in order to draft a new party platform. Among the resolutions were some asking the convention to approve monopoly control, a long-term trade agreement with the United States, a minimum price for wheat and promotion of preferential trade within the Empire.

will gather into Greater Germany conquered and rebellious people who will weaken Germany and eventually the Nazi dream of empire would melt before realities.

French List Realities

Here are some of those "realities" as the French see them:

1. Czechoslovakia is reckoned a strong fighting machine with good troops, planes the great Skoda munitions plant and natural mountainous defenses. Many military men say Czechoslovakia could defend herself for weeks until aid could come.

2. Soviet Russia has a defensive treaty with Czechoslovakia and with France. The French profess confidence Russia's thousands of war planes would "defend" Czechoslovakia.

3. Fascist Italy might refuse to help Nazi Germany. There is a Berlin-Rome axis, but Italy had a treaty with the Central Powers in the last war yet fought with the allies.

4. Hungary, Rumania, Poland and Jugoslavia might mix in if they saw a chance to halt Hitler. All of them have some worries than an expanding Germany might push them off the map. Already they feel the German economic penetration.

5. Germany might lack war materials after a few months. Germany professes to be self-contained. The French doubt it. They dispute the accuracy of neutral experts who think Germany has tightened her belt to lay in supplies and is equipped for a reasonably long war.

Decline to Prophesy

The French Government and political leaders don't pretend to know what will happen. They hope there will be peace, but they are ready for trouble. If Czechoslovakia's Germanic minority isn't placated in a few weeks, the French expect another outburst of German Nazi sympathy and "incidents" along the Czechoslovak border.

Chinese reported Japenese forces were withdrawing from North Kiangsu Province because of floods from the Grand Canal.

(A Peiping despatch said the Yellow River continued to flood a wide area of Honan Province where the overflow halted the Japanese drive westward a month ago. It was believed by correspondents who visited the flood area in a Japanese transport plane that the area faced a serious threat unless the waters receded before the usual summer floods.)

The Japanese-owned newspaper Mainichi Shimbun said secret orders had been issued by Chinese leaders in Hankow for a nation-wide terroristic campaign to start on July 7, the anniversary of the start of the conflict.

The campaign is to centre in Shanghai, the newspaper said, and is designed to encourage anti-Japanese feeling among Chinese civilians and foreigners.

Involved in Commons Row

Leslie Hore-Belisha, LEFT, may be forced to relinquish his post as War Secretary in the Chamberlain Cabinet, according to London rumors, in a dispute involving the Official Secrets Act and Duncan Sandys, RIGHT. Conservative member and son-in-law of Winston Churchill, Sandys, a territorial officer, precipitated the trouble when he sought the protection of parliament after being summoned to appear in uniform before a military tribunal to explain where he obtained certain information concerning Britain's anti-aircraft defence. He complained that after writing a letter to Hore-Belisha, complaining of the inadequacy of certain defence measures he had been threatened with prosecution under the Official Secrets Act.

By the time he left for the coast he was pretty good at it all.

Between business appointments in Los Angeles and Hollywood, he haunted the furniture stores. Shrewd dealers a time or two tried to take him in—to sell him things at exorbitant prices, mistaking him for the hick he appeared to be. He promptly disillusioned them, and had much fun while about it. Gradually he worked around to the time when she should call on Sid Bromberg. He arrived at the famous producer's office one morning at 10 o'clock.

"This is not the casting director," a pert secretary informed him, before eight other people there in the waiting room. "You must apply at—"

"I didn't say it was," growled Wild Bill, exhibiting his star. "I'm after Bromberg. Don't say he ain't in, young woman!"

He won. His manner so awed her that she became a yes-woman on the spot.

"You got a warrant for me?" demanded Bromberg, when Bill was ushered into The Presence. "What is it?"

"Nope, I ain't, but I got a message," humbled Wild Bill. "Miss Ellen Dale—she's hooked up out thar in Arizony. Says to tell you to stop writin' her mash notes, or her man'll come in and tear yore face off."

Mr. Sid Bromberg almost exploded.

People did not talk like that to him. Certainly they didn't dare do so in his own sanctum, ever. He sputtered, and pointed, and turned red in the face, and finally sat down.

"W-who is he—this man?" he finally managed. "He can't! I'll have the law on him. I am Sidney Bromberg. I write no mash notes. I am engaged to Ellen. I am going to her tomorrow, today, now. Is it a blackmail? A—a-aa?" He was sputtering again. "Who is the man? I'll—I'll—"

Bill Baron, straining to maintain his composure rose to his rather impressive height. He put on his best glare, carefully stooping so that both of his pistols were revealed under his coat.

"I'm her man. You'll what?"

It is a shame that the scene was not recorded, filmed with sound, for posterity, especially for Ellen Dale. It was all that she could have hoped for, and it was worth a million dollars to Bill himself, he admitted ever after.

The only catch was that Wild Bill couldn't maintain it. He swelled, and finally he exploded with laughter.

The secretary poked a tentative head in the door, still impressed.

Sidney Bromberg ranted and raved for five minutes, then turned into the gentleman which he really was. After all, he himself hadn't always been a wealthy moving picture man, but had started business life in a Bowery nickelodeon where $10 a day was a big net. He ended his tirade by inviting Bill to dinner. And as Ellen had predicted, by trying to make him take a screen test.

When the two men had thus developed a mutual respect, the evening became enjoyable. Sid Bromberg could be a fine host, and proved it. He almost embarrassed Wild Bill Baron, insisting that Bill continue in character and go with him to the high spots of Hollywood. The night club patrons won't forget that evening for years.

In his hotel room some time toward morning Bill could have relaxed and slept peacefully, happily, but for the telegram that awaited him. He sat on his bed staring at the yellow paper, rereading it:

I have come to town on account to let you know Ellen she has went off that dam slink eyes Montoya I started to shoot him but thought you would want me to tell you first we are well and hope you are the same yours respectly stop.

DOROTHY DIX

FATHER'S DAY has come and gone and been duly celebrated, though it ran a poor second to Mother's Day. But let us trust that Pop is strutting around in the necktie that Junior gave him; that family remembered the brand of cigars he smokes instead of getting him something in a pretty box that tastes like tarred rope, and that debutante daughter remembered to say "thank you" for benefits received.

But one wonders whether one should offer Father congratulations or condolences, for he has so long known his own place in the household—which is the back seat—that it must have been surprising, confusing and embarrassing to be suddenly pushed into the spotlight up in front. He is so in the habit of letting Mother take all the bows and assume all the credit for the children that he doesn't know how to wear the laurel crown that has been so unexpectedly thrust upon his bald head.

How Mother managed to steal the show, nobody knows, but she has done it. It is Mother whose name is up in electric lights over the home door. It is Mother who gets all the press notices. It is Mother's sacrifices for her children that are glorified. It is for the sake of their poor old mothers that we turn murderers loose to kill some more. It is Mother's sufferings that are exploited. When a youngster makes good, it is Mother who gets most of the credit for it. It is Mother who gets all of the sob songs written about her.

But nobody croons any pappy songs. Nobody regards Father as more than a biological incident and a bill-payer in his children's lives. Nobody weeps over poor Father because he has to toil like a slave to support his family and swelter in an office all Summer while Mother and the children are disporting themselves at the seashore or in the mountains. Nobody pictures Father as a martyr when he goes shabby so that Son and Daughter may go forth dressed like Solomon in all his glory, or when he gives up the fishing trip he has dreamed about all Winter to send Buster to camp.

But, if it is sadly true that there are many men who suffer themselves to be relegated to such an humble position in their households that there is none in it to do them honor and they are nothing but cash registers to their children, let us not forget that it is their own fault. For, ironically enough, the very fathers who work themselves to death and deny themselves everything they desire in order to indulge their children in luxuries, so often do not even take the trouble to get to know their youngsters. They are less acquainted with their own sons and daughters than they are with their office boys. There is so little familiarity between fathers and children that Mother has to act as a liaison officer, wangle a new car or a trip out of Father and break the news to him that Mary is going to marry young Smithers, or John has got in a mess that he has to be paid out of.

Why a man does not consider it as important to give his children his own personal care and direction as he does to give them good food and good clothes, is one of the mysteries of masculine psychology, but he doesn't. He may know that his wife is weak and silly; that she has no more judgment than a hysterical hen; that she is so overly fond of her children that she cannot see a single fault and is utterly incapable of forming them into the strong disciplined men and women he wants them to be, yet he turns them over to her to rear and does not even interfere when he sees that she is ruining them by her spoiling.

Nothing else goes so far to explain why so many children "turn out badly," as the phrase goes, as does the fact that they lacked a father's influence, that they had no father's wisdom to guide them, no father's hand to hold them steady.

We sentimentalize a mother's influence but, in reality, a father's influence is a hundred times more potent. For children love their mother, but if they are given a chance they both love and respect their father. When Mother warns them against the dangers and temptations that await them, it goes in one ear and out of the other because they probably know that Mother isn't half as wise to life as they are. But when Father speaks, they listen because he has been down the road and he KNOWS.

So, perhaps, if Father would chum up with his children and make them always feel that he was their most understanding and sympathetic friend; if he would hold their hands when they were babies and stand close to them through adolescence, Father's Day would become the greatest festival of the year.

Have You Charming Manners in Public?

Good Manners Mean Good Times

What charming manners these young people have! Wherever they are — in restaurants, theatres, at dances—their perfect poise wins admiration.

If the waiter's not on hand, Jim's johnny-on-the-spot at seating Molly. If an older woman's in the party, Jim gallantly seats her first.

As for Molly! Does she cling to her escort's arm? Flourish a comb in public? Turn down one man for a dance—then sail off with a better dancer? Of course not! If Molly'd rather not dance with a certain man —and has had no previous request for the dance—she suggests sitting it out.

Manners make or mar your success. Learn fine points of etiquette from our 32-page booklet. Tips on introductions, conversation, invitations. What to do and say in restaurants, theatres, parties, clubs, other public places.

The Stars Say . . .

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

For Tuesday, July 5

THIS SHOULD be a day of much enterprise and initiative, but there may be some excitement and turbulence, if not violence, judging by the lunar and mutual configurations. Upheaval, commotion and probably litigation may make matters very disagreeable and unprofitable, unless good judgment, sound sense and calm demeanor are permitted to overrule rash emotionalism. Change may be of benefit, especially if engineered with prudence and discretion.

Those whose birthday it is may encounter a year of disaster and disturbance if they permit tempestuous and reckless behavior to complicate affairs. Litigation, violence, enmity and distress are likely to follow unruly and vindictive conduct, whereas some success and profitable adventure may climax calm and restrained activities. Tact and discretion may turn matters to good account.

A child born on this day may be constructive, enterprising and industrious, although it may be carried into many disputes, dangers and regrets by indulging its fiery and reckless impulses. However, it may have kind and helpful friends.

Bull Fight Time

SAN DIEGO, Calif., July 4.—(AP).—Thousands of Americans swarmed across the Mexican border to-day to see their first bull fight. Almost in sight of the deserted Agua Caliente race track, six events were to be staged in a new bull ring as part of the three day holiday fiesta at Tijuana. Matadores, bandilleros, picadores and toreadores—to the acclaim of colorfully garbed senoritas —dispatched six black bulls yesterday in a thrilling program.

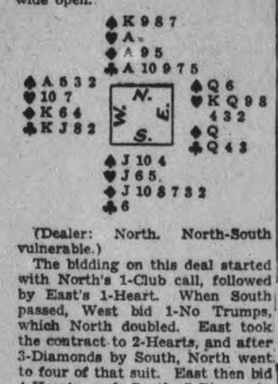
"The Authority on Authorities"

UNDERLEADING AN ACE

YOU WILL seldom find a worse opening lead against a suit contract than the underlead of an ace. Somehow it nearly always turns out that the declarer or dummy has a singleton and can trump the second round, thus putting your ace to sleep. But along during the play of the hand there are situations which compel underleading an ace. The original considerations of the blind lead are gone then, and you act with your eyes wide open.



(Dealer: North. North-South vulnerable.)

The bidding on this deal started with North's 1-Club call, followed by East's 1-Heart. When South passed, West bid 1-No Trumps, which North doubled. East took the contract to 2-Hearts, and after 3-Diamonds by South, North went to four of that suit. East then bid 4-Hearts and South 5-Diamonds, which West doubled.

The heart 10 was won with dummy's A. The club A was cashed and followed by a club ruff. Then a heart was trumped in the North hand and a club in declarer's hand. A heart was then ruffed with dummy's trump 9 and the diamond A laid down. Another club ruff was followed by the diamond J, which West won with the K. It now seemed as if South's contract was sure. If West led a trump, South had an entry to dummy for the set up club. If he cashed the spade A he would have to lead a spade to the dummy. He needed two more tricks to set the contract, so he underled the spade A. South played West for the Q and played low. East won and returned a spade, setting the contract one.

Goodnight Story

By MAX TRELL

THE OTHER morning while the children were having their breakfast, Knarf and Hanid, the shadows with the turned-about names, slipped out of the house and hurried into the garden. Something was happening. They could hear General, the children's Scotch terrier, barking at the top of his voice. They could hear another dog barking, too.

"There's General now," Hanid said. "He's barking at a strange dog. It's a poddle. He's on the other side of the fence."

Sure enough, they found General rushing up and down, barking with all his might at a white poodle with long curls who was standing on the other side of the fence. The poodle was barking with all his might, too.

"He said I needed a haircut."

"Here, what's the trouble?" Hanid said sternly to General. "Why are you barking at that poodle? Can't you be friends?"

"No, we can't!" General answered the shadow girl.

"He made fun of me," the poodle said from the other side of the fence. "He said I needed a haircut."

Needs Haircut

At that both Knarf and Hanid started to laugh. "But that should not make you angry. Your curls are pretty long," Knarf said. "Why don't you really have them cut?"

"I like them! I won't have them cut!"

Just as the poodle said this along came a little girl. She was the poodle's mistress. "Oh, there you are!" she exclaimed happily. "I've been looking all over for you. We've got to hurry. You must get your hair clipped today. Come along."

General jumped up and down and barked joyfully. "Ho-ho! you've got to get your hair clipped! You are going to lose all your curls anyhow! Ho-ho!"

The poodle barked back. "All right—but they'll grow back again. You'll see . . . you'll see."

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE—

The liver should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily. If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas bloats up your stomach. You get constipated. Harmful poisons go into the body, and you feel sour, sunk and the world looks punk.

A mere bowel movement doesn't always get at the cause. You need something that works on the liver as well. It takes those good, old Carter's Little Liver Pills to get these two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up". Harmless and gentle, they make the bile flow freely. They do the work of calomel but have no calomel or mercury in them. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills by name! Stubbornly refuse anything else. 25c.

Looking Back On This Date

July 4

Two hundred and ninety years ago today (July 4, 1648) the first of the Jesuit fathers at the Huron mission on St. Joseph's Island, Georgian Bay, was murdered by Iroquois. The Hurons had either been decimated by smallpox contracted from the white men at Quebec, or slaughtered in battle and the field was clear for the Iroquois. Coming up from Lake Ontario, they wiped the country clean, pillaging and slaying as they went. Then they reached the Huron mission. Father Anthony Daniel was the only priest there. The others had gone, and with them had gone the men who usually defended the mission fort. Only old men and women were left.

Fred Williams

The Iroquois rushed in, killing Father Daniel, who stood before them in his robes, to ...k the way so as to save his people. But the odds were too great. He was literally cut to death after tortures which he bore so bravely, reciting prayers with his dying breath, that some of his murderers actually drank his warm blood in the hope that it would give them some of his courage. The rai...rs set the little church on fir... and killed most of the old women, taking a few younger ones and children as captives.

It was not until the following March that the other Jesuits at the Huron mission also gave their lives for the Faith. Today all of them have been canonized as saints. Father Daniel had begun his work as a missionary in 1633 in Cape Breton, but a year later went to Quebec and then to Georgian Bay with Brebeuf, and laid the foundation of the mission.

In 1636 he returned to Quebec to found the Seminary, but the call to the mission field was too strong and he went back to St. Joseph, to meet his death as a servant of the cross. A magnificent memorial at the Jesuits' shrine at Midland, erected to the memory of Daniel and the later martyrs, is visited by thousands of Roman Catholics every year, as well as by many of other faiths, who share in the mental tribute to these martyrs.

Forty years ago (July 4, 1898) the world was staggered by news of a terrible catastrophe in mid-Atlantic. The French linier La Bousgowne collided with another steamship in a dense fog. Over 500 lives were lost, including many Canadians on a pilgrimage to Lourdes and other shrines in Europe. It was the worst disaster until the Titanic sinking in 1912.

Old Boys, Girls Of Brighton Hold Reunion

Edward A. (Fred) Collins of Sudbury, Canadian manager of the International Nickel Company, was probably the most famous of Brighton's sons attending the old boys' and girls' re-union which began on Friday and will close to-day.

Mr. Collins received his primary education in Brighton, where he was born, took a university course in mining engineering, and began his practical work in the early boom days of Northern Ontario. Opportunity swept in around him, especially as the importance of the discovery of nickel in the Sudbury area began to be realized. With incoming money to exploit the deposit, Mr. Collins became associated with the company and from the outset demonstrated that he had all the qualities of leadership and administration the expanding responsibilities demanded.

Peterborough was represented among hundreds of visitors by Mrs. W. Rickey, 637 Aylmer street, and Arnold Hickey, 617 Mount Pleasant Road, Toronto.

For The War Fund

PHILADELPHIA, July 4 — (AP). —Four Chinese told the court yesterday that $1,100 police found on a table was not the ante in a gambling game but a collection for their war-plagued country men. The Judge took them at their word and ordered the money turned into a Chinese relief fund. Three of the defendants were paroled and sentence on the other deferred.

Featherweight Wool Top Coats

The featherweight wool town coat models shown above in navy blue are important styles as part of a smart summer wardrobe. They may be found in a variety of graceful silhouettes. In loose, swinging lines, in fitted and flared princess versions, in the new bloused back types, these coats are charmingly designed to wear over light frocks throughout the warm season. Both young ladies are looking backward, illustrating two of the most popular interpretations of the season's coat mode. At left is a dressmaker type of coat, with fulled shoulder line, loose-cut sleeves, and a tie belt of self-fabric worn pulled through at front. The model on the right is a braid-bound redingote reefer built on slim, tailored lines. Beflowered and beveiled hats are charming and frivolous complements to these costumes.

Doris Bannister Weds William R. Howard

Delphinium, orange blossoms, and canterbury bells adorned Trinity church on Saturday afternoon for the wedding of Doris Jean, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. J. A. Bannister, 572 Weller street, who was united in marriage to William Ralph Howard, Millbrook, son of Mr. S. W. Howard and the late Mrs. Howard, Toronto.

Rev. G. S. Easton officiated, and wedding music was played by Miss Mabel Clarry. During the signing of the register, Miss Alma Blanchard sang "Beloved it is Morn."

The bride was given in marriage by her father, and wore a lovely gown of French lace over white satin with net godets inset in the long train. Her circular veil fell from a Mary Queen of Scott's headdress of lace and satin, and she carried a bridal bouquet of premier roses and lily of the valley.

The bridesmaids were Miss Dorothy Henry and Miss Peggy Russell, wearing net dresses made with bouffant skirts, tiny puff sleeves and square necklines. The former was in blue net with bows of pink ribbon; the latter in pink net with bows of blue. Their matching halo-shaped hats were flower-trimmed at the brim in contrasting shades, and they carried graceful bouquets of pink roses and blue delphinium.

Dr. J. W. Wright was best man, and and the ushers were Mr. Ted Burns and Mr. John Bannister.

Following the ceremony a reception was held at the home of the bride's parents, where the bride's mother received in a gown of flowered chiffon. Her large white hat was trimmed with cornflower blue, and her corsage was of American Beauty roses and cornflowers.

For travelling the bride wore an ensemble of beige and parisand, with parisand accessories.

Mr. and Mrs. Howard will make their home in Millbrook.

Sunday Services At St. James'

The Brotherhood of St. J[illegible] United Church studied with their leader, Rev. F. W. Craik, "Joshua: A Choice of Loyalties." This was a vivid picture of the Israelites, addressed by their new commanding officer, gallant Joshua, as they took over luxurious Canaan after the desert campaigns. His challenge, "Is is to be back to idolatry or—forward with God?" brought the resounding reply "We will serve the Lord."

At the Sunday morning service a most timely and heart-warming sermon was preached by Rev. F. W. Craik based on the Psalmist's, "Commit thy way unto the Lord," and St. Paul's: "I can do all things through Christ." The service was especially directed to those bewildered and buffeted by daily trials despite their anxiety to be true to God. The large congregation then partook of Holy Communion, the beautiful musical service being assisted by Mrs. H. F. Doig singing, "Have You Heard the Story:" and a duet by Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Cuff, "Were You There?" with Cecil Lepp at the organ.

At the evening service Rev. F. W. Craik spoke on "Songs At Eventide" with their comfort in moments of deep stress. A communion service was afterwards held for those unable to attend in the morning, Mrs. Dorrington contributing a lovely solo, "He Will Hold Me Fast."

Westwood Church Built 65 Years Has First Wedding

The first wedding in St. Andrew's Church at Westwood, according to memories of its oldest members from a retrospect of sixty-five years of public worship, united two Otonabee township families in the marriage Saturday afternoon at 1.30 o'clock of Helen E. Clysdale, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Clysdale, and Alfred J. Elmhirst, son of Mr. and Mrs. William H. Elmhirst.

The ceremony was performed by Rev. F. W. Newell of Hastings, pastor of St. Andrew's, in the presence of a large number of friends of the young couple. The church was crowded when the bride was given in marriage by her father. She looked charming in a gown of white net over taffeta, the skirt trimmed with lovers' knots of white velvet. Her veil, previously worn by a friend now residing in Nova Scotia, was fastened by a coronet of lillies of the valley, and she carried a bouquet of Premier roses, lillies of the valley and maiden hair fern. Her sister, Miss Dorothy Clysdale, bridesmaid, was attired in sheer turquoise blue, pink hat and gloves. Her flowers were Briar Cliff roses and blue delphiniums. Little Shirley Clysdale, youngest sister of the bride, was flower girl in a toe length dress of pink organdie and carrying a nosegay of pink roses and delphiniums.

Roy Faux of Lang was best man, and Frederick Clysdale usher. Miss Jessie Graham of Westwood presided at the organ. JUST BETWEEN US WOMEN

"If you have built castles in the air, your work need not be lost: there is where they should be. Now, put foundations under them."—Thoreau.

Dear Friends—Have you ever built castles in the air, then looked up at them and wondered what to do, let them dissolve in the mists of disillusion, be clouded so that you cannot see them by the tears of disappointment, or be blown to bits by critical words?

There they hang, beautiful to behold, your castle that was not built by hands. Yet you are a human being and need the things that hands do. So get busy and put your foundations under them before they topple over and engulf you.

You might say: "But, how can I, Roberta? What will I use for foundations. I haven't this, not enough of that, nothing to build with. Can I make bricks without straw?"

And my answer is that many times I have made them without straw. Look around you, and see how many things you could use to make grand foundations. Look inside you and use your brains to help you get the material.

Look aloft to God and ask His help. He will not fail you. How many lovely castles have been built and allowed to fall apart, all because the ones who did the building would not bestir themselves to make the dream come true.

Sometimes I look back and chuckle to myself at the materials I have used for foundations for my dream castles. Look at the birds, their nests are not ready made for them. They get a bit here and another bit there. They KEEP AT IT, and eevntually out of bits and scraps there is the nest all finished.

Well, are you going to let a little thing like a bird, who have neither hands nor much of a brain, beat you? I'm surprised at you. Get busy and even if you must use scraps when you would rather have a whole piece, use them.

Use Hope and Courage and Determination to cement the scraps together. I hate having a thing beat me, and if I cannot manage it this way, I'll manage it that way.

After all, all life is composed of scraps. Little minutes, little hours, little brains, little happinesses. You cannot crowd a whole lifetime into one day or week.

Don't mistake me, I like the best as well as you do, but sometimes the best does not come all wrapped up ready to use. Even in a model readicut home, you have to put the thing together before you can live in it.

I never buy a hat or a coat or dress, that I do not alter to suit my own personality. And I never build castles in the air without trying to make them come true. It takes a little effort, some thought, lots of unswerving determination, but the result is well worth it.

Browning tells us in "Pippa Passes":

"Oh day, if I squander a wavelet of thee,
A mite of my twelve hours' treasure,
The least of thy gazes or glances
(Be they grants thou art bound to, or gifts above measure)
One of my choices, or one of my chances
(Be they tasks God imposed thee, or freaks at thy pleasure)
My Day, if I squander such labor or leisure
Then shame fall on Asolo, mischief on me."

So, let your day dreams and castles in the air be one of your choices, working with brain and hands to make them realities.

Your Friend, ROBERTA.

Phyllis Payne Saturday Bride

The bride, attired in a graceful frock of white suede lace with short matching bolero jacket, fingertip veil with coronet of white forget-me-nots, and carrying a shower bouquet of sweetheart roses and valley lillies, entered the church on the arm of her father. Preceding the bride were her two brothers, Ronald and Bruce, who acted as ushers.

The bride's only attendant was her sister Iris as bridesmaid, charmingly dressed in a gown of filmy blue double silk net, the bodice appliqued in taffeta, with tiny Peter Pan taffeta collar. Her bouquet was an old-fashioned nosegay of blended sweet peas and valley lilies. A tiara of valley lilies was worn on her hair.

Following the marriage ceremony the wedding reception for the immediate families and close friends of the couple was held at the home of the bride's parents. Receiving with the bridal couple were Mrs. Payne, mother of the bride, wearing delphinium blue lace with picture hat of natural shade lace, matching shoes and accessories, and corsage of sweet peas and cornflowers, and Mrs. D'Arcy Foster, sister-in-law of the groom, wearing navy sheer with large white hat and corsage of sweet peas.

IN MEMORIAM

HUGGINS.—In fondest memory of a dear mother, Mrs. T. R. Huggins, Sr., who departed this life July 4, 1923.

The flowing stream of life rolls on
But still the vacant chair
Recalls the love, the voice, the smile
Of mother, who once sat there.
Her life was one long sacrifice,
Her heart was true and tender,
Toils so hard for those she loved
She left us to remember.
—Sadly missed by her family.

MIDDLESBROUGH, England. — (CP).—John McGrory, 53, was killed when struck by a manhole cover blown 30 feet by an underground explosion here. Another man was knocked against a brick wall but uninjured.

New Vegetables Are Plentiful

New vegetables from local gardens featured the Saturday market with an abundant supply of young beets, carrots, cabbage, potatoes and so on.

Potatoes sold at 40 and 50 cents a peck according to size, the larger variety being almost equal in growth to the imported stock that has been gradually thrusting the old home grown potatoes of last year into the background.

Cabbage were also of a fair size selling at five cents each. Carrots, beets and lettuce were five cents a bunch; spinach 25 cents a peck; new peas 35 cents for a six quart basket.

Demand was lively for the first home soil produce of the season, especially potatoes and peas; and the new beets and carrots also found ready sale.

Strawberries at two boxes for 25 cents are nearing the end of their season. Gooseberriss were the same price, "two boxes for a quarter."

Eggs were firm at 25 to 27 cents a dozen, and butter averaged 25 cents a pound. Chickens seemed a little more plentiful with no change in price.

Jam Almost Gone

NIAGARA FALLS, N.Y., July 4 (A.P.). — The record-breaking ice jam which filled the Niagara Gorge last January, destroying a bridge and burying a power plant, had shrunk to-day to a chunk of ice almost small enough to fit in a housewife's icebox.

At its worst, the ice jam was estimated to be nearly 100 feet high and 10 miles long.

The ice chunk which now remains lies in a shady spot near the Falls. Warm weather has whittled the estimate of its size down to 400 pounds.

Tack In His Lung May Kill Boy

LEAMINGTON, Ont., July 4 — (CP)—A small brass tack, caught at the bottom of the bronchial tube in his right lung, has held the scales of life and death over 13-year-Meredith Gunn of this Essex County town for the past six years. Several operations have failed to dislodge the tack from its position and it may ultimately cause a fatal infection.

Two weeks ago, Meredith, a happy, healthy youngster, was taken to Toronto for an examination by a lung specialist. It was decided an operation would be too dangerous to risk. The lads parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Gunn, do not believe in another operation, "unless it is a matter of life and death."

Mrs. Gunn said the obstruction bothered her son occasionally. When this happens, Meredith is put to bed, she said, and the rest appears to help stop the irritation. Meredith wants to be a baseball player and favors the idea of removing the tack by operation.

He swallowed the tack because of a common habit of children in placing small objects in their mouth.

"I sneezed and down it went," he said.

Japanese Bombers Hammer Hukow

SHANGHAI, July 4 (AP).—Japanese bombers today started hammering at Hukow, 25 miles up the Yangtse River from Matowchen, and believed to be the next major objective in the drive on Hankow.

Hukon, 150 miles downriver from the provisional capital, lies at the mouth of an inlet to Lake Poyang. China's second largest lake and gateway to all Northern Kiangsi Province.

Advices from Kiukiang, 15 miles above Hukow, said nine Japanese bombers, aided by clear weather, took part in the attack, following the occupation of Matowchen.

The Japanese were silent regarding the boom across the Yangtse at Matowchen, but it was believed to be still intact. The passage of the 100 or more warcraft in the river around Matowchen will have to await the dynamiting of the barrier, which probably will require weeks.

"HERE'S What I Expect An Advertisement To Tell Me!"

"WHERE CAN I BUY IT? Naturally, one of the first things I want to know about something I see in an ad is—WHERE CAN I BUY IT? It isn't simply a matter of convenience and of saving time in planning my shopping either! No, the NAME OF THE MERCHANT, itself, often decides whether I buy or not. Invariably, you see, I give preference to stores whose ads I see regularly and often—I know those stores MUST have good value or they couldn't go on advertising year after year!

"WHAT WILL IT DO FOR ME? I find it so much easier to make up my mind when the ad tells me FACTS about the merchandise! What is it? What will it do? How will it help me Why do I need it? I want to know about color, weight, texture, material, style—I enjoy reading those things and I usually buy from the merchant who tells them to me.

"HOW MUCH IS THE PRICE? Of course nearly every ad mentions the price, but if an item has been marked down I want to know from how much. So many sale ads say 'Was Higher'... HOW MUCH HIGHER? I want to know how much I am saving and I want the chance of deciding for myself if the item is a real value or not. I have more confidence in the store that is consistently truthful and buy from such a store regularly—and my husband says an old customer is worth three new ones because new ones cost additional money to get!"

Canadian Fascists To Enter Next Federal Election

Will Ignore Provincial Municipal Votes, Toronto To Be Headquarters

TORONTO, July 5 (CP).—Canadian Fascists, newly formed into the National Unity Party, will sponsor candidates in the next Federal election, Joseph Farr, national organizer of the party, announced today as party members left after a four-day convention.

The party will ignore provincial and municipal elections throughout the Dominion, Farr said. He refused to disclose further election plans.

Toronto will be national headquarters of the party and provincial headquarters too. Provincial branch offices will be established in each province during the month.

Farr claimed 870 people sought party membership after last night's meeting in Massey Hall. Ontario membership now is 23,000. The recent convention set the Ontario membership goal as 100,000 by the end of next month.

James Duncan of Toronto, new Ontario organizer, will have a staff of about 14 to aid him in Toronto. He will leave soon to establish branches in London, Kingston, Windsor, Guelph and other Ontario cities where party members are located.

Farr said weekly meetings would be held in Toronto and other Ontario cities and a second meeting would be held September 5 in Massey Hall here.

Judge Deroche To Conduct Police Probe

Receiving a letter from Judge L. V. O'Connor of Cobourg that he would not be in a physical condition until September to conduct the proposed investigation of the Police Department, the Council last night appointed Judge G. E. Deroche of Belleville to preside at the inquiry which is likely to be held during the last week in July.

Judge OConnor has only recently come through a serious illness, and in his letter he wrote that there was not much chance of his being able to come to Peterborough until after the summer months have passed. City Clerk Armstrong, on the advice of Alderman Gordon, chairman of the Legal Committee, telephoned to Judge Deroche, senior Judge for Hastings County, asking him yesterday if he could accept the assignment, and the reply was to the effect that Judge Deroche would be free during the last week in July. His appointment is on the same terms as those offered to Judge O'Connor, $25 a day and 10 cents a mile travelling expenses.

The by-law passed last night also named Cecil G. Frost, K.C., of Lindsay to examine witnesses and bring out the evidence at $50 a day, and C. G. Newall of Toronto as court stenographer at $8 a day, including expenses. The total cost of the inquiry is limited to $350. The by-law was given its three readings without comment.

To Renew Request.

The Council's proposal to the City Trust Commission that it provide funds for the purchase of the Charlotte Street property for a new market site brought a reply that the Commission had no funds for that purpose within its authority.

Instead of referring the letter to the Property Committee for further consideration, the Council fell in

Fire Rangers Aid Search Missing Boy

Lake Is Dragged But Searchers Fail To Find Boy

A band of 25 fire rangers joined to-day in the search for 17-year-old Elwood Anderson, missing in the bush north of Apsley since last Thursday. The new arrivals, who have been fighting small fires in the district for some time, swelled the ranks of the searching party to nearly one hundred members.

The enlarged party continued its search this morning after refreshing themselves with sleep following a fruitless quest all day Monday. To-day they will comb the rugged wild country, criss-crossing back and forth, with little hope of coming on the boy alive, and fearful they will not even find his body.

At first it was believed the lad might have fallen into Little Mountain Lake while searching for the cows, which had a habit of straying into the woods surrounding their pasture. The shoreline of the lake is boggy and treacherous, and the country is dotted with dangerous muskegs and rock fissures that might cause death or injury to him had he been trapped in them. But on Monday the lake was dragged by farmers of the district who had banded together in the man hunt. The body was not found and the searchers are satisfied the youngster did not fall into the water.

Lost Since Thursday.

The boy is the eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Anderson of Cardiff Township, Haliburton, 20 miles north of Clydesdale, and 70 miles north of Peterborough. Late last Thursday afternoon he set out, in company with a small dog, to bring the cows home from pasture, half a mile away. The dog arrived back at the farm at seven oclock that evening and the cows were not found

Don't Slam Door On Britain Is Meighen's Plea As Tory Rally Opens

Rap At King's Stand Against R.A.F. School Brings Delegates Up Cheering; White Calls For "Go-Getter" As New Chief

OTTAWA, July 5 (CP).—Full co-operation with the United Kingdom for the defences of Canada and the British Empire in a world threatened with civilization-destroying war was urged upon the National Conservative Convention today by Rt. Hon. Arthur Meighen in an eloquent keynote speech. His words brought delegates to their feet in prolonged cheering.

"Have we come to the hour in this country when Canada locks the gate on Britain and when Britain asks to train her own subjects here for her own purposes?" he asked, commenting on Prime Minister Mackenzie King's recent declaration the government would not consent to the establishment of British flying schools in Canada.

"If we call ourselves partners in this commonwealth, let us behave as partners behave when they have a common purpose and when they know that purpose is right."

For two reasons Mr. Meighen pleaded for a strong declaration from the convention and later from Canadian people as a whole in favor of co-operation in the defence of the Empire. One was that it was the best way of obtaining the safety of Canadian homes and institutions of government. The other was a personal one, that they and their fathers had lived till now "within the British shield" and wished to continue so.

Hill Named Chairman.

Photographers' lights flashed from all side of the platform as Mr. Bennett opened his remarks.

Mr. Bennett then declared: "This convention has been properly called, the delegates have been accredited and we will now proceed accordingly."

First business was election of temporary chairman in the persons of H. P. Hill of Ottawa and Edouard Masson, Montreal. Miss Donna Aitken, Montreal, and Frederick Dorion, Quebec, were elected temporary joint secretaries.

Mayor Stanley Lewis, Liberal, extended a welcome to the city and said he now knew "how Daniel felt in the lion's den." He handed Mr. Bennett a key, symbolical of the freedom of the city.

Dr. Raymond Morand of Windsor, a former Conservative minister and member for Essex East in the last Parliament, greeted the delegates on behalf of Ontario, the province chosen for the convention. Dr. Morand spoke in French.

Mrs. George Cockshutt, of Brantford, gave a similar welcome on the part of the women of Ontario to the women from other parts of the Dominion who were delegates to the convention.

Own Worst Enemies

Conservatives were often "their own worst enemies," Mrs. Cockshutt said. "In this convention," she urged, "let us have loyalty."

Mrs. Gordon Booth of Ottawa, spoke on behalf of the women of the capital city. Like Mrs. Cockshutt she urged the women of Conservative Canada to support the new leader 100 per cent.

Hon. R. B. Hanson, former member for York Sunbury and minister of trade and commerce for a brief time in the Bennett government, followed. "I want to strike a note of

Lakefield Girl Is Killed Car Turns Over

(Examiner Correspondence.)

HAVELOCK, July 5.—Elva Preston, 17, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Preston, Lakefield, was fatally injured and Harlan Coons, 6, also of Lakefield, was badly hurt at the intersection of Highways 7 and 30 within the village limits Monday afternoon when cars driven by Nelson Coons, 27, of Lakefield, and Mrs. Cecil Baker of Kingston collided. It was the second traffic fatality within 24 hours in Havelock.

The car driven by Coons and containing his wife and three-year-old daughter, Myrna, in the front seat, and with his sister-in-law, Elva Preston, and his son, Harlan, in the rumble seat, was proceeding east on No. 7 highway when Mrs. Baker's car in which was also her daughter, Doris, approached northward on the Trent Bridge Road, which is Highway 30 and the two vehicles met at the intersection.

After the crash Coons' car slid in a northeasterly direction toward the service station at the corner and then turned over, the occupants of the

Lad Chops Hand Off To Avoid Army Duty

DETROIT, July 5. — (CP) — To avoid service in the National Guard, Carl Winkler, 24, Detroit, chopped off his right hand with an axe, police said last night. Winkler joined the guard a month ago, and attended two meetings.

"I got fed up with all the talk of war and guns," Detective Sergeant James Turner quoted the youth as saying.

When Winkler stopped attending drills, the National Guard sent him two notices to appear, and Friday the lad went to see his commanding officer. He was told inasmuch as he had enlisted he must participate in drills.

Yesterday Winkler severed his hand in the basement of his home. From the appearance of the arm, police say, Winkler apparently chopped at the hand two or three times before he succeeded in amputating it. Hospital attendants said his condition was serious because he had lost much blood.

Count Laughs At $250,000 Offer From Barbara

Wants Son And 5 Million To "Walk Out," Duel And Shooting Threats Bared

LONDON, July 5 (AP).—Testimony that Countess Hauwitz-Reventlow's husband demanded £1,000,000 ($5,000,000) from her was introduced today at his hearing in Bow Street Police Court.

William Mitchell, solicitor for the countess, testified he told the Count the Woolworth heiress would offer £50,000 ($250,000) as "an out-and-out gift."

"The only ground on which the Countess wanted a divorce was incompatibility," the solicitor added. "There was no one else concerned at all.

"The Count said £50,000 was laughable. He said it was an insult. I told him, 'I wish someone would insult me'."

Previously testimony was given that the Count threatened "to fight a duel with a man and put his wife on the spot."

Sheathed in black coat and furs, the Woolworth heiress looked on calmly as her counsel, Sir Patrick Hastings, declared that Count Haugwitz-Reventlow threatened to "shoot himself and others."

Wants his Son.

He said he was coming to England to seize his son, who was his absolute property," Sir Patrick declared at the hearing of the countess' charges her husband threatened her.

He said "no one in the world would stop him," Sir Patrick continued, "and if his wife stood in the way 'God help her; God help us both."

The Count, who sat stiffly in his chair as the Attorney proceeded, returned from Paris last Friday to face his wife's charges and had been under $10,000 bail pending today's hearing.

Sir Patrick said the Count boasted of prowess with a revolver and "said he could shoot through his pocket more quickly than anyone

Tory Convention Highlights

OTTAWA, July 5—(CP)—Many of the delegates to the National Conservative Convention guarded against the problem of finding lodging in the crowded capital by bringing their own with them. A large community of trailers has sprung up in the Ottawa Exhibition grounds camp site close by the Coliseum where the Convention meetings will be held. There are several tents as well.

Delegates meeting Joseph Harris, M.P., for Toronto-Danforth for the first time are struck by his resemblance to Edward G. Robinson, the Motion Picture Actor. Mr. Harris, a leadership candidate, easily could act as a double for the Hollywood Star.

Hon. G. Howard Ferguson, former Premier of Ontario, when asked what he thought of the leadership race, jocularly commented: "I might have to take it myself."

The oldest and youngest delegates will have seats on the speakers' platform at the Coliseum. Six-year-old Willie Herridge, son of W. D. Herridge, former Canadian Minister to Washington, is the youngest, but the oldest has not yet been determined.

Members of the Parliamentary Press Gallery held a reception yesterday for visiting newspapermen assigned to cover the Convention.

Women were ni the minority at the informal meeting of junior Conservatives and yet six of them were nominated along with three men to a constitution committee which will prepare policy recommendations to the general junior meeting.

Special restaurant facilities at the exhibition grounds will provide 3,800 meals daily for those who can take time off from politics to eat.

In an effort to reduce the noise made by delegates moving around during the speeches, the floor of the Coliseum has been covered with felt and canvas.

2 B.C. Policemen Mad Taximan Slain In Fracas

PRINCE RUPERT, B.C., July 5 (CP).—Sergeant Robert Gibson of the British Columbia police died early today in hospital, raising to three the death toll of gunplay here yesterday between a maddened taxi-driver and police.

Gibson was shot in the back of the head while trying to disarm a man who had already pumped two bullets through the head and neck of his superior, Acting Inspector W. J. Service. Service died almost immediately.

A few minutes later, Mike Gurvich, a taxicab driver who boasted he "killed two of you already," died with a bullet in his head. Cornered in a beer parlor by other officers of the detachment, he had exchanged shots with them.

Police said Gurvich, former patient at the Provincial Mental Hospital near New Westminster, B.C., had been served with a summons for trespassing on the Canadian National wharf here earlier in the day.

As the 55-year-old Acting Inspector and his sergeant conversed in their office, the taxi-driver walked in, fired twice at Service, then as Gibson rushed over, swung his gun around and dropped the officer with a bullet in the head.

Service died instantly, a bullet in his head and another through the neck.

Officer Phones Warning

Constable D. W. Taylor heard the shots from an adjoining office and rushed out to see Gurvich dashing out of the building. He telephoned the uptown police officer.

Corporal Harold Raybone and Constable G. H. Clarke and Terry Stewart left to intercept Gurvich on the route he would have to take to his taxi office.

Within a few minutes the taximan drove past them, refusing their order to stop.

The officers went to the cab office. Gurvich was in the middle of the street with a gun in his hand, when he noticed the officers. Gurvich fired at the Corporal and Raybone fired back.

The taxi driver then retreated into the beer parlor, shouting: "I've killed two of you already and I'll get anybody else that comes near me."

The officers moved into the beer parlor after him, and as Gurvich standing on a chair, opened fire at them again, Clarke dropped him with a bullet in the forehead.

Police said Gurvich had bought ammunition for his .38 calibre revolver at a Prince Rupert hardware store less than an hour before the shooting.

Road Traffic Courts Are Saving Time

TORONTO, July 5 (CP).—United States tourists are saving time and trouble these days with Ontario's roadside traffic "courts."

When they do the wrong thing on the highway—and are caught at it—the provincial traffic officer becomes both prosecutor and judge. He determines the fine and collects it on the spot. If the tourist disagrees, he can go into court in the usual way and get a refund if he proves himself right.

Attorney-General G. D. Conant said today the scheme was again working out satisfactorily this year. No complaints have been received by the Department. On the contrary, any move to abolish the plan would be a direct move against tourist business, in Mr. Conant's view.

Three Are Injured In Tweed Smash

(Examiner Correspondence.)

TWEED, July 5. — Three persons sustained severe head and face lacerations, the result of flying glass, during a head-on motor car crash on the Crookston Road, five miles west of Tweed on Sunday. The injured, Tilley Wickens, 14, of Ivanhoe, head and facial lacerations; Mrs. James O'Reirdoon, scalp and facial lacerations; and Rita O'Reirdon, 13, both of Madoc, similar injuries. The injured were attended by Dr. J. Doyle at Tweed.

The accident happened as two automobiles, one being driven westerly by Alan McCoy, and the other easterly by James O'Reirdon, both of Madoc, crashed head-on. The force of the impact not only shattered the windshields, but windows of the vehicles, the subsequent injuries being due to the flying glass.

Cellar Is Below Level Of Sewer

A new house built by Fred W. Gray on the north side of Argyle street and east of Water street was apparently planned without relation to sewer levels, and for sewer accommodation the only alternative is a septic tank.

The ground floor is four feet below the street level at the nearby Water street corner, and the cellar floor is six inches below the bottom of the sewer on Water street. City Engineer Parsons informed the council last night that a sewer along Argyle to Water street would have practically no fall, and would have to be built almost at the surface of the ground. It was an unusual case, he said, the first in his twenty-five years' experience here.

Hired Man Hunted In Double Assault

BROCKVILLE, Ont., July 5—A search for William Dunning, 21, employed on the farm of Frank Mott in Kitley Township was started by police following assaults upon Mrs. Mott, 69, and her daughter, Irene, 32, early to-day. The two women are in the General Hospital here seriously injured.

Mott went to the barn this morning to do his milking and called three times to the hired man to join him. He received three replies, but the young man failed to make his appearance. The milking finished, Mott returned to the house where he found his daughter unconscious on the bed in one room and his wife unconscious on the floor of another room. The hired man was missing.

The two women had been struck by a blunt instrument, the exact identity of which is still unknown, and neither was dressed when the assault occurred.

Police from Gananoque, Perth, Prescott, Brockville and Smith's Falls are participating in the search.

Peas Crop Ready For The Cannery

The big cookers, retorts they call them down at the plant, are steaming again in the canning department of Canada Packers as the new season's pack headed by peas comes to market.

Three viners have been working for a week turning out a crop that is better than average both in quality and quantity. The viners are situated on the fourth line of Smith, one in Ennismore, and the third north of Bailieboro. Weather conditions have been exceptionally favorable for peas, the aphids have not been so numerous, and the crop prospect generally is bright.

The new canning season means an increase in employment, with hardly an interruption until the fall.

PARIS, July 5 (AP).—Friends today planned a semi-state funeral for Suzanne Lenglen, befitting her position as French national sports heroine and one-time world tennis queen. Government officials were expected to be represented at the service Wednesday at the Notre Dame De l'Assomption church. The 39-year-old "Suzanne the great" died Monday morning of pernicious anemia.

Nice 4th Of July

LINCOLN, Neb., July 4.—(AP).—The first thing Ina Ray Hutton did when she came to Lincoln was to lose an expensive ring and wrist watch. Then her bus ran out of gasoline and her orchestra had to hitch-hike to their engagement. Miss Hutton climaxed her Fourth of July by blowing off two fingernails with a prematurely exploding firecracker.

Western Weather Perfect For Bumper Crop

TORONTO, July 5. — Western Canada farmers are getting the right kind of weather for a bumper wheat crop. Rains were general over the week-end and moisture conditions have been satisfactory the past ten days in all sections except north of Melfort, Prince Albert, North Battleford, and perhaps Peace River district, according to the best authority.

Rain was general in most parts of Saskatchewan on Saturday, particularly in the south-central part of the Province. At Assiniboia two inches fell, Wilcox 1.25 inches, and Weyburn 1.45 inches in three days, including Saturday.

Rain fell at Lucky Lake, Rosetown, St. Walburg, Mantaro, Blainlake, Watrous, Melfort, and Davidson. Temperatures in these areas ranged from 62 to 75.

Campbell in police court this morning on a charge of manslaughter following the death at Havelock yesterday of Elva Preston of Lakefield from injuries received in a triffic accident and was remanded by consent until July 19 without plea or election.

Vancouver Fascists Against Arcand Party As Anti-Semitic

Vancouver, July 5.

FRED PATTERSON, spokesman for the Canadian Guard, largest "Fascist" group in Vancouver, said yesterday his group would not affiliate with the National Unity Party of Canada because the latter was "too extreme."

The N.U.P. was formed at Kingston, Ont., during the week-end. Organizations in the party were "anti-Semitic and extremist," Patterson said.

He said the Canadian Guard here "is not Fascist in the European sense" and would not subscribe to "anti-Semitic campaigns."

Conant To Check Sentences Back Six Months

TORONTO, July 5. (CP).—As application was made to the Supreme Court of Ontario for leave to appeal the two year sentence imposed on N. L. Martin for conversion of trust funds amounting to $140,000, Attorney General Gordon Conant today announced plans for more careful review of sentences to secure greater "quality of justice."

Mr. Conant ordered his departmental solicitors to make a thorough survey of all cases over the past six months or more and he declared his belief that this examination would reveal that there had not been anything approaching equal justice in the sentences imposed.

The Attorney General emphasized, however, that the only method by which he can secure greater equality of sentences is by way of appeal.

"It would be highly improper for me to interfere in any way with the decision of any magistrate or judicial officer," Mr. Conant said. "I have never and will never, directly, indirectly, or by implication attempt to influence the decision of any magistrate or judicial officer. The limit to which I am permitted to go is to issue general observations by circular to all magistrates and judicial officers."

However, Mr. Conant believed the survey of past cases will provide his Department with the background to guide future decisions with respect to appeals. And in every case where it appears that "equal justice" has not been given, whether the sentence is too severe or too light, the Attorney-General intends to enter an appeal.

Road Extension Would Cost $645

Cost of gravelling and oiling the new road on the north extension of Armour Hill was estimated at $645 by City Engineer Parsons in a report to the council last night, but the work is not likely to be carried on this summer.

"With an increased relief bill for the year we had better wait at this stage," Alderman Gordon suggested. "The committees are being asked to see if they can cut down on their expenditure as a means of helping the relief committee avoid a deficit. In spite of the extra relief bill which we could not foresee when we were making our appropriations we might have some difficulty explaining it to the ratepayers if we have a deficit this year."

On the other hand it was said the improvement to the popular hill top park would provide employment, but that phase of the proposal was not pressed.

New York's 220 Hotels Report Drinking Heaviest From 25-40

Albany, N. Y., July 5.

HEAVEST drinkers of alcoholic beverages in New York hotel bar rooms are between the ages of 25 and 40. This was the consensus of owners of 200 hotels in forty-six counties in a State liquor authority questionnaire, bearing out a recent report of the National Conference of State Liquor Administrators that youth has done less drinking since repeal than any age group.

Victims Left Nude

EDWARDSVILLE, Ill., July 5. — (AP).—Police to-day sought a new type of bandit after the second hold-up in which victims were forced to disrobe and were left nude by the roadside.

Raymond Recker, 22, Chicago, and a woman companion yesterday were robbed of $40, their automobile and all clothing except their shoes. Forty-five hours earlier two armed youths took a small amount of cash from another couple near the same spot and left them stripped near a well-travelled highway.

Tory Party Rally On In Ottawa Likely To 'Play' It

OTTAWA, July 5 (CP).—An army of Conservative party stalwarts from every section of the Dominion descended upon the coliseum at the Ottawa Exhibition grounds today to begin a three-day task of choosing a successor to their retiring leader, Rt. Hon. R. B. Bennett, and rejuvenating the party generally.

Accredited delegates, who were expected to reach nearly 1,800 when registration ends, and many other interested and curious persons thronged the spacious building which housed the last convention nearly 29 years ago.

At the close of the national convention Thursday afternoon or evening, the Conservatives will have a new federal leader and the general assumption is that he will be one of the following:

Hon. R. J. Manion, long-time member of parliament for Fort William and minister of railways and canals in the Bennett government. He will be 57 next November.

Hon. J. Earl Lawson, present member for York South, for a brief time minister of national revenue in the last Conservative government, who will be 47 next October.

Denton Massey, a comparative newcomer in politics who represents the Greenwood riding of Toronto in the House of Commons, he celebrated his 38th birthday last month.

Joseph Harris, member for Toronto-Danforth, a prominent Toronto business man and veteran politician who will be 50 next December.

Other Names to Come

From the welter of gossip and rumor seething about hotel and convention hall lobbies came suggestions that there would be important additional names in nominations for the leadership. These include:

Rt. Hon. Arthur Meighen, present leader of the Conservative forces in the Senate, who twice held brief reign as prime minister of Canada.

Hon. H. H. Stevens, present member for Kootenay East and one-time minister of trade and commerce in the Bennett government, who broke with his chief and formed the Reconstruction movement of which he was the sole candidate in the 1935 general election.

Murdock MacPherson, former attorney general of Saskatchewan and prominent lawyer of Regina, a native of Nova Scotia.

Decision Wednesday

No one will know definitely who will be on the slate of nominees until tomorrow night when that part of the business will be reached. The balloting will be Thursday afternoon.

The four leading candidates have been on the ground and much in evidence for several days. But Mr. Meighen has been inaccessible and aloof from questioners and Mr. Stevens reticent. Mr. Macpherson will arrive in Ottawa this morning.

The convention was made necessary when Mr. Bennett called repre-

B.C. Doukhobor Hall Is Burned To Ground

NELSON, B.C., July 5 — (CP). — Sergeant E. C. Barber of the British Columbia police yesterday said a large Doukhobor community hall at nearby Tarrys was razed by fire Sunday night and that "oil of some kind" had been used by an incendiarist to make the blaze burn quickly.

Sergeant Barber said the fire was the first of incendiary origin for some months in this Doukhobor district in the West Kootenays of British Columbia.

In recent years much damage has been done by fire blamed on sectional disturbances within the Russian religious sect, which numbers about 12,000 in British Columbia.

Damage in the blaze was estimated at $6,000.

Sergeant Barber said there has been an "undercurrent of unrest" in the Doukhobor settlements in recent weeks.

Mayor's Car Will Be First Tested

Mayor Hamilton's car is expected to be the first to be tested on the safety strip on Water street, between Dublin street and Park Hill road Wednesday morning at 9 o'clock This free service to the public sponsored by the Garage Operators Association, will be continued for four days, Wednesday, Thursday, Friday and Saturday, this week from 9 a.m. until 9 p.m.

Expert technicians will be in charge of the equipment which has been assembled for a thorough testing of automobile equipment essential to safe driving and the prevention of accidents. Each car going through the lane will be inspected for efficiency of brakes, wheel alignment, lights, horn, rear vision mirror, and other points which are included in the factors of safety.

The service is free to the public and entirely at their option. The time for testing each car should not exceed four or five minutes, especially if a line-up forms on the right.

Cargo Of Jap Beans Stirs Up Riot In Chinese Town

Penang, Straits Settlements, July 5. (CP-Havas).

A CARGO of soya beans arriving here from Japan yesterday plunged this port into disorders during which the cargo was thrown into the sea and police ordered the closing of parks, stores and cafes for the rest of the day.

The rioting started when a crowd of Chinese sympathizers sighted a truck carrying the soya beans to the warehouse of a Shinese purchaser. Leaping onto the truck, the Chinese ripped open the bean sacks and dumped the contents on the ground.

When some one tried to explain that beans were to be transported to a local Chinese relief bureau, the mob failed to understand and renewed their attack on the cargo.

harmony in this convention, in this party, and above all," he said, "harmony in Canada."

Never was there such disunity as today, Mr. Hanson said. "Let it be the duty of Conservatives to preach and practice harmony in Canada."

Meighen Gets Cheer

Sir Thomas White then began his keynote speech.

A tremendous ovation greeted mention of the name of Rt. Hon. Arthur Meighen by Sir Thomas White in his keynote speech.

"The party has had a long line of illustrious leaders from Macdonald to Bennett, inclusive," said Sir Thomas.

"That includes Arthur Meighen."

Call for a Go-Getter.

Conservatives should not expect their new leader to be "a paragon or all excellence," said Sir Thomas.

"Grant him the concession of some slight imperfection or infirmity of temperament or disposition identifying him without our common humanity," Sir Thomas said. "Permit him to be 'a creature not too bright and good for human natures daily food.'

"But for successful leadership he must be dynamic and be supported not only by able colleagues but by a Dominion wide organization in continuous activity. Every member of the party from the leader to the latest recruit should feel that he or she has a part to play and at least some degree of intiuence in its councils."

The convention had met for the declared purpose of formulating a national conservative policy, selecting a leader with the duty of carrying that policy into effect and of discussing the important problem of party organization throughout the Dominion. "The times are serious and the action taken should be adequate to their requirements."

Political parties are essential to the successful working of the parliamentary system of government, Sir Thomas said. And the two party system had been demonstrated by long experience to be the most efficient in serving the general public interest.

The rise of third parties in democratic countries was caused either by temporary failures of governments to adopt their legislatives policies to changing conditions or by widespread depression.

Great Record in Part.

"In Canada, the Conservative party had a great record of constructive statesmanship in the upbuilding of Canada. To the realization of the inspiring purpose of keeping Canada an integral and essential part of the British Empire —Dedicated for all time to the ideals of humanity, justice and liberty—all major policies of the conservative party had been consistently directed.

"Unanswering fidelity to this central ideal of Canada as a united, self-governing nation within the British Empire is the one great commandment to the conservative party handed down by its leaders from confederation to the present day," Sir Thomas said.

"It is your heritage and your trust and I feel confident that you will not fail to give the foremost place in the resolutions which you will adopt declaratory of the principles and policies of the National Conservative Party."

There was always the temptation in times of confusion and discontent to depart from sound policies and "espouse specious but fallacious economic and financial theories often tried in like periods of the past and inevitably leading to national disaster. Let no conservative think that by yielding to such temptation his party will gain politically. On the lowest ground of political expediency the loss will be greater than the gain."

Sir Thomas counselled the delegates not to forget in building their platform that the nation's future depended upon the young men and women of today. The safeguarding of their welfare was among the highest of the duties assigned to government.

The B.N.A. Act.

Sir Thomas said he would not express an opinion whether the British North America act needs revision. But he suggested the delegates deliberate most carefully lest, with the best intentions, they violate the basic principles of an act "which has on the whole admirably served the needs of Canada in the past and has been an indispensable instrument in the building of a united nation."

He added, however, it would be remarkable if after 70 years some substantial alternation in the distribution of legislative power should not be found necessary to meet materially changed conditions.

The Conservative party stood firmly for the continuance of Canada as an integral part of the British Empire, and this involved not only participation in economic and other advantages of such membership, but also its responsibilities.

This question should transcend party politics and be regarded as a subject of supreme national policy with its obligations acknowledged and supported by all parties. A prepared British Empire was the surest safeguard against world war.

Audience On Feet For Meighen.

Another ovation greeted Mr. Meighen when he rose to speak. Temporary Chairman Hill called for three cheers, which were given by the standing audience.

He had been requested yesterday, Mr. Meighen said, and had undertaken with the approval of Mr. Bennett, to review a subject "which towers above all else in its consequence upon Canada to-day." He referred to external affairs and national defense.

He would yield to no one in his devotion to peace and regretted that the time had come "when peace loving nations can no longer devote their mediations to local and domestic affairs." He was regretful that countries could no longer depend upon collective security, and that he was "compelled to admit we can no longer look to the League of Nations for that protection which we thought it would afford."

He would not discuss constitutional rights beyond declaring he would be the last to consent to the surrender of any of those attributes of nationhood which over the years we have reached." He deplored the inclination of some to fight over again "those battles of autonomy which were won decades ago."

In the midst of the troubled world situation it was encouraging to find Britain standing by the side of France, striving for peace, enduring humiliations never before endured with a patience which was admirable.

The government of Britain was constantly goaded by the Labor and by the Liberal parties to put in effect retaliation which would plunge the world into war.

Peace Vital

The most vital thing for Canadians was the security and peace of Canada. Senator Meighen quoted with approval a speech made in the House of Commons by Defense Minister Mackenzie declaring the main defence of Canada against hostile attack from Europe was the British fleet. On the Pacific defence was on friendly fleets, the Senator presumed those of the United States.

Canada's problem of defence was simpler acting in cooperation with a powerful empire than in co-operation with the United States after "that empire falls."

The question was pertinent at the moment because of disclosures in parliament in the last few days that approaches had been made by Britain not in the form of formal requests but in what Prime Minister Mackenzie King called the "form of confidential and exploratory conversations."

But Prime Minister King had gone on to say that if the British government wished to establish in this country, at the expense of the British taxpayer, a flying school and flying facilities his reply would be in the negative.

Mr. King had said "They can't come here because it means the establishment of a military organization in Canada under control of an outside Government," Mr. Meighen continued. The proposal had been to set up a training field for "the defence of her shores and ours."

Locking Britain Out.

"Now we come to the hour in this country when Canada locks the gate on Britain," Mr. Meighen declared.

"This convention cannot ignore that. It must arrest our thoughts and continue to arrest our thoughts and the thoughts of people until they make their will known.

"Is it the heart of the people of Canada that when the moment comes when we could really help we should not stretch out our hands but assume an attitude of tremulous apprehension, an attitude of distant and suspicious deliberation?

"If we call ourselves partners in the Commonwealth let us behave the way partners behave when we have a common purpose and know that purpose is right.

"Let us live and work on the assumption that partnership is one we want to endure, a partnership we want to deserve, and a partnership we are proud to own."

Fascists Meet

The first annual convention of the Canadian Fascists was held in secret in Kingston as police took steps to prevent any demonstration between the Fascists and anti-Fascists. During the convention a new name, the National Unity Party of Canada, was selected for the organization. Reconquering Country From The Jews Disgrace For Canada Says Arcand

TORONTO, July 5 (CP).—Four men were to appear in a Toronto magistrate's court today, charged with obstructing police, an aftermath of one Fascist and three anti-Fascist gatherings on the same night in the central and downtown sections of the city.

Announcements of plans for a Fascist meeting in Massey Hall last night, sponsored by the National Unity League of Canada, prompted arrangements for anti-Fascist demonstrations in Maple Leaf Gardens, in Queen's Park and on a street corner just across from the Fascist meeting. Police heads posted cruiser cars, mounted officers and uniformed constables and plainclothesmen all through the district.

But the lone disturbance occurred in connection with the street-corner speech-making, where constables bustled four men off to headquarters when they refused to obey orders to "move on." A wooden platform from which one of the men harangued the crowd was taken away and the angry protests of William Krehm, David Levine, James Elliott and Wilfred Gray resulted in their arrests on charges of obstructing police.

Inside Massey Hall, Adrien Arcand of Montreal, elected leader of the National Unity League at a weekend convention, told 1,500 Fascist sympathizers it is "disgraceful" that "Canadians have to reconquer our country from the Jews."

He charged Jews with "trying to conquer the world" and urged a corporate state under which trade associations, professional bodies and farmers would name their own parliamentary candidates, who would frame legislation touching their own occupations.

Anti-Gas Show At Millbrook

(Examiner Correspondence.)

MILLBROOK, July 5.—An event of peculiar interest, at the weekend, was the first anti-gas demonstration ever held in this district, by way of instruction for "C" Company of the Midland Regiment, which took place in the Armouries.

Corporal Owen McCarthy was the instructor, having taken up this course last summer at Kingston. Ten men took part, nine wearing gas masks, and the tenth the full equipment. It was a complete demonstration of a decontamination outfit, which consists of rubber overalls, rubber boots, rubber coat, gas mask, bullet-proof helmet, and rubber mitts to the elbows; a rubber hood, and the whole covered completely by a rubber cape.

This equipment, if properly adjusted, completely covers the entire body. With each Company there is a squad of fully trained and equipped men, and it is up to them to come after a gas attack, and neutralize the whole district.

They place stakes and rope off the gassed area, usually attacked by blister gas; rubber is the only thing that will stop it from penetrating, and it generally stays in the ground as long as six months. It will go right through the heavy leather soles of the men's boots in fifteen minutes.

Other officers who were present for the demonstration were Captain Bigelow, of Port Hope; R.S.M. William Theobald, and Lieutenant W. R. Howard.

Besides his widow, formerly Elizabeth Barrie, he is survived by two sons and two daughters, John Couch, George Couch, Mrs. Lee and Olive Couch, all of Toronto, also a sister, Miss Couch of Peterborough.

Night Constable To Be Placed On Campbellford Streets

(Examiner Correspondence.)

CAMPBELLFORD, July 5.—Council ratified an agreement with the Department of Highways whereby control of certain sections of highway 30 passing through Campbellford would be placed under control of the Department when they met for their regular monthly session on Monday evening. Before the matter was voted on Mayor Long declared that the council had tried for three years to protect the interests of these people (the two service station proprietors who would be required to pay an annual tax to the Department) but it has now reached the point where any further delay means an unnecessary burden on the rest of the citizens who would be compelled to pay their share towards certain necessary changes which are required to be made on this connecting link. The signing of this agreement will, when accepted by the Department mean a saving of close to $400.00 in expenses to the town this year. It was on motion of Councillors Dorie and McColl that the by-law was passed.

Want No Snow Removed.

Council also passed a resolution which would be forwarded to the Department along with the by-law expressing the wish of the corporation that there be no snow removed from the streets or sand placed on the roadway by the department.

Three by-laws conveying portions of town property to citizens were passed as follows: Lot 10K on Thirty Foot Lane to Mrs. M. M. Riendeau for the sum of $10.00; Lot 17 Water Block to Thomas F. H. MacMullen and Marjorie MacMullen $200.00; South part of Lot B in north block and Lots 1 and 2 in north block for the sum of $10.00 to Abram Rapport.

According to reports received by the Council no action could be taken towards improving the parking lot on the west side of the town and located on the property rented from the town by the Department of Militia until that department had given sanction to the proposal.

Councillor J. R. Battisby, chairman of the police committee recommended that the Chief of Police George Hardy have his schedule of hours changed so that he would be on duty from 9 a.m. until 12 o'clock midnight in order that he might assist in regulating traffic during the summer months and also as a precautionary measure which he felt was necessary when there were so many children on the streets. He also suggested that a night constable be put on duty during the remaining hours of the day. On motion of Councillor Dorie and Deputy Reeve Locke the recommendation was adopted to engage Wm. Normington to act as night constable during the months of July and August.

Councillor Harvey Donald, chairman of the fire, water and light committee, reported that 250 feet of water hose was required by the fire department. He stated the hose on the chemical tank had not been renewed since the truck was purchased and recommended that 150 feet of hose and a new nozzel for this be purchased along with tubes for the gas masks which were supplied the firemen last year.

Following discussion of the merits of Councillor Donald's plan of replacing a certain amount of hose each year it was decided to pass the matter and council approved of this expenditures which was estimated at $390.00.

Dust Layer on Streets

Mayor Long told the council that he had received a large number of requests from people who were willing to pay their share if the town would supply a dust layer for the streets but the general feeling of the council indicated that the only fair way of dealing with this matter was by a petition presented by the people who wanted it.

The costs of lighting and maintenance for lights on the Cenotaph was set at $25.00 a year and council members indicated strong disapproval of any attempt being made by the Water and Light Commission to saddle this extra cost on it and requested the mayor to convey to the commission their feeling that the cost be borne by the Water and Light Commission. The town has collected about $2,000.00 over and above what had been collected up to the end of June last year it was revealed in the monthly report persented by Tax Collector J. C. Birmingham. The 1938 taxes collected in June amounted to $6,746.00 and the total 1938 taxes collected to the end of June were $19,626.00. Tax arrears collected in June amounted to $1,123.50 all of which indicated the town was in a much better position than it was at this time last year according to Mr. Birmingham.

Only 67 of Campbellford's 129 dog owners have purchased tags and when he asked the council what should be done about collecting the balance assessor Harry Townsend was assured of the fullest cooperation in whatever methods he chose to use in getting the delinquent tax.

Youth Fakes Drowning To Spite Girl And Goes To Jail

Toronto, July 5

LIFESAVERS dragged the Don River for and hour Sunday morning for Jack McKinnon, 21, Wilkins Avenue, and later found him at home, asleep in bed. Detective George Keyes ordered the youth to dress, and then arrested him on a vagrancy charge.

Police stated McKinnon planned a fake drowning after a quarrel with a girl friend. They say he wrote a note to the girl at her Ontario Place home, telling her of his intended death, and describing where his clothing could be found.

Police were notified, and going to the east bank of the river, near Queen Street, found clothing with a note attached.

McKinnon spent Sunday in the Don Jail, opposite the river bank where he is said to have left his clothing and note.

In a Junior City Baseball League game last night at the Exhibition Grounds, the Tigers took a 6-1 won over P.C.I. in a neat scrap. Both hurlers, Foster and Sanderson twirled fine ball to fan 12 each, with Sanderson allowing six scattered hits and his rival giving up but three. Judge Deroche with Alderman Dutton's suggestion, translated into a motion seconded by Alderman Cotton, that the Council as a whole request an interview with the Commission to discuss the Charlotte Street market idea.

"I think this is an important matter affecting the future of Peterborough," Alderman Dutton said. "The Council has been talking for some years about improving our market conditions, and our information is that the question of a larger site is becoming more serious. The City Trust Commission say they have no money for this purpose, but they did see fit to make appropriations for other projects that were carried through. I think the members of the Trust would be willing to meet the whole Council, have a friendly talk over the matter, and see if we can't get something done. I think it is well worth trying."

Alderman Gordon said that the Dominion Government would pay one-third of the cost of a new modern market building, the Ontario Government would probably make available another third.

"That would put us in the position of getting two-thirds of the cost of construction, if we could get a suitable site and go ahead on that plan," Alderman Gordon commented. The motion was adopted.

The Canal Road.

A communication from J. J. Duffus, M.P., informed the Council an engineer from the Department of Transport would be in the city on Wednesday to examine the road on the east side of the canal from the old Norwood Roa dto the C.P.R.

Mayor Hamilton said he understood the Department would construct a new road providing the Council would accept it for maintenance in future.

"What we should know now is what kind of road the Council is willing to accept, if any," His Worship remarked. It was proposed that a committee assume the responsibility of making the decision as to choice of concrete or asphaltic road, if either was offered. Mayor Hamilton said it would be a permanent surface.

"We shouldn't be small in little things with the Department." Alderman Glover stated, "when we may have larger things to ask for some other time. We can decide now to accept a new permanent road, and maintain it from then on, providing it is suitable to the Council."

The canal road has been the subject of correspondence with the Department for years, and it is now expected that a final agreement will be proposed on Wednesday. Alderman Gordon raised the point as to the necessity of guard rails as protection for cars from running into the canal, but Alderman Bradburn said the Department would still own the property between the road and the canal, and the responsibility in regard to public safety would remain with the Government.

Several of the members jokingly remarked that if a long guard rail was built it would put an end to one of the most popular night parking places in the district.

"Somebody's always taking the joy out of life," an alderman remarked, but the guard rail is still a long way from construction, if ever.

Bears Too Good For Clubs Of The League

NEW YORK, July 5—(CP).—If they could only get those Newark Bears out of the way, the International League clubs could put on quite a pennant race. As it is, they will have to race for the other three play-off spots, for Newark already has won more than 50 games in the first half of the season, and isn't showing a sign of a let-down.

The July 4 bargain bills didn't change the status of the race any. Newark, as usual, won its two games and so did all the other first-division outfits. Thus the Bears start Part 2 of the campaign with a 10-game lead over the second-place Buffalo Bisons. Syracuse trails by three more games, holding a half-game margin over Rochester Red Wings.

Newark took the hard way to its holiday triumphs, beating Jersey City 10-4 and 7-6.

Buffalo slammed Montreal Royals' hurling for a 28-hit total to win a night double-header 7-4 and 8-3. Art Jacobs' two-hit relief pitching for the last five innings of the opener made up for a bad start, and homers by Jim Oglesby and Ollie Carnegie in the first game and Woody Abernathy's 18th, struck in the second, were important contributions.

High-grade pitching featured the other games as Syracuse down Baltimore Orioles 7-6 to 3-1 and Rochester whipped Toronto Maple Leafs 6-2 and 4-0.

Nubs Kleinke pitched Rochester to its first victory, granting eight blows, then Lefty Ken Raffensberger blanked the Leafs with three blows, while the Red Wings bunched five hits off John Berly and Joe Mulligan for their four runs.

Putting a Man To Work

Dominion Foundries and Steel of Hamilton issue a shop newspaper. A bright sort of paper it is, interested chiefly with events around the plant, but now and then touching some of the larger questions of industrial interest.

In the last issue there is a heading, "The Cost of Putting a New Man to Work," and the story following reveals that it is not as simple as it used to be. Years ago, we are informed, when a mechanic arrived at a shop and asked for a job he brought his own tools with him. He was a trained man and could proceed at once with the work which needed doing. There was not so much machinery and equipment on the premises then.

Today that has changed and Dominion Foundries and Steel find the cost of putting a man to work is $5,000. That is, on an average it works out that way. The man no longer brings his own equipment, because it has been necessary to provide it for him on an elaborate basis. Whether the same thing holds good elsewhere we do not know, but it does in the Hamilton plant.

In order to give evidence of that contention the Hamilton paper publishes several illustrations showing where the money has been invested. One is the power house in the cold roll mill which cost $175,000; another picture shows an operator running a slitting machine which cost $13,000, and in another part of the shop a worker is operating the "flying shears," a piece of equipment for which $27,000 was paid. Two men are pictured in the act of inserting a roll, and we read that operators in charge of the cold roll mill have in their care equipment costing $275,000. So it is not difficult to believe that the average investment in the plant would amount to $5,000 for every person employed there, and for that reason it is correct enough to say that giving a man a job means first making an investment of $5,000.

A Chance To Be Sure

If you drive a car you should be interested in the brake testing service which will be supplied through the courtesy of car dealers in Peterborough this week. The place selected is on Water Street from Dublin to Park Hill Road and the hours will be from 9 a.m. until 9 p.m.

There is no compulsion in the matter and it is entirely in the discretion of the car driver to say whether he wants to have his car tested or whether he prefers to keep on driving it without submitting to such a test.

These tests will continue from Wednesday until Saturday. The Examiner realizes this is giving publicity to this event, and that is something which is not often done, but it is something which in this case should be done.

It is worth something to drive away knowing that your brakes have been given a test and found all right. It is also worth a good deal to be told after such a test that your brakes are not what they should be. It eliminates all doubt and puts the thing on the firm basis of knowing. A car driver should never back away from such a spot; rather should he welcome the opportunity.

They Attack the Police

History is rapidly repeating itself in Toronto. Only a few days ago a policeman who tried to arrest a drunken man on the street was attacked by a crowd; he had to call reinforcements and the crowd of hoodlums did the same thing. In the end instead of one man being arrested there were seven.

Within a few days the same thing happened again, and on this occasion a policeman found himself on the pavement with attackers trying to kick and punch him when he was down. He was merely telling a small group of people to move on.

It was not long before there was a crowd of 200 standing by while one officer had to fight for freedom against all who cared to join in the attack, and when other officers arrived to assist their hard-pressed companion they were greeted with boos and jeers in which the crowd joined heartily. It was plain as a pikestaff that the members of the crowd were all lined up against the police.

An incident of that sort may be accepted as something which is included in the day's work of a policeman, but there is something in it which does add up and give the right answer. Are the people in certain sections of Toronto so minded that they are always opposed to the police, and if so what is the reason? What section of the people would turn against the police if a larger issue were involved? If the Police Commission in Toronto want a question to mull over at their next session they have a formidable one right there.

In Larger Numbers

The tourist season is young yet, but there is evidence it is going to be a good one. At the holiday week-end where the Fourth of July took off shortly after the First of July rush was over there were places in this city and district where the sign "Sold Out" could have been displayed in all truth. There was a greater demand for supplies than had been anticipated.

Several garage men informed the Examiner there were more Michigan cars passing through here than in former years. Ohio and New York states have long had a preference for the Kawartha Lakes district, but Michigan folk are turning this way in greater numbers.

One can be certain when the outside cars start coming in greater numbers that it means the spending of money and it is new money which has not been regularly circulated here. Whether the visitors are minded to shop extensively or not we can be assured of the fact that they must live every day they are on the road, and that means spending money.

The Kawartha Lakes district never looked better or more attractive than today. Recent rains have been beneficial and they have also added a fresh beauty to the entire countryside. Those who depend on the tourist trade—and their number is large—can anticipate a good season. The fact that they found themselves "sold out" already is evidence of better days ahead.

The Palm Leaf Fan

There was an announcement in one of the New York papers the other Saturday about a new church in that city being air conditioned, and that was presented as a rather mild argument as to why people would find it pleasant enough if they went there to worship during the hot weather. There might be some attraction in that as New York on a hot day can be hot indeed.

When the weather turned hot in summer the church at the corner of the Tenth Concession and the Broken Front road used to be hot. Of course it never did get as hot as the hay mow in the days before the coming of the trolley hay forks for bringing in the timothy, but it was far removed from being cool. Before service started some person was certain to put the windows up along the side but if there were no breeze that helped but little. Grandfather years before had picked out a pew well toward the front in the middle of the place, and a light breeze from the window never reached that far. His belief was that the centre pew allowed of more concentration on the pulpit and there was less danger of wasting good sacred moments by looking out the window.

When the feeling came that air conditioning was needed on such a day the folk had to attend to it for themselves. There were at times some leaflets left in the pews telling of missionary work in distant lands and the pictures always made it appear these places were hotter than the church on the Tenth. The leaflets made fair good fans but they had to be wafted too vigorously. The best bit of equipment in the family pew was the palm leaf fan. Of course it never received hard treatment and it lasted a long time. But it had a tendency to fray or break around the edges and grandmother took it home and bound it and grandfather suggested that the binding had better be of some dark material. Just why he always associated dark colors with the church and the family pew we never heard, but he always wore a black suit, a black hat and a black tie on Sunday. So the palm leaf fan had to be bound to suit that ensemble effect, although at that time on the Tenth we had not heard much of ensembles.

Grandfather himself was never in favor of waving a fan during the hours of church. At one time he applied his word "Fiddlesticks!" to the habit and that was the maximum of violent expression for him. On rare occasions he would pass a large and freshly ironed handkerchief over his brow, but that was his only concession to heat. But he always suspected that when the palm leaf fan was waving next to grandfather he inclined his head and shoulders a very small degree toward the equipment; it was even said he looked a little more peaceful and contented on such occasions. But that was all the air-conditioning there was in the church on the corner of the Tenth and the Broken Front — just a few missionary leaflets and the black bound palm leaf fan. And in early fall the palm leaf fan generally was taken home because the folk seemed to believe that next year there would probably be some hot Sundays on the way.

A Strange System

The Examiner has referred previously to the part which outside nations of the world are playing in making possible the Japanese invasion of China by supplying the needed war material. It is reliably reported that of the total United States has forwarded 54 per cent.

There is more to be said about this same question and it is suggested by receipt of a a circular letter from the United Council for Civilian Relief in China, with headquarters in New York City. The national chairman of this organization is Col. Theodore Roosevelt, Jr.

This letter produces some interesting statistics to show that at the end of a year of war China has a net debt of $2.58 per capita, while Japan has a per capita debt of $58.

But the real point comes here: The appeal of Col. Roosevelt is for financial assistance for civilian refugees in China, and we read that 60,000,000 such have been made homeless and destitute as the result of the Japanese invasion. Therefore the good people of United States are being asked to give on a far greater scale than ever before in order that these 60 million Chinese may be cared for.

And that in turn creates a problem which is worth considering. To begin with we have a section of people in United States who have been booking orders for war material for Japan. There have been others working on the filling of these orders, and the business has been so brisk that Japan has secured 54 per cent. of her war needs from United States.

With supplies thus secured Japan proceeds with the invasion of China. Her army bombs as many places as possible and kills people by thousands. There are thousands of others who have had to flee from their homes. They have been forced to depart from places where they formerly made a living. Today they are in the class known as destitute folk and refugees and their number is now swollen to 60,000,000. And the war supplies sent by United States has helped liberally to produce this undesirable situation.

The next move is that the United Council for Civilian Relief in China appeals to people in United States to support these 60 million Chinese. The U.S. war supply business helped to make them destitute and now U.S. citizens must put up more money to temper the havoc which the shipping of war material has brought to pass.

Whether Col. Roosevelt's organization can count on a substantial subscription from the people who have been supplying war material to Japan is not stated, but that looks like the logical place to make the first call.

NOTE AND COMMENT

A heading in a Toronto paper says "Tory Party Split on H. H. Stevens," which prompts the thought that this is not the first time.

Social Credit Association promises an Ontario tour at which speeches will be given at 64 points. There does not seem to be anything we can do about it either.

Ottawa is said to be unlikely to veto the Quebec padlock law. Somehow we do not think that announcement will surprise a great many folk.

There are 25 different languages spoken in Kent County, Ontario, included among which is a certain amount of English.

The Germans and Poles have agreed to eliminate slurs from school histories. That will be all right if they are able to agree as to just what constitutes a slur.

Colonel Drew continues to criticize Canada's air defenses and it is no answer to his charges to intimate that he may be dismissed from the militia because of what he has been saying.

It is proposed to ban heavy trucks from the highways over the summer weekends. That would clear up the roads somewhat but would probably only result in faster driving by other motorists.

There is one thing to remember about flying and that is Canadians proved in the great war that they were among the best aviators in the world and the commercial flyers in Canada's northland are demonstrating the same thing today.

A despatch from Jerusalem says the mayor of Jericho was robbed while travelling on the Jerusalem road. It is also recorded in the tenth chapter of Luke that "a certain man went down from Jerusalem to Jericho and fell among thieves which stripped him of his raiment and wounded him and departed, leaving him half dead."

LAZY

(By A. R. K.)

¶ When it comes on to close of day, and all my chores are tucked away, the hour that I like best; I like to join the weary group, who drape themselves upon the stoop, and have a bit of rest.

¶ But neighbors up and down the street, don't stop to rest their bunioned feet, they dabble in the soil; they mix up bits of sand and clay, determined till the close of day, to labor at their toil.

¶ Instead of sitting in the shade, my Neighbor A gets out a spake, and gouges out a hole; he has a round and heavy rig, and it's by far too stout and big, for any man to roll.

¶ And Neighbor B though bent with years, works late with rake and hoe and shears, plants posies blue and red; he does not cease in even time, to rest his shins or ease his spine, until he goes to bed.

¶ While Neighbor C has paint and brush, and works with such a fevered rush, he daubs some here and there; he's always working at his chores, and shoving heavy out of doors, with not an hour to spare.

¶ I'm tired when I get through at night, and like to take things rather light, I loaf at close of day; my neighbors look 'tis plain to see, I'm sure they all remark of me—he's such a lazy jay.

Act Terminates At End Of Year

FARMER'S CREDITORS ARRANGEMENT ACT

FREE CONFERENCE WITH SENATE IN VIEW OF INSISTENCE ON AMENDMENTS

Hon. T. A. CRERAR (Minister of Mines and Resources): I desire to report to the house the following.

The managers on the part of the House of Commons have the honour to report that they met in a free conference the managers on the part of the senate for the purpose of further considering Bill No. 25, intituled, "An Act to amend the Farmers' Creditors Arrangement Act, 1934, and the amendments thereto.

The managers on the part of the House of Commons report that the following has been agreed upon as a clause to be substituted for clause 9 of the bill as added thereto by the senate:

9. No proposal shall be received in either of the provinces of Manitoba and British Columbia later than the thirtieth day of June, 1939, nor in any other province except the provinces of Saskatchewan and Alberta later than the thirty-first day of December, 1938: Provided that this subsection shall not apply to farmers who are soldier settlers within the meaning of the Soldier Settlement Act.

Accordingly, Mr. Speaker, I move that this amendment replace the senate amendment concerning which the conference was held, as section No. 9.

Mr. STEWART: I am not quite clear from the minister's explanation as to just what is the effect of the amendment with respect to Ontario.

Mr. CRERAR: There is no change so far as Ontario is concerned. The act will lapse in Ontario at the end of this year. It does so in all the provinces except in the four western provinces.

Mr. DONNELLY: When does it lapse in those?

Mr. Crerar: In Manitoba and British Columbia, on June 30, 1939; and for Saskatchewan and Alberta the date was not fixed.

Mr. REID: Would the minister be good enough to make it clear that it does not affect soldier settlers?

An hon. MEMBER: That is in the amendment.

Mr. STEWART: Does that affect the section of the act which enables the governor in council to terminate the operation of the act in any province?

Mr. CRERAR: No, I think not.

Mr. BENNETT: The senate substituted for our discretion a positive enactment.

Mr. CRERAR: I believe the discretion still remains.

Mr. ILSLEY: Oh, yes, before that time.

Mr. STEWART: But it will terminate in any event on December 31 of this year?

Mr. CRERAR: That is right.

Mr. STEWART: And may be terminated earlier by proclamation?

Mr. CRERAR: That is what I understand.

Mr. LEADER: I understand that so far as Manitoba is concerned, the operation of the act will terminate on June 30, 1939.

Mr. CRERAR: That is correct.

To The Editor

WHY IS IT

Editor Examiner:

Sir: I wonder why it is that when there is a lay-off in the factories it is always the city people get it first. I have often heard that if you bought out of town and I bought out of town what would become of the town. Well what is going to become of the city if all the city people are laid off first? Who pays the taxes? I know a factory where three or four from one family are kept on and they live in the country. A poor city man has one daughter working and she is the first to get laid off. Why the country people are getting some of the little kids in the city to do the work and their own sons and daughters earning big money in the factories in this city.

A SOLDIERS WIFE.

TOO MUCH OF IT

Editor Examiner:

Sir: Will you allow me a little space in your paper to speak of a matter which no doubt a great many will heartily support me in.

I refer to the seaplane base that has recently been established on Lake Chemong.

While realizing the tremendous advance that has been made in an industry that has come to stay, I ask, is it necessary and does necessity demand that a base be planted right in the midst of summer cottages that have been built some years and surroundings beautified and large sums of money spent so that men and their families could leave the city with all its bustle and noise of autos and spend quiet evenings and weekends amidst peaceful surroundings which have been suddenly broken into by the noise and roar of a seaplane.

On Saturday and all day Sunday up till 9 p.m. D.S. time the roar and drone of the plane was nearly incessant with very few let-ups. To say it is a fearful nuisance in no way expresses, I'm sure, the feelings of many beside myself and if it is the intention of those responsible for the noise, to continue it during the summer and perhaps autumn then the matter will have to receive further attention.

Is the peace and quietness of our summer cottage resorts to be broken into and turned into a bedlam by the noise and roar of flying machines by establishing bases there?

We read nearly every week of accidents and crashings of aeroplanes and could it not happen to the one in question when piying low over the cottages?

I should be pleased to know what the other cottagers have to say on the subject.

• Fried Chicken To Serve Napoleon

(Brockville Recorder and Times)

UTILITY AND sentiment were blended at the recent banquet of the First Poultry Promotion Congress held under the auspices of the Quebec provincial committee of the Canadian Produce Association of Montreal. Not only did fried chicken prove the masterpiece of the menu but Mons. Thomas, chef of the Mount Royal Hotel who fried them, was asked to give an address on the value and utility of poultry on the dinner table.

Poultry, said Mons. Thomas, provides one of the dishes most pleasing to the general taste, and, in giving the recipe for fried chicken as served at the banquet, related an interesting story of the origin of fried chicken. The story is the legend of "Chicken Saute Marengo." On June 14, 1800, just 138 years ago, Napoleon Bonaparte in one of his lightning strokes defeated the Austrians at Marengo and in celebration of his victory invited his leading generals to dinner that evening.

Unfortunately the field kitchen had been unable to keep pace with the rapid advance, although Napoleon's chef, Dunant, in a light van, had pressed forward with the staff. The van, however, was not provisioned and Dunant was faced with an almost unsurmountable problem. Napoleon had said dinner, and dinner there would have to be. Dunant spied a farm house in the distance and at once dispatched two battle-scarred soldiers of Napoleon's escort to see what they could find. The old soldiers were hard put to it but they managed to waylay three wandering chickens and gather a few rare tomatoes and a bunch of garlic. With these materials Napoleon's chef had to uphold his reputation and comply with the Imperial order.

The chickens were hastily killed, plucked and cut into pieces. Meanwhile, oil was being heated on an improvised stove, and in no time the pieces of chicken were browning and simmering. With a few drops of brandy sprinkled on top, the dinner was served and was highly praised by Napoleon and his staff. Thus was instituted Chicken Saute Marengo. "To-day," said Mons. Thomas, "we make chicken Marengo a little different from the original, particularly in the garnishing of the dish, but the anecdote shows how it is possible for country hotelkeepers, who have no refrigerating system with which to keep dressed poultry fresh, to turn to live poultry from the barnyard when unexpected guests arrive."

• Terror For The Jews In Berlin

(Wallace R. Deil, Corr., Chicago Daily News)

BERLIN — A WHITE-HAIRED old woman, head bent, with her back to a crowd which stood watching her today, scrubbed with tired resignation at a vile anti-Jewish sign on her shop window, in Koenigstrasse near the central police headquarters here.

The sign was daubed on with oil paint over the week-end as part of the latest Nazi program. It was hard to get it off even with turpentine. But the old woman was very patient. She kept at it until it was all gone. Then the crowd gradually moved away to find another free spectacle.

There were a good many free spectacles of the same sort in Berlin, especially in the district around police headquarters. The great majority of Jews just locked and barricaded their stores and left the signs on for the time being, however.

Better to wait and see if new signs are going to be painted up right away, or windows broken, or stores raided, or Jews beaten. Better to wait, even if that means almost literal starvation.

At least three fourths of the Jewish shops in the district around police headquarters were closed. Some still had broken windows. Most had vile slogans and cartoons daubed on them.

Only in almost exclusively Jewish streets did shops open. Most of those which did open were empty, except for clerks and a few obviously Jewish customers.

One whole Jewish family was out on the sidewalk in one such street scrubbing off signs—a father and mother in their middle thirties, a girl of 10 or 11 and a boy of 8 or 9, who had put down his schoolbooks to help.

In Neuenkoenigstrasse, just off Alexanderplatz, a Jew who had begun to scrub signs off his windows, gave up and retreated into his store when a crowd gathered which included several young men wearing party badges.

Non-Jewish stores hastened to insure themselves against similar treatment, and put up signs: "Aryan Shop." One German agency for American automobiles, which had its shop windows painted with a huge question mark, had a sign up today reading, "Aryan business." In other cases, in which the zeal of the daubers outran their information, notices were put up in windows reading: "This store is Aryan. Charges that it is Jewish are false."

• British Justice Is Impartial

(St. Thomas Times-Journal)

THE EXECUTION of a Jewish youth in Palestine for the ambushing of an Arab bus was duly carried out despite protests by the Jewish community, strikes and special prayer services. Sir Harold MacMichael, not long in office as High Commissioner, refused to be dissuaded or stampeded from doing what he believed to be right and is to be congratulated in his action.

A number of Arabs have been hanged for killing Jews. The Jews were satisfied that the right thing was done. They did not protest against that or call strikes or hold prayer meetings. The Arabs had to be taught that they could not murder Jews and escape the consequences.. When the circumstances were reversed, the British administration would have been inviting the Arabs to foment new excesses if they had not imposed the same penalty on the Jew that had been imposed on Arabs. To save the Jew would have shown partizanship and angered the tribesmen. Justice has to be impartial and no respecter of persons. The scales have to balance as between Jew and Arab.

Exemption for the Jewish killer, inflamed by the same spirit of nationalism as the Arabs, would probably have stirred up an Arab rising on a large and wide-spread scale. If the life of this one Jew had been spared, and Arabs in their indignation might have taken the lives of scores, even hundreds of Jews and burned their property as well, and the Jewish people would have had cause to regret the reprieve. The Arabs would also have been incensed against the British and many a British subject would have suffered death also. More killings would have meant more executions.

The execution of this youth was an act of justice, regretable though it be, and may go a long way to pacifying the country. It demonstrates to the Arabs that British justice is just, and that if they refrain from excesses, the British officials will see that peace, order and good government will be established.

JURY MADE MISTAKE.

(Chatham News)

A CORONER'S jury the other day brought in an open verdict but declared that the car which killed a man was mechanically defective, with faulty brakes. The jury in a rider recommended the car should no longer be permitted on the highway.

That jury should not have returned an "open verdict."

They should have unhesitatingly placed the blame for this fatality where it rightly belongs, and if they had thought about the case long enough it would have been easy to determine who was responsible.

That verdict should have read something like this:

"We find that fatality was caused through the negligence of person or persons responsible for issuing a motor license to the driver of the death car—and a driver's permit to the man who was driving it.

"We believe it is not in the interests of safety on the highway, to allow defective cars of this nature to be in commission; and we condemn definitely the system of administration which fails to require all car owners to submit a certificate saying that their cars are in reasonably safe driving condition, before being granted a motor license."

It would not have been out of place to have added a rider to the verdict something like this:

"We recommend to the government of this province the enactment of a law which would compel all automobile owners to have their cars inspected at reasonable intervals, to make certain they are in safe condition mechanically."

ALBERTA DEFAULTS

(Edmonton Journal)

THE FIGURES published yesterday showing total defaults and deficits (of the Alberta Government) in less than three years make most unpleasant reading. They are estimated at a minimum of over $25,000,000 and do not include treasury bills that the province has failed to redeem from the Federal Government. When the heavy increase of taxation that has taken place in that time is considered as well, no one who faces the facts can be misled by the claims constantly being made that the province's financial position has been improved under the present administration..

A Bible Message For Today . . . .

FEAR NOT, O land; be glad and rejoice: for the Lord will do great things. Be not afraid, ye beasts of the field: for the pastures of the wilderness do spring, for the tree beareth her fruit, the fig tree and the vine do yield their strength.

Be glad then, ye children of Zion, and rejoice in the Lord your God: for he hath given you the former rain moderately, and he will cause to come down for you the rain, the former rain, and the latter rain in the first month. And the floors shall be full of wheat, and the fats shall overflow with wine and oil. . . .

And ye shall eat in plenty, and be satisfied, and praise the name of the Lord your God, that hath dealt wondrously with you: and my people shall never be ashamed.

And Ye shall know that I am in the midst of Israel, and that I am the Lord your God, and none else: and my people shall never be ashamed.

And it shall come to pass afterward, that I will pour out my spirit upon all flesh: and your sons and your old men shall dream dreams your daughters shall prophesy, your young men shall see visions: and also upon the servants and upon the handmaids in those days will I pour out my spirit.—Joel ii: 21-24, 26-29.

Woman Is Freed On Charge Drunk Driving

After a trial that commenced before the luncheon adjournment and continued throughout the entire afternoon, Mrs. Helen Fisher of Campbellford was acquitted by Magistrate E. A. Gee in police court Monday on a charge of drunken driving on Highway No. 7 on June 25.

On a second charge of reckless driving there was a remand until July 15.

After the defense had submitted its evidence and counsel had been heard, Magistrate Gee said there was enough conflict of evidence in the case to justify the accused being given the benefit of the doubt, and he accordingly dismissed the case.

Crown Attorney V. J. McElderry, K.C., prosecuted, while T. J. Carley, K.C., defended the accused.

When the afternoon session opened Grace Osborne of Marmora, who had been with Glen McColl of Deloro on the night of the accident testified that the McColl car proceeding toward Peterborough was on its own side of the road when the automobile driven by Mrs. Fisher cut straight across the road and hit their machine. After the accident she swore she had seen Mrs. Fisher and the latter she said, was under the influence of liquor. "She wasn't walking very steadily," the witness said. "I didn't smell liquor off her breath, but from the way she was talking and walking I think she was under the influence of liquor."

To Mr. Carley, witnes sadmitted that she had talked the case over with McColl. She denied that the latter had been paying more attention to her than to his driving or that he had had his arm around her when the accident occurred. She admitted saying to Mrs. Fisher that she could not understand how the accident happened because the accused, he said, had been coming along perfectly straight before the crash.

Jack Graham's Evidence.

Jack Graham, whose home is in Westwood, but who is employed at the C.G.E., told of coming along soon after the accident and of seeing Mrs. Fisher there. Asked as to her condition the witness said: "I didn't think she was sober."

Could you make it more positive than that?' 'asked the Crown Attorney. "She was not sober," said Graham, who added that he smelled liquor off Mrs. Fisher's breath, that her eyes were puffed and her movements unsteady.

In cross-examination the witness said that he had talked the case over with Traffic Officer McClure. He said he could see Mrs. Fisher's eyes and they were puffed but could not remember hearing her talk.

Orra Montgomery, laborer of Norwood, happened along soon after the accident and he too saw Mrs. Fisher there. He said he saw her walking around but did not speak to her. Asked as to her condition as regard to sobriety, Montgomery said he was not prepared to say one way or the other.

"You wouldn't say she was sober?"

Montgomery replied in the negative and added he would not say she was under the influence of liquor either. The thing that caused him to think she might not be sober was the way she walked in a perfectly straight line as if she had got her eye on an object and walked straight to it.

Jack Cowie, auto mechanic and William Parcels, garage proprietor, both of Norwood testified as to the position of the two cars when they visited the scene of the accident and as to the damages done to McColls car which they said had taken the impact on its left front.

Calls Her Intoxicated

Traffic Officer Lloyd McClure described the position of the cars as he found them and told of marks he had seen on the road when he investigated the accident. He fixed the point of impact as being at the north side of the road.

Crown Attorney McElderry questioned the witness as to Mrs. Fisher's condition.

"She was intoxicated" was the reply. Officer McClure said she was unsteady and the manner in which she talked indicated that she was not sober.

In the car as she was being driven to Peterborough he had heard Mrs. Fisher say, "Well, I guess I am in for seven days."

Cross-examined by Mr. Carley, Officer McClure said that at first he had been of the impression that Marsh, who was in the car with Mrs. Fisher, had consumed a bottle of hard liquor that day. He said he could smell liquor off Mrs. Fisher's breath at the scene of the accident and that she had come over to him several times so that at last because of her condition and the amount of traffic on the road he had ordered her to go over to his car and sit there. She remained sitting in the machine for at least an hour before being driven to Peterborough. Asked as to Mrs. Fishers condition when she arrived at the Peterborough police station the officer said the accused was greatly improved by that time.

Mrs. A. Lush was the first witness called for the defence. She testified that Mrs. Fisher's two children had had supper at her place on the night of the accident and that Mrs. Fisher had arrived there shortly before 7 o'clock and remained until 8.30 and that her condition was perfectly normal then.

To Mr. McElderry she said that she knew that Mrs. Fisher used to drink sometimes in years gone by.

Dr. J. M. O'Brien testified to examining Mrs. Fisher in the police station around 2.30 or 3 o'clock on the morning after the accident and she was perfectly sober then. The recognized tests for sobriety had been made and Mrs. Fisher had responded perfectly. Asked as to the possibility that she might have been intoxicated at around 11 oclock the night before Dr. O'Brien said that from her mental and physical condition as he found her he did not think it were possible that she had been drunk at the time described. A blood test had been made and Dr. O'Brien was about to give the results as contained in a letter from the provincial analyst when Crown Attorney McElderry objected to the evidence.

Dr. Young Agrees.

Dr. Herbert Young, who also saw Mrs. Fisher in the police station at the same time as Dr. OBrien, corroborated his evidence as to her being sober then, and agreed with Dr. OBriens opinion, that she could not have been drunk a few hours earlier.

Vermnon Fisher, husband of accused swore that he saw his wife at the scene of the accident and afterward at the police station and that she was perfectly sober at both places.

To Mr. McElderry he admitted that he had found out since that his wife had had a drink that night.

Mrs. Fisher took the witness box in her own behalf and told of her trip to Peterborough from Campbellford. All that she had to drink on that occasion she said was a pint of beer in King's Hotel at 5 o'clock standard time in company with a couple of other women. As to the accident she said that it happened so quickly that she was not sure just how. She had been driving along her own side of the road at a speed of about 35 miles an hour before the crash, she declared.

"DREAM" CLUBS LINE-UP FOR ANNUAL BASEBALL FEATURE

Saga Of Bambino Ruth Replete With Heart-Warming Events

NEW YORK, June 30.—One large round face was beaming in the crowd assembled for the Louis-Schmeling fight. We mean the great man, who has parked that large round face under a baseball cap once more, which is as it should be. And all's well with the world again.

But if the name of the Babe has been heard once herabouts since Brooklyn signed him as coach, it has been heard a million times. Fight writers seem more intent on determining to their satisfaction how the Babe will fare as a manager than speculating about who will be the next man to meet the heavyweight champion. Burleigh Grimes, who happens to be manager of the Flatbush flock, already has been put to one side in the discussions.

Always a Topic.

We have heard a lot of talk about old George and his deeds, more about George, in fact, than we have heard about Joe or Max. His career has been pretty thoroughly reviewed orally and in writing. Only last night we heard the subject of his greatest job debated. The boys seem to have different ideas about this. Some insist that it was he, not Landis, who saved the game after the Black Sox scandal of 1919.

His 60 home runs in 1927 was one of the high spots of conversation, and it's surprising how many fight bugs are baseball bugs, too. They can remember seeing him hit 10 or 12 that year in the stadium, and even can name the pitchers.

The fight writers didn't see him hit those three home runs in one world series game in St. Louis, in 1926, and three more in another series game there two years later, but you'd think they did to hear them talk.

Climax in Chicago.

It is generally agreed that the climax of his career was reached that afternoon, in 1932, in Chicago, when he deliberately called his shot in a world series game, pointing to deep centre field and telling the Cub's bench that he'd plop one out there for them, and then plopping it—a tremendous drive that soared far over the juncture of the centre and left field walls.

That was enough to make the hair stand up on a spectator's neck, all right. It was beautiful, thrilling drama. A great ball player in his supreme moment! Belasco couldn't have done better.

In summing up the great man, however, and what he is made of, what always has awed me is the childlike simplicity and the kindness underneath that grandoise exterior. The Babe has visited hundreds of kids in hospitals and homes, bedridden boys who worshipped his name and what he stood for. He has brought them cheer and hope. Many of the youngsters have been materially helped in their fight for health, inspired by the presence of the great man and his booming voice.

"Hit One For Me."

Just before the curtain was raised on the 1926 world series, for instance, a little shut-in over in New Jersey named Johnny Sylvester pleaded for the Babe to "hit one for me."

The Babe went to visit the youngster, who was suffering a strange melancholia which the medicine of doctors seemed unable to reach. Ruth took along a bat and ball for Johnny, and promised the boy he would smack a couple for him in the series.

That was the series in which Ruth hit three home runs in one game in St. Louis. Those drives did more than knock the stuffing out of the Cardinals, and send the name of Ruth around the world again. The home runs lifted Johnny Slyvester right out of bed, and in no time at all he was out playing with the ball that Ruth had handed to him. The story was page one news wherever newspapers existed.

The Sequel.

An amusing sequel to the episode occurred during the 1927 season in Chicago. A man who introduced himself as "Johnny Sylvester's uncle aproached Ruth in a hotel lobby and thanked him for starting Johnny on the road to recovery.

"Oh, that's okay, Doc," said the Babe. "Glad to do it. Forget it."

They talked for a few minutes about boys and baseball, and the Babe's visitor walked out. Babe turned to his companion, one of the New York baseball writers, with the question:

"Who is this Johnny Sylvester?"

The younger generation of swing fans can have their Benny Goodman or Louis Armstrong, but to the baseball fan the greatest swing of all is the Ruthian swing. There's no one who ever could put the drama and color into a swing at the plate that the Bambino could...even when he was striking out. Here he is, noticeably fat, taking his cut in batting practice in his latest role as Brooklyn Dodger coach. And the fans love it.

By EDDIE BRIETZ

NEW YORK, July 5 (AP).—Old Arlie Latham, who was quite a ball player in his day, says Joe Dimaggio is the greatest of them all . . . is Frankie Frisch going to transfer from St. Louis to manage the Dodgers next season? . . . In yesterday's double killing, rabid Dodger fans tried to startle the Giants by tossing lighted firecrackers on the field, and if you don't believe the Giants got steamed up, look at the score of the second game . . . Pickets in front of the Polo Grounds yelled, "Don't patronize this place" as 50,000 customers swarmed through the turnstiles.

Babe Ruth looked like an alien enemy in a Brooklyn suit . . . Just can't get used to the big boy doing his stuff in National League parks. . . . He belongs a piece further up the road . . . Fans gave him a tremendous hand as he came on the field and hollered their heads off when he lost a couple during batting practice . . . Betting here is the American League will make it five out of six in the all-star set-to with few, if any, takers.

Louisville has a lightweight named Wishy Jones who is going places. . . . How is Burgess Whitehead getting along, anyway? . . . Out in Ohio they're still trying to figure out how the all-stars passed up torsky and Keltner for Gehrig and Rolfe.

Jack Corbett, owner of the Syracuse Chiefs in the International League, hit the most freakish homer this chronicler ever saw . . . One day in Prince Albert Park down at Winston-Salem, N.C., Corbett, then managing Asheville, slammed one into left field. . . . The ball wound up in right, taking the angles of the fences like a billiard ball on a table while Corbett tore around the sacks. . . . On another occasion, he refused to let his team start the opening game of the season until the Winston-Salem club paid admission for the street car conductors and motormen who manned the opening day specials. . . Quite a card, that Corbett.

J. Roy Stockton of the St. Louis Post-Despatch has composed a piece for the Caevepost answering an article printed some months back in which authors Tom Meany and Bill McCullough, two New York sports writers, broadly hinted the national is just another big minor league, after all . . . Stockton's piece was to have appeared in today's issue, but for some reason has been held over for a week or so . . . It will be just too bad if the American leaguers pour it on to the tune of something like 15-2 in tomorrow's all star game, now won't it?

Outlaws Defeat Elgin Team 15-4

(Examiner Correspondence.)

HASTINGS, July 5.—The Outlaws took first place in the Hastings Softball League last night when they defeated Elgin 15 to 4. The defeat sent Elgin deeper into the cellar.

McKee pitched for the Outlaws and allowed 12 well scattered hits. He struck out 9 and had fair control as he walked 3 men. J. Richardson for Elgin lasted till the eighth when he was replaced by Bruce Scott. He had allowed 17 hits, struck out 2 and passed one. Scott retired the side in the eighth by striking out Radford, Phillips and McKee. He displayed a real fireball and had he been put in at an earlier stage of the game it might have been a vastly different score.

McKee with 3 doubles and a single for the Outlaws and E. Preston of Elgin with 4 singles led the batters. Radford, centre fielder of the Outlaws got the only home run of the game.

On Wednesday night the Clerks and the Tanners clash.

Digging Up the Local Dirt With the Odd Chuckle or Two

By CEC. PERDUE

PODDEN US, folks, while we tell the tots a bedtime tale—as they've been very good and didn't ask rich Uncle Albert where he got his red nose or how come his stomach stuck out so far! Well, girls and boys, this is about a big bad ogre known as the O. B. A. Now the O. B. A. is a set of initials meaning Ontario Baseball Association. It used to be known as the O. B. A. A., the extra initial meaning Amateur. But eventually even the ball officers saw the funny side of it and dropped the word Amateur. And, kids, when a badger in any sport sees the funny side of a question, it is indeed a colossal thing, as there is very little humor in the species. Or is all this becoming kind of complicated? Maybe you'd sooner make a bow-'n'-arrow and take shots at our landlord for the fun of it, eh?

* * * * * *

WELL, THIS O. B. A. got tough one day with the C. O. B. L. Oh, yes, the C.O.B.L. means Central Ontario Baseball League and is made up of the Petes, Ponies, GM-men and ex-Bellevilles. On account of the O.B.A. heard that the C.O.B.L. was running things to suit the people that supported the C. O. B. L., instead of suiting the O. B. A. which was supported by the C. O. B. L. Is that hard to follow? Well, it is like you going out and pinching some apples maybe in an orchard and giving some to a guy and having him tell you off for the way you did it—but taking the apples all the same. See. And that is why the O. B. A. big shots are sometimes called badgers, on account of they blindfold their eyes with big badges. Oh, well, then scram and get into all the mischief you can. Guess true stories ARE boring, at that.

WELL, FOLKS, we will have a senior ball game here tomorrow eve at 6.15 in Riverside Park. It is the July 1st postponed tilt betwixt the Oshawa GM-men and the Petes. A league fixture, even though the loop may not last out the season, owing to O. B. A. trouble. As it should be a swelegant scrap and just possibly the last senior fray here this year—unless trouble is ironed out soon—this twilight tussle ought to draw a huge crowd. Jake Biddle will likely twirl for the GM-men and Joe Jakafby, Gunner Whitehill and Russ Kitchen are all available for the Petes. The locals are a trifle peeved at the Motor City crew, figuring they didn't stick solidly with the Petes and Ponies during the recent argument with the O. B. A., and it'll give Eddie Murphy's men a whole lot of satisfaction if they can trim the 1937 champs here tommorow.

AND THE annual re-organization meeting of the Peterborough Hockey Club will be held this Thursday evening at eight o'clock in the Chamber of Commerce. Those interested are invited to attend for the election of officers and discussion of plans for the 1938-39 puck season. With the question of artificial ice for this city a big thing during the coming winter, and a senior "A" grouping in the O. H. A. a possibility, a strong executive is required. Many of the experienced hard-working officers of last year should be returned but that is up to the ployers. They did the kicking on some of the officials, and we fronted for them, so now it is up to the players and redhot fans to vote in the men they wish. Or hold their peace forevermore. We'd like to see more manufacturers on the board but the work done by some of the active 1937-1938 officers should not be forgotten.

LOT OF RAH-RAH stuff over the Bowl beyond the bridge yesterday p.m. when Omemee men softballers came to town and then went to town at the expense of the Motorists. Jerked out a 3-2 nod in overtime in about the sweetest softball scrap seen here this semester. A hurlers' duel all the way with an error in the 10th frame, following Rehill's double proving pretty costly to the locals. Strickland and Stephenson twirled a lovely game, each fanning half a dozen and being tight as a fat man in a phone booth with their bingles. Five doubles were conked in the nine hits of the eve, with Playford getting a pair of 'em. Some good fielding at times, too. Those O's were slow starting this season but they are gathering momentum all the way and will hit the playoffs yet if they don't run out of dates! Motorists meet them again in Omemee on Wednesday.

CHURCH SOFTBALL League senior playoffs are tied up now with George St. Majors mauling the Mark St. Boys for a14-9 triumph last evening at the Oval. It's one game each in the final serial, and the deciding fray will be tomorrow in the Oval. R. Hunter and Craig saw service for the East City gang last night, with the latter going pretty fair. Akers twirled a good game for the Majors. Plenty of hitting here and there, and fielding that was at least fair. The tilt tomorrow will wind up the Church Loop, a short time before the C. O. B. L. closes shop for the season!

LOCAL lacrossers had a drill last p.m., following a Midget Loop setto. Kinsmen copped a 5-4 verdict over Kiwanis in a lovely scrap by the youngsters, dops being in elsewhere. Rotarians and Y's Men's mix it this Friday p.m. at 8.15 before the O. L. A. senior "B" struggle between Orangeville and the Petes at nine here. The Petes have a fixture tonight in Brooklin, and these contests this week are tough ,Brooklin being atop their group at present and the Orangville gang swinging in the canary's perch in their section The locals stand second with one loss and one tie.

KINGSTON Whig-Standard columnist says the intermediate Locos there are being re-instated by the O. B. A., but the Ponies have definitely folded for this season. Says four players have pulled up stakes and flown, Handford to Toronto, and Paczkowski, McIntyre and Pollar to the States. The Ponies claim the O. B. A. suspension finished them as they needed dough and had to lose three gates—July 2nd and July 6th at home. They claim they had never received any word from the O. B. A. warning them against using Pollar and furthermore they were sticking to their C. O. B. L. agreement. "And so," says the scribe sorrowfully, "passes one of the most famous names in amateur ball, a team that has played a leading part in the sport for 20 years, 15 of them in the Central Ontario senior circuit. The product of a post-war junior league, the Ponies held their own with the best in baseball, gave Kingston valuable publicity and provided fans with good sport." And there ya be, O. B. A.-ers, we hope you're satisfied!

GRAB-BAG: A local lad, Harry McIsaac, will enter the Kid Kar Derby in Belleville this week. . . . Jimmy Sweetman E.P.L. intermediate is playing semi-pro ball in N'Yawk City; he hit 340 last year. . . . Lions' midget lacrossers have a practise at 6.30 p.m. Thursday. . . . Wm. Smith of Brighton was seriously injured July 4th when Catharine Gratton, which he was readying for a harness-hoss race, ran away. . . . Lindsay lasses have a softball game with C. G. E. at the Bowl tomorrow night. . . . Tigers took a 6-1 Junior Ball Loop win over P.C.I. last e'en, each twirler fanning 12 in seven frames. . . . Gunner Whitehill may start for the locals in the senior ball scrap here tomorrow evening . . . And now with Kingston out, it looks like a joint C. O. B. L.-O. B. A. meeting wouldn't do much good; just the Petes and the GM-men are left. . . . DeLaval trimmed Cogs to make the Southend League first-half playoffs. . . . TRADE NOTE: May and June of 1938 saw a large volume of diamond importing from U. S. ports into Ontario, much of the traffic being diverted into Central Ontario; however, there was a reversal in this trading commodity in July, with more diamond exports from Central Ontario!

Cricket Results

LONDON, July 5.—(CP Cable.)—Needing only 150 runs for victory, Yorkshire, England's champion county, has a great opportunity to defeat Australia's touring cricketers for the first time on their current English tour. In a three-day match started Saturday, the Yorkshiremen dismissed the Antipodeans for totals of 232 and 132, scoring 205 in their first visit to the wickets.

Smailes dismissed six Antipodeans for 92 runs in the first innings and took four for 45 in the second.

Don Bradman, Australian captain, made scores of 59 and 42, while A. L. Hassett hit up 94 in the first innings. Aussie bowling honors went to M. G. White, young South Australian player. He captured seven Yorkshire wickets for 101 runs.

Buck Out Of Hospital

PORT ARTHUR, July 5—(CP).—Tim Buck, general secretary of the Communist party of Canada, was discharged yesterday from hospital where he made almost complete recovery from injuries suffered June 25 when the automobile in which he was riding overturned near Hurkett, 35 miles north of Port Arthur.

The Toronto man suffered scalp wounds and light concussion.

Greats Of Baseball Are Ready For Sixth All-Star Game

CINCINNATI, July 5 (AP).—The greats of baseball have started pouring in on this troubled town for tomorrow's annual all-star game between the two major leagues, and by this nightfall there will be a homerun knocker behind every potted palm in the hotel lobbies.

Cincinnati frankly, isn't as joyous in expectation of the big event as had been anticipated a few days ago. The Reds have lost their last six games. If the incoming stars fail to encounter a welcoming crowd at the much bemuraled Union station, they will understand what has happened.

Still, a sell-out crowd of 28,000, including 2,000 standers, is assured when the two star-spangled outfits meet at 2.30 EDT tomorow afternoon at Crosley Field. All the reserved chairs were sold while the community still was suffering with pennant fever and when Johnny Vander Meer looked like being the next city manager.

Now the good burghers, suddenly clear-headed again, realize they aren't going to see a world series next autumn, and it is a little sad.

Joe McCarthy and his National League rival, Bill Terry, will get together with Commissioner Landis and the umpires tonight for a final ironing out of the details.

Terry, weighted with the task of trying to give the National League its second victory in six all-star games, isn't going to receive very encouraging news here. Frank McCormick of the Reds, the only first-baseman on the National squad, has hit a terrific batting slump and has made three glaring errors in as many days. Previously he had made only one miscue for almost half the playing season.

The consensus is that the two "dream" clubs will line up about like this (leaving it to the two managers to fix the batting orders:

Bees Storm Auto

SARNIA, Ont., July 5 (CP).—Hundreds of bees landed on the back of an automobile right in the midst of busy traffic on a downtown street. Gordon Barnes, a beekeeper, put them into a box and took them home. Nobody knows where the bees came from.

Snake In His Shoe

BELLEVILLE, Ont., July 5 (CP).—Bathers at the institute dock just west of the city were startled and frightened at a scream from Wilbur Mountenay, who was dressing. The nine-year-old boy, when he put on his shoe, found a garter snake curled up in it.

YANKEES AND INDIANS ARE TIED FOR AMERICAN LEAGUE LEAD

Tigers Defeat Indians Twice While Yankees Win One Tie Second With Washington

Giants Preserve Lead In National League By Walloping Dodgers

NEW YORK, July 5. (CP).—If you're a New York fan and a believer in baseball tradition, you can look forward with some confidence today to a repetition of the "subway" world series of the last two years. If you're a Cleveland or Pittsburg follower, you have just about as much ground for hoping to see your team on top.

The old rule, honored as much in the breach as in the observance, is that the team on top after July 4 is the one that will win the pennant. But it doesn't account for a tie, nor does it allow for a team that's going as if it couldn't be stopped.

The Indians were saved or the Yankees were "robbed"— according to how you look at it—when New York and Washington wound up in a 4-4 tie after 13 innings of their second game yesterday. The Yanks had won the first, 10-5, for their ninth straight victory.

Cleveland, running into Detroit Tigers who were smarting from three losses at St. Louis, took a double setback, 7-3 and 5-2. The net result was to leave the two clubs tied for the lead, each with 41 victories and 25 losses.

Giants Hold Lead

On the National League side the Giants preserved the lead they gained early in the season by walloping their "cousins" the Brooklyn Dodgers, twice, 3-0 and 16-1. But Pittsburgh's Pirates, moving up under full steam, showed how to win the tough ones by beating Cincinnati Reds 2-1 and 3-2. That gave them seven straight triumphs and 20 games won by one-run margins this season.

Led by Joe Dimaggio, who made three hits in each game including a homer in the second, the Yanks hit hard until they met up with Pete Appleton in the extra innings. Pete came in after the Senators had tied the score in the ninth and hurled no-hit ball until darkness forced a halt.

Cleveland, meanwhile, got only 11 safeties off Elden Auker and Harry Eisenstat. Bobby Feller's wildness was too much for even two homers by Ken Keltner and one by Moose Solters in the opener while Charley Gehringer's four bagger with two on in the seven won the nightcap for Detroit.

The twin triumph sent the Tigers into 4th place, ahead of Washington while Chicago's White Sox moved into sixth past the Athletics. The pale hose, on a five-run rally in the fifth and Jack Knott's six-hit flinging, knocked off the Browns 5-4 and 5-1. Philadelphia took a pair of beatings from Boston Red Sox, 8-5 and 5-2, as its weakening mound staff gave up 25 blows.

Chicago's third-place Cubs slipped a little further back when they divided a pair of 4-3 decisions with St. Louis Cardinals. Boston Bees and Philadelphia Phillies also broke even in the Phils' first "home" game at Shibe park. Five runs in the eighth gave the Bees the opener 10-5 and Claude Passeau's flinging paved the way for Philadelphia's 10-2 win.

Sox Socker

Roger (Doc) Cramer, ABOVE, was one of the players who changed the name Red Sox to Gold Sox as applied to Boston's American League team. He came from the Athletics in one of Owner Yawkey's big deals, and after slumping the first year, has been improving since. He'll be in the junior loop's lineup in the all-star game at Cincinnati, July 6.

Yesterday's Stars

(By The Associated Press)

Dick Bartell, Giants.—Drove in eight runs with two homers, one with bases loaded, and three singles as Giants tripped Dodgers twice, 3-0 and 16-1.

Joe DiMaggio, Yankees, and Pete Appleton, Senators.—DiMaggio got six hits, including four-bagger, as Yanks won first, 10-5, and tied second 4-4, in 13 innings; Appleton pitched four-inning no-hit relief trick in night-cap.

Cy Blanton and Bill Swift, Pirates.—Set back Reds twice, Blaton hurling eight-hit ball for 2-1 victory and swift seven-hit ball for 3-2 decision.

Rip Radcliffe and Jack Knott, White Sox. — Radcliffe smacked double and triple to help beat Browns in opener, 5-4; Knott gave six hits and fanned five as Sox won second, 5-1.

Gil English, Bees, and Claude Passeau, Phillies.—Former's three-run homer topped off rally that won first for Boston, 10-5; Passeau set down Bees, 10-2, on seven safeties in second.

Hal Wilson Is Thrown At Tweed Races

TWEED, July 5. — Three thousand spectators scattered along the shores of Stoco Lake witnessed the world's fastest speed boats while five airplanes from the Royal Canadian Air Force at Trenton put on an aerial exhibition overhead.

Rounding the final buoy in an effort to beat "Tops II." the world's fastest 225-cubic-inch hydroplane, Hal Wilson, Ingersoll, driving his "Little Miss Canada," turned over within five yards of the judge's stand. Wilson was thrown clear of the boat and was pulled out of the water uninjured. After turning over, the stern of the boat sank rapidly, only the air vacuum in the bow keeping it afloat. It was towed to shore with much difficulty and emptied.

Five 225-cubic-inch hydroplanes competed in the races here yesterday afternoon. Jackie Cooper, in his "Tops II." battled it out for leadership with Wilson, and in the first two heats just managed to cross the line ahead of the "Little Miss Canada." After Wilson's boat turned over, Cooper, who hails from Kansas City, had things easy in the final heat, as the other two competitors were much slower. In the first two heats, both Cooper and Wilson gained a lap on the others. The "Snuffy," driven by Eddie Hales, Toronto, placed second, with E. M. Peace, Toronto, in the "Spider," placing third, and Harold Wilson placing fourth.

In the 225 "N" division, the "Snuffy" won first prize and the "Spider" second. A. M. Platt, Picton, in his "Barbette," defeated K. Gilmore, Picton, in the 151-cubic-inch class. In the 210-cubic-inch class, Duff Cooper's "Dona Marie" led the field to the finish line by winning three firsts in the three heats. Lloyd Hicks, Belleville, driving the "Baby Rugene," placed second, and A. Campbell, Wellington, placed third in his "Wings."

Kinsmen Gain Nod In Lacrosse Tilt

In a neat midget lacrosse contest last night at the George St. arena, Kinsmen copped a 5-4 nod over Kiwanis. Hallihan scored first for Kiwanis but then Mattucci got two and Cournyea and Bloom one each for the Kinsmen. Hallihan and Doughty combined for another Kiwanis marker, with Mattucci ramming in the final Kinsmen counter. Kiwanis battled back and nearly tied it up, Hallihan scoring one more alone and aiding Carravagie in the fourth. For the winners, Mattucci, Miller and Bloom went best; while Hallihan, Murphy and Carravagie shone for Kiwanis. The teams:

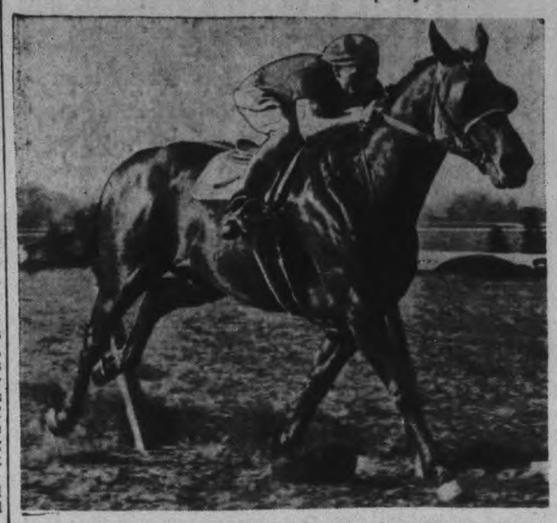
Kiwanis: Goal, Siemon; defence, Gillespie, Murphy; centre, Carravagie; wings, Hallihan, Doughty; rover, Stewart.

Referee—H. Pammett.

Defeats War Admiral For $50,000.



Before a huge crowd of 66,000 at the Suffolk Downs track in Boston, Hal Price Headley's Menow, ABOVE, juvenile champion of 1937, proved himself one of the leading three-year-olds and handicap horses of this year by coming down in front to capture the $50,000 added Massachusetts Handicap. Even bigger news than the victory of Menow was the failure of War Admiral, who for the first time in his illustrious career, finished out of the money. Seabiscuit was entered in the same race but was scratched 15 minutes before post time.

Oshawa GM-men To Play Petes

A Central Ontario Baseball League fixture will be staged here this Wednesday (tomorrow) evening at 6.15 o'clock in Riverside Park. It will be between the Oshawa GM-men and the Petes, playing that July 1st postponed game. Despite the fact that the C.O.B.L. is in a turmoil at the moment over the O.B.A. suspending Kingston, and the Ponies threat to drop out of the league, this contest tomorrow will be played here and will be a league affair. Pretty much the same local lineup as the one which took a win over Merritton in an exhibition tilt here Saturday will see action against Oshawa Wednesday night. Joe Jakafby and Gunner Whitehill are available for hurling duty on the home mound.

Jake Biddle or Jack Turner will twirl for the 1937 champions, probably the former as it is the speedy southpaw's turn to pitch. The Petes, peeved at the O.B.A. and feeling none too friendly toward Oshawa—who let them down, they figure, in the recent committee-room controversy—will be in there battling their heads off all the way through, and stand a good chance of hanging another defeat on the GM-men. Oshawa will be at full strength for the struggle, and undisputed possession of first place in the league standing is at stake. It should draw a big crowd of fans.

Joe Vismick and Jim Bagby, Red Sox.—Vismik's single, double and homer led 15-hit attack that beat Athletics, 8-5; Bagby gave Sox sweep by scattering A's ten hits for 5-2 triumph.

Charley Root, Cubs, and Stan Bordagaray, Cardinals. — Former's relief work saved 4-3 victory for Cubs in opener; Bordagaray's pinch-hit single started winning rally that gave split with 4-3 victory.

DeLaval Winner Over Cogs 12-8

Taking advantage of misplays, De Laval scored a 12-8 win over Cogs last night at the Brinton Field in a Southend Softball League sudden-death fray to cop a playoff berth in the first half. They are in with Keene and Little Harlem. Tonight at the Brinton Field, Cogs and Hawks start the second half schedule.

Two big innings last evening put Cogs out of the running, the winners scoring four in the first and seven in the seventh after the losers had fought back to tie the score in the fifth. Todd on the Cogs' mound was rather wild but allowed only seven hits, teammates' errors causing his downfall. Naish was nicked for eight hits and walked four, Art Heal being his only rival to get more than one safety. Dallin and Wright led the victors with two hits each, and Abbott got a triple. Mackness of the Cogs hit a homer. Dallin, Wright, Gatfield, A. Heal and Murduff went good defensively. The teams:

Omemee Win In Overtime 3-2

Omemee men softballers yanked out a 3-2 win over Motorists at the Bowl last night in one of the niftiest loop fixtures of the season. It was the second straight win for the O's and puts them back in the running. A pitcher's battle, this fray saw Strickland and Stephenson fling fine ball, the latter allowing but four hits as he fanned six and walked five, while the former gave up but five bingles and five walks as he struck out six. Both sides kicked in with a few bad errors but it was a nip-and-tuck tussle throughout and gave the fans plenty to cheer about.

Playford got two doubles, with Montgomery hitting a double, and Walsh and Starr singles. For the winners, Jones and Rehill banged out doubles, and Parsons and Brockley singles. Fielding features were turned in by Brockley, A. Williamson and J. Williamson of the villagers; and Playford, Weir and Kearns of the locals. The game went 10 innings with Rehill scoring the winning run for Omemee after doubling. The teams

George St. Majors Tie Up Playoffs

George St. Majors tied up the senior playoffs in the Church Softball League last night at the Oval with a 14-9 triumph over Mark St., forcing a third game Wednesday at the Oval. Ron Akers pitched good ball ot chalk up his eighth win without a loss this year. Though minus two regulars, the Majors went good defensively. Rol Hunter started for Mark St. but found the going tough in the fifth with 10 runs scoring against him. Sid Craig went well in a relief role to give but one earned run. Only three flies went to the outfield but the infielders were kept busy. Parsons played another steady game for the losers with seven clean chances, as Roberts shone for the winners and Heard turned in his best game catching for the Majors. R. Hunter fanned five and walked four while Craig fanned five and also issued four free tickets. Akers struck out 10 and walked four. Griffith, Roberts, Akers, Heard and Hough each had two hits, Akers hitting a double. Brady wasn't bothered by Akers, getting a homer, triple and two singles to drive in six runs. M. Hunter had two hits. The teams:

Very Good

With the Phillies buried deep in the National league cellar, you don't hear much about their players. Here's one of the best, and one of the league's pleasant surprises, Herschel Martin, who roams the gardens and swings a mean shillelah at the plate. Last year, his first in the majors, he batted .281, but this season he's been up with the leaders, and boasts a mark over .350.

Proceeds From Rotary Carnival Amounted To $1908.06 Setting New High For The Club

The net proceeds from Rotary Club's carnival last month amounted to $1,908.06, a new revenue peak since the carnival became an annual enterprise in 1924, J. H. Seels, its manager for fifteen successive years, announced at Monday's luncheon of the club at the Empress Hotel.

As a mark of the Club's appreciation of Mr. Seels' continuous and successful management of the carnival, he was presented by Ross L. Dobbin with a substantial gift as a personal contribution from the members.

Active carnival helpers of Rotary were luncheon guests today, and on behalf of the Club Mr. Seels thanked them for their splendid assistance. He mentioned particularly Miss Rosamond Mulholland, Miss Hazel Buller, Miss Helen Carson, Hurrell Dodds, Chester C. Mowry, Doug. Loomis, Elmer Metcalfe, James Matthews, Mayor Hamilton, Alderman Stocker, the Canadian General Electric Company, the Peterborough Utilities Commission, and Rotarians Jack Hughes, Jim Juby and George Gillespie, and also the Examiner.

James Dutton, president, said the results were substantially ahead of last year's in spite of the unfavorably cold and wet weather of the first night of the carnival.

"In expressing our appreciation to all those who helped in any way to make the carnival a success," Alderman Dutton said, "We are not unmindful of the gratuitous help of local doctors and also doctors of the Sick Children's Hospital, Toronto. We hope that all our helpers feel happy in the realization that they have done their part in contributing to the work which has resulted in crippled boys and girls being able to walk about like other folk and to become self-supporting. This is the finest reward which comes from the efforts of the Club. Every new case that comes to our attention will receive the utmost consideration, and that other unfortunate children will be given all the chance necessary for the days that lie ahead."

Extols Manager

Mr. Dobbin extolled the faithful service of Mr. Seels as carnival manager. Total receipts since he assumed that duty have exceeded $15,000, all of that sum having been expended in Rotary's service to crippled children. None of that money is used for any other purpose.

A musical interlude at the luncheon was presented by little Shirley Garner and Kennie Simmons, a song and tap dance number in costume, followed by a song with her own guitar accompaniment by little Miss Garner.

Mr. Dutton called attention to the meeting of the Club on Monday July 18 at the Rotary boys' camp. It will be at 6.30 p.m. Already twenty-four boys have arrived at the camp and twelve or fifteen others are to go this week.

If Indians in United States continue their present rate of increase, in 100 years they will be as numerous as when Columbus made his voyages.

until four oclock the following morning. The distraught father sought aid of neighbors in searching for the boy. The only trace they discovered was footprints along a brook, two miles from where the cows were found.

If the boy has not met with an accident and died as a result, he stands a fair chance of survival for many days. Huckleberries are ripe on the rocks at this time, and he could survive on a diet of this fruit for some time. Bears and wolves reported by one paper as being a threat to the youngsters life, are largely products of the imagination. While it is true there may be some animals in the district, the farmers of the district have apparently little fear of their attacking their stock, which they leave at pasture in unfenced land. It is more than probable that the only wild animals in the country are back in the bush, far from the settlements.

Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Reynolds and sons William and Charles and daughter Eleanor are visiting relatives in Collingwood.

Mr. and Mrs. W. Donald of Buffalo are guests of Mr. and Mrs. C. Frankland.

More than $100,000,000 is spent in the United States each year for musical education, statistics show.

Bad Shooting Fatal

TORONTO, July 5 (CP). — Ontario's wild ducks are being killed by the poor marksmanship of hunters, inspectors reported today to the Ontario Department of Game and Fisheries. The ducks develop lead poisoning after eating pellets of shot strewn over marshy areas by hunters who have missed their mark. Dr. J. E. Shillinger said research work resulting in finding one bird with 288 shots of various size in its gizzard. Blood tests have shown that many birds developed lead poisoning and died after eating about 20 pellets.

"Why can't we in the United States and Canada co-operate to strengthen one another and bring all the influence possible to bear on Britain and France to do likewise?" he asked the open-air gathering in Queen's league for peace and democracy.

About 400 anti-Fascists attended the open-airr gathering in Queen's Park, sponsored by the Co-operative Commonwealth Federation, whose regional council chairman, William Denison was the principal speaker. Denison declared a former member of the Fascist party, scheduled to seak, did not appear "because we fear for his life."

could raise his hand against him."

The asserted threats, the Attorney declared, resulted from discussions for a separation, begun between the Count and Countess on June 2.

Mentions London Man.

Describing a conversation he had with Count Haughwitz-Reventlow in France, William M. Mitchell, another of the Countess' solicitors, declared the Count told him, "My terms are the child and a fantastic sum."

"He used obscene terms," Mitchell said, "about his wife, and mentioned the name of one particular gentleman in London society.

"He said someone in English society had written him, stating that unless he first challenged that gentleman to a duel he could never return to London society again.

"The count went on to say that duelling was too good for that. . . and said 'I shall go straight back to London and shoot him like a dog'."

Sir Patrick asserted threats first were made on June 18 and June 19 after preliminary discussions between the Count, his wife and Mitchell on the question of separation.

Describing the Count as a man of "violent and ungovernable temper," Sir Patrick said he threatened to shoot others and himself at one moment and at the next "was in tears and sometimes making large financial claims as a condition of leaving his wife."

The Count, Sir Patrick continued, went to France to seek a nerve treatment. He asked Mitchell to come and see him there. In Paris, Mitchell told him "separation was inevitable and that his wife was terrified of him."

She and Harlan Coons were taken to Dr. Holdcroft's private hospital on orders from Provincial Traffic Officer Gordon Broughton, who arrived at the scene a few minutes after the accident.

The occupants of the front seat of the Coons' car escaped with a few bruises and shock but Harlan Coons was injured around the legs and body. Mrs. Baker was not injured and the only injury to her daughter was a bump on the head.

It was recognized from the first that Miss Preston's condition was critical, and she died about an hour and a half after the accident.

Mrs. Baker, who is the wife of a Kingston photographer, has been visiting her mother Mrs. James Scott of Havelock.

sentative Conservatives to Ottawa last March and told them his health was such he could not remain as leader. He agreed to act until a national convention could be called to choose his successor.

Today Mr. Bennetts task was to call the convention to order and repeat his decision with respect to the leadership. His audience contained many of those who met at the last Conservative convention in Winnipeg in 1927 to elect him their leader.

Sir Thomas White, war-time finance minister, and Mr. Meighen, were scheduled to make the keynote addresses and the bulk of the morning session was set aside for speech-making.

John R. MacNicol, Conservative member for Toronto Davenport, has had the bulk of responsibility for arrangements with Hon. Maurice Dupre of Quebec, former solicitor general, as joint chairmen of the convention committee.

French and English speaking chairmen will be selected today, along with French and English secretaries. Gordon Graydon, member for Peel, and Georges Heon, member for Argenteuil, have been acting as joint secretaries of the convention committee.

Resent Premier's Stand

There was a strong feeling of resentment evident among the delegates concerning Prime Minister Mackenzie King's attitude expressed a few hours before prorogation of parliament last Friday regarding establishment of Royal Air Force flying schools in Canada.

Prominent Conservatives contend that if the prime minister's view prevails, Canada is out of the British Empire and indicated that an issue would be made of the speech at the convention.

Speaking in the Commons following a wrangle with Mr. Bennett, Mr. Mackenzie King said the Canadian government would not permit a military force to be established in this country under control of another government. He pointed out that there has been no request from the United Kingdom government for establishment of such schools.

As the twig is bent

GOOD habits learned in youth are apt to stick throughout life—the daily newspaper habit for instance. Young Canada is interested in the daily newspaper almost from the time he can read, and he never outgrows the habit.

TRUE, his interests change. He graduates from the "funnies" to the features, to the sports page, the financial and world news, but the daily newspaper remains with him through life a reliable source of relaxation, information and news which influences his opinions and purchases.

AS population increases newspaper circulations grow. Today, 2,246,621 daily newspapers are read every day from coast to coast—an increase of more than 270,000 copies since 1929.

CONSEQUENTLY, the daily newspaper forms a link between the manufacturer or merchant and consumer which in its usefulness to the individual and industry alike is unparalleled by any other medium.

"Paint Her Red"

The reaction of some citizens to the paying of taxes, the first instalment of which is due this week, was indicated by the remark of a taxpayer Monday to a painter who is giving the City Hall a new coat. "Paint her red lad, that's what she ought to be. Here's my money going up in smoke. That's what it feels like."

Licenses Are Ordered Refused Until Proprietors Meet With Regulations Of Inspector

Adverse reports by Sanitary Inspector MacPherson on a number of places handling food consumed by the public were brought to the attention of the City Council last night by Alderman Cotton, chairman of the Finance Committee.

Mr. MacPherson recommended that licences be withheld until these places were improved to conform with the city's by-law. Some of them were designated under the road and general classification as eating houses, one was a bake shop, and another was a local dairy. Only the name of the bakery was mentioned. The report was obviously a shock to the Council.

"We have the plain duty to see that the law is carried out," Alderman Gordon declared. "This is too serious a matter when we know that people pay money for food. Tell these people licences will be granted them when we have proof that they have complied with the by-law. What else can we do?"

Alderman Bradburn suggested that possibly there might be other places in the same category that have received licences, but Alderman Dutton replied that licences require the approval of the Sanitary Inspector, and in these latter instances the report was unfavorable.

"We have a duty to do," Alderman Gordon repeated. "We should face it and take a very positive stand."

"This is the kind of service we are getting now from our Public Health Nurse and the Sanitary Inspector," Alderman Stocker said.

"And we ought to support them," Mayor Gordon added.

Alderman Glover was inclined to doubt the advisability of anything so drastic as closing up these places immediately, if that was the intention.

"Well, you needn't shut them off," Mayor Gordon said. "Tell them they'll get their licences when they comply with the regulations."

Alderman Dutton recalled that some years ago before he was a member of the Council, the Ontario Government passed an amendment providing for this type of inspection of premises, and the Council asked that it be made effective in Peterborough. For that reason, he added, it could not be a matter of ignorance of the law, because he believed that each person affected received a copy of the regulations.

Alderman Stocker, chairman of the Board of Health, said that the health authorities in the city were not simply going through the motions.

Alderman McCannan's comment was that when the exact conditions which had caused the licences to be held up by the Inspector were examined, they might not be so serious as they seemed; and Alderman McIntyre and Alderman Dutton proposed that the applicants in these instances be notified of the circumstances and asked to meet the Board of Health or a committee. Alderman McIntyre seconded Alderman Gordon's motion that, in these cases, licences be granted when a special committee composed of Mayor Hamilton, Aldermen Stocker and Dutton, all members of the Board of Health, is satisfied by evidence that the conditions of the city's by-law have been fulfilled.

Restaurant Stalls.

Department stores with lunch counters and the height of stalls in restaurants were two other subjects relating to "eating houses" discussed last night.

Alderman Bradburn's contention that the big stores with lunch counters in opposition to restaurants should be required to conform to the same by-law which forced proprietors of restaurants to provide lavatories for the public.

Alderman Gordon advised that the licences be cancelled if the big stores were not doing what was required of them. "Hold up their licences until the Board of Health reports on them," he proposed.

Alderman Cotton said that seemed "pretty drastic," and Alderman Dutton: "Let us give instructions to see whether these places are complying with the by-law under which licences are granted."

"We'll do that at once," Alderman Stocker promised.

"Then, if they don't comply, we can go ahead and cancel their licences," Alderman Cotton added.

Alderman McCannan reported that the city's by-law affirms that no restaurant may have stalls. "But they all have them. Some of the stalls are quite low. One I measured was four feet six inches high. You could easily look over it sitting down. In three restaurants, the stalls are so high I'd have to stand on something to see over them.

In regard to the details of "stalls" or compartments, a special committee appointed some time ago was instructed to continue their task of bringing uniformity in the height of these so-called stalls, and also to order that none of them shall have any front sections partly enclosing them.

Exchange Head

Business Men To Sponsor Sport Program

The Peterborough Business Men's Association Monday night appointed a nominating committee to draw up a slate of officers for the organization, to be brought in at the September meeting. Members of the committee are Don Scott, chairman, J. W. Watson, Charles Saunders, Jacob Low, Art Bacon.

Monday night's meeting was the organization's third attempt to elect officers for the next year. Lack of a turn-out representative of all the business organizations of the city forced another delayal, so the nominating committee was appointed. Fewer than twenty-five members were present, although Secretary J. J. Dorriss said he has sent out 182 questionnaires and that more than thirty had replied signifying they intended to be present.

H. L. Garner, managing director of the Examiner, was chosen chairman of a sports day committee. At a previous meeting of the organization it was decided unanimously to sponsor some form of sporting activity on Civic holiday. On Monday night some members present were in favor of dropping the entire project, others wanted it postponed until Labor day so that merchants might have more time in which to prepare. Charles Saunders believed the organization should not undertake to sponsor such an extensive activity until it was more compact, more able to carry it through successfully.

The association turned down a proposal by one of its members to remain open on the night of July 12, if permission could be received from the city council. A city by-law requires stores to be closed at seven o'clock in the evening, it was revealed.

Driver Escapes Police Net

BELLEVILLE, Ont., July 5 (CP)—After County Constable J. King apprehended a man in possession of a stolen car near Bancroft, 65 miles north of Belleville late last night, the man escaped in the nearby bush leaving behind a quantity of stolen goods including an outboard motor.

Provincial Constables Starke and Palmateer joined in the search for the man but today learned another car had been stolen at Apsley and it is believed the man again escaped the police net. The first car was stolen from Cobourg.

TOO MUCH "JEEVE"

According to swing lingo the jitterbugs from the Brock Street summer gardens are to noisy in their home-going, banging doors of automobiles, loudly shouting and so on, Alderman Gordon told the council Monday night, and suggested that parking between George and Aylmer Streets should be prevented. It isn't a long walk to the market, he said, "if no other parking space is available. Some of the people up there say they are too noisy.

MAKING 300,000 BRICKS.

Curtis Brothers have orders for 300,000 bricks for local delivery, the Examiner was informed Monday. The major demand is for four buildings, the new Bell Telephone headquarters, an addition to the Y. W. C. A., Charlotte Street garage, and a school in Smith township just north of the city. And in the meantime quite a number of houses are being constructed or planned. If conditions were normal, several builders commented, their trade would be booming. As it is, the season is expected to pick up increased activity within the next few weeks.

NEW TRAFFIC RULES.

Parking is to be prohibited on George street from Prince to Lansdowne street, and traffic southbound on George street must stop on the north side of McDonnell street, according to new regulations passed by the council Monday night. A proposal to reconsider parking on Brock, Murray and McDonnel streets between George and Aylmer streets was halted by the old objection that the council has not yet been able to provide new parking space for the public.

DEMONSTRATE TO BUSINESS MEN

The Examiner's North American championship salesmanship team of junior merchants won enthusiastic approval from the business men of the city on Monday evening when they enacted before the association members the skit with which they wrested the Bingham trophy from a championship team from the United States at Quebec recently. Introduced by circulation manager H. B. Cowan, Jr., the two boys, Arthur Roode and Lloyd Williamson, left no doubt in the minds of their spectators that they had all the requirements of a championship team. J. J. Duffus, M.P., moved a vote of thanks on behalf of the organization.

The accident occurred at the intersection of Highways 7 and 30, more commonly known as the Trent River turn, and the car shown, driven by Nelson Coons, 27, also of Lakefield, came to rest in front of Wellman's Service Station.

Fined For Failing To Remain Accident Scene

Convicted of failing to remain or return to the scene of an accident, Alfred Johnston, 19, of 329 McGill street was fined $25 and costs by Magistrate W. A. F. Campbell in police court this moring.

The Magistrate however said that he did not propose to suspend the accused's driving license.

Johnston was defended by W. J. Arthur Fair while Crown Attorney V. J. McElderry, K.C., prosecuted.

Mrs. Leila Payne, Park street, said that her little girl Helen had been struck by Johnston's car as she crossed aPrk street and was knocked down. Witness had picked the girl up and carried into the house and saw Johnston get out of his car and look at it. He did not come to her house and when she went out five minutes later he was gone.

Dr. Herbert Young gave medical evidence as to the injuries suffered by the girl, stating she had cuts on her head and several abraisions.

Albert Barrett who was on the verandah of the Payne home corroborated Mrs. Payne's evidence as to what had happened after the girl was hit. Constable Leo Murphy gave evidence as to arresting Johnston at his home at 3 o'clock on the afternoon of the accident and finding the car in the garage with the lens of one headlight broken, and Detective-Sergeant Meagher produced a statement he said had been given voluntarily by Johnston after his arrest.

Mr. Fair objected to the statement being admitted but it was allowed subject to objection. He also cross-examined the witness as to how the statement had been obtained.

Johnston went into the witness box on his own account and stated that after the accident he had stopped his car and after looking at it he had asked some one if the little girl had been hurt and had been told she was not and then he had driven off. He admitted that he had seen the girl knocked down but when she got up and ran to the side of the street he had thought that she was not injured and so did not think there was anything to be done. He claimed that he was about to go to the police station to report the accident when he was arrested.

Magistrate Campbell registered a conviction and imposed the minimum sentence, a fine of $25.

Council Reduces Price Of Lots

After jacking-up its prices of several pieces of property at a committee meeting a few nights ago, the council Monday night revised them downward. A. Olan gets the lot at the south-east corner of Murray street and Monaghan Road at $200 instead of $250, and Percy J. Harrison will pay $150 for a lot on Aylmer street opposite O'Carrol avenue, and Arthur N. Brinklow's offer of $100 for a lot on Romaine street was accepted. Thee years ago Mr. Brinklow paid $100 for a lot, built a $3,200 house on it, and has since sold it. The aldermen fairly purr when some one mentions buying a vacant lot that fell into the hands of the city after some owner had passed up possession rather than continue to pay taxes on it. So many of these lots have become city property that it is always good news to the council to get another offer, especially when it means a house is to be built at once with that much more assessment and tax income.

BYLAW SUSPENDED

A bylaw appointing Jas. J. Fleming police court reporter was held over for a month by the council last night on Ald. Gordon's recommendation, to make sure of the young man's ability to do the work before confirming his appointment.

Kiwanis Health Camp Opens With 75 Boys And Girls Enjoying A Summer Vacation

His Last Mystery

Like many murder mysteries he had filmed, King D. Gray, 52-year-old cameraman, sat in his car in front of the Hollywood, Calif., postoffice. Crowds passed by. Finally, a man stopped, sensed something was wrong, called the police. There was a bullet wound in Gray's chest—but there was no gun in the car. On King Gray's finger was a ring set with a large diamond; in his pocket were $63 and on his wrist an expensive watch—ruling out robbery as motive for the slaying. In the car police found an empty shell from a .32 automatic. Police are seeking Gray's companion during his last hours of life.

In the shade of tall pine trees, away from the heat and noise of the city, seventy-five boys and girls are taking their ease the whole day long in Jackson Park. For on Monday the Kiwanis Club opened its annual summer camp for underprivileged children.

For fifteen years the service club has tried to help Peterborough's undernourished children, to give them sturdy health with which to battle life. For two weeks each year these children have the opportunity to rest, to read, to eat to their hearts' content. The camp lasts eight weeks in all, with four different groups of children attending for the two weeks' period. The most undernourished are allowed to remain four, six, and sometimes eight weeks.

On one shady spot yesterday afternoon a dozen boys were grouped about their instructor, Kenneth Gillespie, listening to him read the story of that robust, healthy, and fearless boy, Tom Sawyer. In another section, girls were listening to their instructor, Margaret Harris, as she told them a romantic love story. Children were playing in the sand, they were riding on swings and on teeters.

Every afternoon the youngsters lie down in a huge hut for an hour's rest or more. It is no easy task to make them remain quiet, let alone go to sleep. But the camp's nurse, Jean McKone, R.N., is on hand to keep order and they respect her wishes. And while they are lying down the club's physicians make rounds, inspecting their charges, countin gthe extra pounds that appear as if by magic.

Big Eaters.

They are hearty eaters, these happy youngsters, according to Mrs. Jones, camp cook. She says they drink 48 quarts of milk every day, eat 20 loaves of bread, ten pounds of meat, and on Friday seven dozen eggs. A bag of potatoes lasts two days. Five pounds of butter disappear each day. Before the eight weeks are over they will have eaten 60 pounds of peanut butter, 40 pounds of jam, a whole cheese, she said. But here is one thing that brings a shudder with it: they will have consumed 12 quarts of cod liver oil. Cod liver oil measured by the gallons is no fun even at camp.

A bus, chartered by the club, makes a circuitous route each morning, gathering up the youngsters from all parts of the city. It lands them at the park about eight o'clock in the morning. Each is provided with a bathing suit, a towel, and a toothbrush. Everyone must wash and clean his teeth on arrival, and then breakfast is served. At noon dinner awaits them, and about five in the afternoon they get a lunch of sandwiches and milk. At six o'clock the bus returns, draws them back to their homes.

The children all help in the work of the camp. Some set the tables, some wash and dry dishes, other help the cook prepare dinner. They all do their bit cheerfully, eager to be of some service.

Building Dam.

The camp is well appointed and thoroughly stocked with every essential. The city council is improving bathing facilities by erection of a dam in Jackson Park creek, filling the edges with sand.

It required long and patient hours of work this summer to get the camp into shape for the arrival of the youngsters. The Kiwanis club's camp committee, headed by John I. Allen and with Al Sharpe and John Troke as members, have painted the cabins and done other preparatory work. The children were examined by the medical committee composed of Kiwanis physicians Dr. C. M. Scott, Dr. C. B. Waite, Dr. F. C. Neal, and Dr. G. R. Scott. They are all examined again from time to time to check improvement in their condition.

The city council will have an opportunity of seeing just what the club is doing for Peterborough on Friday, when they will be guests of Kiwanians at an outdoor luncheon meeting at the park.

Sunday Regatta Is Denounced By Ministers

LINDSAY, July 5.—The Victoria Yacht and Anglers' Association pulled off its postponed regatta at Pleasant Point Sunday, and as a result Lindsay pulpits thundered with protests against what was termed "flagrant desecration" of the Lord's Day. These protests have been shared in by a number of citizens, who feel that the association was ill advised in their action. President Bert Hay, of the association, stated that they had given considerable thought to the matter, and that as Civic Holiday is always the date of the Sturgeon Point regatta, Sunday was the only day on which the event could be held.

Those who forecasted a slump in the tourist trade this year will have to do some explaining. Never in the history of this district was their such an invasion to the tourist centres as is the case this year. During the week-end hundreds of American cars poured into points in this area as well as Haliburton district, and more are to follow. Proprietors of tourist resorts reported today that they are filled up for July, and could accommodate a great many more if they had room for them.

A Kinmount resident before Magistrate Gee during the week-end, charged by Game Overseer Scott with shooting a deer out of season. He was fined $20.00 and costs. Mr. Scott states that the deer are plentiful in the north at the present time. A summer visitor to Bobcaygeon was also fined $10.00 and costs for fishing in restricted waters.

Examiner Team Congratulated

The city council extended congratulations to Arthur Roode and Lloyd Williamson, winners of the international carrier boys' contest and primarily of the Examiner's carrier boys' round, in a resolution by Alderman Gordon Monday night.

Another Gordon motion provides a Saturday afternoon holiday henceforth for the city hall office staffs, except on the Saturdays preceding the date on which tax installments are due.

Debentures shall not be issued for local improvements this year, a motion by Alderman Cotton and Bradburn affirmed.

A coal and coke dealers' license is to be issued to Elmer Metcalfe.

The City Trust Commission has volunteered to put new grates in the city hall furnace which needs overhauling.

The Department of Transport will be asked to give a license to Frank Sherwood to set up a radio station in Peterborough. It will be of low power and designed for a district of 30 to 50 miles radius.

CHAPTER 30

BILL HAD been gone for eight days when a letter came to Ellen saying he would return to the ranch on Tuesday. Pablo Rivera brought the mail to her on Monday night.

She was elated at the news. She ran to tell Buckshot Brown and the workmen and the Rivera family. All of them had a powwow about it that night around a central campfire. They hadn't quite realized how much they depended on the big Texan, how much he meant to them. Some of them knew the train schedules into Nogales, and said Bill could be at the ranch by next supper time.

An hour after breakfast on Tuesday morning, a delivery truck arrived from Nogales. All hands stopped work, hoping it might be Bill. But it wasn't.

"Package here for Miss Ellen Dale," the deliveryman announced. Ellen came running. Bill had sent her something!

It was a large crate, and inside it was a truly extraordinary arm chair, a massive thing carved from hardwood and covered almost entirely by the raw hide of a "painted" cow, hair dut.. It weighed more than a hundred pounds, and appeared to be quite old. Ellen knew it must be an heirloom, a valued item from somebody's collection, for it had a striking old-time beauty, a dignity as of some don who must have owned it. She wondered where Bill found the thing, and opened the envelope tied to it.

"For rest and happiness in your new home," the note read, "and for memory of Sonora."

"Oh!" Ellen was truly surprised, and not a little disappointed. "It is not from Bill. It is from Felix. Felix Montoya."

Arrmf!" snorted Buckshot Brown. His disapproval was instant.

The deep shaded porch of her new home had been covered and finished by this time, and she had the chair placed on it. It belonged with an abode home. Regardless of its giver, the gift was a fine one. Ellen, sitting tentatively in it, looked like a dainty queen on a western throne. It almost swallowed her small form.

Ellen was busy that day fitting colored stones into the cement of a huge fireplace. She had made sketches of tentative designs for the rocks, but found that getting the color combination exactly right was not so easy. Moreover, her mind kept wandering. She was excited over Bill's coming home, looking often down the road when she knew she couldn't expect him until late afternoon.

He surprised her, though, at that. She was enjoying her siesta—the after-lunch nap had been "ordered" by Bill as a fine old border custom—when an explosion of guns startled her.

BANG-BANG! "EE-YOW!"

Cowboys, it seemed, were shooting up the camp. But Ellen knew. She recognized the cowboy's voice, just one cowboy. She shrieked a greeting through the canvas of her tent, dressed hurriedly, paused a precious moment to snatch a comb through her curls, and ran to see him.

She ran right up to him—and stopped.

Each of them had been holding out their arms. Like lovers? Man and wife? Brother and sister? or what?

The peculiarly strained situation between these two of late suddenly came between them, not to do any harm but to cause a moment of acute embarrassment. Both Ellen and Bill blushed. They had unconsciously moved almost into an embrace. But they had halted. Ellen had been aware of Bill's restraint in recent weeks. She knew her money was a barrier between them, and that living in camp as they were had caused Bill to be especially careful of the conventions. She respected him mightily; but right now she wanted to be greeted properly, wanted to be kissed as she had never wanted it before.

"H-hello!" she said, lamely. "How are you? And—everything!"

They shook hands. Big Bill was smiling now. He held her hand a bit, patted it, squeezed it, let it go.

"Glory, it's sure great to see you! To get back home! How's everything, boss?"

"All right," she dimpled sweetly. "We've missed you, though. I'm not much at bossing when you are away. Did Hollywood like your whiskers? They've grown!"

These two had much to talk about. Bill unstrapped his pistols, took off his "city coat", inhaled prodigiously and let out a long musical yodel—a greeting to the hills around them, a thanks for being back in the open lands. "I could never be happy in a penthouse," he announced, smiling. "Come on, I'll start my report if you can order some grub for me. How's about it?"

The other camp folk arrived then and took him away from Ellen. He had greetings for all. Pocket gifts he produced for the four or five youngsters who were there, children of Mexican servants and of cowboy families who had come to make the DD rancho their new home. That he had remembered, delighted not only the little folk, but their parents as well. Sedate men told each other that Bill Baron was thoroughbred.

"Concepcion, I bring you a bottle of Hollywood perfume—if you feed me a good supper," Bill announced to the Mexican cook. "I am starved for some range cooking.

But Mrs. Rivera smiled, and looked at Ellen.

"Senorita Dale, she say she cook tonight for you."

Bill turned to Ellen in surprise. "You?"

"Yes! Concepcion has been teaching me. I can do chili. And boiled greens you love with the Texas cornbread. And Bill—I am waiting to broil the steak you so love, over the coals. I can do it. I will!"

It was a trifle early for dinner; the sun was still lingering in a distant mountain gap, a red Chinese lantern no doubt awakening the people of China now. But hunger is hunger. Ellen dished out her food, speared the T-bone and began broiling it.

"Is grander than the Cocoanut Grove, or the Trocadero, or the Biltmore," Bill declared. "Your pal Bromberg took me to all three."

"He did? Oh tell me, Bill! What happened?"

They talked for two long hours, perched on stools around a great bed of living ironwood coals, warmed by the heat and by the color and the friendship. Night had set in then, and mountains nearby seemed doubled in height and bulk; appeared to lean intimately and protectively toward the camp; silhouetted in black against the dark velvety black-blue of the night sky. They made the camp-fire a mere pin point of light, Ellen and Bill mere Lilliputians.

"Hollywood doesn't believe you'll stay in the wilderness," Bill was concluding. "The columnists say it's just another publicity gag—I have the papers in a my bags—that you'll be back in a new picture soon. They have you secretly married to both me and Sid Bromberg, also to Felix Montoya; you're quite a woman, it seems. But everybody says you'll come back soon."

"Bill—I won't! I love it here."

"You'll get lonesome, though, if you don't keep busy. You ought to have a girl friend, or something. By the way, I started buying cows. I'm going in—I mean, you're in for raising high-bred cattle, making special tests on feeding and up-breeding. You can render a real service to the cattlemen of America, Ellen, if you want to . You can afford it. I want to bring in some specialists from the University of Arizona. Open up an experiment station here, a range station, not a laboratory, where we can run real tests. It's he-man work. I mean, he-woman work, if you know what I mean. I'm trying to say—"

He bogged down a little, but she smiled encouraging at him.

"I understand, Bill. I'd love it. I'm not a sissy. Am I? I'll like it if you say it's worth while. I'll help all I can, if you'll boss."

They walked over soon, of course, to inspect progress on the construction of the ranch house. Bill carried Ellen's gasoline lantern, a brilliant thing. He felt immensely happy beside her, calm and content. He wanted to put an arm around her as they walked, but he politely kept a protective hand at her elbow instead. A great peace suffused him.

They came onto the porch and instantly he saw the huge cowhide chair. He was impressed by it.

"It is a gift from Felix Montoya," Ellen explained, simply.

Bill turned slowly to look at her. "Yeah?"

He made no further comment. But, unreasonably he told himself, his homecoming was now spoiled.

DOROTHY DIX

The Girl With an Average Education Who Looks Up to Her Husband Has a Far Better Chance of a Happy Marriage Than One With a College Degree

DEAR MISS DIX—Do you think a young man with a university education would feel superior to a girl without even a high school education, but who is holding a responsible office position? Do you think the girl should tell him when he proposes to her that she is not up to his standard in education? Does education play an important part in making or marring the happiness of a marriage?

MISS P. S.

ANSWER:

Of course, the young college graduate will feel superior to the young lady without a degree, but college graduates feel superior to everybody else on earth, anyway, so that doesn't matter. Also, every man feels superior to every woman, no matter whether or not she is the educated one, so there is nothing to worry over in that, either.

In fact, it is a very good arrangement all around, for nothing makes more for domestic peace and happiness than for the husband to be able to look down upon his wife and feel that he is wiser than she is; and nothing makes a wife more blissful than to be able to gaze adoringly up to her husband and to regard him as an oracle.

Whenever you hear a wife begin every sentence with "John says," and when you observe one meekly burning incense at her husband's feet, you may be sure that you are beholding a contented household in which there is no wrangling nor disputes.

That men prefer wives who are not so well educated as themselves is abundantly proved by the fact that no blue stocking is ever a riot with the sheiks; that the more learned a young woman is, the less chance she has of getting a husband. As a result of an investigation that Dr. Roy Anderson, of Teachers' College at Columbia University, has recently made of the effect of the higher education on the future of girls, he declares that college girls have 20 per cent. less chance to get married than have the girls who do not go to college.

General observation will bear this statement out. When we are trying to "sell" a girl to young men we descant upon her beauty, her dancing, upon her prowess in outdoor sports, but we never dream of saying that a girl is a Ph.D., or that she reads heavy books, or that she understands the Einstein theory. For well we know that if we did, wild horses couldn't drag any youth to come and call upon her.

But you make a mistake in thinking that because a girl has not a formal education she is bound to be ignorant and stupid. Some of the very best educated people I have ever known had little schooling, but they had read, studied and observed until they had made themselves highly intelligent and well informed on every subject. Certainly a girl who is able to hold down a responsible office position is no fool, and very possibly she is far more mentally alert and up-to-date than her college-boy sweetheart.

No doubt she is, or else she would not attract him, for while men may not prefer college girls for wives, neither do they desire Dumb Doras. They want women who have brains enough to keep up with them and to understand what they are talking about and to be entertaining companions. Certainly a girl does not need to tell a man how much education she has had. That speaks for itself and shows in everything she says and does.

* * * * * *

DEAR DOROTHY DIX—I am a girl of 18 in high school, and although I try my best my mother always says that I will never make good, and that she is just wasting money on me. She keeps telling me that when she was a girl she never had a thought about young men, and when I go out she tells me to get rid of my friend as soon as I can. When young men come to see me she comes into the room and makes things so uncomfortable that they get up and leave. I help around the house after school, but I can never seem to satisfy her. I am so discouraged I do not know what to do.

AN UNHAPPY GIRL.

ANSWER:

Why a certain kind of mother thinks that she helps her children by killing their ambition and destroying their faith in themselves is something that nobody can explain. But it is a very common type, and they are responsible for more blasted lives and human failures than almost any ather cause in the world.

These mothers love their children. They do not intend to be cruel to them, and yet malignity itself could not invent a worse torture than they inflict upon their offspring. They nag their children ceaselessly about their defects. They hold up their shortcomings for every eye to gaze upon. They make them feel that they are dolts or hoodlums, lazy or trifling, or that they are hopelessly awkward, until they inflict an inferiority complex upon the helpless little creatures that handicaps them for life.

Every one of us knows from our own individual experience that praise is a stimulus and blame a deterrent; that we all try to live up to what people think we can do and what they expect of us. Yet mothers almost invariably use the hammer instead of the salve-spreader in dealing with their children.

They seem to think they can incite a boy to study by telling him how slow-witted he is and that he will never learn, anyway. With the result that the boy gives up and thinks there is no use. They will tell a girl how homely she is, which only makes her self-conscious and uglier than ever. So they go on their devastating way, putting out the spark of ambition in their children's souls and making such cowards of them that they never even try to fight the battle.

Equally stupid are the mothers who put every obstacle in the way of their girls having nice boy friends and making good marriages by their finding fault with the boys, and making it uncomfortable for them when they come to see their daughters. It is part of every mother's duty to put welcome on the doormat for her girls' dates and make her home so pleasant that the boys will like to come to it. It is a pity so many good women are bad mothers. It is a pity so many mothers forget their own childhood and girlhood. And it is thrice a pity that so many mothers make their young daughters' lives unhappy with their ceaseless nagging.

Enjoy Omar Khayyam's World-Famous Poem

All the beauty and wisdom, joy and sadness of life are summed up in the immortal Rubaiyat of Omar Khayyam.

No wonder countless generations have quoted the Persian poet's matchless words:

"Ah, my Beloved, fill the Cup that clears
Today of past Regrets and future Fears:
Tomorrow!—Why, Tomorrow I may be . . ."

And in reckless mood, who hasn't felt the force of the famous couplet:

"Ah, take the Cash, and let the Credit go,
Nor heed the rumble of a distant Drum!"

Or mourned with those lovers of centuries ago:

"Yet Ah, that Spring should vanish with the Rose!
That Youth's sweet-scented manuscript should close!"

You'll take lifelong pleasure in our richly illustrated translation of the 101 exquisite verses of the Rubaiyat. Includes an absorbing biography of Omar Khayyam—poet, philosopher, astronomer.

The Stars Say . . .

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

For Wednesday, July 6.

According to the solar and lunar influences, this should be a very lively and enterprising day, with much stirring of a secret or behind-the-scenes nature. It would be well to deal with such methods tactfully and diplomatically, approaching those in high places for co-operation and preferment.

If This Is Your Birthday.

Those whose birthday it is may enjoy a year of much enhanced pleasure and popularity in collaboration with superiors, elders, and those in authority. Seek benefits in secret or tacit agreements, in which there may be elements of intrigue or collusion, but in a friendly and lucrative spirit.

A child born on this day may be active and versatile in a very clever or shrewd way, making its success by subtle popularity and the quality of meeting its superiors with tact and finesse, as well as by its proud and generous spirit. It may seek its place in the sun through fine aspirations.

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

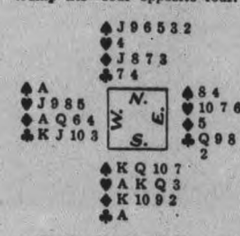
WRITTEN FOR THE EXAMINER

By SHEPARD BARCLAY

"The Authority on Authorities"

FOUR-CARD MAJORS

AMONG EVEN the top flight players you can find faddists who refuse to make an opening bid on a four card major suit, even if they hold two such suits. If the hand is too strong to pass, they will start with a short suit minor bid or a funny looking no trumps. Later on, however, they enthusiastically bid their four-card majors, having once warned their partners about their brevity. Pretty fair arguments can be made for this theory, but none whatever for carrying the idea to the extreme and never bidding a four-card major. That tantrum amounts to ruling out the nicest of all normal trump fits—four opposite four.



(Dealer: South. Both sides vulnerable.)

This deal arose in a duplicate and at all tables but one the contract ended in four spades by the North-South players. At one table, the South player, because of his theory that four-card majors should never be bid originally, started bidding with 1-Diamond. West doubled this, North passed and East called 2-Clubs. South now bid 2-Hearts, which West also doubled, and North put in a bid of 3-Diamonds. Possibly because of the power shown by West, South now hesitated about showing the spade suit, and as a result they missed game.

When South remonstrated with his partner for not having shown the spades, North's retort was that if South held five clubs and four hearts, which his bidding indicated, it was hardly likely that he held support for spades.

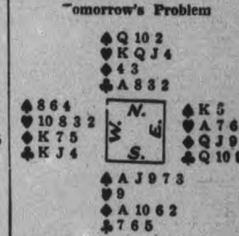
Tomorrow's Problem



(Dealer: West. North-South vulnerable.)

How should South play to make his contract of 4-Spades? West led the diamond K, as East had opened the bidding with 1-Diamond.

Goodnight Story

By MAX TRELL

It was a very pleasant day. Father said to Frank and Dinah, "Come, we'll go down to the lake. We'll row to the other side and back again."

The children shouted with joy. So did Knarf and Hanid, their shadows. They liked rowing as much as the children.

Then father and the two children walked down to the lake, and the two shadows glided swiftly along the path in their footsteps.

"There's the boat!" the two children exclaimed, running to it They quickly got in. The shadows followed after them and sat at the bottom of the boat. At first Father took the oars and rowed out a ways. Then he moved to the back of the boat and let Frank take one car and Dinah the other.

"I want to row, too!" Knarf said.

"I want to row, too!" Knarf said, loudly. "I'll row from outside the boat. I'll sit on the edge."

For a few minutes everything went along smoothly. The boat really did seem to be going faster. Even Father remarked: "You're rowing very well, Frank. But be careful not to pull too hard or too fast. You'll catch a crab."

Not Real Crab.

"What's that?" Knarf asked quickly.

"Does it mean to catch a real crab?" his master asked his father.

Father laughed. "No—it's nothing like that. You'll see what it's li when you catch one. And you w if you keep pulling your oar t fast."

Just then — for Knarf and h master were both pulling the oar fast as they could—the oar slipp out of the water. Do you kno what happened? The boy fell bac ward in a heap at the bottom the boat, and Knarf was throw right into the cold water of the lak Hanid had to lean over and pull hi out, dripping wet.

"There! That's catching a crab Father was saying to Frank. "Whe your oar slips up out of the wat you've caught a crab."

"And I—I've caught a—ach-oo—cold," Knarf said with a sneeze. H was content to sit quietly besi Hanid from that moment on.

JUST BETWEEN US WOMEN

:"'Tis all men's office to speak patience
To those that ring under the load of sorrow,
But no man's virtue nor sufficiency
To be so moral when he shall endure
The like himself."

—Shakespeare.

Dear Friends:

Did you ever feel as if you had come to the end of your patience? You have endured without whimpering, you have waited and longed and hoped. You have put up with intolerable conditions, dull days and duller nights, with few things as you would like them, and few to look forward to.

And so, as with everything else, you come to the end of patience, you are tired of this inertia as far as your affairs are concerned, you want action to alter them, but do not know in which way to act, and so you are stuck in the bed of frustration.

Candidly, I think more ills come from lack of a full happy life than from any other thing, for without interests outside of the daily round the heart is liable to feed on itself, and hearts were never meant to be eaten.

We are turned in on ourselves, we magnify our troubles because there is nothing to change our thoughts. Life looks like a round of weary days stretching ahead of us interminably, with the same dull things to do in each one of them.

Too much of anything is not good for us. Too much of patience without results breeds disgust. We get tired of the thin, watery soup of life while others get the full-bodied kind. We get tired of the petty economies, of the cheaper grades of meat, the cheaper type of clothes, the bargain pair of shoes.

I don't know what you do, but I get to the stage that I don't care. You might kick over the traces, take it out on those around you, which wil bring you nothing but a headache. Or you might get sulky and speak to no one, which will do you no good either!

But, when I come to the end of my patience, I just let go and drift. Sometimes, you know, we strive too hard for what we want, we reach out too far, and time moves slowly when we long too hard for anything.

We become too tense about these things, we hope too strongly, and "Hope deferred maketh the heart sick." And so, when we let go the hand of patience, when we get to the stage of not caring, we seem somehow to have a better chance of our wishes being fulfilled.

I have read of Job, but he hasn't anything on me. He had the good things of life first, and he had them last. He was tried for a while and then got quit of them, but some of us never do get quit of them.

Burke tells us: "There is, however, a limit at which forbearance becomes a virtue." And if that time has come in your life as it has in mine, let go, stop struggling, stop everything, and just relax, living one day at a time.

All our lives are a constant change although we do not see it, but the big trouble is we do not learn to adjust ourselves to this constant change. Machines and automobiles have hidden springs whereby they adjust themselves to the different roadways.

We also have hidden springs, but we have not learned how to use them. If automobiles had solid tires, if the body were built rigid instead of as they are, we should not ride pleasantly. Again, if we sit rigidly, all tensed up, we shall feel every bump on the road. So, relax, forget about patience, and watch your dreams come true.

Your Friend,
ROBERTA.

Peake—Bell

A quiet wedding was solemnized in the manse of Riverdale Presbyterian Church, Toronto, when Miss Jessie Elizabeth Bell, only daughter of Mrs. Bell and the late George Bell, Toronto, was married to Mr. Frederick Davidson Peake, youngest son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Fred Peake of Campbellford. Rev. A. Gordon Macpherson officiated.

The bride wore a graceful gown of minuet blue sheer crepe with white accessories, and corsage of Johanna Hill roses.

Mr. and Mrs. Peake left on an extended motor trip to Detroit, Chicago, Minneapolis and Western Canada, and on their return will live in North Toronto. Both Mr. and Mrs. Peake are on the staff of Earl Kitchener School.

Ivanhoe Minister And Family Receive Gifts At Social

Rev. Harold Lackey Taking New Charge

IVANHOE, July 5.— Avery pleasant evening was spent at the Ivanhoe parsonage on Saturday, June 25, when the congregation of Beulah United church gathered to honor their pastor, Rev. Harold Lackey, his mother, Mrs. James Lackey, and sister, Miss Mary Lackey, before their departure to their new charge at Enniskillen.

During the evening Mrs. Lackey was presented with a black handbag and a black and white satin scarf from the Women's Bible Class and an address. The address was read by Mrs. Clifford Mitz as follows:

Ivanhoe, June 25, 1938.

Dear Mrs. Lackey,

We, as a Sunday School class, wish to take this opportunity of showing our appreciation for your faithfulness to our class.

We have always found you willing to help in every way you could, always doing your share and more to further the Christian work in this community.

Now as the time draws near for your departure we realize that there will be a gap in the neighborhood that your departure has left.

Again as a slight token of our appreciation and friendship we ask you to accept this small gift.

Sincerely yours,

The Women's Bible Class.

Mrs. Lackey made a suitable reply thanking the ladies for their kindness.

Arthur Wood, chairman for the evening, then called on Miss Mutton to read an address to Mary, which read as follows:

Ivanhoe, June 25, 1938.

Dear Mary,

Although you have not been with us for some weeks, yet we feel that your home has been at Ivanhoe, and we are very much pleased that you can be present with us tonight.

Your cheerful disposition has been an outstanding characteristic remarked and appreciated by all.

As a little token of remembrance and appreciation we ask you to accept this gift. Signed on behalf of all your Beulah friends, Mary Clements, Marion Mutton, Elymer Rollins, Sidmer Reid.

A leather set of book-ends was presented to Mary by Miss Hilda Kilpatrick. Although completely taken by surprise Miss Lackey thanked her friends with a few well chosen words.

Presentation to Minister

Ivanhoe, Ont.,
June 25, 1938.

Dear Mr. Lackey:

We realize with many regrets that you are soon to depart from our midst and we are taking this opportunity of spending a social time with you and to bid you farewell.

The Young People's Union will never forget that you have always been ready to help them and lead them. You have given freely of your time, especially when you so willingly took us in your car to the rallies and conferences of the Y.P.U.

We wish to show our appreciation and thanks, but our sentiments cannot be expressed in words.

The best wishes of the church and Y.P.U. for your contentment and prosperity follow you to your new charge.

May we assure you again our good wishes for your future and feeling that "Remembrance adds a link to friendship's golden chain", we ask you to accept this gift that you may be reminded of your friends at Beaulah.

Signed on behalf of the church and Y.P.U.—George Wood, Hilda Kilpatrick, Frank Palmer, Roy Mitz.

Frank Palmer presented Mr. Lackey with an electric lamp.

Mr. Lackey thanked his friends for their thoughtfulness and all joined in singing "For they are jolly good Fellows" after which a dainty lunch was served by those present.

Peddler Finds Braces No Hiding Place For Stolen $2 Bills

East York, July 5.

IF YOU HAVE any money to hide, don't put it behind your suspenders.

William Ross, a John Street peddler, tried it on Saturday afternoon and would probably have got away with it had he not become too self-confident.

Ross was being searched by the East York Police for a two-dollar bill. His pockets had been emptied, in a vain attempt to locate the money. Slowly the police were becoming more desperate, and Ross more confident.

Then Ross stuck out his chest, placed his thumbs behind his suspenders and assumed a bored air. But that was his undoing, the bill rolled to the floor in a little ball, and Ross rolled to jail in a police cruiser, charged with the theft of the money.

Firms Approval Ban On Sunday Trucking

TORONTO, July 5—(CP).—Proposals made here during the week-end to ban truck traffic from Ontario highways on Sundays and holidays as a means of cutting down the accident toll and speeding up traffic were approved generally today by motor transport companies.

The Wisconsin plan of ruling heavy trucks off the major highways from 1 p.m. to 11 p.m. on Saturday and between 9 a.m. and midnight on Sundays and holidays was advocated for experiment by managers of the Ontario Safety League and the Toronto Tourist and Convention Association.

The Ontario Motor League and the transport companies endorsed the suggestion to eliminate heavy trucks on Sundays and holidays — and most of them now observe that practice. However, they saw difficulties in trying to shut down truck traffic on Saturday afternoons.

The companies suggested that while absence of trucks might help to keep down the number of accidents, trucks were not mainly responsible for accidents. Their drivers were generally better than the average automobile driver, they felt.

Heavy trucks are now off the road 24 hours starting on Saturday midnight, one official said. Since the start of the tourist season the Highways Department had been trying to persuade trucking companies to have all their trucks off the road by eight o'clock on Saturday night, he said.

Consensus of a questionnaire sent out by the Ontario Motor League to its affiliated clubs was for restriction of Sunday trucking. W. G. Robertson, general manager, said. Opinion was that restriction of Saturday traffic would be difficult.

All passengers were removed from the 14,000-ton vessel, whose forward holds were reported filled with water as a result of the mishap. It was hoped that removing the vessel's cargo by lighters would allow the Ascania to be towed back to Quebec for a survey of the damage.

Hay Crop Heavier Cheaper Than In '37

TORONTO, July 5 (CP)—Ontario farmers are cutting a hay crop expected to return them more than $30,000,000. Regional reports gathered by the Canadian Press indicate the crop is slightly better than normal and considerably larger than the 1937 crop.

Actual value of the hay can not be estimated until the market is established in September, officials of the Ontario Department of Agriculture said. Dealers quoted the current price of Timothy No. 2, generally considered a standard, at $10 a ton, down $1 from a year ago.

Reports from east, north and west forecast better crops of hay than last year when the yield was slightly below normal. Only in the central section from Oshawa and Cobourg to Kingston is a light crop expected.

Ottawa district and northern Ontario generally excellent crop prospects, but the season is less advanced than in the south.

Rains Delay Cutting

Rains last week benefitted Western Ontario hay crops though it delayed cutting. The crop is a week or two ahead of last year. Middlesex and Oxford county harvesting was delayed by rain. In Perth and Huron where much of the hay was cut, the rain-soaked hay dried well during the sunny week-end.

Moisture is still needed for Brant and Norfolk county grain crops but the hay crop is mostly harvested.

Recent rains have had little or no effect on the hay crop in Waterloo county, the crop this year, while not the best, is better than average. Haying operations have practically been completed in the southern portion of the county.

In the northern portion of the county haying is just beginning. Most crops were standing in this area during the recent rains, which were not severe enough to beat it down.

A reporter asked a question that stirred Miss Heusser to anger. Swinging a chair with uncanny accuracy she barked several shins of the fourth estate before they could reach the door. Drinks Bottle Of Pop On 18,000 Foot Drop TORONTO, July 5—(CP).—Ray Chesney plunged 6,000 feet before his parachute opened yesterday but he held onto his bottle of pop and drank most of it during the rest of the 18,000-foot drop which established a new Canadian parachute record. It was his fifth parachute drop since he started practising only six weeks ago.

"I plunged head first more than 6,000 feet before the chute opened and I could see the clouds getting nearer and nearer," he said today. "After I got below the clouds it was a cinch," he added, stating he had plenty of time to swallow most of the bottle of pop he took with him.

The 28-year-old pilot's mother calmly watched his preparations for the record attempt, but along with other hundreds who gathered on the ground, she lost sight of him until just before he landed in a pasture four miles west of the Toronto flying club field where he took off in a plane polited by Cecil Clark of Toronto.

"I had every confidence in him" said Chesney's mother, declaring she had not worried at any time over her son's attempt.

George Bennett, Chesney's instructor, said the previous mark was 13,500 feet, a record established eight years ago by Charles Daley of Hamilton.

Clark's plane was equipped with a special device to increase air intake in the rarer atmophere and took off with only a half load of gasoline to reach a maximum height. The fuel supply was exhausted by the long climb and Clark had to bring his plane down with the motor dead.

No One-Man Policy Dictation For Quebec's Tories

Heon Demands Decisions By Rank And File, Denies Cohorts Separationists

OTTAWA, July 6 (CP). — French-Canadian delegates to the Conservative convention will not accept dictation of party policy by one man, George Heon, member of parliament for Argenteuil, told the convention today in what was considered a direct reference to the speech of Senator Arthur Meighen yesterday.

He added that Quebec delegates will remain in the convention until its close and said he anticipated a policy upon which all delegates could unite. This was interpreted as a reference to reports the delegation would quit the convention.

The youthful Quebec member did not mention Meighen's name in his reference to dictation but there was no doubt he was giving the reply of the Quebec delegation to Mr. Meighen's demand for closer co-operation with the United Kingdom in defence matters.

"I don't want the meeting to think I have somebody in mind when I say this," he said, "but I don't mind you drawing your own conclusions."

Remarks made on the convention platform yesterday were unfortunate and did not represent public opinion, he said. Those who made such remarks would serve the Conservative party better if they would "shut up."

Always Been The People's Party.

The Conservative party was the party of the people and did not belong to an "interested clique." It had always been the party of the people but if one man were to dictate the views of the policies of the convention, it would no longer be the party of the people. No one was going to frighten the Quebec delegates, he said.

They were at the convention by the will of the people of Quebec and it was for all the delegates to decide the policy of the party. Speakers of yesterday were not competent to give advice to the convention.

With a little good will and broad-mindedness, however, the convention could find a formula acceptable to all, and he looked for a happy issue. Yesterday, he admitted, the situation was threatening but that had passed and the French speaking delegates would remain to the end.

No Separatists.

"We are not separatists in Quebec," he said, "we believe in British institutions because we know what British fair play is and we expect the same amount of fair play in this convention that we get in the British Empire generally."

Introduced by John R. MacNicol, joint chairman, as a man who would go far in politics, Mr. Heon spoke first in French and then in English.

His demand that the policy of the party be decided by the rank and file and not by a "clique" brought the biggest demonstration of the morning session.

The Quebec delegation rose as one man and burst into cheers. Then the Western province delegations joined in. When the cheering subsided, the Quebec delegates burst into French songs.

Leaving the platform, Mr. Heon was surrounded by persons wanting to shake his hand and photographers demanding he pose for a picture.

U.K. May Order Explosives From Canada

LONDON, July 6—(CP Cable)—Sir Thomas Inskip, Minister for Defence Coordination, announced in the House of Commons today that the British Government is considering an order for explosives in Canada.

"As regards the production of aircraft," Sir Thomas said, replying to Sir Henry Page Croft, conservative, "the Government have under examination the report of the recent special mission sent to the United States and Canada, who made an inquiry into this matter.

"As regards the manufacture of other munitions, orders have been placed in Canada for shell bodies and Bren machine guns, the former direct with the Canadian manufacturers, the latter in association with the Canadian Government. An order for explosives also is under consideration."

Sir Henry Page Croft: "Are the British Government making it clear to the Dominions that this country is prepared to engage in the widest cooperation for collective defence against any form of aggression from the air?"

Sir Thomas Inskip: "His Majesty's Government are in constant communication with the Dominions."

Geoffrey Mander, Liberal: "Can he (Inskip) say whether it is not untrue to say that a request by His Majesty's Government has been refused by the Canadian Government?"

Sir Thomas Inskip: "I do not know to what the Honorable gentleman is referring."

Frederick Bellenger, Labor: "Are the types of munitions for which orders have been in Canada similar to the types to be supplied the Turkish Government under the bill now before the House?"

The Minister did not reply.

Hunt Swings To Bush For Slugger

Quarry Visits Store Giving Clue, 1 Woman May Die

BROCKVILLE, Ont., July 6 (C. P). — First clue in the wide and intensive search for William Gunning, sought in connection with serious assaults on two farm women, came to-day from Tincap, four miles north of here, where a merchant said the 21-year-old farmhand emerged from the woods there, visited a general store, and then plunged back into the bush. Provincial Police in the district started immediately to comb the area about Tincap.

Still in critical condition and with little hope held out for her recovery, Miss Irene Mott, 32, remained unconscious at noon in hospital here. She and her mother, Mrs. Frank Mott, 69, were both knocked unconscious by a blunt instrument yesterday and left lying on the floor, each in her own bedroom at their Kitley Township farm home. Mrs. Mott recovered consciousness during last night.

An emergency operation was performed late yesterday on Miss Mott to remove loose bone. She was suffering a compound fracture of the skull penetrating the brain. The mother, injured less seriously, had almost all her hair torn off by her assailant and suffered severe scalp wounds.

Police from Gananoque to Smith's Falls co-operated in the search for Gunning, who was missing from the Mott home when Frank Mott returned there after milking cows at the barn. Earlier he had called to the farm hand to assist him with the cows, but while Gunning answered his calls, he did not join his employed, the latter told the police.

Flood Hits Kobe Drowns Over 400

TOKYO, July 6 (AP)—A disastrous flood surged tonight through Kobe, principal port of western Japan, and reliable estimates placed the number of dead at between 400 and 480 persons.

A Kobe resident telephoned to Tokyo that destruction was heavy. He said the final death toll might reach 1,000.

The Kobe inundation came on the heels of serious floods which swept widespread areas of Japan, including Tokyo, last week, the result of extremely heavy rains.

The home ministry announced 861 persons were killed, injured or missing in last week's floods and in western Japan up to yesterday.

CANADIANS NEARBY

TORONTO, July 6 (CP)—United Church of Canada officials said today there is a United Church College about 17 miles from Kobe, but they doubted if any of the half-dozen Canadian missionary families at the university would be harmed by the flood as the university is built on high ground. A flood through Kobe tonight claimed more than 400 lives.

The Canadians located there are Dr. and Mrs. H. F. Woodsworth, Dr. Woodsworth is a brother of J. S. Woodsworth, national leader of the Co-operative Commonwealth Federation. Dr. and Mrs. H. W. Outerbridge, of Hamstead, N.B.; Dr. and Mrs. W. J. Cragg, who have relatives at Peterborough and Toronto; Rev. and Mrs. A. P. McKenzie, a resident in Japan most of his life; and Rev. and Mrs. M. M. Whiting of Park Hill, Ont.

5 Foreigners Victims

Frederick Taylor, an American, at midnight gave the Associated Press a vivid telephoned picture of the flood, which had cut a tragic path through the heart of the city of 938,000, and endangered scores of foreigners.

"It's still running and I'm heading for higher ground before morning."

Timagami Cabin Hides $45,000 In Stolen Gold

TORONTO, Ont., July 6 (CP)—In a lonely cabin deep in the Timagami forest reserve, provincial police last night recovered $45,000 worth of gold concentrate stolen from the Dome Mine at Timmins about three weeks ago. At the same time they surprised two men. One, Otto Fabbro, was arrested but the other escaped and is still sought.

Announcing the recovery of the gold today, Attorney General Gordon Conant said that Fabbro was believed to be only one of a gang involved in the bold theft from the closely guarded mine. Nealy 150 miles northwest of where the gold was recovered.

Provincial Constable Braney of the Timagami detachment searching that area came upon the cabin on the shore of Lake Lowell and surprised the two men. One fled but the constable held Fabbro and then a brief search revealed eight bags of gold concentrate which was later returned to the mine and identified by Dome officials as the stolen gold.

Police believe that the concentrate was cached in the cabin until the gang thought it safe to transport it "outside" for refining.

Inspector E. C. Gurnett of the Ontario Provincial Police Criminal Investigation Dept., is returning north to direct the hunt for the rest of the gang.

Chamberlain Won't Hurry Anglo-Italian Pact

Sidesteps Rome's Pressure For Action Feeling Conditions Not Fulfilled

LONDON, July 6 (AP).—Prime Minister Chamberlain today refused to hasten bringing the Anglo-Italian agreement into effect or name a definite date for its coming into force.

He told the House of Commons he felt conditions for making the accord, signed at Rome April 16, operative had not been fulfilled. These included "settlement" of the Spanish civil war.

Some progress in that direction was made today when Great Britain sent special messengers to capitals of both Spanish factions seeking approval of the European non-intervention committee's plan for withdrawing allied troops from Spain.

Italy is known to have been urging Great Britain to bring the agreement into force but Mr. Chamberlain is understood to have been holding out for a "substantial" withdrawal of Italians fighting for the Spanish insurgents.

$15,000 Jewelry Loot Grabbed Off Dresser

LLOYD HARBOR, N.Y., July 6.—(AP).—A $15,000 jewel theft in the Long Island mansion of Mrs. Marshall Field 3rd was investigated today by New York state police.

The jewelry, necklace, ring and bracelet were taken early Sunday from a dressing table where Mrs. Field, wife of the Chicago mercantile heir, had placed them before retiring.

The intruders, it was reported, also took $500 from Field's wallet and $150 from the pocket of a sleeping guest.

Police, who questioned servants on the Field estate, withheld announcement of the thefts until last night.

Mother Weeps With Joy As Examiner Reporter Returns Her Lost Son

Elwood Anderson, Aged 17, Cardiff Township Wandered In Dense Woods Along Stream For Five Days With Only Berries To Eat

(By Jack Peterson—Examiner Staff Reporter)

It was an awesome, choking feeling that came over Lewis R. Parks and myself on Tuesday afternoon when we gave into the arms of his frail, sobbing mother 17-year-old Elwood Anderson, lost in the desolate bush 20 miles north of Apsley for five days.

For five days a gigantic searching party, sometimes numbering as high as a hundred men, had combed the bush and dragged a nearby lake looking for the missing boy or his body. Farmers for twenty miles around had left their work to join in the search; provincial police were on the scene; a squad of fire fighters joined on Monday; on Tuesday a bloodhound was put on the boy's trail, all without success. We, on our first trip into the rocky barren country, found the boy without even getting out of our car.

Had Journeyed Ten of Twenty Miles

We were on our way to the scene of the hunt and had journeyed ten of the twenty miles north of Apsley, over bad roads, when we stopped at a settler's cabin to ask our way. The settler was Jim Emmons, formerly employed at the Canadian General Electric Company here, a convert to the philosophy of Jean Jacques Rousseau, who has made a home in the wilderness for himself and his family, claiming the primitive life as the only means of gaining true happiness.

Emmons told us how to get to the farm of Ernest Anderson, father of the missing boy, mentioning he knew the lad by sight, and we started on our way. Only a mile further along the road we came to another house, where a group of children of varying ages were seated on the verandah. We stopped the car and called to them: "Have they found the missing boy yet?" All heads shook in unison. "No, not yet," they answered.

We were about to drive on when we noticed beside them a larger youngster, his clothing torn, his hair matted, fatigue in every line of his face. "Who is that with you?" I called out. "Oh, he says he is the missing boy," one of them answered and they all started to laugh.

Better Make Sure So They Questioned Lad

I thought they were joking and was about to go on when Lew Parks stopped me. "We'd better make sure it isn't the boy we're looking for," he said. We jumped from the car and started to question the lad. He talked incoherently and we were able to learn little from him. He was smaller than the boy we had expected to see, and although greatly fatigued, was able to stand on his feet and seemed not a bit nervous or frightened. We decided to take him back to Jim Emmons' home for identification. "I haven't eaten, I haven't eaten," he kept mumbling all the way back over the rough road.

Jim Emmons came running across his field when we sounded our horn. "It's the boy all right," he said. Elwood Anderson was still lost. We found out later that he has not been away from his father's home in eight years, and that the furthest he has ever travelled was to Coe Hill, seven miles away. The ride in the Examiner staff car was his first auto ride.

Face, Arms, Legs Badly Scratched

His clothes were in tatters, his face, arms, and legs were a patchwork of cuts and scratches, black flies had eaten the back of his neck into a raw sore. He was a pitiful, heart-rending sight.

Mrs. Emmons prepared a dinner for him — his first in nearly a week. While he ate it with evident pleasure he did not appear to be ravenously hungry. He had two fried eggs,

Claim 75 P.C. Of Austrians Ready To Flee Homes

EVIAN-LES-BAINS, France July 6—(AP)— An Austrian refugee leader told United States delegates he believed 4,500,000 Austrians would flee Nazi rule if a 32-nation conference opening today could find them a new homeland.

Arthur Rosenberg, representing Federation of Austrian exiles at the meeting inspired by President Roosevelt of the United States to try to help German Jews and refugees, said about 75 per cent. of Austrians would leave their country if allowed to take a substantial part of their property with them.

(The Austrian population in the 1934 census was 6,760,233. Various estimates put the number of Jews in Austria at the time of the Austro-German Union at 200,000 to 300,000, and the total number of persons with some Jewish blood at 600,000—roughly 10 per cent. of the population.)

U. S. Takes the Lead.

The United States delegation, headed by Myron C. Taylor, former headl of the United States Steel Corporation, took the lead in preliminary negotiations for settling the refugee problem—made acute by the Austro-German Union March 13.

The Americans made it plain, however, that the United States' attitude was one of helpfulness rather than direction. Officials said they were trying to help shape plans but "we do not intend to be the final judges of whatever may be done."

$40 Tent Buys Eskimo Baby For Sorrowing Indians

EDMONTON, July 6 (CP).—Sale of a five-months-old Eskimo baby for a $40 tent at Great Bear Lake in the North West Territories was reported here last night by John A. MacAulay, K.C., Winnipeg lawyer, following a five-day trip into the north.

Mr. MacAulay said the baby was purchased at Port Radium by an Indian family which had recently lost most of its children.

The little Eskimo, brought to Port Radium from Coppermine by its parents early this summer, appeared to be thriving on a diet of powdered milk, Mr. MacAulay said, and its parents-by-purchase seemed extremely fond of it.

Teachers Busy Marking Twenty Tons Of Exam Papers

Toronto, July 6.

A RIBBON of ink encircling the Province of Ontario gives some idea of the amount of exhaustive reading which confronts the 9,000 teachers of Ontario who are engaged in marking departmental examination papers.

Something like twenty tons of examination papers are in the process of being marked, officials at the Department of Education estimate.

These include the papers written by the 70 or 75 per cent of the pupils who failed to secure the recommendation for certificates of their teachers. From 25 to 30 per cent. of the pupils did not have to write the departmental examinations in June.

The policeman has the stolen car, but the man fled while the policeman waited.

King Offers To Train R.A.F. Fliers

May Mean Enlarging Canadian Fields Increase Recruiting

OTTAWA, July 6 (CP).—Canada's offer of co-operation in training flyers for the Royal Air Force was under consideration by British authorities today. This followed the cable despatched last night by Sir Francis Floud, high commissioner for the United Kingdom, conveying to the home government the proposal announced by Prime Minister Mackenzie King.

Sir Francis was instructed to advise London that Canada was prepared to place at the disposal of the British air ministry the facilities of the Royal Canadian Air Force for training of personnel for the British service.

The government's plan is understood to contemplate recruiting in Canada for the R.A.F. and training those recruits under Canadian conditions in the depots administered by the National Defence Department. Whether aspirants from the British Isles will be brought to Canada and trained will depend on the extent to which the United Kingdom government avail themselves of the offer.

To provide for the anticipated increased activities the existing training stations may have to be enlarged. There are a number of these at strategic places throughout the country—Dartmouth, N.S., Ottawa, Trenton and Camp Borden in Ontario, Winnipeg and other western points. Considerable progress has already been made in enlarging them to meet the needs of the rapidly growing R.C.A.F.

Training of the men from one part of the Empire in another part is not new in military activities. Annually Canada sends officers of the permanent force to the staff college at Camberley, England, and occasionally to Quetta, India.

Reciprocally, officers of the British regular army are transferred in limited numbers to regimental and staff duties in Canada. In all cases, however, jurisdiction over them rests with the government to whose service, or within whose sphere, those officers are serving.

Every year a stated number of cadets graduating from the Royal Military College at Kingston, Ont., are commissioned direct to units of the British regular forces.

Recruits destined for the R.A.F. and trained in Canadian flying depots will be subject to Canadian military regulations. The statutory authority for this was contained in legislation approved by the Canadian parliament several year sago.

The statute, which followed passage of the statute of Westminster, set forth that military bodies even temporarily transferred from one of the king's dominions to another, automatically became subject to the military regulations prevailing in the dominion to which they were transferred.

The likelihood is that enlargement of the flying courses will require the British Air Ministry to send additional instructors and some aircraft to Canada, although Canadian flying standards are not less rigid than those of the United Kingdom.

Hubby Remodels Home Wife Disapproves Dynamite Settles It

Toronto, July 6.

WORK WAS well advanced on renovating a substantial old residence in suburban North York township when the wife of the young owner decided after an inspection she did not like it.

Drastic action seemed necessary if she were going to avoid living in the house so she ordered the workmen to buy sticks of dynamite and place them in the foundation.

"She left barely enough material for a hen coop," remarked H. D. Goode, Township Clerk, as he told of the explosion.

The young woman, whom police named as the daughter of a wealthy and prominent business man, is now directing plans for a new modern home.

Jury Blames Speed As Cause Of Crash

(Special to The Examiner)

HAVELOCK, July 6. — A verdict of accidental death, with an opinion the fatality might have been averted had not the car involved been travelling at an excessive rate of speed and a strong recommendation for a resident Provincial traffic officer at Havelock to control the heavy traffic on No. 7 Highway east, was handed down by a coroner's jury inquiring into the death of Thomas Anderson at the Town Hall here last night.

The verdict stated Anderson had died shortly after nine o'clock on Sunday night after being struck by a car driven by 17-year-old Russel West of Stirling, and owned by J. McNabb, St. Louis, Missouri. The tragedy took place at the east end of Havelock Village, on No. 7 Highway, in front of the home of Charles Barton.

Moderate Speed.

The jury heard the evidence of four passengers in the car, and the driver was not called to testify. His brother, Clarence West, 19, said the party were returning from Peterborough and were en route to Stirling and Oak Lake when the accident occurred. Questioning revealed he had been sitting in the back seat with Kay Kelloway, 17, of Belleville, and Margaret Martin, also of Belleville, while Jean McNabb, daughter of the owner of the vehicle, was sitting in the front with the driver. All three stated the car was travelling at a moderate rate of speed.

"We know five foreigners are dead. They are a Frenchman, a Russian, a German woman and two Portuguese children.

"The slides seemed to advance like moving mountains right up to the residential districts. They came within a few feet of my place.

"You can hear low rumbling and then trees crashing.

"There's a reservoir in the hills back of the city and some say it broke. I do not know about that. Anyway millions of tons of water must have been dammed in the hills by slides.

"Yesterday (Wednesday) morning about 9:30 a cloudburst hit us. About an hour later a regular Niagara came out of the hills. We heard an awful roar, but it was not much warning.

"A solid wall of water about five or six feet high came down so fast very few in its path had time to escape. It smashed foreign and Japanese houses like match boxes. The sound of wood splintering and crashing could be heard easily amid the thunder of the waters.

"The flood drove like a giant steam roller right through the middle of the residential district and was still going full force when it hit the business section.

"Where houses and buildings stood a day ago there is now a corridor about as wide as the Sacramento River. And there is a river going through.

Nurses Consider Registering For Emergency

HALIFAX, July 6 (CP).—Delegates to the 19th general meeting of the Canadian Nurses' Association today considered the possibility of registration of all nurses to meet any emergency that might arise.

Miss R. M. Simpson, O.B.E., of Regina, president of the association, last night urged delegates not to wait "until the confusion of the call when it may arise." Qualified nurses should be registered with the Department of Militia and the Red Cross, not with the thought of war, but in the event of any major disaster.

A report of the health insurance and nursing service committee was presented at last night's session and described the subjects presented by the committee before the royal commission on Dominion-provincial relations.

Points emphasized in the submission were that nursing services should be one of the benefits in any plan of health insurance and that the Canadian Nurses Association should organize so definite leadership in all matters pertaining to nursing could be given under a federal policy or under a provincial policy in any one of the provinces.

Voluntary Associations

Dr. M. M. Coady, director of extension courses at St. Francis Xavier University, Antigonish, N.S., addressed the delegates and suggested formation of voluntary cooperative associations for medical care.

"The field of medical knowledge is so wide today that no individual doctor can hope to cover it thoroughly," he declared in addressing the association. "And because the average wage earner cannot possibly budget for uncertain sickness, even as for the certain needs of food, clothing and shelter, and because severe sickness is an economic catastrophe to him when he must pay for it as an individual, he in turn must associate himself with other individuals in order to obtain adequate medical care at a reasonable cost."

Dr. Coady said "we have ploughed back into the earth the fruits of an abundant research because we have been unable to distribute them to the needy masses. The answer? Socialized medicine—cooperative and voluntary wherever possible, state and compulsory wherever necessary."

T. L. Church Improving

A cheer came from the Ontario section when joint chairman John R. UacNicol announced he had received a message of regret from T. L. Church, member of parliament for Toronto-Broadview, who was unable to attend. He said Mr. Church was ill but was recovering.

Mr. MacNicol drew another cheer when he announced there now were more than 1,800 delegates and alternates registered. This was the largest number, he said, ever to be accredited to a national political convention in Canada.

Mrs. George Black, M.P., for the Yukon, her youthful appearance belying her 72 years, was introduced as the delegate from the most distant point in Canada from Ottawa. She said she had received an invitation yesterday to be "president of the youth movement in the Yukon."

To the youth of the convention, Mrs. Black urged the acceptance of leadership responsibility and she advised them not to go too far to the "left" nor lean too much to the "right," but to seek that middle course which was the way to progress and the maintenance of democratic principles.

Gordon Graydon, member of parliament for Peel, forecast a Conservative victory in the next election and declared there never was greater need in Canada for a united and powerful national Conservative party.

A Happy Day.

Mr. Heon, in opening his address, said he looked forward to the day when English and French speaking Canadians could forget all differences of language, creed or racial origin. French Canadians were essentially conservative, not only politically but in tradition, customs and aspirations.

"No man has a right to pass judgment on the loyalty of French Canadians in view of their great contribution to the welfare of the Canadian Nation," Mr. Heon said.

"French Canadians were defending Canada for the British Empire from oppression a long time before the forebears of some of our other friends were in Canada.

"If you are of the opinion French Canadians are separatists, remove it from your mind. We believe in British institutions because we know what British fair play is. And we expect fair play in this convention—the same fair play we are getting from the country at large.

"The purpose of this convention woud be defeated if we were to be dictated to by anyone single person." Mr. Heon did not mention any person but added, "you can draw your own conclusions."

"If the conservative party is to be a party of clique it ceases to be what was intended by Macdonald and Cartier."

"The menace that this coliseum might be bombed yesterday has not disappeared," Mr. Heon said. He suggested the work could now go forward safely in an effort to solve the difficulties that have faced Quebec conservatives the past 25 years. "Give us a policy that will meet the views of all Canadians and conservative French Canada will be well represented in Parliament," Mr. Heon concluded.

Quebec Delegates Shy Off Meighen Defence Plea

Bennett Sounds Call For Unity, Reform; Delegates Start Nominations Tonight

OTTAWA, July 6 (CP).—Unity among the Canadian provinces and co-operation with the British Empire were the two themes considered by the delegates to the National Conservative convention which opened its second day's deliberations today.

These two keynotes were struck in addresses at yesterday's proceedings, the call for unity coming from retiring leader, Rt. Hon. R. B. Bennett, and the issue of Empire solidarity raised by Rt. Hon. Arthur Meighen, former leader and one who may today be nominated to succeed Mr. Bennett.

Mr. Bennett's appeal was made at a convention banquet last night and was unexpected since it was not known he was to speak. He sounded the call for reform and unity in much the same language used in his 1934 radio series.

Mr. Meighen, who shared with Sir Thomas White the honor of delivering keynote addresses at the opening session, scored the attitude adopted toward the Empire in the announcement by Prime Minister Mackenzie King last Friday that the United Kingdom would not be permitted to establish Royal Air Force training schools in Canada.

Last Minute Switch.

Senator Meighen said he had intended to speak of other matters, but had been prevailed upon at the last moment to discuss the present Government's attitude of "locking the door against Britain." He declared indirectly this should be an issue for the people to vote upon.

(A few hours after Mr. Meighen's address, Prime Minister Mackenzie King announced the Government had informed the British Government, Canada would furnish opportunities for training Royal Air Force pilots in Royal Canadian Air Force flying schools, which are under the jurisdiction of Defence Minister Mackenzie).

At the banquet, which was addressed by delegates representing all provinces, Mr. Bennett declared the issue before Conservatives and all Canadians was "stagnation or progress—reaction or reform."

He said dark forces were at work attempting to disrupt the unity of Canada and urged Conservatives to fight these forces. "Gallant men

Charge B.C. Rioting Laid In Cold Blood

VANCOUVER, July 6 (C.P.). — Mayor George Miller in a public address last night declared unemployed disturbances in Vancouver during the past two months were "engineered in cold blood" and organized months before they took place.

"This wasn't the work of hotheads," he said, speaking especially of the month-long occupation of public buildings in Vancouver which culminated in riots on June 19 when sit-downers were evicted from the Post Office and Art Gallery.

"The men responsible for it," said the Mayor, "admitted to me in my own office that their plans were laid last winter, while they and their misled followers were under the care and employment of the government."

The Relief Project Workers' Union which speaks on behalf of the jobless, was, the Mayor said, "fathered and fostered by the Communist Party and was even organized orginally by the Communists' travelling organizers.

Tory Convention Highlights

OTTAWA, July 6.—(CP).— A delegate at the convention is Captain R. V. Bennett of Sackville, N.B., a brother of Rt. Hon. R. B. Bennett.

Considerable discussion developed over the choice of the name for the new National Youth organization. The name "National Union of Young Canada Conservatives," proposed in the draft constitution, was rejected and replaced by that of "National Young Conservatives of Canada."

Everybody at the Conservative convention knows to-day one delegate has a girl friend. The delegate lost her last night among the 2,000 at the banquet. So the song leader announced over the loud speaker that so-and-so was at the platform looking for his girl friend. Would she please come up?

John G. Diefenbaker, Saskatchewan Conservative leader, coined a new term for a lost election when at the banquet last night he described the June 8 result in Saskatchewan as "the late unpleasantness."

The banquet last night, held in a building at the Ottawa Exhibition Grounds, was described by Chairman Hill as the largest ever held in one room in Canada. The "room" saw nearly 2,000 guests seated for dinner.

Joint chairman MacNicol disclosed some amusing angles of the convention when he said leader Bennett and Senator A. D. McRae of Vancouver, former general organizer, were among those who had difficulty registering.

Mr. Bennett forgot his credentials and had to be vouched for at the registration booth when officials did not recognize the party leader. General McRae had to return to his hotel for his credentials.

One delegate, acknowledging his credentials, wrote: "You will note I am an alternate delegate but when I arrive I will be a delegate-at-large. My wife is staying at home."

From Brantford, Ont., famous for pure-bred cattle among other things, the spokesman for three delegates wrote the convention committee: "Please reserve three stalls not too well bedded down for three bulls from Brantford."

Tennyson's verse appears on the back of the official program. It reads:

"May freedom's oak for ever live
With stranger life from day to day,
That man's the true Conservative
Who lops the moulder'd branch away."

Parliamentary rules govern the convention with the exception that ordinary speeches are limited to 10 minutes instead of 40.

With warmer weather predicted for to-day, the convention likely will turn into a shirt-sleeve affair. Some male delegates doffed their coats yesterday but when the convention and the weather really steams up the Coliseum the coats will come off in a hurry.

For the convenience of delegates, a branch of the post office has been opened at the Coliseum for the duration of the convention.

WINNIPEG GRAIN

WINNIPEG, July 6 (C.P.) — Strength in outside markets, relatively light offerings and a small export business contributed to firmness sas Winnipeg wheat futures checked a two-day decline to-day. Options were ¾ to 1⅞ higher with July 98, October 80¼, November 99¾, and December 78¼ cents.

Trading was dull and featureless throughout the session and apart from occasional buying from Southern interests and exporters, operations were routine and local. Export business was quiet.

Cash wheat received little attention as far as Red Springs were concerned. Spreads eased a cent and Durums showed improvement.

Barley led the coarse grains with exporters taking supplies. Oats, flax and rye advanced about a cent.

Mother Weeps With Joy As Son Returned To Her By Reporter

fried potatoes, johnny cake and huckleberries. He asked particularly for the berries, even though they had formed his chief means of sustenance for the previous five days.

Little by little we pieced his story together while he was eating. Jim Emmons understood his speech better than we, and translated much of it for us. He told us that on Thursday afternoon he went to the unfenced pastures land near the edge of his father's clearing to bring home the cows. He strayed into the woods and became lost. His dog Buster, a collie pup, ran away. He wandered about hopelessly, looking for some familiar landmark that would tell him the way home, but found none. At last he reached a river, Paudash Brook, and started to follow it because his father had once told him that if he followed it he would come out at a road.

Five Days Fought Way Through Underbrush

For five days he fought his way through the dense underbrush, following the river on its tortuous path. He lost his hat, his boots were ripped to shreds, his trousers were rent. He was continuously being scratched by thorns and branches of trees. He had to climb over tangled underbrush sometimes fifteen feet high. But still he would not leave the river.

Father Had a Hunch

Later the searchers said if he had left the shoreline and gone into the bush on either side he would probably never have been found. They admitted they could not have made the same trip. When they tried to follow the route, because the lad's father had a hunch his boy had gone that way, they had to cut their way through with axes.

Each night he lay down where darkness overtook him, tried to sleep until dawn to put off the agonizing fear that had come over him. Black flies and mosquitoes nearly drove him frantic. Still he kept following the river, always looking for the road that would bring him to civilization. He ate a few berries but they were not plentiful in the river brush and he did not dare leave it in search of more. He stripped balsam trees of their gum and chewed it to stave off the gnawing hunger that overtook him. When he reached home his hands were covered with the sticky gum. He had seen neither bears nor wolves, he said.

We made him rest for a while at Jim Emmons' home and I raced to Apsley to phone the good news of his discovery to the city editor of the Examiner, who relayed it to a waiting province through Canadian Press.

Worried About Cows

And then we started off for his home, travelling over almost impassable roads because his feet and legs were aching and we did not want to force him to walk any distance. His chief concern was not about the terrible experience he had undergone, but about his father's cows. When we told him that his father had found them he brightened up a little, but he had still another worry. All his clothing and even his shoes were in tatters and he did not know how he was going to get others. When we told him that someone will probably send him more he relaxed. "The trousers too," he wanted to know. "They were brand new."

He wanted above all else to be driven into Coe Hill for some chocolate bars. It had been eight days since he had been into town, he told us, and since he had eaten a chocolate bar. We wanted to take him there, but we knew that nearly a hundred men were still looking for him and that his mother would be desperate. We told him we would send him some at Rose Island Post Office. He wanted a mouth organ too, and we told him we would try to get him one. He was completely happy then and he started to sing, in a quavering voice, the only hymn or song he knew, "Stand Up For Jesus."

It was not until we were within less than two miles from his home that the boy knew where he was. It was then that the full realization of his safety came over him.

Mother Near Exhaustion

His mother came to the door of their little wilderness home when we sounded our horn. For five days she had stood helplessly by while men from all the surrounding country went in search of her boy. For five nights she had sat up, praying and hoping and worrying over this boy's fate. She was near exhaustion from lack of sleep.

She stood unbelieving for a moment when we brought him to her. Then she broke down completely. "God be praised he's safe," she sobbed. "God bless you men. Jesus did this. He'd never have been saved otherwise."

Long continued blasts from the horns of the newspaper men's cars around the house brought half a hundred searchers pouring in from the woods. Among the first to arrive was the boy's father, deep lines of worry and exhaustion apparent in his face. He walked quickly to his son, placed his arm around his shoulder ,and his voice broke when he spoke to him. A few minutes later his wife called to the searching party. "God bless every one of you far and near," she said to the weary men, most of who had been searching the bush from early dawn until late at night for days. They waited to hear the boy tell his story in sketchy form, then walked miles back to their homes.

The boy's dog, Buster, immediately recovered when he saw his young master once again. After the boy had become lost the dog was frantic, frothered at the mouth ,and had to be kept chained for the first time in his life. A few minutes after Elwood's return Buster was romping about the yard playing with the children.

A happy family slept last night in their wilderness hut in Haliburton county and today the pioneer settlers of that district settled back once again into their peaceful mode of living, content in the knowledge they had been good neighbors, had turned from their work to help friends in need.

Elwood Anderson, 17, who disappeared in the woods behind his home last Thursday night, was found on Tuesday afternoon near Clydesdale by Jack Peterson, an Examiner reporter, and Lew Parks, commercial photographer. In (1) Ernest Anderson, boy's father, meets his son. Does Your Breath Broadcast—"I WEAR FALSE TEETH"?

Play Safe—Be Sure—Use Polident

Most people who wear plates or bridges suffer from a special kind of bad breath. Dentists call it—"denture breath."

You won't know if you have it—but it can spoil your happiness. Friends will shudder—people avoid you! And the worst of it is that ordinary brushing cannot prevent it. Neither will mouth washes. For the odor comes from a mucin-scum that collects on plates and bridges. This scum soaks up germs and decay bacteria and causes a vile odor that you cannot detect.

One thing can stop "denture breath"—and that's Polident! This new brushless cleaner has won the approval of thousands of dentists. Users say it's a blessing.

Polident not only purifies false teeth—but also removes all stain, tarnish and deposits. Makes breath sweeter—plates look better and feel better. Costs only 40¢ at any drug store and lasts for many weeks. Money back if not delighted.

Cleans, Purifies Like Magic

Put plate or bridge in ½ glass of water. Add a little Polident powder. Leave in 10 to 15 minutes—rinse—and it's sweet and purified—ready to use!

Testing Chamberlain

Negotiations are progressing between General Franco and the British government regarding the bombing of British vessels which entered ports of Spain with contraband of war. These negotiations are closely allied with the policy of Prime Minister Chamberlain, and they may even mark the turning point in his career.

Following the bombing of the British vessels there was an immediate demand for reprisals. It did look for a time as though nearly every organization and individual in Britain was calling out for the same thing—revenge. Vessels flying the British flag had been openly attacked and sunk, and if that sort of business were allowed to continue there would be no respect any place for the flag and no meaning to it. If public opinion plainly expressed had been able to have its way there would have been a war on at once and Britain would have been involved in the Spanish affair.

It was then that Prime Minister Chamberlain was put to the test. He had other views. His contention was that firms operating vessels carrying war cargoes to Spanish ports knew in advance of the risks involved; they knew also of the great profits which they hoped to take from this business, and Mr. Chamberlain was not at all certain regarding the length of time some of these vessels had been under British register. Reduced to few words his belief is he is not justified in bringing on a war to protect British ship owners who are profiteering from the Spanish struggle, but he would be ready to go to war to protect British liberty.

One cannot say with assurance what section of British public opinion Mr. Chamberlain has with him, but it is certain the attacks against him are starting to cool off after people have had opportunity to think the matter over. An incident of that sort is interesting not only to London but to the Empire since there is a strong feeling that when Britain is at war then the British Empire and all its constituent parts is also at war. If public opinion as strongly expressed in Britain in favor of reprisals in Spain had had its way then we would have had war. And why? Because some ship owners in order to make large profits were carrying war material to Spain and claiming the protection of the British flag in their exploits. We believe Prime Minister Chamberlain will emerge from this situation a stronger man than ever.

Make Use Of Our Lift Lock

The suggestion has been made a good many times that the lift locks if operated regularly during the summer and tourist season would be a splendid attraction. We are quite certain such would be the case. There are scores of people who come here and ask to see our lift locks. The individual who takes them on the tour of inspection generally has to be content with a bit of explanation telling how a boat pulls in on this side and then is hoisted the full 65 feet up to the level of the lock above. But at best such an explanation is not entirely satisfactory. A demonstration would be so much better.

The Examiner believes that if arrangements were made to have a boat going through the locks here at regular intervals in the summer there are many who would want to take the trip, evan a short one, just for the experience of going over the big locks, and they would be willing enough to pay for the trip.

It is a matter which the City Council and the Chamber of Commerce could well take up. It is an experience which cannot be had any other place in the country, and it is probable the department which operates the Trent Valley waterway system would be pleased enough to lend their assistance in making this possible.

It May Cause Friction

Fifteen dollars per day will be paid to members of the committee of the Ontario Legislature who sat for 11 days to investigate affairs of the Ontario Hydro Commission. Nothing will be paid to Attorney-General Conant or Provincial Secretary Nixon.

We are moved to doubt whether the results were worth the expenditure which will be around $1,500, but it does raise the larger question of how much investigators or probers should receive.

Ottawa has the habit of naming commissions and some of the gentlemen who receive preference in appointments are paid much more than $15 per day; they generally receive travelling expenses and living allowances of from $20 to $35 per day as well as their fees, so this $15 per day example is one which may cause a degree of alarm in the ranks of probers and members of commissions in general.

We do not know what the union rate of pay is for this class of work but we are certain the gentlemen in Toronto are now wide open to the charge of fellow-probers elsewhere that they have been working below the proper scale of wages. We can well picture what a federal prober with a living allowance of $35 per day would say to a man in Toronto who had been receiving but $15 per day and buying his own meals.

Mussolini At a Threshing

Benito Mussolini is at least a good showman and undoubtedly a great leader of men. When it was time to put the wheat through the threshing machines in one section of his country he was on hand. He was not merely a spectator, but when the work was to be started we read that the Premier stripped himself to the waist, donned a pair of dark glasses and started to help the farmers with the threshing. It may have been his way of officially marking the beginning of the wheat harvest.

He also made a speech, the gist of which was that Italy would not purchase wheat from the "so-called democracies even if bread necessary for life had been lacking." It is recorded his address was received with cheers. The idea of Mussolini as participant in a threshing is good enough, but his speech was not so good. It was made in order to make his people see that the policy of self-sufficiency was the one they must follow. He does not pursue that policy when he seeks to build a war machine because he knows if he had to depend on home resources his war machine would amount to very little.

We are quite certain we can grow better wheat in Canada than the Italian farmers can produce on their own acres; our wheat will make better bread and we also believe we can produce it and sell it to Italy at a price which would make it more profitable for the Italians to devote their acres to crops more suited to their climate. The reason why Mussolini insists on wheat production in Italy is the fear that in case of war the supply might be cut off. He did not state that to the farmers at the threshing, but was content to say he would not purchase wheat from the democracies even if Italy were short. It is a twisted conception of the manner in which the world has been created and it ignores entirely the variation of climate and the plain fact that some countries can produce things which others cannot. We might as well say in this country that we will have no tea or coffee unless we can produce them at home; that we will have nothing to do with cotton goods because we cannot raise cotton and that we will deny ourselves oranges, lemons, bananas, and spices in general because they do not grow within the confines of our own borders. It is not a policy to which a reasonable man would ask a reasonable people to subscribe.

The Value of a Farm

We heard the other day of a farm which had been difficult to rent and impossible to sell and the reason was not hard to find. All the people in the district seemed to know the place and there is nothing unusual about that as such knowledge is general. Farmers in a section know what other farms are producing; they know what yield is secured when the grain goes through the threshing machine. This particular farm did not have a good reputation and it was all summed up in the few words—it's rather badly run down. And that is not a reputation which makes a place desirable.

The productivity of land is a far better basis for computing its value than is the acreage. We can think of farms of 100 acres with 15 or 20 acres in bush which are doing better for their owners than others of 150 acres. We have reason to believe that the soil testing movement is going to play a large part in determining the future value of farm land. When a farmer goes to the trouble of having his land tested, finds out what is lacking and then proceeds to so fertilize it that its original strength for production has been restored—then indeed he has done something which is adding to the value of his property. If he wanted a purchaser he has placed himself in the preferred list because the purchaser would know that he could start to work with the assurance that the land was capable of returning to him a reward for effort he would place upon it. There are few people who would care to start farming a property which had the reputation of being "rather badly run down," and the wise man with limited means at his disposal and with a fair knowledge of the outlay he would have to make would probably never try it. The strength of the land determines the value of the farm.

Dropping the Hyphen

Badges and programmes used at the gathering of Conservatives in Ottawa do not bear the wording "Liberal-Conservative," and that is a good idea. That hyphenated name has never meant a thing to the Conservative party. It has been confusing without being helpful.

It appears likely that National Conservative will be the new name, and for general usage the word Conservative will likely become assertive, although there is significance in the word "National" at a time when sectionalism is running high.

The wonder is that the old name Liberal-Conservative has remained as a term of designation for so long a time. Very seldom has it been put in actual usage; the average speaker at a political rally does not make use of it, and it seldom comes to the front in the debates in the House of Commons. So dropping the title will not not create a feeling akin to losing an old friend.

The Dog Went Home

A rather interesting question has been raised in connection with the search for Elwood Anderson, the youth of 17 years who was lost in Haliburton bush country from Thursday until the following Tuesday. He went to bring up the cows and along with him went his dog. Later in the evening the dog returned home but the youth did not, and it is said that efforts to try and get the dog to start again toward the bush to aid in the search for the lost Elwood were unavailing.

We have heard the claim advanced that a dog will not necessarily remain with its owner after night sets in. When it came time for the dog to go home it started off and was able to make the trip, showing that its sense of direction was accurate, but it went regardless of the youth who had gone out a short time before with his dog. Had the boy been able to follow the dog he could have found his way home readily enough.

We were informed of another individual who went into the bush in the fall with a couple of hunting dogs, but they did not long remain with or near the hunter. One of them picked up a scent and was off and he did not return until late the following day.

The experience of Elwood Anderson whose dog left him and went home raises a rather interesting point of just what the average dog would do under similar circumstances. Is the instinct to go home at a certain hour in the evening greater than the desire to stay with the individual whom the dog has been accompanying?

NOTE AND COMMENT

What a mess we would have in this country if we put into effect everything which everybody suggests for the curing of our troubles.

In political circles it looks as if the old flag is to receive more prominence than it did throughout Canada on Dominion Day.

According to a Toronto newspaper the citizens have the right to call the tune in civic matters. Well at least there is no doubt about them having to pay the piper.

When the haying season is on the eight-hour day gets sadly neglected. It looks more like one eight-hour day before noon and then another in the afternoon.

Britain is arranging to loan Turkey $80,000,000. When the world wants money the custom is to start toward the door of one John Bull who always seem to have some left.

It is reported there is a horse at Bayfield, Ont., which chases autos along the highway. Well didn't the cars start this in the first place by chasing the horses off the highways?

When the liner Ascania went on the rocks in the St. Lawrence it had $1,500,000 of gold on board. That is not particularly new as a number of people who have been trying to carry too much gold have also gone on the rocks.

One man gets a two-year sentence for conversion of $140,000; another in the same province the same sentence for the theft of a club bag from a hotel. The Attorney-General does well to ask for a reconsideration of sentence in the Martin case.

Cars used by the Board of Education in Toronto will have a sign painted on them showing they are the property of the Board. The reason is that the cars have been used to transport people to and from afternoon bridge parties. In that case we would advise marking the cars with very large letters so they could be easily read.

COUSIN EZRA

(By A. R. K.)

¶ My Cousin Ezra grows so tired, his energy is easy mired, he craved a little rest; he'd go and visit Uncle Jed, and he'd spend many hours in bed, a thing that he likes best.

¶ There is a hammock in the shade, it's long and deep and firmly made, no need to cramp the knees; and Ezra figured when out there, he'd lie and sniff the country air, be tickled by the breeze.

¶ But Jed was working pretty hard, when Ezra pulled up in his yard, was taking in the hay; so Jed explained about his haste, and said he had no time to waste, told Ezra where to stay.

¶ So Ezra rested up his spine, was feeling good by supper time, he joked with Uncle Jed; then Jed just showed him round the barn, and pointed places on the farm, before he went to bed.

¶ Next day why Ezra heard him knock, upon his door at six o'clock, they'd have their breakfast now; and Ezra couldn't up and claim, that he had come to rest his frame, they put him in the mow.

¶ And Ezra registered surprise, his spine got lots of exercise, he was all in by noon; I haven't heard what Ezra said, but it is running in my head—that he'll be home quite soon.

Jeering Unwise For The British

(New York World-Telegram)

TODAY IT IS MUCH the fashion in liberal circles to shy brickbats at Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain of Great Britain for his efforts to stave off war. We find that very strange.

Ever since the World War peace conference most of us have felt that the Treaty of Versailles was unduly hard on Germany. We have suggested revision in her favor, foreseeing that without it she might one day strike out to get what she wanted by war.

Now Great Britain, one of the chief beneficiaries of the treaty, has produced a leader—a Tory, at that—who agrees with that viewpoint. Mr. Chamberlain also is convinced that Germany may not be entirely without grievance. Yet the moment he suggests doing something about it in order to preserve the peace of Europe a tempest is raised against him. He is charged with truckling to the dictators.

Similarly, liberal opinion the world over has felt in the past that Britain was a bit too ready to make use of her might. On the slightest provocation, it seemed, she cleared her decks for action. If anyone said "Boo" to her subjects, her ships or her interests anywhere, an ultimatum or something close to it was forthcoming immediately.

That was no way to promote world peace, we all said. Why not arbitrate? Why run the risk of war, in which everybody would lose?

Yet today, because Mr. Chamberlain doesn't order out the British Navy to force General Franco to stop the bombing of contraband-laden ships flying the Union Jack, some liberals jeer him for a sissy. Most of these ships, Mr. Chamberlain says, have only recently come under British registry. Mostly foreign controlled, they are now using the British flag to help pile up monstrous profits in a business which the British government regards as shady at least.

The attitude of certain American liberals is particularly inconsistent. They insist that our own citizens and our own ships should be ordered out of all the war zones, and warned that if they disobey they do so at their own risk.

We don't like the jeers at Mr. Chamberlain. As he has said, another world war would almost certainly mean the end of civilization as we have known it. That is what he is trying to avert. If war comes despite his efforts, at least tommorow's millions of dead cannot chide him with having engaged in it lightly.

YOUNG LOVE!

(New York World-Telegram)

LAST WEEK was a wonderful time for love, even if wealthy parents with plans of their own did have to take it on the chin.

First was the attractive young Andrea Luckenbach, 18, daughter of the shipping magnate, who let nothing prevent her marriage to young William F. Dobbs. The bridegroom sells butter and eggs for a commission firm in order to earn a living and is notable as a gentleman rider.

Commodore Luckenbach, the bride's father, would have nothing to do with the wedding. The first clergyman approached declined to perform the ceremony "because social and financial status is at such variance." But a lot of difference that made! Fortunately the young woman inherits an independent fortune from her mother.

Then there is the romance of Rosemary Webster, just out of St. Lawrence University, daughter of a fashionable surgeon, who had her own way in marrying Paul Gilson, son of a Canton, N.Y., tailor and bookkeeper in the county home for the poor. The headstrong bride stands to lose $1,000,000 and the bridegroom's salary is $1 a week, but they have kept their serenity.

"She need not come home," stormed her father. "He is not of her social or financial standing."

There are tears in such weddings—which is too bad. But with all the world loving a lover our guess is that the outbursts of socially minded parents will get scant public acclaim.

KING CANUTE.

(Letter in London Observer)

SIR.—HISTORY tells us that King Canute sat upon his throne on the sea shore and commanded the waves to go back. The village folk of Bosham in Sussex tell a different story.

Their version is that King Canute, who lived at Bosham, lost his little daughter, she fell in the Bosham creek and was drowned, her remains being placed in a small stone coffin and buried beneath what is now the parish church of Bosham. After his sad loss, King Canute ordered earth-works, since called "chairs" to be built around the creek, thus to prevent the sea from encroaching; and to lessen the possibility of anyone else sharing the fate of his little daughter.

These "chairs" may still be seen on the green, situated between the church and the creek at Bosham. The "chairs" are grass covered identures, in shape not unlike a horseshoe. This, to me, seems a far more feasible story than that of King Canute "commanding" the waves to recede.—Yours, etc.,

DIGGING into an Indian burial mound in western Kentucky, Mrs. Blanche B. King, an ethnologist, has found the skelton of a prehistoric man surrounded by 625 large beads and five axes of solid copper. We smile as we think of the simple savage who must have spent most of his lifetime accumulating that store of copper from the distant mines near Lake Superior in order to have it withdrawn from use and buried with him. Our wisdom is so much greater than his.

• Why Reporters Look That Way

(By Ernest L. Meyer in New York Post)

VERY OFTEN groups of visitors are led through the plant of this newspaper on a tour of inspection. They have a habit of circling around the desks in the editorial room, gazing at the reporters, rewrite men and the circle of copy-deskers with intense curiosity and some suspicion, while the kindly guide assures them no one will bite.

The managing editor, who is encased in an individual cage at one end of the room, is the object of special interest. Fascinated strangers line up in front of the glass pane and look at him with mouths agape as if he were the blood-sweating behemoth, as, indeed, he sometimes is. Often they try to feed him jelly beans and peanuts, but this is against the rules in our zoo, they really should not do it.

It is no wonder that visitors find newspaper workers strange specimens. They are strange. A newspaper reporter is a stranger even to his own wife.

Once or twice a month she may get a fleeting glimpse of him. He works all day, and almost every night has a special assignment to cover the latest riot in Jersey City. And he always wears a harassed and uneasy look as if he were standing on a baked potato.

Reporters and column writers are curious by the very nature of their profession. They work feverishly all day to get their stuff into print and next day see their literary out-put used to wrap up discarded carrots and ham bones at the kitchen sink.

There are other things that tend to make newspaper workers cynics. They have come into contact with explosions, fires, divorces, murders, Congressmen and other calamities. And thus they have seen life.

If you see a men blown to bits or hauled out of East River with piano wire around his windpipe, that's life. You've seen all there is to be seen and might as well fold your hands in teernal sleep and call it a day. But the newspaper reporter can't quit. He has to keep right on seeing life even when it becomes stale as old biscuits.

The only thing that fortifies him is the pious hope that tomorrow he will see something fresh, something unusual and thrilling, as for example, Colonel Lindbergh eloping by aeroplane with the Duchess of Windsor and crashing in mid-Atlantic, hitting and sinking a small tramp steamer carrying six members of the United States Supreme Court fleeing to Europe after having declared the constitution unconstitutional.

But these phenomena are unluckfly rare, so the seasoned reporter goes around looking critical and bored and talks bitterly of ending his life swiftly by asking for a raise.

• Mothers Who Work Long Hours

(Letter in Montreal Star)

SIR.—WE HEAR lots of sentimental piffle about poor overworked employes in grocery stores. I wonder if any of your steamed-up correspondents ever stopped to think of the thousands of hard working mothers, with a family of from one to five children, who are kept busy from seven in the morning until evening in the care of their children and home, and are not at liberty to go shopping for the household groceries until either the children are in bed or the husband has returned from business. If they did, I do not think they would want to deprive these splendid women of the great boon of being able to shop at night, in peace and quietness. Anyone knows how even one small baby can tie a mother to her home from morning till night, in a round of constant watchfulness and care, and when there are three or four children the task is a gigantic one to say the least.

Perhaps the women members of swank clubs do not know what it means to bring up a family, unaided. The grocer who keeps open at night is a boon to the whole neighborhood; and the man-made law of closing at seven, is made for the men, not with a thought to helping the many times overworked mothers. It is the lot of the mother that needs lightening, for she is the backbone of the nation; she does her Herculean task unpraised and unsung, without benefit of unions, or of fussy club members. So, ladies, save your breath, in singing a dirge to the grocers employes—and change the tune for a pean of praise to the drudges, who are so today, that Canada may have sons and daughters tomorrow. Shop employes work is child's play compared to this.

I hope they bring out a new law that all stores (departmental stores, too), keep open until 11 o'clock one night a week; as tribute to the mothers of the country. Then perhaps, mothers could have a little fun, too, and enjoy a shopping tour for herself, instead of in the few moments she can spare from her home, always shopping for her children. Here's to night shopping for the Mothers!

"FEMINIST."

• Where The People Have No Choice

(New York Times)

IN REOPENING the oratorical war on the capitalistic countries, President Kalinin of the Soviet Union put forward one very strange argument. He spoke of the bad quality of the goods so often turned out in his country. In the capitalist world, he tells us, the explanation would be easy: "Rascals—they want to make a profit on rotten things." "But in our country bad quality can be explained only by heedlessness." So here, apparently, lies the real blessing of communism—goods will still be rotten, but there will be a more amiable reason for it.

Mr. Kalinin, however, went on innocently to suggest the real explanation of Russian heedlessness in production: "Even now in some places they say: 'Oh, well, they'll wear it anyway—they'll eat it anyway'." And why will they wear it or eat it anyway? Because such as it is, it's the best they can get. The State has a monopoly.

Under capitalistic competition, on the other hand, as Mr. Kalinin could have explained to his audience, but did not, the manufacturer has no such assurance that people will eat it or wear it anyway. His market is never guaranteed: It may be taken away from him at any time by a competitor who makes a better article or one as good at a cheaper price. Therefore the manufacturer cannot be "heedless," or afford to hire "heedless" workers.

We do not need to keep appealing to his patriotism or his social conscience to turn out better goods. With occasional exceptions, bad goods react chiefly against himself.

All of which may help to explain why, in spite of the 'wickedness' of the profit system, the quality of goods it turns out is notoriously better than those in Soviet Russia.

BARBED WIRE WALL.

(New York Sun)

NEARLY $450,000 is to be spent in Palestine in constructing a barbed-wire wall along the frontier where Lebanon, Syria and Trans-Jordan impinge upon Palestine in the hope that Tegart's wall, named after Sir Charles Tegart, is prime advocate, may be effective in keeping smugglers, agitators, gun runners, terrorists and fugitives from justice from using the border zone as a base of operations.

A despatch to the London Times from Jerussiem says that specifications of the plan call for fifty miles of barbed-wire fence varying in construction according to local conditions. The standard barrier apparently will consist of two parallel fences six feet high and five feet apart.

Each of the fences will have meshed wire at the bottom and barbed-wire above, and the space between the two fences will be criss-crossed with barbed-wire and filled with loose masses of wire. Where local conditions call for an even more formidable barrier than this there will be three parallel fences.

A Bible Message For Today . . . .

AND THE FIRST day of unleavened bread, when they killed the passover, his disciples said unto him, Where wilt thou that we go and prepare that thou mayest eat the passover? And he sendeth forth two of his disciples, and saith unto them, Go ye into the city, and there shall meet you a man bearing a pitcher of water: follow him. And wheresoever he shall go in, say ye to the goodman of the house, The Master saith, Where is the guestchamber, where I shall eat the passover with my disciples? And he will shew you a large upper room furnished and prepared: there make ready for us.

And his disciples went forth, and came into the city, and found as he had said unto them: and they made ready the passover. And in the evening he cometh with the twelve. And as they sat and did eat, Jesus said, Verily I say unto you, One of you which eateth with me shall betray me.

And they began to be sorrowful, and to say unto him one by one, Is it I? and another said, Is it I? And he answered and said unto them, It is one of the twelve, that dippeth with me in the dish. . . .

And as they did eat, Jesus took bread, and blessed, and brake it, and gave to them, and said, Take, eat: this is my body.

And he took the cup, and when he had given thanks, he gave it to them: and they all drank it. And he said unto them, This is my blood of the new testament, which is shed for many.—Mark xiv, 12-20, 22-24.

ON RETIRING.

(Glasgow Herald)

IF A MAN enjoys his work, and he is physically and mentally equal to doing it efficiently, there are very good reasons why he should go on working. And these reasons are reinforced in the case of men who are so single-minded that their work is also their hobby. But for the most part, and particularly today when the means of recreation and amusement are so readily available in so many different forms, the average man, one imagines, would be happy to retire at 60 if he were able to continue living in modest comfort. The old conception of the dignity of labor has been weakened by the introduction into offices and factories of machines that can do as much work in a day as a man can do in three. Work has become in many ways less satisfying to the individual than it used to be. Craftsmanship has decayed, and one cannot expect a workman to take so much pride and pleasure in operating a machine that manufactures a single unit as his grandfather did in making the whole job himself by hand.

FEW BOYS HELP.

(London Sunday Dispatch)

THE DEAN of Johannesburg complains bitterly: "I wonder if there were ever such parents as those of this generation who give so much and receive so little.

"Few boys when they have started working, contribute part of their salaries towards the running of the home. Few sons, when they leave home, bother to write to their mothers."

From the day when Canaan angered Noah after his unfortunate experiment with the product of his vineyard, there have been sons who have lacked in sympathy and affection towards their parents.

From the same period there have been children whose conduct to their parents has been above reproach. Countless grown-up children are keeping their parents today.

Good and bad have been mixed since time began.

Generalizing deans, however, are a modern menace.

DOOR OPEN TO CANADIAN CRICKETERS FOR TEST MATCHES

R. C. Matthews Describes The First Test

(By Hon. R. C. Matthews.)

Great is Wally Hammond, England's cricket test match captain. The capture of three wickets by Australia for 31 runs in England's first inning, constituted a crisis. You could feel it in the air at Lord's. The Aussies' speediest bowler, McCormick, taking the longest run I have ever seen a bowler take, had wrought havoc and every one of the 35,000 spectators felt it. England's great opening batsmen, Hutton (Yorkshire) and Barnett (Gloucestershire) had fallen before the lightning speed of McCormick, and so had Edrick, the brilliant young batsman of Middlesex.

With only 31 runs in hand for the loss of three batsmen from whom much was expected, England was filled with horrified silence and gloom. The men in the clubs looked at the sports ticker and walked away and said nothing. The Australian side on the ground at Lord's was visibly elated. But Wally Hammond was now in, cool, confident, and unhurried; he took up the heavy responsibility resting on him. His masterly batting was faultless and finished in style. In vain did Don Bradman vary his attack with Australia's more destructive bowlers, McCormick, O'Reilly, Fleetwood-Smith, Stan McCabe, and Chipperfield. Speed and spin were alike to Wally. He played them all with equal ease and perfect timing, and turned disaster into security.

All-time Record.

At the close of play on the first day his score stood at 210, and England went to bed and slept easily, feeling that Hammond was a real captain and England's answer to Bradman. The following morning, after a half-hour's play, he was bowled by McCormick, but he had made an all-time record for England in a test match. He rescued England just as Stan McCabe's 232 at Nottingham two weeks earlier had rescued Australia. Paynter (Lancashire) was effective and useful with his 99, and Ames (Kent) played soundly for his 83.

Barnett was the only other English batsman to achieve double figures in the first inning. Seven English players made less than 10 runs each — Hutton 4, Edrich 0, Compton 6, Verity 5, Wellard 4, Wright 6, Farnes 5 (not out); average slightly more than 4 runs.

So that at a glance it is seen that England's runs (494) in the first inning were mainly a contribution of the elder statesmen. Brilliant youth failed, but will be heard from later. And England this week is deeply grateful for her captain, Wally Hammond, whose name will be familiar to succeeding generations of cricketers and cricket lovers.

Australia's first innings yielded 422, against England's 494. But Don Bradman had made only 18 and Stan McCabe 38. It looked like a collapse for the Aussies because even they tell me they depend on these two great bats. In the circumstances 422 was a most creditable score, and it interested and bothered England. But Brown had plugged away, not with Hammond's perfection of style, but he stayed in spite of fast, medium and slow bowlers, and carried his bat for 206, out of the total of 422.

Then England came on again and the cricket was a bit damp and wearing. Five wickets, including Hammond's, were down for 76. But Paynter (Lancashire) 43, and Compton (Middlesex) 76 (not out), and Wellard (Somerset) 38 helped to raise the score to 242, and at this point, with 8 wickets down and nearly three hours of play left, Hammond declared, and Australia went in for the last effort.

Wicket Favors Bowlers.

The wicket favored the bowlers and Hammond's instructions were to keep down the score. Runs came slowly owing to the marvellous bowling of Farves (very fast) and Wellard, Verity, Wright and Edrich. In the first two hours less than 60 runs per hour were recorded. But Bradman took advantage of every loose ball and the crowd stayed to see him till the close of play at 6.30. His fine strokes were applauded. Four times he was hit by balls from Farnes, and once he had to retire for repairs to his right hand, but came running back cheerfully. With shots only Bradman can make, he scored his fourteenth century in test matches—a record. The spectators gave him prolonged applause.

In this second inning the Australians scored 204 runs for 6 wickets before close of play. Bradman was still batting and going strong. The match was a draw. Never has Lord's in its long history had such crowds. Each day the gates were closed before the game began, and the crowd stayed all day and until the last ball was bowled.

The press has devoted headlines and thousands of columns to the test series between England and Australia. No money could buy this publicity, and our sister Dominions who enter the series with England are the beneficiaries. The door is open to Canada.

England's Wally Hammond Hammers Aussie Bowlers

Wally Hammond, England's cricket Test match captain, is pictured making a forward stroke off the Australian bowler O'Reilly during his brilliant first innings against the Antipodeans in the second Test meeting. Hammond batted flawlessly for over five hours to score 210 not out and stem a collapse of the British batting, threatened when the first two wickets fell for meagre scores. A crowd of 31,000, including King George, watched the match. Australia forced a draw as she did in the first Test. Three more matches remain to be played.

Wreckers Take Belleville Into Camp 10-9

(Examiner Correspondence.)

HAVELOCK, July 6. — The Havelock Wreckers, Junior O.A.S.A. 'B' champions of last season, defeated the Aajma Juniors of Belleville, 10-9, after eleven hard-fought innings, yesterday afternoon. This exhibition softball tilt was the best witnessed at the local park this year. The local boys avenged themselves of the defeat 5 to 4 in Belleville some two weeks ago. The teams were exceptionally well matched with Havelock showing superiority in the hurling department with Brunton their star pitcher on the mound.

Belleville used three hurlers, Bailey pitching the first six stanzas, being relieved in the seventh by Yarrow, who was followed by Carson in the same inning. Carson finished the game.

The visitors went ahead in the early part of the game, and were leading by 3 runs at the end of the fifth, the score being 5-2. Havelock came back strong, however, in the seventh, four runs crossing the plate and at the end of the usual nine innings of play the teams had battled to an eight-all tie.

Both teams were scoreless in the tenth, but in the first half of the eleventh, O'Neill, Belleville's first sacker, crossed the plate for the visitors, putting them one up. Going into the last half of the eleventh with the heavy end of the batting order up, Joe Peters proved himself the local hero, driving in the tieing run with a nice triple, and then crossing the plate with the winning counter on a wild pitch.

The teams:

Havelock — McMullen, lf; Ketchen, c; McCutcheon, 2b; Puffer, 1b; Peters, 3b; Moore, cf; Kennedy, rf; Pollock, ss; Brunton, p.

Corinthians Eliminated By Brintons

Many of the original players who turned out for the first game in the Father Phelan Trophy tie did not make their appearance last night to complete the Corinthian team, thereby making it easy for the Brinton Athletic team to go into the final against the Canadian General on Saturday afternoon by the score of 8 to 1, before a large attendance of fans.

Lacked Training.

Right from the kick-off Brinton team were out to register their first goal, after five minutes of play, through N. Downer. Eventually the Corinthians found their feet and attacked repeatedly to find the Brinton custodian unbeatable. It was evident at this point that the veterans were showing the lack of training against the fast-moving forward line of the Brintons. They broke fast inside the Corinthians' defence to add to their total when N. Downer rattled a shot in below the crossbar. This was followed by Leether scoring the third counter. Two more players arrived on the scene for the veterans to complete, but it was too late to redeem themselves, because the winners added another to make the score stand: Brinton 4, Corinthians 0, at half-time.

Brinton Increase Count.

After a fifteen-minute respite, the players started to alter their style of play to open up the game, which resulted in the winners outplaying the Corinthians in every department to finally register four more counters in break-aways, which proved the downfall of the experienced one-back experts who many times showed the younger element the finer points of the game. Seven minutes before the finish, the Corinthians were awarded a penalty which Tom Westwood converted after having three attempts. Final score: Brintons 8, Corinthians 1.

Corinthians — J. Rishea, goal; T. Westwood and Bert Wade, backs; D. Best, J. Wade, and Art Bromley, halves; W. Curtis, J. McMaster, W. Rankin, J. McDougall and G. Lovett, forwards; sub., J. Hodson.

Brinton Athletic — J. Crannell, goal; J. Adams and A. Downer, backs; Art. Downer, E. Jones and J. McLeod, halves; S. Clark, J. Richardson, N. Downer, D. Leether, and E. Adkinson, forwards.

Referee— T. Foster.

LOCAL LACROSSERS AND BROOKLIN BATTLE TO HOT 7-ALL DRAW

Costly Penalty Against Petes In The Third

Brooklin and the Petes of the O.L.A. senior "B" group battled to a 7-7 draw in overtime last evening in Brooklin. It was the Petes' second draw of the season and they surprised the powerful Brooklin bunch by holding them even on their own floor. A fair-sized crowd saw the redhot gutter-stick fixture.

Play was rough, fast and exciting from start to finish. Brooklin presented a big bunch of speedy, experienced players who laid on the gad with a vengeance. The Petes fought back hard and the referee was kept busy throwing the combatants off in pairs. There were 17 penalties passed out with the homesters guilty 10 times, many of the punishments being for fighting. A 10-minute penalty to Ira Dundas for fighting, while his opponent was given only five, cost the Petes three quick goals in a lively third stanza.

The score was 1-0 for Peterborough in the first frame, play being close and heated all the way. The locals had a 3-1 edge over the home aggregation in a fast second stanza. The Brooklin boys went to town in the torrid third, aided by the costly penalty to Dundas, to gain a 5-1 period margin over the visitors. Again in the fourth frame, it was hot and had the place in an uproar as the Petes shaded their opponents by 2 to 1, with the count tied up at full time, the teams tore into each other bitterly in the overtime heat but were unable to tally in 10 minutes extra time.

All Go Good

All the Petes looked good in this fracas, with Magee, Crowe, Worthy and Chute especially strong. They checked in fine style and were always dangerous on the attack. The rest of the gang sparkled most of the route, too, but some of the players found it tough to keep up with the fast-stepping homesters who played a rough brand of lacrosse as well as keeping at a high speed. On the night's play, the score was a good indication as the homesters were extra fast and the Petes clever in close, but were outlucked on several goals. Kivell, Grice and the Vipond brothers shone for the Brooklin crew. Both goalies looked fine.

Magee scored the first goal on Crowe's pass, and then King tallied from Whitton. Crowe counted alone and Worthy scored from Whitton. Kivell got through alone, with Crowe making another effective solo rush. Saunders blazed one into the local hemp and then, with Dundas off, L. Vipond snaked his way in fast three times for smart counters. Grice got another later, with Magee evening up that one. Saunders tallied once again, but Crowe took Magee's pass to tie up the count, and it remained that way. Brooklin penalties were drawn by Grice, L. Vipond (2), B. Vipond (2), Armour, Ormiston and Saunders (3); while locals who drew the referee's ire included: Dundas (2), Chute (2), Miller, Magee and Vitarelli. The teams:

Petes: Goal, R. Creighton; defense, Chute and Sloane; centre, Dundas; wings, King and Worthy; rover, Whitton; alternates, Miller, Loucks, G. Creighton, Vitarelli, Crowe and Magee.

Brooklin: Goal, Clark; defence, Grice and Stephen; centre, Armour; wings, B. Vipond and W. Vipond; rover, Kivell; alternates, Cook, Bovin, Cooper, Ormiston, L. Vipond, and Saunders.

Referee, J. Johnston.

Digging Up the Local Dirt With the Odd Chuckle or Two

By CEC. PERDUE

UNLESS JUPE PLUV. is turning it on tonight, a senior ball game will be staged at 6.15 p.m. in Riverside Park. Between Oshawa GM-men and the Petes in a C. O. B. L. fixture. We wouldn't go so far as to say it will be the last senior baseball seen here this year, but it is possible. Provided the loop folds, though there is still hope of something saving the situation this week. Anyway, fans can bank on a nifty scrap between two good clubs, which are tied on wins and losses so far this year. Jake Biddle is expected to twirl for the GM-men, 1937 loop champs and O.B.A. finalists, while Gunner Whitehill or Joe Jakaiby will toss 'em across for the Petes. The game should draw a big twilight crowd of fans and femmes for a classy contest.

* * * * * *

FROM THE KINGSTON sports column comes this anecdote regarding the springtime hunt in N'Yawk for C. O. B. L. players: "Officials of the Ponies went across the border to get a player who had been recommended to them. They had him packed in a car ready for delivery when the player remarked that he had been stopped at the border a week previous when he was on his way to join a team in a place called Peterborough. The player is still in the States probably wondering why he was not brought to Kingston!" Well, Niagara Falls seniors are using two twirlers from the U. S. right now.

LET US AGAIN remind those interested that the annual reorganization meeting of the Peterborough Hockey Club will be held tomorrow (Thursday) night at eight bells in the Chamber of Commerce. It is wide open and players, officers and fans are invited. Election of officers and general discussion of plans will take place at this gabfest. Probably the Petes will operate in either senior "A" or senior "B" this coming winter in the O. H. A., and we will again have a junior "B" squad in competition. 'Tis quite doubtful if the club will operate another intermediate team as the fans won't support senior and intermediate clubs both in this town. A bit too much O. H. A. play. Some $300 worth of equipment is on hand for the incoming executive, we are informed.

* * * * * *

ORFUNS' RUGBY CLUB "booster" will be a week from this Friday at seven o'clock in the Empress Hotel, and everyone is urged to get a ducat and attend. At six bits a throw, tickets being sold by Ed Riley, Brooks Grill, Playmor Sports, Empress Hotel or executive members. All plans will be pdesented at this feed and officers elected. Lots of grid applications rolling in these days. Latest one we've heard of was by a 221-pound former Montreal player, aged 24, who stood six foot two! Bill Flack was his name. He is still in the district on the prowl for a job.

FINAL GAME OF the senior playoffs in the Church Softball League is tonight at 6.30 in the Oval between George St. Majors and Mark St. The titular trophy will be awarded the winnah, and the boys can then call it a season—and a very good one, too. Mark St. won the first of the three game serial by a 22-8 score and the Majors came back to cop the equalizer by a 14-9 count. So along about dusk this evening, the Ashburnhamites may be termed Ashburnham-and-eggers, or the George St. Boys may be the Minors! No admission charged, of course, for the church softball struggles, and some of 'em rate pretty high in entertainment, softballically (whee!) speaking.

OUT AT KEENE yester e'en, a gals' softball fixture was run off with the Keenesters taking a 7-2 decision over C. G. E. It was the Electrics' first game in the second-half schedule. Bea McDowell pitched a winning game against Marilyn McCarthy. Lindsay lasses tangle with the C. G. E. crew tonight at 7.15 in the Bowl, whilst Keene and Lindsay ladies mix it up at the East City saucer on Friday. With Westclox away on vacation, there will be quite a scramble among the other three teams to pile up a lead heading toward sectional playoffs. The Alarm Lasses look strong again and made something of a parade of it in the first half, but Keene C. G. E. and Lindsay are likely to bolster and be tough this half.

* * * * * *

THEY'RE GOING to have exhibition men's softball game in Lindsay on Wednesday eve, July 13th, between a Scugog squad and a police team from Toronto. Nine husky coppers will be on hand for the tilt, and no doubt there will be plenty of other coppers in evidence when the hat is passed. Wonder if those ex-baseballers from Peterborough, P. C. Art Lepper and P. C. Bud Murray of the Toronto force, will be playing. We have half a mind (now, no cracks, plizz) to go up to Lindsay that p.m. to mingle with the fans and from time to time yell at the law in a piercing voice: "Come on, you, keep moving!" or "Pull over to the curb; where's the fire" or maybe "Tell it to the judge!" Lots of fun, what?

BROOKLIN AND THE Petes battled to a 7-7 tie in overtime last night in Brooklin, it being a torrid O. L. A. senior "B" scrap. And we mean scrap. Locals came limping home feeling fairly lucky in holding the rugged Brooklin boys to a draw, though a one-sided penalty to Ira Dundas for fighting gave Brooklin a break and three goals. Those Brooklin lacrossers are about the toughest in the group, being husky, experienced and awfully fast. It kept our fastest players hustling to keep up with 'em but in a return match here the Petes probably will pull out a win. As the Petes are tough at home They tackle another strong squad here this Friday night when Orangville, either atop their group now or in second place, make the trip to Peterborough. Fans can look for great big gobs of action at this tilt, and no fooling.

* * * * * *

HITHER AND YAWN: Kingston Locos have been re-instated by the O. B. A., but the Ponies have disbanded for the season. . . . We do not expect to see the Ponies back in the C. O. B. L. for some years to come—provided there is a Central Loop. . . . Likely Oshawa and the Petes will arrange a playoff series after tonight to see who enters O. B. A. playdowns; nothing new now. . . . Toronto Leafs are interested in Schoolboy Mussel, a Pennsylvania pitcher now twirling for Niagara Falls. . . . George Scott isn't kicking on the Petes' 7-7 lacrosse tie last night, as he figures Brooklin one of the toughest senior "B" squads in the O. L. A. . . . Ab Tonn, who played junior hockey in Oshawa last year, may go to England this winter. . . . If anyone here is interested, the Seigniory Club in Quebec is holding its seventh annual hoss show Thursday with entries from all over Ontario. . . . Motorists are in Omemee tonight for a men's softball setto, and the Motorists play a Southend Loop team at the Bowl on Thursday. . . . Frank (Lefty) McNally likes Peterborough a lot and is pretty downhearted these days at the thought he may have to leave. . . . Ponies blame "nearby neighbors" for their trouble; would that be Napanee? . . . One puck officer here suggests more uptown merchants ought to act on the local hockey executive. . . . See ya at the ball game—and don't act like it was a wake with you viewing the remains!

Cricket Results

LONDON, July 6. (CP Cable).—Yorkshire lost a chance to hand the Australians their first county cricket defeate since 1912 Tuesday when heavy rain forced drawing of stumps at the luncheon interval, ending a three-day match that started Saturday.

At close of play yesterday Yorkshire needed only 150 runs to give the Aussies their first beating of the current English tour. In today's play, H. Sutcliffe, Yorkshire's hard-hitting batsman, rolled up 36 runs, not out, to add to his team's total of 83 runs for three wickets, when the match was abandoned.

Yorkshiremen dismissed the Antipodeans for totals of 222 and 132 previously, scoring 205 in their first stand at the wickets, T. F. Smailes, fast-medium trundler, took six Aussie wickets for 92 runs in the first inning and put out four for 45 in the second.

Rain yesterday resulted in many drawn games being played in the current county cricket series. Hampshire defeated Essex by 227 runs, while Gloucestershire took first inning points from Glamorgan. Similar decisions went to Middlesex over Worcestershire, Lancashire over Nottinghamshire and Kent over Derbyshire.

Surrey also won first inning points from Sussex, Warwickshire from Leicestershire and Somerset from Northamptonshire. The annual match between Oxford and Cambridge Universities at Lord's was drawn. Closing scores:

Surrey, 547; Sussex, 250 and 22 for no wickets; at the Oval.

Kent, 201 and 70 for two wickets; Derbyshire 116 (Wright, six wickets for 32 runs); at Buxton.

Glamorgan, 113 and 151 for three; Gloucestershire, 163; at Neath.

Hampshire, 195 and 323; Essex, 117 and 164; at Portsmouth.

Lancashire, 441 for seven, declared; Nottinghamshire, 209 (Hardstaff 61, Jona 58, Wilkinson five for 72) and 32 for two wickets; at Manchester.

Somerset, 352 and 101 (Gimblett 105, Timms four for 21); Northamptonshire, 246 and 221 for seven (Nelson 67, not out, Brookes 50); at Kettering.

Warwickshire, 348; Leicester, 175 and 263 for eight wickets (Armstrong 62, Thursting 94); at Burmingham.

Middlesex, 346 and 85 for four, declared; at Worcester.

Oxford, 317 and 126 for six; Cambridge, 425; at Lord's.

AUBURN, Ont., July 6 (CP).—George Hallam, West Wawanosh, has a pig with five legs. The fifth leg was not noticed until the pig was eight weeks old.

Shiners Die Off

HAMILTON, Ont., July 6 (CP).—Thousands of dead fish, shiners, litter the beach here and bay waters, making swimming almost impossible. No explanation has been advanced for the death of the fish.

Pennant Choice Still Toss-Up In Each League

This three day suspension of regular major league activities for the All-Star game affords, among other things, a good chance to check up on the state of the pennant races.

Right now it looks like a case of pay our money and take your choice with three or four teams in each league within striking distance of the top and New York Yankees and Pittsburgh Pirates playing the best ball in their respective circuits.

New York Giants, still leading the National League by 3½ games, and Cleveland Indians, tied with the Yanks for first in the American, still are reaping the benefits of early-season spurts. Chicago and Cincinnati and possibly Boston in the National League are close enough to be dangerous while Boston Red Sox in the American may start going places any day now.

The Giants won 18 of their first 21 games this season and the effects have been far reaching.

Jack Doyle, Broadway's astute "price maker" has reduced them from 8-5 to even money in the mid-season quotations.

Although the Cubs managed to take first place at one time, the current Pittsburgh threat is the most serious the Giants have had to face. On June 7 the Buccos had a .500 average. Since then they've won 18 games and lost five—and just at the time they're supposed to take their annual nose dive.

Life Yet in Chicago.

The Cubs, Reds and Bees all staged their early season spurts and dropped back but Chicago can be counted on for one good long winning streak nearly every year. The Reds, after climbing to second, have lost six straight to Pittsburgh and Chicago.

The Yankees' current war cry is, "We've just begun to fight," and in the light of previous performances, that looks like enough. They won nine straight before the Senators checked them with a tie Monday.

Counting out their early rush to the top, the Indians have been playing close to the .600 mark, enough to keep them in the fight anyway. The Red Sox, after a brief fling at the lead, settled back to a steady third-place gait until last week. They've started coming again with six victories in their last seven starts.

Local Lady Golfer Gets Thornhill Cup

Again the Peterborough Golf Club ladies stepped into the golfing limelight at the invitation ladies' tournament at Thornhill, Toronto.

Mrs. J. E. Esson won the challenge trophy for the best net, her score 99-36-63 being the best in a large field.

The Peterborough ladies also won the team prize for teams of four players. The team players were Mrs. J. E. Esson, Mrs. H. Waddell, Miss L. Lyle and Miss L. Parsons.

The best gross prize went to Mrs. E. H. Gooderham of Toronto, score 76. 2nd best net won by Mrs. MacDougall, her score being 81.

At the Peterborough Golf Club.

C.L.G.U. day, a nice field of ladies teed off for the spoons which were awarded for the best net and the best aggregate for the even numbered holes on the 1st nine holes.

The best net spoon was won by Mrs. Clarke with a score of 76. This is a very good performance.

Mrs. F. J. Hall won the spoon for the even holes, her score being 17.

HOCKEY CLUB MEETING.

A meeting of the Peterborough Hockey Club, including fans, players and any one interested in hockey for season 1938-39, will be held Thursday night, July 7th, at 8 o'clock in the Chamber of Commerce. All interested are asked to attend.

BASEBALL FOLDS UP AND SOFTBALL THREATENED IN KINGSTON

Suspension Has Put Ponies Out For The Season

Following are some comments by the Kingston Whig-Standard columnist on the recent baseball trouble which resulted in the Ponies disbanding for the season:

"Just how far the suspension of the Ponies and Locos reaches is a problem facing Kingston sports today as all softball in the city may be complicated. The suspension of the Ponies by the Ontario Baseball Association for using an ineligible player included the Locos when the teams played an exhibition game and there is a fear here that the ruling automatically takes in all sports under the supervision of the recently formed Ontario Federation, which means the black listed players cannot play softball or any game under the jurisdiction of the federation.

"If the baseball association suspension is also enforced by the federation it will complicate the Kingston Softball League as several of the suspended ball players on the Ponies and Locos also play softball.

"Alderman Art Casterton, who is the convener for the district for the Ontario Softball Association, tried to get a ruling from the provincial secretary by long distance phone yesterday but was unable to get information so he exercised his authority in issuing temporary permission to the suspended players to play softball. The suspension may affect three teams in the Kingston softball league. Kiwanis Grads with Cuthbertson and Udell, Tanners with Scrutton, Boneham and Webber, and Dukes with N. Collins, Mercer and Boone."

Ponies Are Parted

"There were not any changes in the conditions of the suspension over the week-end. Although Ernie Gibbard of Napanee, phoned to say that he had received word from the O.B.A. secretary that the suspension against the Locos had been lifted. No official ruling from the O.B.A. since the telegram suspending the Ponies, had been received here. The Ponies have definitely disbanded and four of the players have left the city. Herb Handford, the Napanee Queen's student, moved to Toronto last week, while Tony Paczkowski, Ed Pollar and Johnny McIntyre went to the States on the week-end in hopes of catching on with teams across the border, ruining any chance of the club being reorganized this season.

"The Locos are not sure if they are under suspension or not. Ollie Oleson, manager of the team, claims he has not been notified of any suspension, except what he learned from a Napanee dispatch in the newspapers. He wrote to W. J. Snyder, secretary of the Ontario Baseball Association, explaining the Locos case and also asking permission to sign some of the suspended Ponies for the intermediate team. The Locos claim they had permission from Ken Colling, president of the Bay of Quinte League, and O.B.A. representative, to play the suspended Ponies, if Ed Pollar, the ineligible player of the Ponies, did not play, while Staff Hammond, who is representative for Kingston on the O.B.A. also granted a sanction for the game.

"A big part of the trouble has been caused by a misunderstanding, according to Kingston Ponies officials, who claim they did not receive any notice from the O.B.A. that Pollar could not play and the O.B.A. secretary insists he advised Max Swanson, president of the Central Ontario League, that Pollar was ineligible. Officers of the Ponies say they were not informed about the O.B.A. ruling and were abiding by an agreement made by the Central Ontario Leagues teams to complete the schedule with all signed players and if the O.B.A. objected then any players who did not qualify for provincial playoffs would be dropped after the Central schedule."

Lost Games Financial Loss

"The original suspension of the Ponies was only until the next meeting of the Ontario association but officials of the Kingston club claimed they would lose several games while waiting and the financial loss would be impossible to make up and no matter what followed the club would loose money on the season.

"Only by playing every scheduled game with a few exhibitions and a favorable break from the weather man could the Ponies make any money on the year. The suspension deprived the Ponies of a chance to make money in an exhibition game in Brighton July 1, prevented what promised to be a good gate here last Saturday and another game here tomorrow. The three games, had they been played, would have helped the club get much needed money to continue. The loss of them forced the disbanding of the club."

Hard Hitter

CLIFF CADD

Lanky first baseman for the Petes, who will be seen in action here this evening when the GM-men play at Riverside Park. Cadd is turning in a good fielding chore at the initial sack and hitting the ball hard.

Gomez To Duel Vander Meer In All-Star Tilt

By Gayle Talbot
(Associated Press Sports Writer.)

CINCINNATI, July 6—(AP). — The elite of the baseball world as of the current year, clash on Crosley Field here to-day in the sixth annual All-Star game between the American and National Leagues.

At 2.30 o'clock (E.D.T.) they come together, with Senor Lefty Gomez of New York Yankees smoking them across for the American leaguers, and his opponent the sensational young Johnny Vander Meer of Cincinnati's own Reds. It is the fifth time that Gomez, the curving Castilian, has started for the Americans, and he has three victories to his credit. Vander Meer, the only pitcher in big league history to hurl two no-hit, no-run games in rapid succession, is making his first appearance in the mid-season classic.

It promised a hot contest in perfect baseball weather. The American leaguers, with four victories in five previous shotgun encounters, were pronounced favorites at 8 to 5 to trim their inter-league rivals again. The Nationals, their ears still burning from a magazine article this Spring that classified them as minor-leaguers, were pretty grim about the whole business.

A Packed Stand.

There wasn't any doubt about the crowd. The home-like little field was certain to be pack-jammed to the utmost of its 28,000 capacity, with the last 2,000 standing in the aisles. There have been applications for a total of 142,000 seats, which gives an idea of the tremendous appeal of to-day's tableau. Many residents of Cincinnati haven't seen an American leaguer swing a bat since the ill-starred "Black Sox" series of 1919.

Two Powerful Machines.

The rival managers for the second straight year, Bill Terry of the Nationals and Joe McCarthy of the Americans, announced their starting line-ups late yesterday. They lead powerful forces on the field to-day, each club with an over-all batting average of well over .300, and with top-flight pitchers read for duty.

Terry's line-up is the obvious one, including as it does the leading sluggers of the National League. McCarthy crossed up the experts by appointing Mike Kreevich of the Chicago White Sox, a comparatively weak hitter, to start in left field, when he might have used either Roger Cramer of Boston or Bob Johnson of the Athletics, both superior hitters, in the position.

It didn't off-hand, look quite an even match in the hitting department, but the National League adherents consoled themselves with the roseate possibility that Vander Meer, Carl Hubbell and then Mace Brown of the Pirates would stand their big-muscled adversaries on their collective ears.

That has been the story of the All-Star games ever since they started—much to the regret of the National League. It has been National League pitching against American League hitting. Except in one instance, the hitters have had the final word. It might turn out differently to-day, but the gamblers didn't think it would.

However they come out, there will be at least one more All-Star game. It is set for Yankee Stadium in New York next summer, the exact date to be agreed upon at the winter meeting. If the National leaguers lose again to-day, there may be difficulty in getting them to continue the game after 1939.

Take 3 Gomez

Here is how they will line-up at the outset to-day, with the individual batting averages:

Position will be exchanged after 4½ innings.

Nationals, Carl Hubbell, New York; Bill Lee, Chicago; Paul Derringer, Cincinnati; Jim Turner, Boston; Mace Brown, Pittsburgh.

Too Late There, Mr. Kuhel—He's Got the Ball

Joe Kuhel, first baseman with Chicago White Sox, is just beginning a slide in this action shot at second base in a Yankee-White Sox game. Joe's flight through the air was unsuccessful, however, as Joe Gordon, Yankee second-sacker, as can be seen, has the ball in his hands, waiting for Joe to arrive. Those legs in the back ground belong to Yankee shortstop, Frank Crosetti.

Lefty Gomez Out of Baseball Slump, Yankee No. 1 Rooeter Back in Park

Lawyers for both sides said the couple were seeing each other, and that Miss O'Dea, known as No. 1 Yankee rooter before her separation suit last May, was back in her ball park seat with zestful cheers for "Lefty."

In her suit, Miss O'Dea charged the southpaw hurler with plenty of speed but no control in his home life. Simultaneously, Gomez went into a slump in the pitcher's box.

But apparently he had both angles under control to-day, and his attorney, Lowell Birrell, admitted the suit might end with nothing more than a couple of errors chalked up.

Fergus Defeats Brampton 15-12

FERGUS, July 6.—Spurting in the final quarter of last night's Ontario Lacrosse Association senior battle Fergus Thistles took full advantage of the numerous Brampton Excelsior penalties to frame a 15-12 victory.

A pair of goals by the veteran Rusty White with T. Sargent and W. Henderson adding a brace of points provided a substantial working margin. Twice while the visitors were short-handed Fergus men brought Savage to time. Arthurs bagged two of the three Brampton markers of the period with DeGray contributing the other.

In each quarter the Excelsiors started the scoring, but they never held a lead at the close of a period. After the first half of the opening canto the Thistles were headed only once and that in the third period. At the first intermission and again at halftime, the locals held a single goal lead. This was increased to two in the third quarter.

L. Anderson led the Fergus scoring parade with three tallies and an assist with W. Henderson a close runner-up with three goals. Brown and Dean snared two each with Muir, Chambers, White and Sargant the other Thistle goal-getters.

Bill Thompson paced the losers, with four perfect drives recorded. Bill Anthony and Gowland and Arthurs beat Tott twice each. G. Thompson and DeGray singled.

2 Crack Marksmen Score Perfects In Rain

BISLEY CAMP, England, July 6 —(CP Cable.) — Cold and rain threatened the Empire meeting of the National Rifle Association, going into a second day Tuesday with crack military marksmen here from Canada and other parts of the Empire in competition with the domestic experts.

Despite the miserable shooting conditions Major T. Moore of the Small Arms School and Sgt. E. Hallauer of the Rhodesian team recorded perfect scores of 35 in the Southern Railway match, seven shots at the 200 yard range. The Canadians were well down the lists.

Sgt. N. L. Beckett of Hamilton, led the Canadians in the Southern Railway shoot with 31. Sgt. P. M. Gibault of Vancouver had 30, Lieut. William Ewing of Montreal and C. G.M.S., H. C. Hawes of Hamilton 29; T. W. Gregory of Ottawa and Capt. T. E. Hayhurst of Windsor 28, Lieut. Steve Johnson of Calgary 26 and Lieut. G. A. Moleson of Vancouver 25.

A score of 31 out of a possible 35 in the Kinnaird match at 500 yards was the best Canadian score, registered by Lieut. Molecey. Hawes had a 30, Johnosn 28, Gibault and Beckett 27, Hayhurst 25, Gregory 24 and Ewing 21.

Much interest is being shown in the new competition fired in connection with the first stage of the King's Prize next week. This is the King's Veterans, for marksmen over 65 years of age.

One of the beterans in this match will be Lord Cottesloe, 76, who has figured in National Rifle Association prize lists for the past 56 years. Lord Cottesloe has long been a vice-president of the N.R.A.

O'Brien Is Ousted In Tennis Singles

OTTAWA, July 6 (CP).—Four brilliant young racquet wielders today loomed as favorites for the men's open singles title as play in the Ontario tennis championships resumed on the Rideau Lawn Tennis Club courts.

A major upset yesterday saw Bill O'Brien of Montreal, eliminated. The McGill University intercollegiate singles champion was downed by Hugh Hender, former Hamilton city champion, 5-7, 6-2 6-4.

While O'Brien was being shoved to the sidelines Lewis Duff and Dr. Georges Leclerc both of Montreal, Gordon Robinson of Niagara Falls, Ont., and Phil Pearson of Vancouver, all earned third-round berths with smashing victories and established themselves as favorites for the singles title.

Duff, a Montreal boy playing for University of Miami, and Robinson, Canada's sixth ranking player, had little difficulty winning their matches.

Leclerc scored his second straight triumph without loss of a game at the expense of D. E. Jamieson of Smith's Falls, Ont., while Pearson stole the show with a hard-earned 7-5, 7-5 victory over Eddie Barrette of Ottawa.

Keene Girls Win Over C.G.E. 7-2

(Examiner Correspondence.)

KEENE, July 6. — Keene girls defeated C.G.E. here last night in a slow, listless game by the score 7-2. Bea McDowell pitched good ball for the winners, and received good support to blank the visitors until the eighth innings, and two runs scored on an error. M. McCarthy pitched steady ball and did not get good support. Fielding features by Mongraw and G. Nelson and a nice double play by Miller to Bell. Batley in centre for C.G.E. played nice ball. The line-ups:

Senior Ball Game Here This Evening

Weather permitting, Oshawa GM-men and the Petes will clash here to-night (Wednesday) at 6.15 o'clock in Riverside Park in a C. O.B.L. contest. It is a playing off of the July 1st postponed fixture, which was rained out, and rain-checks will be accepted. A huge crowd is expected to see the 1937 league champions and the locals mix it in this twilight tilt, especially as there is the Wednesday half-holiday to let store workers off at noon. In two previous clashes this year, the Petes lost the first and won the second, and they hope to cop another victory over the Motor City outfit. It promises to be a real ball game all the way with plenty for fans to cheer about.

The league leadership is at stake this evening, though the Kingston Ponies are reported to have dropped out of competition for this year, following their suspension by the O. B.A. It is possible that the two remaining teams (with the Petes dropping Doll and McNally) will arrange a play-off series right away to see which team goes into O.B.A. senior playdowns. While the Petes will miss the left-hander and third baseman, they still stand a fair chance of knocking off the GM-men who are also weaker this year. Probably Whitehill or Jakafby will twirl to-night against Biddle.

New York—Ginger Foran, 130¼, Liverpool, England, and Johnny Cabello, 129½, New York, drew (8).

Toronto Rallies In Ninth To Trim Bisons

The way Baltimore Orioles are going now, manager Bucky Crouse will have to pull something close to a miracle out of his hat if he expects to get his team into the International League playoffs this season.

Last year Bucky turned the trick of driving a last place team into the post-season series when he replaced Guy Sturdy in mid-season as manager of the Orioles. This season Bucky started from scratch with high hopes but the extra-curricular activities of some of the regulars and their subsequent trading cost the Orioles plenty of their vaunted power.

The Birds, as the result of a 13-game losing streak in early June, skidded from second to eighth place and apparently haven't recovered from the doldrums despite a considerable shaking up. They lost their sixth straight of a new losing spell when they were beaten 4-3 by Syracuse Chiefs last night and dropped back into the cellar again.

Toronto Maple Leafs moved past the Orioles by rallying in the ninth inning to score five runs and defeat Buffalo Bisons, 10-7. The Bisons' defence cracked wide open in the last inning as Greg Mulleavy and Sam Dueker made three of their five errors in that frame.

Despite their loss, the Bisons remained 10 games behind the league-leading Newark Bears who took a 11-7 pasting from Jersey City Giants.

Buddy Rosar, the Bears' belting backstop, was knocked unconscious when hit on the head by a pitched ball in the fifth inning, but x-ray plates showed no fracture and he may leave with the Bears when they go on the road tonight.

Montreal Royals broke a five-game losing streak by edging out Rochester Red Wings 11-9 in an 11-inning contest. The Royals scored twice in the 11th inning on Norm Kies' double to break up the ball game. Sammy Bell and Ab Wright clouted homers for the Royals while Frank Morehouse belted one for the Wings.

150 Will Compete In Sculling Regatta

MONTREAL, July 6 (CP).—Approximately 150 scullers, including oarsmen from Toronto, Brockville, Ottawa and St. Catharines, Ont., clubs will compete Saturday in the Eastern Rowing Association regatta at the Lachine Rowing Club, it was announced last night.

It will mark the first time competitors from the St. Catharines club, where the Royal Canadian Henley will be held this summer, have visited here. Announcement was also made that Bob Pearce of Hamilton, Ont., world's professional singles sculling champion, will attempt during the meet to break his world's mark over a three-mile course.

Court Convened Ln Living Room At Bridgenorth

The living-room of a Bridgenorth home was transferred for a few minutes Tuesday afternoon into a court room and from her bed where she lay suffering from injuries received in the traffic accident that was being investigated Mrs. Pearl McManus of Bridgenorth gave evidence that was the principal factor in securing an acquittal for Maurice Tolton, charged with reckless and drunken driving on Highway 28 on the night of May 13.

A considerable amount of the evidence in this case had been heard in Cobourg last week by Magistrate W. A. F. Campbell the crown's case being complete, with the exception of the testimony of Traffic Officer Broughton who was absent on holidays and the case was adjourned until Tuesday to the county court room here as it was expected that Mrs. McManus, a witness for the defence, would be able to attend.

Yesterday, however, Hon. G. N. Gordon, K.C., counsel for Tolton, reported that Mrs. McManus could not come to the court and suggested that the court adjourn to her Bridgenorth home for the purpose of hearing her evidence. Accordingly Magistrate Campbell, his court stenographer, Col. Boggs, Crown Attorney for Northumberland and Durham who prosecuted, Mr. Gordon, the provincial officers, the accused and the press motored out to Bridgenorth and the court re-assembled in the McManus home.

When the session opened in the county court Provincial Traffic Officer Broughton gave his evidence as to the accident in which the Tolton truck and another car figured on the night of May 13 and as to the condition of the accused on that occasion, testifying as other crown witnesses had done that Tolton was drunk on the night in question.

Moves For Dismissal

When the Crown's case was completed Mr. Gordon moved for dismissal arguing that there had been no evidence to show that Tolton was driving the truck when the accident happened.

Magistrate Campbell decided that a statement allegedly made by Tolton to Traffic Officer McClure en route to Cobourg was sufficient to justify putting the accused on his defence.

Mrs. Pearl Tolton, wife of the accused was the first witness called by the defence and swore that she had driven the truck from Port Hope that night and was driving it at the time of the accident. She said that after the crash her dress was saturated with gasoline from the gasoline tank beneath the driver's seat. Mrs. McManus sat next to her and her husband on the right hand side. Witness stated that the truck was on the right side of the road when the collision occurred.

Cross-examined by Col. Boggs, Mrs. Tolton admitted that when seen by Officer Broughton in St. Joseph's Hospital on the night of the accident she had stated to him that her husband had been driving. She had made that statement because she herself had no permit to drive.

The accused took the witness box in his own behalf and testified that his wife had driven the truck from Port Hope to the scene of the accident. He himself had sat on the right hand side with Mrs. McManus in the middle. After the accident he had told his wife that he would say he had been driving the car because he was anxious that she should get away to the hospital as soon as possible as she had been hurt.

Could Not Remember

To Col. Boggs he declared that he could not remember telling Officer Broughton in the police station that he had been driving at the time of the accident.

When Mrs. McManus was examined at her home she corroborated the other two defence witnesses in the statement that it was Mrs. Tolton who had ben driving at the time of the accident. She remembered Officer Broughton being at the hospital but told Col. Boggs that she could not remember what he had asked her or what she had answered because at the time she was under the effect of a hypodermic.

When the court assembled again at the court house Officer Broughton was re-called by Col. Boggs and stated that at the hospital Mrs. Tolton had said that her husband had been driving and that when Mrs. McManus was asked to verify that statement she said that she would do so.

Magistrate Campbell in dismissing both charges against Tolton said that he had been principally impressed by the testimony given by Mrs. McManus. He commented upon the fact that in motor cases nowadays there is becoming noticeable a disregard for the truth comparable to that existing in the old days in liquor cases.

ENO KEEPS YOU COOL

If this hot weather leaves you limp and exhausted, it's a sure sign of an overheated body. The natural thing to do is to take an effective alkalizing corrective like Eno's "Fruit Salt", which gently removes sluggish wastes which overheat the body, neutralizes excess acid and cools you through and through.

Eno contains no sugar, nothing harsh or harmful and forms no habit. During the hot weather drink Eno morning, noon and night, or whenever you feel the need for a refreshing alkalizing drink. Its pleasant "Fruit Salt" tang drives thirst away instantly: right away you feel clean and cool deep down inside.

Eno is the original alkalizing corrective and for years and years Eno in water has been the favourite refreshment among white residents in the sizzling tropics. It's a natural way to keep cool!

Fresh Rebel Troops Attack 12 Mile Front

HENDAYE, July 6 (A.P.). — Insurgent troops fanned out into the foothills of the Sierra de Espadan Mountains, natural defences of Valencia, and attacked government positions along a 12-mile front to-day.

As General Franco's drive down the coast gathered momentum, heavy reinforcements were reported rushed to the front to take advantage of a series of defeats which forced government militiamen to fall back at four points.

Farther west, two other units followed ravines in an effort to pierce the mountains to capture Segorbe, 26 miles north-west of the Mediterranean port city.

Insurgent warplanes battered government positions in the De Espadan Mountains, easing the way for advancing foot troops who were forced to scale peak after peak under fire, and then drive out militiamen in hand-to-hand struggles.

Insurgent despatches said the government's main line defences were broken in at least three places in the mountains, while the coastal plain west of Nules was being raked with light artillery fire.

Four persons were killed and 20 injured yesterday in an insurgent air raid on the coastal village of Almenara, six miles north of Sagunto. One was killed and five were injured at Chilches, just north of Almenara.

Conservative Chieftains Meet In Ottawa

Here are eve-of-the convention snapshots of four prominent Conservatives whose names occupied the Ottawa spotlight as the national convention of the Conservative party got under way, its most important business the selection of a leader to succeed Rt. Hon. Richard Bedford Bennett. At LEFT (Top) Hon. R. J. Manion of Fort William, the favored candidate in pre-balloting comment, is shown as he gathered the latest information by telephone from his hotel room. Greeting each other, and perhaps wishing each other good luck on the convention floor are Denton Massey and Joseph Harris (LOWER LEFT), both of Toronto. J. Earl Lawson, another Toronto candidate, is pictured in his Ottawa headquarters with Mrs. Lawson, while at the LOWER RIGHT is G. Howard Ferguson, not a candidate himself, but interested enough to pore over the latest data as supplied by telegram. It was recalled that Mr. Ferguson's voice had much to do with naming Mr. Bennett the party leader at the Winnipeg convention of 1927.

1,100 Children Require Dental Service

A statement in the annual report of Dr. J. C. Green, school dentist, that there are over 1,100 children in the local Public schools who needed dental attention during the past year and did not receive it caused considerable concern when it was read to the Board of Education at Tuesday night's meeting.

"There were 1,110 pupils," said this section of the report, "who needed dental attention and who did not get it. The above number of pupils is a grave health problem that needs something done about it. With our limited time at the school clinic we cannot do anything to cut that number down."

Members of the Board were unanimous in their opinion that this was a serious matter and that the attention of parents should be directed to it so that the situation might be improved.

It was explained that the great majority of these children were from families financially capable of having the necessary dental treatment given.

The Board decided to secure a report as to ho wmany of the children were indigents as these were felt to be the first responsibility of the Board. However, it was pointed out by John R. Marshall and other members that there was a duty also in connection with the other pupils.

The feeling was that now that the summer holidays have arrived that parents should have their children's teeth attended to, especially when report cards have been sent showing the defects and the need of treatment.

Board Being Sued For $500 Damages

Hon. G. N. Gordon, K.C., informed the Board of Education in a letter read at Tuesday night's meeting that he proposes to sue the Board for $500 on behalf of Vivian H. Mills, 77 Park Hill Road on account of an accident he claimed had happened to the six-year-old daughter of Mr. Mills in the basement of the Queen Alexandra school.

Mr. Gordon's letter stated that the little girl had run against a thumb latch in a basement door and had received a cut between the eyes. He claimed that the injury had been treated with mercurochrome at the school without first being cleansed and as a result an infection had set in and as a result the girl would have a permanent scar. The teacher should have known, Mr. Gordon alleged, that as the latch had been touched by many hands, it would carry germs.

The Board decided to turn the matter over to its legal advisers.

Ireland expects a business improvement as a result of the Anglo-Irish Traded Agreement.

Deputations Are Given Precedence

"Reading of the minutes of the last meeting" has lots its priority in the business procedure of the city council, a position retained from the earliest of the municipal council and definitely placed first by a by-law passed on March 8, 1886. The council Monday night amended the by-law giving precedence to "hearing of deputations," which has customarily been third to the minutes and the reading of communications. Depending on his memory, City Clerk Armstrong said to-day a change was made when W. G. Morrow was mayor, including the hearing of deputations in the order as a regular detail of business. The present amendment proposed by Alderman Gordon is intended to avoid delaying citizens who attend meetings to present some petition to the council or on any other business on which they wish to be heard.

"I will either go on with the case hen or offer no evidence," he promised, and that course was decided upon by the court.

T. H. Boddy and V. E. Crebarr were assessed $2 and 75 cents costs on pleas of guilty to not stopping at Reid and McDonnel Streets, and J. Smith and Florence Trebilcock ere similarly fined, the former for double parking and the latter for angle parking.

Fall Wheat Is Ripening Fast

Farmers of the district will begin cutting fall wheat about the end of next week, Frank C. Paterson, agricultural representative, told the Examiner today.

"The crop is ripening nicely, very little of it has been flattened, and although you can't call it a bumper crop, it should certainly turn out very satisfactory," Mr. Paterson said. "The grain fields generally are looking fine, and another shower of rain this week would put everything in good shape.

Haying is proceeding steadily under favorable conditions, and within the next few days the great bulk of it will be in the barns. It isn't a big yield either, but it is pretty fair. The pea fields are looking a lot better than last year, and the crop for canning is now being harvested. The viners are working busily everyday, and you can say that the peas are going to be all right."

Mr. Paterson has been visiting quite a number of farms in the country during the last week, and although city people may consider that the crops are excellent, the Department's representative apparently has the farm complex refuses to give way to superlatives. His summary is that there is no bumper crop this season, but it is highly promising and with good weather it should be harvested in fine condition.

Meanwhile, the corn and root crops are making strong growth, and are getting a good start for the season.

Cerealist Plans Visit To County

L. H. Newman, Dominion cerealist of Ottawa, will discuss the new varieties of oats and barley that have been planted this season on the farms of Clarence Mann and Gordon Hancock at field meetings to be held next Tuesday evening, July 12. The first meeting will be at 6.30 o'clock at Mr. Mann's farm, and the second at Mr. Hancock's place at 7.15. The new varieties of grain were planted for experimental purposes to test their suitability to this area, and other qualities. The fields will afford an object lesson for visiting farmers, and Mr. Newman's talks should provide an interesting and helpful evening.

District Where Boy Wandered 5 Days

Mayor's Car Is First Over Test

Mayor Hamilton's automobile was first through the safety test on the Water street strip north of Dublin street, and came out of the scrutiny of his brakes and other equipment with an okay ticket this morning.

Others in the line were Aldermen Juby, Glover, Dutton, Chief Gimblett when the first test was made shortly after nine o'clock.

S. H. (Bud) Gooderham of Toronto installed the testing apparatus, and got the line of automobiles promptly started. Representatives of the Garage Owners' Association said they probably began too early, and that it might have been better to have delayed the work until ten to give the assistant mechanics from the local garages time to become familiar with the equipment.

The Police Department is co-operating in this week's effort to show the condition of all the cars from the city and district that are examined. After the test the car owner receives an "Okay" sticker or a ticket indicating what correction may be needed to brakes, lights, and so on. If he wishes to do so, he can have the adjustment made at his own garage and return for final approval at the safety strip. The testing service is free, and is intended chiefly to indicate to automobile owners the exact condition of the cars they are driving around the city and district and their factors of safety.

Roy Girven had plenty of mechanical help this morning, and the garage men will take turns in supplying the staff for the several phases of the testing.

Reporter's Dream Comes True With Finding Of Lost Boy

It was a newpaper man's dream come true for Jack Peterson and Lew Parks on Tuesday afternoon when they brought young Elwood Anderson back to his parents.

When they finished work at four o'clock this morning they sat back in their chairs at The Examiner office and roared with laughter as they recalled to each other the dismayed expressions on the faces of rival reporters who had camped at the scene of the hunt for two days waiting for the boy's return, when they drove to the boy's home with the five-day-missing youth.

"I wonder can we make the deadline," one of the Toronto paper men exclaimed.

"It's all right, boys, we phoned it in to The Canadian Press." The Examiner men answered in unison. And when the other men realized that they had spent two days waiting for the story to break, only to have it taken from under their very noses without a chance of even getting it in the same day's paper, it was too much for them.

The most bitter pill of all to swallow came when the Toronto men started the long journey back to Peterborough. They stopped at a cabin in time for a news broadcast from their own paper and heard the story they had been sent to get, come over the air with full particulars as to how rival reporters had broken the search.

Parade Route On July 12 Is Drawn Up

The route of the big Orange parade in Peterborough on Tuesday next, July 12, when the anniversary of the Battle of the Boyne will be celebrated here by thousands of Orangemen from all over the district has been decided upon after a conference between the Orange officials and the police department.

The lodges will assemble at Confederation Square and at 1.30 o'clock the parade will get under way, moving west on McDonnel street to Park street, south to Weller street to Monaghan Road to Charlotte, east on Charlotte to George, north on George to Murray and then east on Murray to Victoria Park.

In order to facilitate the parade and to avoid congestion the police department has drawn up special parking regulations for the occasion and citizens are asked to note these regulations and to co-operate with the police.

All cars must be off the south side of Charlotte street from Aylmer to George street, off the east side of George street from Charlotte to Murray and off both sides of Murray street from 12.45 o'clock until after the walk is over.

WEDDINGS

TWEED, July 6.—Forest Hill Gardens, Kitchener, was the setting at four o'clock on Saturday afternoon, of a lovely summer wedding, when Catherine Loise, daughter of Dr. Thomas J. McDowell and Mrs. McDowell of Milverton, became the bride of Dr. Morton Booth George of Madoc, Ont., son of Mrs. Arthur B. George of Toronto, formerly of Listowel, and the late Arthur B. George. The bride, until recently, was a member of the teaching staff of the Milverton Public School, and the groom is a graduate of Queen's University.

Rev. J. P. Cook of St. Paul's United Church, Milverton, performed the ceremony.

The wedding music was played by Miss Helen Guenther of Milverton, attractively gowned in mauve organza with large white hat. Banks of fern and summer flowers made a pleasing background for the bridal party and a pink and white floral color scheme was carried out through the spacious rooms.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was lovely in a gown of shimmering white satin, the skirt flaring into a slight train, the bodice designed with a becoming high neck line and long close sleeves ending in points to the fingers. Tiny satin buttons adorned the bodice. The hip-length veil was of tulle flowing from a coronet of orange blossoms. The bride carried a shower bouquet of Briarcliffe roses and baby's breath.

Miss Marjory McDowell was her sister's maid of honor, and was gowned in turquoise blue satin and net with puffed sleeves and lace mitts. She wore a small bandeau of Talisman rose buds and carried a sheaf of roses in the same glowing color.

Richard Mothersill of Toronto, cousin of the groom, was the best man, and the ushers were Clendon A. P. McDowell of Wiarton and Geoffrey McDowell of Milverton, brothers of the bride.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held, the bride and groom receiving with their parents. Mrs. McDowell wore a gown of flowered chiffon on navy ground with bolero jacket and broad-brimmed black hat. Her flowers were Sweetheart roses. Mrs. Arthur B. George chose a charming frock of black suede lace with black and white hat and corsage of Talisman roses.

Buffet refreshments were served from the beautifully-appointed table centered with the wedding cake.

40 Gallons Of Gas Stolen At Apsley

(Examiner Correspondence.)

APSLEY, July 6.—The gas tank at Morley Macdonald's store was robbed of 40 gallons of gas on Monday night, the thieves breaking off the padlock which was found in the street next morning. Last winter over a hundred gallons was stolen from this store at different times. The two adjacent gas stations escaped attention. In an attempt to foil further pilfering, the McCormick garage and Macdonald's removed the handles of the pumps last night.

Gipsy Smith, 78, Weds Bride of 26 And Feels Like a Boy Scout

Los Angeles, July 6

MARY ALICE SHAW, 26, Saturday was married to "my hero since I was a child," Gipsy Smith, 78, an evangelist preacher.

The ceremony was performed in the Hollywood home of the bride's mother, Mrs. Allie G. Brady, against a setting reminiscent of the Romany Gipsy's boyhood days in rural England.

Tears glistened in the eyes of Miss Shaw, a musician and theological student, as she said: "I do." She had met her bridegroom in England when she was 12.

"I look upon him as I would a god," she had said before the marriage.

The Baptist marriage vows were pronounced by his son, Rev. Rodney Smith, 50, of Mystic, Conn. The bride was attended by her granddaughter - to - be, Betty Smith. Only a few guests were present, but a colorful group of Los Angeles Gipsies in gay dress watched from the outside.

"I feel like a Boy Scout," the bridegroom said after the ceremony.

British Soldiers In Palestine

Violence in the Holy Land, held in check only by stern British military action, has again flared forth as Jewish settlers vent their wrath at the hanging of one of their countrymen for terrorist activities and Arabs continue their campaign of opposition to attempted pacification through division of the country. TURNS OVER TWICE

Rueben Kapp of Toronto had a very narrow escape from serious injury on Highway No. 7 Tuesday night as he was driving toward Peterborough from the east. Near the Indian River he pulled over to his right to let on-coming traffic have more room to pass and his wheels caught in the sand on the shoulder of the highway, went into a skid, and turned over twice. Kapp escaped without injury and his car was not badly damaged.

ON OREGON TRAIL

Six city men have been transferred from the relief list to the payroll of the Johnston Construction Company who are changing the old Oregon trail into a modern highway from Burleigh Falls to Buckhorn along the north shore of Lovesick Lake and Deer Bay. Bathers Wreck Fence Barring Lake Beach

TORONTO, July 6 (CP).—Bathers had free access to Fallingbrook beach in Scarborough township adjacent to Toronto's boundary today after battering down a six-foot-high wire fence which the Fallingbrook community club placed at either end of a beach strip on which members claimed they held crown rights.

Swarming from a meeting to protest the club's action, a crowd estimated at 200 last night used a log battering ram to knock down the heavy support of the fence. Others, in bathing suits, dashed into the water and wrecked sections of the fence which jutted far from the shoreline.

With a cry of "let's go," the crowd rushed to the beach despite a plea from Councillor James Wilson who urged them not to take matters into their own hands. Residents were angry because, they said, the beach had not been opened, as promised to children of school age.

Miss Packenham Has Resigned

After nearly 30 years of active teaching service and a connection with Peterborough's public schools of some 45 years Miss Maude Pakenham, has resigned from the public school staff, and her resignation was accepted reluctantly by the Board of Education at Tuesday night's meeting of that body.

"She's a splendid teacher," said Chairman Dr. Raymore Scott after Miss Pakenham's letter had been read and Inspector Keith Wightman concurred in that opinion.

Mr. Wightman said that Miss Pakenham had been teaching continuously since the Prince of Wales School was opened seventeen years ago, after an absence from the public school staff of eighteen years due to illness. Before that she had taught in the public schools for some ten years.

On motion of Dr. Moir a letter will be sent to Miss Pakenham expressing the Board's appreciation of Miss Pakenhams fine service and its regret at her retiremnt.

Public Invited To View Lillies

The display of lillies in the garden of John A. Smith, 150 Benson Avenue, will be open to the public next Thursday and Friday evenings under the auspices of the Peterborough Horticultural Society. Mr. Smith expects to have at least one hundred and fifty heads of Regal lillies in bloom, and other varieties will be Maxwell, Pardalinum, Sunset, Davidi, Creelman and Wilmottiae.

This is an exceptionally attractive display of lillies, and as these flowers are becoming more popular every year it is expected they will have a strong appeal to home owners and others interested in them.

Cut flowers will also be shown, and on Friday evening July 15 there will be a sale of the bloom, the proceeds to go to the flower show fund of the Horticultural Society. A silver collection will enable the public to assist Mr. Smith, president of the Society, in his efforts to make this year's flower show better than ever.

Mountaineering vacations are vogue in Ireland this year.

Is Doubtful

Presiding over the judicial committee of the privy council in England, where the province of Alberta has carried its appeal against the ruling of Canada's supreme court declaring bills passed in that province last year ultra vires, Lord Maugham (ABOVE), lord chancellor, expressed the opinion that the appeal on the bill respecting the taxation of banks was futile, since the bill could not operate.

"The tower of the Central School is being removed," said Mr. Walker, "and if any member of the Board had any doubt about the desirability of this course from a safety standpoint I would advise them to drop around and have a look at it."

Broadcasts Shaped On Church Services

TORONTO, July 6 (CP).—Rev. J. E. Ward, chairman of the new national advisory council on religious service broadcasting, announced today plans for broadcasting church services this winter over a national hook-up of the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation.

Mr. Ward said Roman Catholic church authorities would arrange a half-hour program early Sunday afternoon and the Protestant churches, in succession, would arrange a program later each Sunday afternoon.

The programs would be given from Toronto during the first few weeks and then shift to other cities, Vancouver, Halifax and Montreal among others.

"This is only a temporary plan," Ward said. "We hope later to give more complete programs."

Protestant churches participating in the programs are the Baptist Church, the Church of England, the Presbyterian Church and the United Church of Canada.

CHAPTER 31

"I RODE in and sent you thet telegram," Buckshot Brown was explaining, "because I was scared of what I might do m'self. We don't want thet Montoya a courtin' her!"

Buckshot took Ellen's heart affairs as matters of personal interest! Bill restrained a smile, but was seriously concerned too.

"That's right, Uncle Buckshot, we don't. But don't you go shooting anybody. After all, she's of age, and her own boss. And ours."

"By damn she ain't nuthin' but a little gal, I tell you! She needs a mammy 'n daddy. Some slicker'll take advantage of her!"

"You help watch her, then. Matter of fact, that's what I hired you for. That's your job whenever I'm gone, Buckshot. Thanks for wiring me. I came right home. But your telegram sounded as if they'd run off to Egypt or somewhere."

Buckshot took time to spit copiously and adjust his thinking.

"Th' Riveras don't like this Montya," he explained, "no more'n me. They got some lowdown on him, I reckon. They figgered he'd took her away to Sonora. Seems, though, he just took her to Tucson for dinner and a picture show, or such like. He want to get her down onto his ranch, however. You watch out!"

"I know. I was there with her. A delightful place. You'd like the old folks, his parents. She—we owe them a courtesy, as a matter of fact. They want us to visit the ranch for a big shindig."

Buckshot glared at his boss, waved his arm for emphasis.

"Keep her outa there, I tell you!" he ordered Bill. "Matter of fack, why'n the gosh-all-hell ain't you settin' up to, her yore own self? You step around her life she's poison sometimes. Are you blind? Or crazy?"

Buckshot was chewing tobacco, and he chewed it vigorously now waiting for Bill to answer. The younger mans expression was serious, almost sad, touched too with stubbornness.

"I guess maybe I am, he admitted at last, speaking slowly. "Its not an easy setup, Uncle Buckshot. You said you come from Texas. What do you suppost my father and the other ranchers back there would think, if they heard I was a kept man ,that I'd married a woman for her money? You see? I haven't any money to speak of. A man can't go off and bury all his pride, without buying his self-respect along with it! . . . Can he?"

Ephriam Brown hadn't thought of that. He stood and chewed several minutes, finally nodding agreement. It was a new angle to the whole thing, he admitted. Then he walked on away, declaring he would have to give the situation "some studyin'."

Bill had a deal of checking and planning to do this day. Work had progressed faithfully in his absence, but some of it was at a standstill until he could return.

He had to confer with his contractor about final construction work. The paint had run out, and he had to sign orders for more. Ellen needed his advice about her rock fireplace. A stream of details.

Two truck loads of furniture arrived from Los Angeles on the next day, and one load from Phoenix.

"I didn't know you'd been to Phoenix," Ellen said. "What did you get there?"

"Draperies. Table cloths. Napkins. Aprons. And Navajo rugs."

"Bill! Did you, really? Ellen was incredulous. "You think of everything!"

"I should have made you get the drapes. But you ordered me to furnish the house. You can send it all back for exchange, if you like."

Unpacking the Phoenix boxes and crates had all the zest of Christmas morning. Bill had been doing some thorough inquiring. A young manager of a department store in Phoenix, Bill had learned, was gifted with a rich imagination as well as a keen business sense. In collaboration with a cattle rancher and his wife, this merchant had created an extraordinary new set of fabrics, which were just now on display.

"O-o-o-oh, Bill"

Ellen's rahpsody was inspired this time by a bolt of dusty-tan material imprinted with a pattern of dark brown cattle brands.

The M Bar V was there. And the 7UP, the Quarter-Circle U, the TT, the Lazy Y, the Oh Bar, the 101, the RM, the Arrow and Hat, the Double Triangle, the Diamond Dot, the Cross S, the 666. A hundred or more half-size reproductions of famous cattle and horse brands—representing the heraldry of the range—had been stamped into a thick piece of goods with excellent design and color harmony.

"I got a bunch of old branding irons I picked up in Tucson," Bill drawled. "My idea was to hang them over the windows for curtain rods, and you can hang this stuff for the curtains."

One solid piece of goods four yards long and four feet wide was a bright orange-red, and all around the edges was an appliqued frieze of green cactus, century plants, mesquite trees, Mexicans with burros and carts, cowboys throwing lassos at steers, Indians and wigwams.

"For the dining room," Bill explained. I bought a table to fit this cloth. Or vice versa. It's handmade. And say Ellen—you see all that big blank red space in the middle. Well, when friends dine with us—dine with you—on this cloth, they are to write their names on that space somewhere with a pencil. Then you can crochet over the writing, or have Concepcion do it, and have you a swell memory cloth. See?"

Ellen nodded, looking up at him with violet, tear-touched eyes. She was sitting on the floor holding the cloth and the drapery material. The tears were a flow of happines, and she was not conscious of them, only of the heavenly tightness in her throat.

Even so, she had to smile a bit, and presently she answered him.

"It's darling, Bill. Honestly it is. It's the cleverest thing I've ever seen, and the prettiest. Both of them. And the guests' names—however did you think of it?"

"It just came to me in a moment of super-brilliance," he bragged good-naturedly.

"But it isn't crochet you men. It's an—outline stitch, I think. Anyhow we'll surely do it. I'll learn to sew it myself. I wouldn't let any servant touch my memory cloth! Ever!"

She hugged the fabric to her and buried her face in it lovingly. Then she began spreading and folding and planning—mind-sewing as any other home loving girl would do.

She got out the napkins, which match the cloth but which were less ornate. She found more bolts of window drapes, in a different color combination and a different set of brands. And she found the most colorful peasant style Spanish aprons that could possibly be imagined—gay things with droll cartoons of lazy, sleeping Mexicans embroidered on them, or of jack rabbits with huge ears and wearing larger Mexican sombreros, or of a senorita being seranaded by an extremely fat Mexican man.

Bill left her with her feminine things, went on about the myriad other details that confronted him. Ellen was happy all that day, so supremely so that it hurt Bill to see her, although he couldn't say why.

Toward sundown some of the friskie horses broke down a gate to their corral and dashed off around the slope of the mountain. Bill mounted himself at the moment, gave chase. They took him on quite a long run, and it was more than half an hour later—well into the darkness, when he headed them back home and saw Pablo Rivera take them in charge.

Finding himself in a contemplative mood, Bill then turned his horse up the slope of a hill and climbed for several minutes, eventually coming to the crest. Something about heights always pleased him, exalted him.

"Whoa, Chief," he murmured and sat resting there in his caddle, slumped comfortably to one side. He could see many miles through the night. He looked away off to the westward, then inevitably turned his gaze down.

Men Are as Varied in Their Tastes for Feminity as They Are in Numbers, So Find Your Level and Then Strut Your Stuff

WORD comes from Hollywood, where they make an intensive study of feminine charm, that casting directors are no longer choosing girls for the movies for their sex appeal, but for their type appeal.

This makes sense. Also it is glad tidings of great joy to millions of young women. For sex appeal is a gift of the gods that is bestowed upon you or withheld, and if you are out of luck there is nothing you can do about it. Whereas type appeal is an allure that every girl can have who has gumption enough to get into her own class and strut her stuff.

One of the great mistakes that girls make is in thinking that men have some standardized ideal of feminine pulchritude and virtue, and that all men fall for the same line of attractions in women. Hence they all try to look alike and act alike and ape each other. They starve themselves into thinness. They are platinum blondes. Or redheads. They are vivacious. Or bored. Or sophisticated. Or cute. They are high-brows. Or lisp babytalk. Whatever is the vogue of the hour. All doing the same act because they think it makes a universal hit with men.

It is their error. There are a million men and they have a million different tastes in women. The thing that fires one man's fancy leaves another man cold. The qualities in a girl that attract one man repulse another. Where one man sees beauty another sees homeliness.

And so on and on. Each man with his individual prejudices and predilections about women that make him immune to all but his type, and the poor girls working their heads off trying to be universal charmers and getting nowhere with it.

No girl can successfully understudy another girl's role and give a convincing performance. The big woman isn't cunning when she acts kittenish. She only looks like a performing elephant. The quiet girl who affects vivaciousness and who screams and laughs over everything only makes men tired. Dumb Dora becomes a figure of fun when she goes intellectual. Men laugh in their sleeves at the business girls who pretend that the reason they work is because they were so bored with fashionable society.

What these misguided girls need to realize is that while they are flops as imitators, they can be headliners as themselves. Also that a merciful Providence has benevolently ordained for the benefit of women, so that they might secure husbands, that men should admire as many different types of women as there are women.

Let girls bear in mind that they are never so attractive to men as when they are themselves and make their type appeal to men. If one is a pocket-Venus let her be cuddly and cute and curl up on couches and sit on her feet. There are plenty of men who prefer the wives they can pet and call "baby," but there are just as many other men who worship at the shrine of the big woman who is a daughter of the gods, divinely tall, and who is stately and dignified.

If a girl is born with quicksilver in her veins and laughter on her lips, let her jump around like a monkey on a stick and be the life of the party. The gay boys will always flock around her. But she gets on the nerves of the sober-minded men who prefer girls who are quiet and restful and who like to spend an evening at home talking about worthwhile things. And there are more proposals made on the sofa in the back parlor than there are in night clubs.

There are loads of men who like to take a girl out who is dolled up like the Queen of Sheba and who looks like a million dollars, but there are just as many other men who pass up the girl whose shoes cost as much as half of their salaries and whose upkeep they could no more afford than they could to set up a yacht.

The girl who is clever at sports and who brings home the cups in tennis, golf, swimming and so on, has her gallery of masculine followers, but to many other men the domestic girl who can do things on the kitchen stove makes an appeal to the stomach as well as the heart that is irresistible.

There are men who are allured by brilliant women who are witty, wisecrackers, who have read the last book, seen the last play, know the latest political gossip and who can entertain and amuse them. But to many other men the clever woman is anathema. They prefer women who are good listeners and whose entire conversational repertoire consists of "How marvelous! How wonderful! How big and brave and strong and clever you are!"

So, girls, stick to your lasts. Your type appeal is your trump card in the game of hearts. Psychologists tell us that men are so influenced by this that even when they marry a second time they almost invariably pick out a wife who is a ringer for their dead or divorced Marias.

DEAR MISS DIX—I am the possessor of an unusual amount of masculine beauty. I have the classic features, the hair, teeth, figure, etc. How can I make these earn me a living? CHARLES.

ANSWER:

So far as I know the only markets for masculine pulchritude are the movies and the gigolo profession. In business nobody cares how the outside of a man's head looks. All that employers are interested in are his brains. Generally speaking, the pretty man is at a disadvantage with his homelier fellows when it comes to getting a job.

Nor do young girls care for the masculine beauties, but rich, fat old women frequently have a penchant for them and often marry them. I advise you to try to cash in on your brawn instead of your looks.

The Stars Say . . .

For Thursday, July 7.

A day of much definite advancement toward placing the fortunes upon a solid basis is presaged from the predominant astral influence. This may come about not only through diligence and hard work, but by the sudden precipitancy of a surprising and wholly unforeseen nature. This may be an adventure or a romance which may call for a long journey, with new surroundings and contacts. Speculation and chance are under fair stimuli for success.

Those whose birthday it is may be prepared for a year of surprising developments, with adventure and romance following the breaking away of old and irksome conditions. New environs, associations, and interests loom.

A child born on this day may have a rather spectacular career, with romance, adventure and speculative enterprise taking it far from the place of its birth and into the limelight.

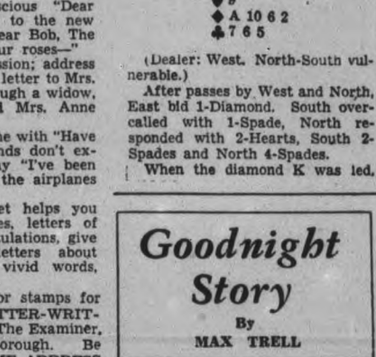
"The Authority on Authorities"

WATCH THESE FACTORS

A RELATIVELY new player should be taught that usually his first move in making a suit contract should be the leading of trumps, which should be continued until the defenders have none left. Then he should be taught to watch for the two main factors which make it advisable sometimes to defer trump leads. One is the necessity of using the dummy's trumps to ruff out losers. The other is the need of obtaining discards of losers on a side suit which he establishes before leading trumps. Sometimes both reasons are combined in a single hand.



(Dealer: West. North-South vulnerable.)

After passes by West and North, East bid 1-Diamond. South overcalled with 1-Spade, North responded with 2-Hearts, South 2-Spades and North 4-Spades.

When the diamond K was led, South saw one possible spade loser, one sure heart loser, one diamond and more if opponents led trumps, and two clubs. Declarer won the first lead with the diamond A and immediately led a heart, which East won with the A. A club was returned by East to knock out the entry in dummy. On the hearts K and Q South discarded two clubs. He then led a diamond to East, who was then in such a position that anything led would give the declarer the remainder of the tricks.

To have drawn trumps with this hand at once would have been disastrous.

Goodnight Story

By MAX TRELL

Poor Mary Jane was terribly frightened. She was only a rag doll, but that didn't seem to make any difference. It was getting dark and she was still out in the garden, lying behind the hedge. It would get anybody frightened.

Dinah had taken her out early in the afternoon. For quite a while her mistress had played with her, pretending she was a little baby named Wibbly Wobbly. "It's a funny sort of name," Mary Jane kept saying to herself. But she did not really mind what her mistress called her as long as the little girl was happy.

Then Dinah sang her a song. It was a very soft, quiet song, and it made Mary Jane feel very sleepy. "Sh-h," Dinah warned when her brother Frank came near and started to speak. "You'll wake up my little baby. I'm going to put her to bed."

Her mistress played with her

Just then the little girl rose to her feet. She started to walk with her toward the house. But just as they reached the back steps, someone called Dinah. It was the little girl who lived next door. She was standing on the other side of the hedge. She wanted Dinah to come and play with her.

Let Her Sleep.

"But I've got to put my baby to bed," Dinah told her. Then she thought a while. "I know," she said happily, "I'll just let her take a little nap first. I'll put her down in a nice shady spot where the sun won't get in her eyes. Then when we're through playing I'll bring her upstairs and really put her to bed. It will do her good to take a nap in the fresh air."

So she made a little pile of leaves and placed Mary Jane down on top of them, behind the hedge. And then she said: "I'll be back in a little while. Just you sleep."

But then, when Mother called for dinner, the little girl forgot all about Mary Jane lying out in the garden behind the hedge. And now it was beginning to get dark, and what was poor little Mary Jane to do?"

Whetter—Douglass

The home of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Edgerton, Huntsville, was the scene of a pretty wedding at seven o'clock Saturday evening, when their niece, Ella Mae Douglass, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Douglass of Lorneville, became the bride of Richard Arthur Whetter, elder son of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. E. Whetter of Lorneville. Rev. W. A. E. Doe of Allandale United Church officiated, and Mrs. George Lamont played the wedding music.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a princess style gown of white triple sheer over taffeta, and carried a shower bouquet of pink roses and baby's breath.

The maid-of-honor was the bride's cousin, Miss Maud Edgerton of Huntsville, frocked in blue flowered sheer, and carrying a sheaf bouquet of delphinium and roses.

Mr. George Douglass of Peterborough, brother of the bride, attended the groom.

Following a wedding dinner the young couple left by motor for Niagara Falls, Rochester and points south. On their return they will live in Lorneville.

We Noticed

....That a recent Peterborough bride wore for travelling one of the smartest and most practical ensembles we have seen. We believe it deserves special mention, and have described it below.

✧ ✧ ✧

....The dress was a silk sheer in luggage tan with a flattering, draped neckline and a matching reversible coat lined with polka dot silk crepe. The coat had tuxedo revers and a boutonniere to match. Her hat was of stitched pique in the same shade, and had a high crown with an upward swing.

....Another July bride looked very lovely in a travelling ensemble of a wheat shade and luggage tan color combination. The dress was a smart two-piece model, and she had matched her accessories to these two tones.

Slacks Remain Summer Standbys

Slacks remain the favorite summer standby this year as a choice of play clothes in spite of many smart rivals. Flannel, sharkskin, gabardine, denim and printed material make them, and one outfit consisting of slacks and shirt of white sharkskin had a little coat of aquamarine linen on one side, scarlet calico on the other. Burgundy linen slacks and short smock of pale pink linen, or slacks of dark blue denim with blouse of light blue, worn perhaps with dark blue beach shoes, are sure to be tops in the sport field.

Overalls run a close second in popularity, and are supreme for gardening, boating or camping. A blue denim version was fitted with darts that gave a nice flat look to the waist and hips. Tucks add flattery to shorts which are made neither too long nor too full to wear beneath a buttoned-on-in-a-jiffy skirt, which leaves one fully dressed for sports, or to run about the country.

Of special interest is a new design in a culotte, which when buttoned is just like a dress. It has tennis rackets and balls printed in white on a navy ground, and would be ideal for the courts or for bicycling.

Dirndls are also high in favor, and rather different from the usual gaily patterned design was the suspender Dirndl of striped sheer cotton which boasted a darling blouse of crisp organdy.

In spite of the many dressmaker varieties of bathing suits, the wool knitted styles are most sought after by swimmers. Among many smart styles we picked as our own choice a suit of blue wool knitted in a square mesh pattern with adjustable shoulder straps running through a square-shaped neck and crossing in back to come around again and tie in a bow at the front. And by the way, do you fisherwomen know that the best fishing gloves to be found are of thick white cotton with knitted wrists, and that they can be yours for only ten cents?

Cool frocks will be needed for visiting while on holidays, or for afternoon teas or bridge by stay-at-homes. The eyelet-embroidered cotton dresses would be a cool and lovely choice, or a print of tiny, luscious fruits or gay summer flowers. One style in the former design had a softly draped bodice and graceful cash, with inverted tucks in the skirt, and was of a turquoise blue. Detachable white pique on collar and pockets of dark frocks will make its wearer look flower fresh, and the clever use of white on any dress, whatever the color, will make it appear cool.

Another captivating style was a buttoned-down-the-front shirtwaist dress of linen in pure white which was worn with a brilliantly woven straw belt and poke-shaped hat of smooth, white straw.

For evening there is a wide choice of the daintiest, filmiest gowns imaginable, including a dream of a dress of white mousseline de soie with colored ribbon beaded through whirls of flounces.

With so many lovely choices no one can afford to be anything but sweet and fresh at any hour of the day.

Gladys Bothwell Is Cavan Bride

A very pretty wedding took place on Saturday at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Bothwell, Seventh Line, Cavan, when their daughter, Gladys Amelia, became the bride of Thomas A. Busby, of Peterborough, the Reverend H. R. Williams, B.A., officiating.

The ceremony was performed on the lawn, under an arch of evergreen entwined with roses, and with a background of flowers and ferns. The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, looked lovely in her wedding-dress of white satin made on princess lines, with lace insets, and standing collar of lace. It had long sleeves, and tiny satin-covered buttons fastened it in the back. Her bouquet was of red Talisman roses, she wore a coronet of roses in her hair, and white kid shoes in sandal style, completed the ensemble.

The bride was attended by her sister, Miss Jean Bothwell, who wore a becoming floor-length dress of pink Chantilly lace over taffeta, with long sleeves and high neckline. She carried a bouquet of pink sweet peas, and maiden hair fern; flowers of a matching shade were worn in her hair, and her shoes were silver. The flower girl, Joan Busby, was dainty in yellow organdie and lace, and carried a basket of roses and gypsophila. The groom was supported by his brother, Mr. Arthur Busby of Peterborough.

Following the ceremony a reception was held, the guests numbering over twenty and including only the immediate relatives of both families. The home was lovely with summer blossoms, and the bride's table was done in a color scheme of pink and white, which was carried out in the streamers from the central white wedding bell, in the tall tapers burning in silver holders, and in the runners for the table, which was centered with the handsome three-tiered wedding cake. The bride's younger sisters, Misses Roberta and Flossie Bothwell, assisted with the service of the guests.

Later, Mr. and Mrs. Busby left by motor for their wedding trip to Toronto and points east, the latter travelling in a jacket-frock of turquoise blue, with white hat and accessories; upon their return they will reside on Brown street, in Peterborough.

JUST BETWEEN US WOMEN

"All the past things are past and over,
The tasks are done, and the tears are shed.
Yesterday's errors let yesterday cover:
Yesterday's wounds which smarted and bled,
Are healed with the healing which night has shed."

—S. Coolidge.

Dear Friends:

Yes, it would be grand if it were like that, but some of the yesterdays have a habit of spilling over into the tomorrows which are today, and sometimes they spill into all the days that are to come.

For, sorrow has a way of repeating itself again and again no matter how we try to be healed. We go about our business, thinking that we have laid sorrow away for good, then a word or a phrase opens the wound again, and we wonder why it had to be like this.

Our happiness was so tiny, yet it kept loneliness at bay. Why, when it was so small did we have to lose it? When did we begin to lose it, for most sorrows begin 'way back, although they seem sudden to us.

We look around and see where others retained their share, so how did we have to lose ours. And none can answer that question. Some insist that our lives are mapped out for us from the day were were born, but that would be vastly unfair in every respect.

Because it is very evident that many carry heavier loads than others, so heavy indeed that they are bowed in body and spirit by it. Why, then, should some be so burdened by sorrow and anguish of spirit, while others, no more deserving, go lightly about their business?

God's will? I think not. Rather must it be that either we or the ones who cause this heartbreak lost the way somehow, either by selfishness or carelessness. Yet, we are told, "whom the Lord loveth He chasteneth."

But why? If we are doing our best, not cheating, helping others, loving and appreciating Him as well as we can, why then should we need so much chastening? And there is such a thing as too much of anything.

For, too much can make you indifferent, too heavy a load will break you, too much lack of pleasure can make you stale, so that life holds nothing but a series of empty days, with no joy in the present, and none to look forward to.

Coolidge tells us further:

"Every day is a fresh beginning,
Listen, my soul, to the glad refrain,
And, spite of old sorrow and older sinning,
And puzzles forecasted, and possible pain,
Take heart with the day and begin again."

And that is all we can do, remembering that our Lord, who suffered more than any of us, betrayed, deserted by those who professed to love Him so dearly, humiliated and put to death, not for what He had done, but to save us, also said, "I will not leave you Comfortless. I will send the Comforter to you, He that is called the Holy Ghost."

Do you ever reach out for that comfort, or do you stay stiff-necked and hold back from it? I tried this stiff-necked business, but I did not like it, neither did I like the isolation it brought with it.

And so, I take all the comfort He will give me, and it fills all the empty spaces in my heart, it helps me to forget, it supports me on my way. Try it, then you will be able to "Take heart with the day and begin again."

Your Friend,
ROBERTA.

Pleats Play Part

Pleats have a prominent part in the 1938 summer fashions. In many cases they spell the difference between a simple, ordinary frock and one that is extraordinarily charming.

Pleated fullness adds to the charm of this graceful summer ensemble. It combines a slender frock of navy rayon crepe, printed in a white scattered patterning, with a plain, navy sheer full-length coat.

The short sleeves of both the frock and coat are puffed becomingly at the top, and a white organdy flower finishes the V neckline.

IN MEMORIAM

LITTLE—In loving memory of John Little, who passed away one year ago to-day, July 6, 1937.

Those whom we love go out of sight,
But never out of mind.
They are cherished in the hearts
Of those they leave behind.
Loving and kind in all his ways,
Upright and just to the end of his days;
Sincere and true in heart and mind,
Beautiful memories he left behind.
I have lost my soul's companion,
A life linked with my own;
And day by day I miss him more
As I walk through life alone.
Peaceful be thy rest, dear father;
It is sweet to breathe thy name;
In life we loved you dearly.
In death we do the same.

—Inserted by Son and Family.

Rotary's Work Is Reviewed At Campbellford

(Examiner Correspondence.)

CAMPBELLFORD, July 6—Secretary of the Campbellford Rotary Club since its inception in December, 1928, Edge Dolman attended in his official capacity for the last time on Monday, when he gave a brief summary of the work the club had done during the past nine years and also gave an adequate expression of his own appreciation for the associations and friendships the club had afforded him.

In reviewing the work of the past four years it was pointed out that the club members had raised an average of $65.56 each, and that a total of some $1,245.00 had been spent on Christmas baskets and children's work during the same period. The amount spent for work among the crippled children actually represents only a very small proportion of ordinary cost of this work stated Mr. Dolman, for by an agreement with the Rotary Club, Toronto hospitals supply free treatment, and in co-operation with the service clubs charge only $1.75 a day per patient.

46 Cases Treated.

In the clinic which was conducted in 1934 there were 56 cases handled, and of these 46 were given treatment chiefly for tonsils and adenoids. These cases were handled at an average cost of slightly over $2.00, and the work for the year along with charity and relief work totalled $410.44.

In 1935 the amount spent on charity work was considerably less with the total approximating $221.85, while in the succeeding year work done at the Sick Children's Hospital accounted for an expenditure of $120.65. The 1937 total consisted of donations to the Institute for the blind, the Ontario Society for Crippled Children, hospitalization, milk and Christmas baskets which amounted to slightly less than $250.00. In actual figures the amount of milk supplied the schools by the club has been 15,138 bottles. Adding to the report it was pointed out that there had been at least six cases which the club had investigated and found that it was impossible to do anything for.

Rotarian Harold Carr, who was one of the members of the original committee which was responsible for the formation of the club, moved a hearty vote of thanks to Secretary Edge Dolman for the splendid service he had given during the past nine years.

Consequently some hesitation was shown in considering French plans to make Taylor Chairman of the Conference, officially known as the Intergovernmental Committee on political refugees.

refuse to serve and other Americans said frankly they hoped "it would happen."

The conference program listed four important items:

1. Steps to facilitate settlement in other countries of German political refugees who, for the purposes of the conference, were defined as "persons desiring to leave Germany as well as those who have left already."

2. Immediate assistance for the most urgent cases within existing emigration laws.

3. A system of registering refugees who lack official papers and are unable to obtain any.

4. Establishment of a permanent inter-governmental committee to work out long-range refugee problems in co-operation with existing agencies.

Would Go To New Zealand.

Embodied in the plan of the Austrian delegation itself, comprising expatriates who lost their nationality after the Austrian annexation were two proposals:

1. The possibility of colonization in countries willing to accept Ger-Austrians particularly mentioned New Zealand and South America as possibilities.

2. Agreement with Germany allowing Jews and non-Jews alike to take a percentage of property from the country as a means of livelihood. Current German restrictions limit amounts Austrian exiles may take with them to the equivalent of $6.

One suggestion heard in pre-conference conversations was for the establishment of a "neutral zone" for exiles in Brazil and Argentina.

Italy alone refused an invitation to send representatives to the conference, as far as known.

Chicago Finds Officer For Badge 13 After 16-Year Hunt

Chicago, July 6.

FOR SIXTEEN years the custodian of equipment has endeavored to give police badge No. 13 to an officer. None would accept it. Yesterday Marshall Pidgeon, member of the bomb squad, turned in his old and worn star, numbered 6086, and asked for a new one.

He was asked if he would take No. 13.

"Why not?" he inquired, pinning it on his uniform.

who died in France were not the badge of a province but the badge of Canada," he declared. "The nation is a union of provinces not a group of separate sovereignties."

Start on Nominations

Today the delegates enter upon the more serious stage of their task and tonight the full story will be known of who will be in the running for the leadership. Nominations will be completed at the evening session and the ballots will be taken tomorrow afternoon.

Known candidates are Hon. R. J. Manion, former minister of railways and Canals; Hon. J. Earl Lawson, former minister of national revenue and present member for York South; Denton Massey, member for Toronto-Greenwood; Joseph Harris, member for Toronto-Danforth; and Murdock MacPherson, of Regina, former Saskatchewan attorney-general. Mr. MacPherson indicated late last night that he would enter the contest.

Mr. Meighen is one of the question marks of the convention and Hon. H. H. Stevens, former minister of trade and commerce also remained mysterious as to his intentions.

Mr. Meighen refused to answer yes or no to a question of whether or not he would be a candidate. Mr. Stevens, who made only a brief appearance at the convention to which he is a delegate, remained out of reach.

Opposition in Quebec

Great speculation arose over the reaction of Quebec Conservatives over Mr. Meighen's keynote address on defence. They applauded loudly with the others but it was rumored there would be some difficulty in obtaining general acceptance of his view of that issue.

John R. MacNicol, member of parliament for Toronto-Davenport and an active worker in the convention prepartions, was elected permanent joint chairman with Hon. Maurice Dupre, of Quebec, former solicitor-general.

Senator A. D. McRae of Vancouver, organizer of the Conservative party in the 1930 campaign, was presented with a $2,000 antique clock in appreciation of his services, and urged to become organizer again but he definitely refused. He said he was too old, that the party needed younger blood for both organization and leadership, and that it was not fitting for a member of the Senate to enter upon such purely political activities.

investigated the accident, said the tire marks on the pavement showed the car, a 1938 eight-cylinder Oldsmobile, had travelled 98 feet after the brakes were applied. He explained that tests made by him in the same car at different speeds checking the brakes, revealed the car had to travel at between 50 and 65 miles an hour to make tire burns 98 feet long. The car was found to be in first-class condition, he said.

Evidence showed Anderson had been standing or walking about 3 feet from the south edge of the highway when he was struck by the car. The impact broke the right headlight, and dinged the hood on the right side, and his body was found lying several feet in front of where the car stopped in a pool of blood.

Dr. Donald Holdcroft, who was called to the accident, said Anderson had a compound fracture of both legs, numerous head and facial cuts, concussion, body bruises and abrasions. Death, he said, was caused by concussion, shock and hemorrhages following the leg fractures. Under questioning he told Anderson was suffering from a heart ailment, and admitted deceased "was a man who always took a drink of liquor when he wanted to, and could stand considerable of it."

Dean Kelly of Havelock, another witness, told Crown Attorney V. J. McElderry, K.C., that he was about to go to bed when he heard the scream of brakes outside his home. He investigated and found Anderson lying, face up and badly cut, on the south edge of the highway. Traffic, he said, had been very heavy during the last few months on this stretch of road.

James Basking was called, but had not been subpoenaed and was absent.

Evidence of identification was given by the late Mr. Anderson's brother, William Anderson of Havelock. Ray Scott, proprietor of a safe-hotel at Havelock, said he hal been talking to Anderson, twenty minutes before the accident, and that the latter was perfectly sober and had not been drinking.

William Akins, county constable, assisted Dr. J. C. Smith of Lakefield, county coroner, to conduct the inquest, and the jury consisted of Bruce Puffer, John Scott, William Seabrooke, Otto Patterson, Ross Covert, Ken Green, Harold Peters, James Kitchen, Hector Bannon, and Ray Williams, foreman.

West was charged with manslaughter on the day following the fatality, and released without plea or election on bail of $5,000.

WILLIAM SISSON.

(Examiner Correspondence.)

LIFFORD LINE, July 6. — The many friends and relatives of Mr. William Sisson, eighth line of Manvers, received a severe shock on Saturday afternoon when they learned of his very sudden and unexpected death. The late Mr. Sisson disposed of his farm stock and implements a few months ago when he sold his farm to a neighbour and since that time he and his wife have continued to live at their farm home. While scuffling potatoes in his garden on Saturday he was overtaken by a weak spell and sat down under a nearby tree to rest, as he had frequently done on former occasions when becoming tired. His wife found him in this sitting posture apparently about ten minutes after the spark of life had fled.

Mr. Sisson was seventy-seven years of age and enjoyed comparatively good health. He was born in the vicinity where he died and received his education in the Eighth Line school. The school building was destroyed by fire during his school term and classes were held in the kitchen of the Sisson home for a short time during reconstruction.

Mr. Sisson was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Michael Sisson, early settlers of Manvers and forty-eight years ago he was married to Mary Preston, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Isaac Preston, well known Manvers residents. The marriage took place at St. Mary's Anglican church, Lifford, where the Sisson family have long been faithful workers, by Rev. Burgess, rector of Manvers parish at that time.

To their union was born one son, Keith Sisson of the Toronto police force, and one daughter (Mary) Mrs. Earnest Allen of Burlington, both of whom survive, with their mother.

Three months ago Mrs. Arthur Flack, a sister of the late Mr. Sisson, passed on, and previous to that time a sister, Mrs. Hannah, also of the Enghth Line, and another sister, Mrs. Fitch of Dunkirk, Sask Miss Annie Sisson, as well as two brothers, John and Stephen, still survive. Two brothers, Matthew and George, passed away a few years ago. A gorgeous profusion of summer flowers surrounded the casket.

The funeral was held on Monday afternoon, the cortege leaving the homestead at two o'clock for St. Mary's church, where an impressive service was conducted by the Rev. Mr. Holden.

Following this service the remains were laid in the family plot near the church by six nephews. A corps of sympathetic friends acted as flower bearers.

2 Festivals Enjoyed At East Emily

(Examiner Correspondence.)

EAST EMILY, July 6.—The annual strawberry festival was held at Bethel United church on Monday evening with a large attendance. The tables were laden to capacity in the basement of the church.

Baseball teams after supper enjoyed a good ball game in Mr. Cecil Casey's field near the church..

Members of the Kiwanis club of Peterborough were present in a body and presented a splendid mixed program which was enjoyed by everyone.

A most successful strawberry festival was held at St. James' Anglican church on Wednesday evening, with a splendid crowd present.

Supper was served in the parish hall and later the pupils of Milburn's school on the Chemong Road, under the training of their teacher, Miss Hart and their singing teacher, Mr. Potter, pleased the audience with a play, entitled, "The Magic Ring." All were children under sixteen years of age and dressed in their different costumes of colours and designs looked very charming.

The members of St. John's Anglican church held their annual Sunday school picnic at Fee's Landing on Saturday afternoon with ideal weather for the occasion. The afternoon was spent in different sports and later everyone sat down to a well laden table spread on the grass.

The annual decoration service was held in Emily cemetery on Sunday afternoon, under the direction of the L.O.L. There was a large crowd of people in attendance and the weather was ideal for the service held under the trees at the west side chapel.

The Salvation Army Band of Lindsay took charge of the musical part and the different ministers taking part were Rev. Mr. MacTavish, United church; Rev. Mr. Johnston, Anglican, and Rev. Mr. Young of the Presbyterian church.

The different graves were decorated with a large variety of flowers, making the cemetery look very colorful and appropriate for the occasion.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE—

The liver should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily. If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas bloats up your stomach. You get constipated. Harmful poisons go into the body, and you feel sour, sunk and the world looks punk.

A mere bowel movement doesn't always get at the cause. You need something that works on the liver as well. It takes those good, old Carter's Little Liver Pills to get these two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up". Harmless and gentle, they make the bile flow freely. They do the work of calomel but have no calomel or mercury in them. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills by name! Stubbornly refuse anything else. 25c.

Oust Quebec Amendment For Referendum Before Sending Army Abroad

OTTAWA, July 7 (CP).—The National Conservative Convention went on record today as declaring the defence of Canada can best be promoted by consultation and co-operation between all members of the British Commonwealth of Nations. It voted down an amendment to this resolution which would have declared Canadian forces should not be sent out of Canada without a referendum.

Adoption of this plank in the party's platform, in substantial agreement with the stand taken by Rt. Hon. R. B. Bennett as Prime Minister and more recently by Prime Minister Mackenzie King, apparently settled the defence issue which has threatened the harmony of the convention from the beginning.

The official resolution was prepared by the Resolutions Committee after long and careful consideration, said R. B. Hanson of Fredericton, Chairman of the Committee.

It is his opinion it meant the nations of the British Commonwealth should co-operate actively in defence matters after consultation. Rejection of the referendum meant Parliament would decide on the participation of Canada in any war as no troops could be sent outside Canada without Parliament's consent.

A Friendly Debate.

The referendum amendment provoked a brisk but friendly debate. It was proposed by Reynolds butler and Victor Barre, both of Montreal. Kenneth Eoll of Fort William, Sam Hughes of Lindsay, Ont., grandson of Sir Sam Hughes, wartime Minister of Defence, and Mrs. Henri Joseph of Montreal spoke against it.

On the standing vote, the majority of the Quebec Delegation supported the amendment with about half a dozen others, scattered throughout the other provincial sections. A substantial minority of the Quebec Delegation and practically the whole of the other delegations voted against it.

The main motion reaffirming loyalty to the Crown, adherence to the ties that bind the British Commonwealth together and co-operation and consultation in defence, carried easily.

New Party Name.

Earlier the convention unanimously approved a change in the name of the party from "Liberal Conservative" to "National Conservative."

The National Conservative convention resumed its deliberations this morning with John R. MacNicol of Toronto in the chair.

Mrs. F. X. A. Giroux of Sweetsburg, Que., acted as co-chairman and made announcements in French.

Mr. MacNicol said this was the first time in Canada a woman had occupied the chair at a National convention of any party.

Hon. R. B. Hanson, chairman of the Resolutions committee, began presentation of his report. The first resolution was one to change the name of the party from "Liberal Conservative" to "National Conservative."

Speaking in support of this proposal, Senator Rufus Pope of Bedford, Que., responsible for the suggestion, said Sir John Macdonald called the party "Liberal Conservative" because George Brown, of Toronto, a Liberal, joined with him to achieve Confederation.

No More Liberalism.

Cruiser Ordered To Haifa; 131 Riot Victims

JERUSALEM, July 7 (AP).—The 7,550-ton cruiser Emerald today was ordered to Haifa, where 131 persons have been killed or wounded in two days of rioting.

Official sources said 22 Arabs and six Jews had died and 92 Arabs and 11 Jews had been wounded since a bomb yesterday fanned Arab-Jewish strife into new turmoil.

The Emerald, homeward bound from the East Indies, was diverted to Haifa from Malta and was due at the Palestine port today.

Six Arabs were severely injured by a bomb explosion in the old section of Jerusalem today. The authorities considered invoking martial law.

Unidentified assailants fired on a group of Jewish laborers in Haifa's mixed quarter, killing one and wounding seven.

Two Jews were killed Tuesday at the scene of today's explosion. A bomb explosion in the centre of Haifa, Palestine's chief port, yesterday killed 18 Arabs and five Jews.

Seventy persons were injured in the sudden flare-up in Haifa. The bomb explosion in the open air market near police headquarters quickly inflamed the crowds and a riot broke out.

Mob Stones Autos.

A mob, defying hastily summoned police reinforcements, stoned passing automobiles and buses and shot to death Tuvia Dounia, 55, brother-in-law of Chaim Weizmann, president of the world Zionist organization. Dounia had stepped from a car to rescue an Arab policeman who was knifed in the frenzied street battle.

Dounia was a civil engineer in charge of constructing military barracks at Acre.

Eye-witnesses said policemen's shots into the milling rioters caused many casualties.

Since May 30, 72 Jews and Arabs have been killed. The newest wave of violence grew from the hanging of a Jew a week ago.

Tel Aviv, Haifa, and Jerusalem are under rigid curfew regulations.

Be 104 On Sunday

SAINTSFIELD, Ont., July 7. —(CP).—Richard Connors, who celebrates his 104th birthday here Sunday, said to-day he has been smoking since he was eight. "It's no time to stop now," he said. "There's peace and contentment in a good pipe and I'm going to keep right on smoking."

Mr. Connors attributed his longevity to hard work and good luck. "Don't worry, don't diet, and get a good night's sleep," he advised. "Theres nothing like sleep to keep a man going. My wife has always fed me well."

Saintsfield is 40 miles north-east of Toronto.

Ten Boys Die Price Of A Stunt

Flames Beat Firemen To Victims In Drill Spectacle

LISBON, Portugal, July 7—(AP).—Ten boys died to-day when firemen failed to rescue them from a four-storey wooden structure set ablaze to permit an exhibition fire drill. Ten others were injured seriously in the drill at Coimbra, 100 miles north of Lisbon.

The building was soaked with gasoline for the spectacle with boys from 12 to 20 distributed through its rooms. The boys, some sons of firemen, were to receive ten escudos (45 cents) for their help.

The drilling brigade went to headquarters 400 yards from the building, to await a prearranged alarm after the fire was started.

The flames spread too quickly. Thousands of spectators watched in terror, as the firemen fought through the crowds to effect the planned rescue.

Two of the screaming boys died in the flames. Eight were injured fatally in jumping from windows.

The flimsy structure quickly became a mass of fire.

The crowd stampeded and some among them were injured. A volunteer brigade was formed to aid in carrying victims to the hospital.

The demonstration was a feature of Holy Queen Festival, which the Government suspended after the tragedy. The Government also ordered an inquiry.

2nd Arrest Made In Gold Theft

TEMAGAMI, Ont., July 7 (C.P.). —Provincial Police held a second man to-day in connection with their investigation of the theft of $45,000 in gold concentrates from the Dome Mine.

Leslie West, 22, of Timmins, surrendered late last night to officers who had hunted for him since they arrested Otto Fabbro earlier in the day on a charge of theft of the metal last month. West denied any part in the theft.

Provincial Constable Bert Braney arrested Fabbro yesterday in a tourist cabin at Lowell Lake, and found gold in an automobile which he and another man allegedly had driven to a camp there. T. E. Ruddy, the camp owner, called Braney when he became suspicious of the actions of the pair. Fabbro, only one in the cabin when the officer arrived, was brought here, then taken to Timmins.

Over 1500 In Vote On Tory Chieftain

OTTAWA, July 7.—(CP)—Chairman J. MacNicol said today at the National Conservative convention that he expected 1,500 delegates would vote when the party elects a leader this afternoon.

These votes would be divided approximately as follows: Yukon, seven; British Columbia, 70; Alberta, 60; Saskatchewan, more than 70; Manitoba, 115; Ontario, more than 600; Quebec, more than 400; New Brunswick, more than 70; Nova Scotia, more than 70; Prince Edward Island, 35.

Precautions are being taken to insure issuance of ballots to accredited delegates only.

Each delegate had to present his official pass which bears his signature. It has to check with the official list of delegates. The book of ballots had to be signed and the signature compared with the signature on the pass. This was to assure that if a lost pass was found by someone else ballots will not be issued on it to the wrong person.

Each province had a separate counter for issuing ballots with each clerk assigned to a group of constituencies in that province. The voting begun shortly after 3 p.m.

The book contained 10 ballots, each of a different shade so that the first ballots will all be of one shade, the second ballot of another shade and so on.

Tweed Road Worker Killed By Cave-In

BROCKVILLE, Ont., July 7 (CP). —Crushed in a cave-in on highway construction east of Ivy Lea, today, Morris Martin, 29, of Tweed, Ont., died in an ambulance while enroute to hospital here. Martin was engaged in building a cattle-pass under the new scenic highway when a cave-in occurred.

The body was taken to an undertaking establishment at Lansdowne, where Dr. Kenneth C. Gray, coroner, Gananoque, will open an investigation.

Martin is survived by his widow and daughter, who have been living in a tent at Ivy Lea.

For walking four abreast on a public road, four girls were arrested in Ennis, Ireland.

Clover Stooked

One of the first fields of sweet clover to be cut and stooked is on the farm of Allan Milburn, on the Chemong Road. The field was a beautiful sight late one afternoon this week when billowing white clouds formed sharp contrast with the freshly-cut crop.

Britain Will Probe Offer To Train R.A.F. Men Here

Air Chief Is Sending Officer At Once In Answer To King's Proposal

LONDON, July 7 (CP Cable).—Sir Kingsley Wood, Secretary of State for Air, told the House of Commons today arrangements were being made for an officer to be sent immediately to Canada to explore the possibilities of working out a scheme for the training of Royal Air Force pilots in the Dominion.

Sir Kingsley made his statement in replying to Clement Attlee, leader of the Opposition, who asked if the Air Secretary's attention had been drawn to a statement by Prime Minister Mackenzie King that the Dominion Government is prepared to afford facilities for R.A.F. training in connection with its own establishments.

The Minister said "Yes, an offer to this effect has been communicated to His Majesty's Government in the United Kingdom by the Canadian Prime Minister through the United Kingdom High Commissioner."

"A reply has been sent—an expression of warm appreciation of the offer, Sir Kingsley added, "and arrangements are in the making in accordance with the suggestion of the Canadian Prime Minister for an officer to be sent immediately to Canada to explore, in co-operation, the possibility of working out such a scheme of training facilities in Canada."

Boon In Canada's Offer.

LONDON, July 7.—(CP-Havas).—Canada's offer to help in training British airmen will be "of immense value to Great Britain," the Yorkshire Post (Conservative) said today.

"It may now be assumed that in building up air defences adequate to meet and repel any attacks made upon her, Great Britain will have the active assistance of Canada," said the Yorkshire Post. "There was important confirmation of this in the Commons yesterday, and its importance can hardly be overrated."

Sir Thomas Inskip, Minister for Co-ordination of Defence, yesterday told the Commons that munition orders have been placed in Canada and that the production of aircraft in the Dominion is still being considered by the British government.

"It is not only that the Dominion is in itself a source of strength in men and materials, but it also provides the Mother Country with a great strategical advantage," the Yorkshire Post continued. "Canada's promised aid will thus be of immense value to Great Britain."

After claiming that Canadian faith in Great Britain had been weakened by recent actions of Prime Minister Chamberlain, the Manchester Guardian (Liberal) said:

"The ardor of Canadian supporters of the cooperation of their country with the Commonwealth and the League has been sadly dampened.

"Canada goes her way, determined to do nothing to disturb her close friendship with the United States, and determined to maintain her connection with the Commonwealth, but steadily independent in the matter of any risk of becoming involved in a war overseas.

"This does not mean that cooperation will not be forthcoming, but it means that it may have severe limits, and that the British government cannot take anything for granted.

Hope Wanes Fast For Slugged Girl

BROCKVILLE, Ont., July 7. —(CP).—Hope was almost given up at the General Hospital here today that Miss Irene Mott would recover from a beating to which she was subject at her farm home in Kitley township on Tuesday.

The young woman was beaten over the head with some blunt instrument by an unknown attacker, crushing her skull. Miss Mott's 69-year-old mother, Mrs. Frank Mott, was less seriously injured in the same assault but had most of her hair torn off and suffered severe scalp wounds.

Police are continuing their search of the district for William Gunning, 21-year-old farm hand employed by the Motts, wanted for questioning in connection with the attacks.

Twelve cases were investigated without any sign of the missing man.

Provincial Constable W. J. Franks of Brockville, who has been in charge of the police operations, went to eastern counties to-day in the belief that Gunning may have evaded the police drag net with Montreal as his objective. Provincial Constable A. MacLeod, Prescott, is in charge of the search in his absence.

Oats Ripen Early

ESSEX, Ont., July 7—(CP).—Approximately 2½ weeks ahead of normal years, cutting of oats has started in Essex County. Nelson Clark, Gosfield North Township farmer, harvested the first of his crop Tuesday and Wednesday.

Elton Flint, another district farmer, began harvesting wheat yesterday, at least a week earlier than the usual date of cutting.

2 Alberta Bills Inoperative Says Last Court

LONDON, July 7.—(CP Cable)—After deciding to discontinue the hearing of appeals on the Alberta Press bill and the measure to regulate credit, the judicial committee of the Privy Council today reserved judgment on the province's bill to tax the chartered banks.

Their lordships turned down the appeals on the press and credit measures on the ground they were inoperative. The judgments of the Supreme Court of Canada, declaring the bills ultra vires of the provincial legislature, therefore stand.

Judgment was reserved on the tax measure after the arguments of counsel were completed late this afternoon.

Lord Maugham, the Lord Chancellor, announced the decision in a few words.

"We think," he said, "it would be contrary to practice and to the usual procedure adopted by the Privy Council, that the Board should express any opinion to his Majesty on a subject which no longer is practical in any sense at all."

Counsel for the respondents than asked the costs, their Lordships reserving decision.

Hearing of the appeals on both the Press and Credit bills was stopped without their Lordships hearing counsel for the respondents, except on the question of costs.

No Board Operating.

The point was that the bills depended for their operation on the appointment of a chairman of the Alberta Social Credit Board, who is non-existent, the Alberta Social Credit Act having been repealed.

When Colonel O. M. Biggar, K.C., counsel for the province, opened arguments on the Press bill, the point was raised as to whether the Judicial committee could properly hear the appeal.

Lord Macmillan said "the question before us is whether there is a piece of legislation before us at all."

Why, Lord Macmillan questioned, should the Privy Council be called upon to pronounce wehther, if such a piece of legislation is in existence, it would be valid?

Lord Maugham observed that when the reference was before the Supreme Court of Canada the question was quite legitimate as the Social Credit Act had not yet been repealed.

Lord MacMillan thought the argu-

Niagara Gang Fights Cutworms 12 Hours

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont., July 7 (CP). — A threatened invasion by the army cutworm on the outskirts of Niagara Falls was checked to-day after 12 hours' work by a group of men directed by City Engineer W. S. Orr.

The cutworms, coming from near Queenston, were discovered last night on the northern outskirts of the city. Workmen sprayed the ground between the infested field and the city gardens and then dug a ditch and filled it with poison.

Thousands of the insects were killed and spraying to-day killed more. It was the second outbreak of cutworms near here recently. Farmers checked an outbreak two miles north of Queenston.

Ontario Department of Agriculture representatives said the outbreak here was the only one reported in the province.

TO HOLD NO INQUEST

TORONTO.—Unless further evidence is forthcoming, no inquest will be held into the triple drowning here last night when an automobile plunged into Toronto harbor, Chief Coroner Smirle Lawson announced to-day after consultation with Crown Attorney J. W. McFadden.

Massey, Manion, Lawson, MacPherson, Harris Nominated By Tories

Bennett Directs Appeal To Quebec For Unity Following His Presentation Of Full-Length Portrait In Oils

OTTAWA, July 7 (CP).—Either Nova Scotia, which has reared three Prime Ministers for Canada, or Ontario which has produced many more, will claim the next leader of the National Conservative party.

Today the National Conservative Convention will vote on the five candidates nominated last night, four from Ontario and one a native of Nova Scotia but now a resident of Saskatchewan.

The five, in order of their nomination, follow:

Hon. R. J. Manion, 56, Ottawa, surgeon, war veteran, ex-Minister of Railways and Canals, long time member of parliament for Fort William, Ont., a native of Pembroke, Ont.

Hon. J. Earl Lawson, 46, former Revenue Minister, member of parliament for York South, a lawyer, resident of Toronto and born in Hamilton, Ont.

Joseph Harris, 50, Toronto industrialist, born near Toronto, member for Toronto-Danforth for the past 16 years.

Denton Massey, 38, stalwart son of a prominent Toronto family, graduate of several universities, head of the famous York Bible Class and member of parliament for Toronto-Greenwood.

Murdock A. MacPherson, 46, native of Grand Anse, Cape Breton Island, adopted son of Saskatchewan which he served as Attorney-General, a war veteran and a lawyer living in Regina.

Voting Starts at 3 p.m.

At three o'clock (E.D.T.) this afternoon the convention will begin balloting, and the successful candidate will be he who first obtains a clear majority over the combined votes of all others.

After the first ballot the candidate receiving the lowest vote will retire automatically and any others who wish to withdraw may do so. This will be the order on each ballot until the victor has been chosen.

Several dramatic incidents marked yesterday's full program at the convention, highlight being the presentation of a full-length portrait in oils to retiring leader Rt. Hon. R. B. Bennett, and his speech of acceptance.

Mr. Bennett scored those within the party and outside which he described as reactionary forces which had moved to kill his reform policy of 1934.

"They said Bennett must be sacrificed," the leader said, "and he was sacrificed." But he had only been endeavoring to interpret and carry out the platform of the Winnipeg convention of 1927, he declared, a platform he had no part in formulating.

Mr. Bennett was visibly moved when the convention in silent tribute to his sister, Mrs. W. D. Herridge, who died recently, and when his nephew, six-year-old William Herridge, was formally installed as a delegate-at-large.

Bennett Appeals To uebec

Direct appeals were made toward the French Canadian delegates from Quebec by Mr. Bennett who asked them to join with all the delegates in taking a standing pledge to maintain a United Canada and the British Commonwealth of Nations.

Conant Proposes Probing Heiress' Death

TORONTO, July 7 (C.P.). — Attorney-General Gordon Conant today suggested to Chief Constable D. C. Draper that a full inquiry be made into the death of Mrs. Maybelle Horlick Sidley of Chicago, heiress to the Horlick Malted Milk fortune estimated at $20,000,000. Mrs. Sidley died here yesterday at Park Hall ,the Rosedale home of W. Perkins Bull, K.C.

"It is primarily a city case and any further interest or action on our part will depend upon the result of the inquiry General Draper is making," said the Ontario Attorney-General. "It is not necessary for us to take any action unless we are requested to intervene or unless there are unusual circumstances."

Asked whether he had been requested to have the inquiry made Mr. Conant said: "No, I would not say we have been requested to intervene, but the atmosphere of the case puts it on inquiry."

A private autopsy held late yesterday at the request of Mrs. Sidley's son showed the immediate cause of death was oedema of the brain, resulting from a lesion of the spinal cord. The autopsy was conducted by Prof. W. L. Robinson, assisted by Dr. G. W. Lougheed and Dr. Ric Linell. Dr. Ray Farquharson, who had attended Mrs. Sidley during the two days' illness which preceded her death, also attended the autopsy. Dr. Robinson stated death was due to natural causes.

The body of Mrs. Sidley was being taken to-day to Racine, Wis., for burial. She is survived by one son, her mother and two brothers. Members of the Sidley family were understood to-day to be conferring with a legal firm regarding the estate.

Effective Picketing

BURLINGTON BEACH, Ont., July 7 (CP).—Tommy and his younger sister, Ann, will get their sailboat next week. Their parents gave in today to their demands after a one-day picketing of their home.

"Unfair to their children" and "we were promised a sailboat" read the signs Tommy, 15-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Harrison Bourne, carried in front of his home in this Hamilton suburb. Ann gave only moral support.

"And did we get a razzing!" exclaimed Mrs. Bourne, as she told of the neighbors' reaction to yesterday's picketing.

Japan Eats 3-Cent Lunches As War Enters 2nd Year

TOKYO, July 7 (A.P.). — Japan observed the first anniversary of her conflict with China today with a curious mingling of deep religious symbolism and hard wartime practicality.

A moment of silence was observed at high noon. Throughout the day, thousands made solemn pilgrimages to military shrines where, according to the Shinto belief, still live the souls of men killed in battle.

The anniversary was used also to spur the nation to greater personal sacrifices to meet Japan's desperate economic struggle—which has paralleled the fighting in China.

No less important than commemoration of the dead was the duty for the Japanese to-day to live simply and frugally. Special lunches, costing 12 sen, about three cents, were eaten throughout the Empire.

Even Cabinet members and highest military and naval officials participated. The dish consisted of one ball of rice, about the size of a grapefruit, with a sour pickle embedded in the centre. Water replaced tea.

Premier Prince Fumimaro Konoye had an extra pickle, and remarked he "extravagantly" spent 13½ sen for his repast.

Dog Snoozes With Cop Baseball Fan Asks Police Hunt

Buffalo, N.Y., July 7.

G. M. FINNEFROCK, a baseball fan, of Batavia, asked police today to locate (1) his dog "Spike," and (2) the policeman who slept in Finnefrock's car during the ball game here July 4.

Finnefrock left "Spike" in his car during the ball game. Once he came out and saw a policeman sleeping in the car with "Spike," he told Inspector Thomas J. Gilligan.

"The policeman told me he was just resting. But after the game both he and my dog were gone."

Kobe Flood Subsides 303 Dead, 429 Missing

TOKYO, July 7.—(AP).— Flood waters that surged out of the hills surrounding Kobe virtually disappeared to-day and the stricken western harbor city began clearing away the wreckage.

Official figures put deaths at 303, with 1,200 injured and 429 missing. Fears were expressed the death toll might reach 1,000.

The flood cut through the middle of the city and damaged 60,000 houses with a wall of water nearly six feet high.

Nazis Grab Mexican Trade In Huge Oil Swap

MEXICO CITY, July 7.—(AP).—Germany appeared to be in a strong position to-day to get a good share of Mexican industrial orders through the sale of $10,000,000 worth of oil to a New York firm.

Official and unofficial sources said payments would be 40 per cent cash and the rest in credits for machinery and industrial products, most of which would go to Germany since she is understood to be getting more than half the oil.

The United States heretofore has received most of the Mexican import trade although Germany, especially eager for better foreign markets, has pushed sales of technical equipment, hardware and machinery to Mexico.

Mexico's position also was improved through the large oil transaction between the Mexican government and W. R. Davis, head of the New York company of that name. Mexico has had trouble disposing of export oil since March 18 when the government took over wells of 17 British and United States' concerns.

Davis Has the Ships.

Mexico has lacked markets and tankships, for oil companies control nearly all tankers. Davis has 27 tankships, and sources here said he was confident he could handle all the oil Mexico could produce for export.

Oil men mentioned the possibility that the expropriated companies might attach Davis' ships should they carry oil from expropriated

The men, Dr. Nathaniel Kleitman and Bruce Richardson, University of Chicago physiologists, went on a 28-hour, six-day week to see whether man can break away from the 24-hour seven-day week cycle.

Richardson has reported success with the experiment. He is the younger. Dr. Kleitman has been unable to change.

Mother, Sons Drown In Their Car

Only Father Escapes As Machine Topples Into Bay

TORONTO, July 7—(CP)—Coroner Dr. Smirle Lawson today considered the possibility of an inquest into the deaths of a mother and her two sons, drowned when their automobile plunged into Lake Ontario from a downtown breakwater.

Mrs. Frank P. Fairbairn and her sons, Robert, five, and Frank, eight, failed to respond to resuscitation attempts after their bodies were pulled from the lake last night. The woman's husband escaped by falling from the driver's seat as the left front door swung open. He was suffering from shock in hospital today.

Fairbairn, office manager of an Insurance Company here was rescued by men who wilded a pikepole. Mrs. Fairbairn came to the surface a moment after the car disappeared but sank again before rescuers leaped into the water.

Thousands of Toronto residents were along the waterfront when the twilight accident occurred. They crowded to the spot when word of the tragedy spread and extra police had to be called.

Witnesses said the car seemed to slow down as it neared the edge of the breakwater, then spurt and tumble down the eight-foot revetment wall.

"I must have put the car in the wrong gear," the distracted husband and father told police.

Stork Derby Shares To Go Over $100,000

TORONTO, July 7—(CP).—Considerably more than $100,000 will be paid each of the four mothers declared winners in the "Baby Derby" instituted under the will of the late Charles Vance Millar, eccentric lawyer who bequeathed the most of his estate to the mother giving birth to the most children in Toronto within ten years of his death in 1926. Each of the four winners has been paid $75,000 to date.

In addition to $434,476.62 in the Millar estate, there are "unrealized assets" of $133,629, and if these come to their face value there will be a total of $568,105.62. Fees of lawyers have not been finally passed, but those which have been taxed and passed to date total $12,961. Payments of executors have not yet been fixed.

The winning mothers — Mrs. Annie Katherine Smith, Mrs. Mary Alice Timleck, Mrs. Isabel Mary MacLean, and Mrs. Kathleen Nagle —each gave birth to nine children in the 10-year period. By a settlement arranged out of court they have paid $12,500 to each of two other competitors, Mrs. Martin Kenny and Mrs. Pauline Mae Clark.

Norwood To Enforce 30 Mile Speed Limit

(Examiner Correspondence.)

NORWOOD, July 7.—The village council met on Monday, with Reeve Thompson in the chair, and Councillors Rork, Scott and Lochead present.

Accounts totalling $1,013.56 were read and ordered to be paid.

Moved by Rork and Lochead, that the clerk request the Board of Education to forward their estimates for 1938 at once. Carried.

Moved by Scott and Rork, that Mr. Stares be engaged to repaint the speed limit signs at entrances to village to read, "Speed Limit 30 Miles Per Hour, Strictly Enforced." Carried.

Correspondence from Central Ontario Highways Association was received. After discussion it was moved by Rork and Lochead, that the clerk prepare a resolution urging the Department of Highways to adopt the recommendation of the association, copies to be sent the Hon. T. B. McQuestin, Alex. Elliott, M.L.A., and the secretary of the association.

On July 1 the Spencer re-union was held at Oak Lake, and despite the inclement weather was well attended, there being about sixty present. Gardner and son Ralph of Havelock.

"Kid" Picketers

LOS ANGELES, July 7 (A.P.). — Picketing yesterday in front of the American Can Company's plant looked like a grown-ups' "kid" party. Dressed in children's clothes, the 150 pickets demonstrated in protest against hiring of High School boys and girls in strike-bound Northern California factories of the company. Women strikers, attired in short skirts, pantaloons and hair ribbons, played jacks on the picket lines with all-day suckers in their mouths. Men wore short trousers.

LAPORTE, Ind., July 7—(AP)—James Darley of Detroit had a sweet time here while on a vacation tour.

Mule Rides Haystack Over Flood To Death On Fence

Mexia, Tex., July 7.

KENNETH PARRISH'S mule hitch-hiked a ride on a strawstack during a recent flood and that trip was fatal.

Flooded Mustang Creek surged over its banks and the mule scampered on top of the stack. The waters swept the straw 1,000 feet and dumped the mule into a barbed wire fence. The mule's injuries were so serious that the animal was destroyed.

Tories Vote

is no such thing as Liberalism," he said.

The resolution carried unanimously.

The text amendment submitted was on Empire relations. It read:

"1—We reaffirm our abiding loyalty to the Crown and the democratic system of representative self-government of which the Crown is the symbol.

"2—We recognize in the British Commonwealth of Nations a mighty influence making for world peace and the preservation of democratic institutions.

"3—We reaffirm the principle of maintaining unimpaired the ties that bind the British Commonwealth of Nations.

"We believe that the defence of Canada and the preservation of our liberties can best be promoted by consultation and co-operation between all the members of the British commonwealth of nations."

A Quebec Amendment

Mr. Butler said this resolution did not go far enough although he agreed with it. It should provide that no Canadian forces be sent overseas without a referendum of the people. He moved an amendment to declare the party opposed to sending forces forces outside Canada unless the step was approved by referendum.

The amendment follows:

"That the National Conservative party is opposed to sending of military forces beyond the confines of Canadian territory unless such a step is approved by the Canadian people in a referendum submitted to them."

Mr. Barre of Montreal said his group liked to regard the amendment as a preventive measure. "Let us draw a sharp distinction between temporary governments that come and go here as elsewhere, and the Empire itself."

Thankful for Chamberlain.

"Thank God we have Mr. Chamberlain in office today but tomorrow we might have Mr. Eden and his followers or a Socialist Government with a broad communist stripe. We might have a Government that would decide at once to put Mr. Hitler in his place."

"Why not?" queried a section of the audience.

Mr. Barre said he was in sympathy with those who raised that question but there was a group who believed such things were not their affair. His group would do everything in its power to help the Empire in time of peril but wished to guard against being plunged into war unnecessarily.

Mr. Eoll of Fort William, was opposed to the amendment. He believed it did not expres sthe feeling of the young people.

"We must come down to facts," he said. "We must realize that when a state of war is declared we must do nothing which will imperil our position. War requires immediate action."

If it were necessary to hold a referendum on participation in war the security of democracy would be weakened. Dictator nations would be encouraged.

Trounced Once Before.

Mr. Hughes of Lindsay, Ont., grandson of Sam Hughes. Wartime Minister of Defence, said the policy enunciated in the amendment was "given the trouncing it deserved" at the Winnipeg convention 11 years ago.

Quebec delegates were going about defence of the Empire in the wrong way when the proposed to allow politicians to argue on a referendum throughout Canada while the finest flower of western civilization was being destroyed by bombs.

Mrs Henry Joseph of Montreal opposed the referendum amendment, which, she said, would be a waste of time while the Empire was being attacked. Nowadays nations did not declare war and death might rain down suddenly, and there could be no time for a referendum. Mrs. Joseph said she was satisfied to leave such matters to the decision of Parliament.

Hon. Maurice Dupre said the principle of the amendment had been fought for by Rt. Hon. Arthur Meighen and General A. D. McRae. It meant simply that while "parliament has its rights, the people are supreme over parliament." He realized, however, sentiment in the convention was divided and so he seconded the motion to refer the resolution back to the committee.

Disputes Dupre Claim

Senator C. C. Ballantyne said Mr. Dupre was wrong. Senator Meighen at Winnipeg did not advocate a referendum of participation in war.

Closing the debate, Mr. Hanson said under the democratic system operating in Canada the people delegate to parliament the power to act for them. When the question arose whether troops should be sent out of Canada, it should be for the government and parliament to decide. That had been the attitude of Sir Wilfrid Laurier when he sent troops to South Africa.

The amendment was defeated on a standing vote and the main resolution carried.

Mr. Hanson presented the resolution on constitution and Dominion-provincial relations which follows:

"That in view of the fact that the Rowell commission has not yet concluded its hearing or made its report, that this national Conservative party reserves its decision on the constitutional issue."

Wants Action Now.

H. D. Graham, K.C., Trenton, Ont., said he felt that if conditions in Canada were to be rectified there must be revision of the constitution. The leader of the Conservative party had referred to the personnel of the Rowell commission "in strong but appropriate terms." Mr. Graham asked why the convention should reserve its decision "until this pack of Grits bring in their report." He moved the following amendment:

"That the National Conservative party is in favor of amending the British North America Act so that questions facing this Dominion today can be adequately and properly dealt with."

F. H. Bagshaw, K.C., Regina, said the resolutions had been presented after long consideration and was thought to be best designed to preserve unity and harmony in the convention. "You may raise controversial issues if you like but you do so at the peril of the Conservative party. You will be serving the heart's desire of Mr. Mackenzie King and his followers."

He was confident the entire resolutions committee of 80-odd members, representing all Canada, opposed the amendment.

The amendment was defeated and the motion carried.

Same Trade Policy.

The next resolutions dealt with Trade and Commerce. It read:

"This National Conservative Convention declares its continued adherence to its traditional policy of fostering and sustaining by fiscal protection Canadian labor and Canadian industries, especially the primary industries of Agriculture, Fisheries, Forestry and Mining, all of which are essential to the maintenance of a well-balanced national economy, while, at the same time, guarding against undue advantage being taken of the protection so afforded.

"This convention affirms the policy of having tariff schedules under scientific investigation by a permanent tariff commission, and that in case it is ascertained that unfair advantage is being taken of any customs duties imposed by such schedules, the tariff commission shall make recommendations, to which effect shall be given by the government, for reducing such rates of duty or for removing them from the tariff schedules.

"This convention affirms its firm adherence to the policy of preferential trade within the British-Commonwealth of Nations by which Canada obtains the boon of tariff preferences in the markets of the United Kingdom and of other Dominions.

"This convention believes that the external trade of Canada may also be increased advantageously by the negotiations, on a fair and equitable basis, of trade agreements with countries which are outside the British Empire, but that, in negotiations with foreign countries, the terms agreed upon should not be such as to impair the beenfits devised by Canada under existing agreements between Canada and the United Kingdom and between Canada and other British Dominions."

A resolution affirming the principle of protection for all Canadian industries primary and secondary, preferential trade within the Empire and continuance and extension of the Empire trade agreements carried without discussion.

Oppose Rail Unification

On railways and transport, the committee presented a resolution opposing amalgamation or unification creating a railway monoply, and urged the construction and maintenance of the trans-Canada highway as an additional undertaking.

"Whereas the Conservative party by the C. N. and C. P. Act of 1933 enunciated a policy of co-operation between the railways of Canada. Now therefore:

"The National Conservative party hereby declares its opposition to any plan of unification or amalgamation of the great railways of Canada and to any form of monopoly of railway transport either private or public, and pledges itself to the policy of obtaining co-operation between the two great railway systems under the direction of another political board, subject, however, to the protection and safeguarding of the rights of labor by adequate pensions for railway employees who may be displaced by such co-operation. Provided, however, that those railway lines which contribute to and are essential to the national development of our country be preserved and cintinued.

"That the national Conservative party through this convention reaffirms its policy of completing the construction of and the future maintenance of a trans-Canada highway from coast to coast as a national undertaking."

Three In Fight For Seat At Brantford

BRANTFORD, Ont., July 7 — (CP)—With three candidates in the field, party leaders today intensified the campaign leading to the provincial by-elevtion in Brantford riding July 20.

Speeches of Premier Hepburn and Conservative Leader Earl Rowe will be crowded with other active campaigning into less than two weeks as the Liberals fight to retain the seat left vacant last month by the death of Hon. M. M. MacBride, Minister of Labor.

Mr. MacBride, a supporter of the Government since first elected as an Independent candidate in 1934, joined the cabinet after last fall's election.

Walter J. Dowden, former Brantford Alderman, was chosen Labor-Progressive candidate unanimously last night by an open convention attended by about 100 persons. The meeting had been adjourned from Monday night while a committee investigated means of financing a campaign.

Mr. Dowden's hat was thrown into the ring with those of H. Louis Hagey, Liberal, and Reg Welsh, Conservative, chosen at previous party conventions.

The deadline for correcting voters' lists came last night. Official nominations will be held next Wednesday.

Tory Convention Highlights

OTTAWA, July 7.—(CP).—It is expected the Coliseum at the Ottawa Exhibition Grounds will be jammed to capacity to-day as the National Conservative convention winds up its three-day meeting with election of a new leader. It was filled last night for the first time since the convention opened during nominations for the leadership. About 4,000 persons crowded the seats on the Coliseum floor and the side tiers.

Hon. Maurice Dupre, co-chairman of the convention, drew a laugh at the opening of last night's session. The other chairman, John R. MacNicol had been telling the delegates they must have their identification cards today to receive ballots. As Mr. Dupre started to repeat the warning in French and he turned to Mr. MacNichol and in stage whisper that went out over the loudspeakers, said: "Hand me your card." He had forgotten his own.

Newspaper photographers propped up like jacks in the box before the Speaker's rostrum during the nomination meeting, exploding their flashes almost in the orators faces, but none faltered in their verbal appeals for the leadership.

Mr. NacNichol apparently likes the traditional seventh inning stretch at baseball games. After four candidates for the leadership had made their speeches, last night, Mr. NacNicol oredered the whole convention to stand up and stretch before the last speaker started. And the whole 4,000 did.

Several prominent Ottawa Liberals were noted in the crowd during the evening and one secretary of a Federal cabinet minister was an interested spectator.

Seconding the nomination of Murdock MacPherson last night, C. B. Smith of Halifax recalled that while they were born within 70 miles of each other in Cape Breton Island, their first meeting was in France, and while they were both subalterns in the Canadian Expeditionary Force they met in a dugout near Ypres.

The corps of newspapermen assigned to cover the convention telegraphed more than 100,000 words to newspapers througout Canada and in foreign countries yesterday.

"If they vote the way they applaud, I'm satisfied," was Joseph Harris' remark as the platform emptied after last night's parade of leadership candidates.

Rt. Hon. R. B. Bennett, retiring Conservative leader, placed a wreath of lillies, intertwined with leaves, on the statue of Sir John A. MacDonald on Parliament Hill. Mr. Bennett described him "as the father of our country and our party and when we look out over this Parliament Hill we can see the result of his labors."

Some of the women delegates at the convention confessed they had slipped away from convention activities to join the throngs of tourists seeing the Parliament buildings.

Geography Not Essential

PHILADELPHIA, July 7—(AP)—A woman does not have to be a geographical expert to be a good mother, says Judge Joseph G. Tumolillo. He awarded Mrs. Helen Jansen custody of her three-year-old son after she testified she didn't know where Pittsburgh was and couldn't tell the boy when he asked. The child's father, Harry, 24, charged Mrs. Jansen was "not intelligent enough to raise the boy."

KILLING OFF THE FOXES

Knows His Business

One of the outstanding figures in rowing circles on the continent is Al Ulbrickson (above), coach of the University of Washington eight that for two years swept everything before it in American rowing competition. The coach is seen casting a critical eye over his crew which this year went down to defeat at the annual Poughkeepsie regatta, held near New York.

2 Aberta Bills

ment before the Judicial Committee had become purely academic.

Colonel J. L. Ralston, K.C., counsel for the Alberta Press, suggested the Judicial Committee might consider whether the Press Bill, which would compel Alberta newspapers to print corrective or amplifying statements on Government policies at the direction of the chairman of the Social Credit Board, was substantially ultra vires.

The Supreme Court, it seemed, had disposed of the matter on the ground the Bill was ancillary to the Social Credit Act and, the Social Credit Act having fallen, the ancillary to the Act fell with it.

Lord MacMillan said that "if this appeal were dismissed the judgment of the Supreme Court would stand."

No Effective Bill.

"We though," Colonel Ralston continued, "that we might ask Your Lordships to deal with the Bill substantively."

Lord Atkin: "There is no doubt there is no effective Bill."

The argument, he added, would be merely a debate.

H. P. Duchemin, K.C., counsel for The Canadian Press, the Canadian Daily Newspapers Association, and the Canadian Weekly Newspaper Association, said vital questions arose in the press legislation. It raised the issue of whether a Provincial Legislature had the authority to control the press or whether that authority lay with the Dominion Parliament.

During earlier argument on the bank bill, Lord MacMillan observed that with regard to banks the provinces wolud have to step very carefully. They must recognize the banks primarily are under the Dominion Parliament. True, they could tax a bank, but it was a region in which they had to mind their step.

Lord Maugham commented the powers of the Dominion Parliament under the British North America Act might be nullified by a province imposing a selective tax on a particular branch property.

A province in that way might make copyright worthless and bills of exchange useless. There was, therefore, strong ground for examination whether the object of a provincial tax had an ulterior motive.

Arcand's Loyalty Is Acknowledged

MONTREAL, July 7—(CP)—Adrien Arcand, leader of the newly-formed national unity party, announced today he had received a telegram from the secretary to the governor-general, acknowledging the fascist organization's recent message of loyalty.

Text of the reply as released by Arcand, read:

"His Excellency the administrator desires me to thank you and all members of the National Unity party of Canada for your message of loyalty to King and country."

Mr. Justice L. A. Cannon is fulfilling gubernatorial duties during absence in England of Lord Tweedsmuir.

"Under the circumstances," said Arcand, "I might add that I find it very funny we have received no reply to the telegram of thanks we sent Mayor Stewart of Kingston."

Both messages were sent July 2 at conclusion of the party's first "national" convention at Kingston, Ont. Mayor Stewart had previously made it plain the fascists were unwelcome in his city.

WINNIPEG GRAIN

Lead Winnipeg grain ... ...

WINNIPEG, July 7 (C.P.). — Lack of support carried Winnipeg wheat futures lower to-day in the fourth consecutive drab session of the week. At the close quotations were 2⅛ to 1⅛ lower, with July at 95⅞, October 78⅛, November 78⅛a, and December 76⅞ to 77.

Apart from a little intermarket spreading involving purchase of Winnipeg December against sale of Chicago December and purchase of Chicago against Winnipeg October, operations were dull and routine.

Decoration Day Observed At Lakefield

(Examiner Correspondence.)

LAKEFIELD, July 7. — The annual Decoration Day service of the Lakefield Lodge, I.O.O.F., was held on Sunday, July 3 at Lakefield Cemetery. It was an ideal day for the occasion and Lakefield Cemetery was in fine condition.

The members of I.O.O.F. Lodge gathered at the Memorial Hall at 2 p.m. and formed into a parade. Led by Marshal Norman Moore, and accompanied by the Lakefield Citizens' Band, augmented by Peterborough talent, the Lodge marched north along Regent Street to Queen, then south on Queen to Bridge, where they paused at Memorial Park while Ellis Simpson, Noble Grand of the Lakefield Oddfellows, laid a wreath on the Cenotaph in honor of the Oddfellows who lost their lives in the Great War.

The parade proceeded down Bridge Street to the village limits, where the Lodge members boarded cars for the completion of the trip to the cemetery.

Rev. Mr. Creighton gave the address at the cemetery, and referred to the first funeral he officiated at in the Lakefield Cemetery, while stationed at Bobcaygeon. A resident of Harvey died on May 4, 1892, and the funeral drove all the way from Bobcaygeon by horse and buggy, he recalled.

Chaplain George Jackman led in prayer at the cemetery.

A large crowd of people turned out to the service and following the ceremony of decorating the graves.

Bailieboro Alsike Good But Scarce

(Examiner Correspondence.)

BAILIEBORO, July 7.—Haying in this district is about completed for this season. The crop in general is an average yield but not exceptionally heavy. Hay in most instances has gone into the barns in excellent condition as there has not been sufficient wet weather to do damage to any extent.

Fall wheat and early sowed barley is beginning to take on a ripe color and it is thought by week after next the wheat harvest will be in progress. There are a few good fields of alsike in the district which promise to yield a good crop of seed. Farmers will commence cutting alsike the beginning of next week.

Owing to the fact that there are many weeds growing on the farms in this district which seriously effect the grade of alsike seed there is not nearly as much alsike grown as there was a few years ago. Last summer a very large acreage of first seeded alsike failed to grow and as a result was plowed up last fall. So the acreage is small and farmers are of the opinion that good seed will demand a good price this year.

Some crops of early peas are commencing to ripen but owing to the damage wrought by the pea lice the yield will be considerable less this harvest.

Barley and oats and root crops are promising big returns and if suitable weather continues a bumper crop of rough crops and corn and roots will be assured.

Story of Two Homes

This world is made up of extremes. A few days ago a young man who works in Peterborough had an advertisement in the Examiner saying he wanted a loan of $75 in order to save his home. There was no catch in it; the man needed the money and he did not know where to get it.

Rather different is the report published from North York township not far from Toronto where a substantial old home was being renovated. Some of those old homes are splendidly built and when they are made over they are fine places in which to live. The work on this one had progressed well enough but the wife of the owner called one day on a tour of inspection and decided she was not going to like the place, and it was not the sort of house in which she wanted to live.

Her method of having things changed was direct. She ordered the workmen to go and secure some sticks of dynamite and place them in the foundation. They did so and after the blast the township clerk says there was barely enough left to make a hen coop. After which the lady started directing plans for a new home to her liking. Perhaps it's all right but when reading about it we couldn't help thinking of the man in Peterborough who wanted a loan of $75 in order to save his home.

Four Million Words

Those who are responsible for the publication of Hansard, otherwise the official verbatim report of debates in the House of Commons at Ottawa, have been estimating the number of words contained in the publication covering the session which closed a week or so ago.

In all there were 5,000 pages and each page contains about 800 words, which means 4,000,000 words in the debates, and there might possibly be more were it not for the even-toned announcement of the Speaker of the House saying that he regrets to inform the hon. member that his time has expired.

We submit that 4,000,000 words is too many. It means there must have been many of them which need never have been used because it is not humanly possible that 4,000,000 words of wisdom or constructive thought could have emanated from the members during a session of the House.

Just Step Outside

We read that in so cultural a place as the city of Toronto members of the Board of Education feel at times as though they would like to go outside the place of meeting and lick some person. There are times when they feel that words have failed to do all they desire to have done and even banging the fist hard on the table fails to diminish the wrath which cries out for more strenuous and visible forms of muscular expression.

Reading Toronto papers we find that Trustee Dr. Gordon Armstrong had made the statement he was ready to resign over some issue and a fellow member of the board asked in a jocular enough way, "Is that a promise?" Then it was that the Doctor member invited the inquiring gentleman to step outside; he didn't care if he was big or not quite so big; if he would but leave the premises he would attend to him.

And there are times when people the world over wonder why it is the League of Nations cannot be made to operate successfully. And the reason is that some nation is found to be asking some other nation to step outside and fight. For all we know the Toronto doctor trustee may at times join those who wonder what is wrong with the League of Nations.

Trying To Keep Bears

There was a picture in a Western Ontario paper the other day showing a man out in his yard with two bear cubs. He was feeding them from a bottle and it was stated the cubs had a liking for cold soft drinks. The man who has the cubs now was presented with them by a friends who secured them in the bush several months ago. The present owner expresses some doubt regarding the wisdom of keeping them and is frank enough in admitting he has no idea where he will put them when they start attaining size.

Taking cub bears out of the woods is rather an old custom and not a particularly good one either. Some of them are chained in yards and are a constant source of care. Nor can it be claimed that the bears themselves have a particularly good time.

We are certain enough the man in the Western Ontario community who is at present owner of two young bears would be glad enough to be rid of them. His friend may have had good intentions when he brought him the pair of cubs but the truth is he presented him with a problem.

According to the law of averages the newspaper reporter is as much entitled as any one else to get a break now and then. Elwood Anderson, who lives about 20 miles north of Apsley, was lost in the bush for five days. On Tuesday an Examiner reporter and camera man went to the district to pick up latest reports and talk with those who were conducting the search. Jack Peterson, the reporter, and Lewis Park who accompanied him found the lost boy. That is what we call getting a break.

It was the Examiner staff car which drove the lad home and he was miles away from where the searchers had been looking for him. For five days—and five nights this 17-year-old youth had been doing the one thing which saved him; that is, he had been following a stream. He remembered that his father once told him the stream would lead to a road, and it did. Searchers said it would be impossible to follow Paudash Brook because the growth of brush is too heavy, but that is what Elwood Anderson did. He was bitten by black flies and attacked my swarms of mosquitoes; he could find only a few huckleberries and some gum from trees, but he kept on following that stream. He was scratched and his clothing was almost torn from him, but he never left the course of the stream which would lead to the road.

Those who have never tried to make their way through some of the country at the place where Peterborough county joins Haliburton can have only a vague idea of the places through which Elwood Anderson passed. Getting lost and staying lost in there would be the most logical thing in the world. To emerge from it or be discovered by a party of searchers would be the most unlikely. Some of the searchers had been dragging lake waters thinking the youth must have been drowned. The searchers, and there were scores of them, were willing to drop everything and turn to the task which seemed most important, that of finding Elwood Anderson, but each succeeding day they had only the same report to make — they had not found him.

For a reporter to enter such a picture and find the lost boy a few minutes after he had emerged from the bush on the road he had been looking for, and miles away from where the searchers were operating — well the newspaper world will join in using that old phrase about getting a break.

Clear-Road Accidents

Analyzing car accidents may not do a thing to prevent more of them taking place, but when 766 were killed in the 1938 traffic the Motor Vehicles branch of the Highways Department has considered it of sufficient importance to look into the figures.

Car drivers know what it is to sit at the filling station and watch the moving figures which indicate the number of gallons and the price to be paid. Every time the filling stations of the province sell 10,000,000 gallons of gas it meant in 1937 that 22.8 persons were killed.

Of the 766 persons killed 73 per cent. were male and 27 per cent. female.

There were two accidents in each of which six persons were killed.

Of those who were killed 39 per cent. were pedestrians and 19.6 per cent. were drivers of cars. Passengers accounted for 28.8 per cent.

The largest age group in the list of fatalities is that between 15 and 35 years, and they numbered 32.4 per cent. of the total.

The worst hour of the day for accidents is between 5 and 6 in the afternoon, and 38 per cent. of all fatal accidents took place between 4 and 9 p.m.

The street intersection is not the worst place for fatalities, because 95 deaths occurred there against 244 on straight roads.

Taken by days of the week the accidents, fatal and non-fatal, took place as follows, the figures being on the basis of per cent.:

Sunday	14.8
Monday	12.6	Thursday	12.9
Tuesday	11.6	Friday	15.3
Wednesday	12.2	Saturday	20.6

The season of the year divided by quarterly reports shows accidents distributed this way:

January to March	15.5%
April to June	22.3%
July to September	34.2%
October to December	28.0%

Two-thirds of the fatal accidents took place in clear weather and on dry surface roads, and 98.2 per cent. happened on roads which were said to have been in good condition.

A Matter of Method

The attitude of Canada to the British Empire has been a point over which political parties in this land have been able to disagree on occasion. At times it has been a popular political issue and it has often enough turned on the point of which party could claim to be in possession of the greater amount of loyalty. That same question threatens to move toward the front again and we hope it is never made the basis of appeal to the Canadian electors in a general election.

At the outset we take it for granted that the Canadian people are loyal. They had occasion to prove it in the years 1914-18 and the manner in which succeeding governments since then have been paying our war costs without whimpering about it is evidence enough that we regard our war debts as honorable obligations which must eventually be discharged.

This paper does not believe that any political party in Canada has any monopoly on that quality which we call patriotism. When Canadians enlisted for war service they did not do so as Liberals or Conservatives or by reason of the fact that they had certain political affiliations or preferences. They went as Canadian citizens and nothing else.

The immediate problem which has arisen regarding the training of pilots for the Royal Air Force in Canada is one which should be approached not in the heat of political temper where snap judgments are apt to be dangerously made, but rather in the light of all the facts. The Canadian Prime Minister is prepared to have such training done here, but under auspices which would be under the control and operation of the Canadian Department of Defence — otherwise the Canadian Government. If British instructors were required they could be taken on the strength of the Canadian force. The Conservatives indicate that they are thinking in terms of defence on the wider basis of Empire consolidation of forces. The question of co-operating with the British people in strengthening their air force is not called into question. What difference there may be is one of method. If Canada is willing to expand its training facilities to add strength to the Royal Air Force then it would mean that Canada is prepared to pay for the needed expansion and if British instructors were added by being made members of the Canadian air force then they would be paid by the Canadian government.

It would be much better for Britain and much better for Canada to have such a question settled by conference and negotiation with one purpose in mind — that of strengthening the air force—rather than to have it settled on a political basis. The Canadian people, Conservatives and Liberals alike, desire to offer their sincerest form of co-operation to Britain, and that purpose can best be served by a system on which they can offer and will offer a united front to the world.

NOTE AND COMMENT

Now that Harry Oakes has secured a seat in the Bahamas House of Representatives we suppose Premier Hepburn will want to have him impeached.

Newfoundland is nearly four million dollars in the red but remembering the United States deficit that figures should not cause any undue concern.

Across the border our friends celebrate their national holiday by killing each other with automobiles and fire crackers.

Most convicted persons would be glad to have the Attorney-General review recent sentences if they could be assured that the revision would be downward.

Harvard's president is planning to spend his holidays climbing mountains in Canada. That is not our own personal idea of the peak of enjoyment.

Howard Hughes is reported ready to hop the Atlantic. He should make the trip flying backwards to get any real publicity out of the performance.

An English judge says some people enjoy being miserable, but the trouble is they get most of their enjoyment out of telling other people about it.

They are still counting the dead in the United States arising out of the celebration of Independence Day. The casualty list suggests that henceforth the day should just be taken for granted and not made a holiday.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Timleck of Toronto, part winners of the stork derby, are visiting in New York, and say they miss the children who have been left at home. If it hadn't been for the children they would also have missed the trip.

LEARNING

(By A. R. K.)

¶ Wee Angus heard about a wheel, and priced so low it was a steal, a chance that seldom came; he said the wheels were shined like new, there was a coat of robin blue; laid heavy on the frame.

¶ Wee Angus said 'twas awful cheap, the price would almost make one weep, because it was so low; it was the bargain of the year, he hadn't any cause to fear, he knew the thing would go.

¶ And so Wee Angus bought the bike, and started riding down the pike, you'd think he'd never tire; but after while when he came home, I heard him mention in a groan, he had a busted tire.

¶ He said it was worn almost through, he needed one, perhaps 'twas two, and then he'd be all set; he got the tires and then he found, the brake was slipping all around, it wasn't working yet.

¶ When he was riding up a hill, the chain came off to start a spill, Wee Angus skinned his back; he started looking all around, and after that he up and found, the forks had quite a crack.

¶ Wee Angus' chant of hate got sung, for he is sure that he got stung, of woe he's had a heap; he won't buy things at any time, because they've had a paint and shine—and have a price that's cheap.

"Religious Deadheads"

(St. Thomas Times-Journal)

AT THE MEETING of Elgin Presbytery of the United Church in Port Stanley an absent minister in a message wrote: "I send my regrets at having to leave the Presbytery. They are all I have to send." It turned out that this minister had financed the past year on less than $600 stipend.

We don't know what charge this minister served; it really does not matter, as similar conditions exist in other charges. The underpaid minister is almost everywhere.

And why is the minister underpaid? Partly because some of the people active in church work do not contribute as generously as they should. But principally because of the existence in every community of those who can quite properly be called "religious deadheads" or "pauper Christians." There are people in every congregation of any size whose connection with the Church is purely nominal. They attend occasionally perhaps, but they neither contribute to the funds nor bring a particle of spiritual power into the life of the Church; and they are interested in the minister solely when they need his services for baptisms, marriages, and burials. Ministers in many communities will admit that more than half the funerals they conduct are for people who seldom have darkened the church's door and whose contributions towards church work in their lifetime sometimes does not exceed in cents the number of years they have lived.

The excuse given by these people when they are charged with being shirkers—as they are—is that the "Gospel is without money and without price." But the agencies of the Gospel are not supernaturally sustained. Somebody has to foot the bill, and if the religious co-partnery is to be conducted on fair and equitable terms then everybody who is financially able should contribute his or her share. Men who wouldn't for a moment think about letting his next door neighbor pay for his groceries, his smoking tobacco or his meat-bill has no compunction—in many instances— about leaving his next-pew neighbors or his church-going neighbors to make good the loss incurred by his failure to bear a just proportion of the liabilities involved in the general administration of the church.

If everyone—active church members, and the religious "deadheads," the inactive church members and those who do not belong to a church but who on occasion find it necessary to call upon the church for funerals and other services—took congregational financing seriously and in a fair-minded and just manner there would be no underpaid ministers such as the man who so cheerfully sent along his regrets to the Elgin Presbytery.

To The Editor

NOT BOTHERED

Editor Examiner.

Sir: When looking over your column last evening I was surprised to read a rather severe criticism of the seaplane operating over Lake Chemong.

My own reactions to this new industry as well as that of my friends and guests were so different that I thought that I would like to mention here that we find real pleasure in watching this plane from our lake shore cottage.

To my mind it forms a picture of beauty as it soars past a background of clouds and drops gracefully to the water, then sailing across the surface of the lake to rise again in the air. And we do not find anything harsh or discordant in the hum of the plane and find it a new attraction to our beautiful lake.

OLD STUFF.

(Windsor Star)

WELL, WELL, all this stuff about research into the doings of children has not brought us very far. The National Council of Teachers at New York has been hearing the results of some studies into the habits of little boys and girls. After deep research, it has been found that among the jingles sung by children is this one:

I should worry, I should care,
I should marry a millionaire;
He should die, I should cry,
I should marry another guy.

Now, we have also been prompted into a little research, and we discover from some of our middle-aged friends that the little girls of two-score years ago were singing that very same jingle.

All of which goes to prove that a lot of this child research psychology is just so much hooey, or simply that human nature never changes.

TWO SIDES TO THIS.

Halifax Herald

SCIENCE HAS solemnly asserted that the next few years will be "quiet years" for radio listeners. Static interference will be at a minimum; at least some of the crackling, screeching roaring sound which have been emerging from loudspeakers at too frequent intervals of late will disappear.

The investigators have gone all the way to the sun to obtain their explanation. Mountain craters, into which a dozen earths could be tossed, have ceased erupting; the disturbances they have been creating in the atmosphere are gradually subsiding.

All of which leads to the question as to whether the elimination of static will be of any real benefit. At least it has served to blurr the cacophonies of sound which has emerged from the "hot music" studio and further blunted the edge of age old jokes.

• Says Freight Rates Injure Farmers

EDITOR EXAMINER, Sir; Within two weeks the farmers of Ontario will be harvesting their winter wheat crop. In 1937 the farmers who sold immediately after threshing got a price which they really could not complain about—in the neighborhood of $1.10 to $1.20 per bushel at country points. Those farmers who held their wheat took ever decreasing prices until today those who have the misfortune to be holding any, cannot sell for more than 70 to 75c per bushel. There is every indication that the crop this year will be equal to if not larger than last year.

As a farmer who this year will produce about a thousand bushels of fall wheat, I began to look around to find out just what the future of the market is likely to be.

To my surprise I find that owing to Australian competition, due largely to depreciated currency and very favorable transportation rates, Australian producers are able to lay down their wheat, and flour made from soft wheat like Ontario farmers are producing, at a lower price than Ontario farmers; hence the fall in Ontario wheat values. As a result, Ontario has largely lost the market in the United Kingdom for soft wheat flour, and what is also a very serious matter, the British West Indies market, which in the past has largely been supplied by Ontario, and which has almost entirely disappeared as far as Ontario soft wheat flour is concerned, due to Australian competition.

Further, the writer learns that with a view to relieving the Ontario wheat situation, the millers in Ontario who grind winter wheat had a deputation wait on the Government. The deputation brought to the notice of the Minister of Trade and Commerce the seriousness of the situation, and proposed that the export freight rate at present in force and which militates against the movement to export, be lowered. The rate from Western Ontario, say Chatham, to Montreal is 21c per hundred pounds. The millers suggested a rate of 13c for wheat and flour. American corn from Bay Ports— Sarnia, Goderich, etc.—gets a 13c rate, and the writer understands South African corn and Argentine corn get a rate of 13c from Montreal and 14c from Quebec City to Ontario points—to Chatham for instance. So the millers feel that considering all the circumstances, Ontario wheat and Ontario flour should get the same rate for export—viz. 13c.

To the writer it is most unreasonable that our railways should move foreign corn cheaper than they move Ontario grain. They are really subsidising the foreign farmer, or giving him advantages which they withhold from the Ontario farmers.

The writer feels that this is not a millers' problem but a problem for the farmer, because if the present unfair high freight rates on Ontario wheat are to remain in force, the difference will come out of the farmers' pockets.

Aside from the natural competition which the Ontario farmer will have to meet in marketing his wheat against the world supply of similar wheat, the discrimination against the Ontario farmer due to unfair rail rates will mean in the neighborhood of a million dollars out of the pockets of Ontario farmers.

The last six months Ontario farmers have been forced to feed quantities of fall wheat because of lack of a market, and wheat is not raised by Ontario farmers to feed—it is a cash crop.

One thing which it is difficult for farmers to understand is the fact that American, Argentine and South African corn gets a lower freight rate from our railways than Ontario grain and grain products. How long is the Ontario farmer going to submit to this unfair freight rate situation?

The writer feels that this is a matter which you are deeply interested in, and shall appreciate very much your giving it the publicity it deserves because he cannot see why Ontario farmers should sit idly by and see a situation develop—loss of the market for their wheat — and nothing be done about it. To me it would seem that these rail rates should be quickly adjusted.

Thanking you in anticipation for your co-operation.

• Rescued Binders Under Shell Fire

AT ONE SIDE OF French Village, now under construction in the Coliseum at Toronto a gang of workmen is busily engaged in erecting a facsimile of a shell-torn warehouse that once stood in Arras and which once occupied the combined feverish attention of the French Intelligence, the French General Staff and a lone 22-year-old youth who is now an important Canadian industrialist.

Over the door of the replica warehouse will be hung a sign which will read: "Machines Agricoles." The sign will be weather-worn and pitted with bullet holes. But it is a badge of recognition of an almost forgotten exploit of 22 years ago which was a legend in the Canadian Corps of ingenuity and nerve.

For 22 months the old warehouse had been almost forgotten and had been just another of the wayside hulks, roofless and wrecked, that lined the wayside as incoming and outgoing "parties" shuffled through the darkness behind the lines. And then overnight it became a matter of Head Quarters importance: it contained hundreds of Canadian-made agricultural implements at a time when French farmers were deprived of the man-power they needed and when the military government was howling for foodstuffs.

The warehouse was under almost constant fire. Snipers' bullets swished stealthily in the streets if life stirred; high explosive tossed bricks into the sky. Any indication of interest in the warehouse would have invited a bombardment from Fritzy that would destroy the precious machines agricoles. Lights were taboo. Yet France needed the implements and the High Command had ordered every cooperation in obtaining them for the harvesting of French crops.

So the French Intelligence went to work. Down from Paris came a youthful expert on machines agricoles; an entire detachment of French engineers was assigned to act under his orders. The expert was chosen because he could identify every part of a machine in darkness like the inside of his hat. Conferences, very secret and mysterious, were held and the whole French command in the sector walked on eggs as the job was launched. The machines agricoles had to be salvaged.

The party went up the line, slipped into Arras at night, worked until nearly dawn, and came sneaking back with numerous crates which were loaded into lorries and rushed to railhead. Dawn was breaking as the last crate went up the lines. Ane man in the party was missing; a piece of shrapnel got him. Undaunted, the party went back next night, and the next and the next. For three weeks, every night, they sneaked into Arras. And they brought out and assembled 150 binders and a hundred reapers and mowers. Two lads were buried from the party; a half-dozen got blighties.

The story was known all over the sector before long. An artist went up, after Arras was cleared a bit, and painted a picture of the old warehouse. Two weeks ago somebody saw the picture, recalled the exploit, and suggested the warehouse be rebuilt for the Corps reunion in Toronto. He went to see the young machines agricoles expert who had salvaged the equipment.

So, to cut a long story short, James S. Duncan, now general manager of Massey-Harris Company, Limited, late of the Royal Field Artillery, which he left after the Armistice with rank of captain, will visit French Village in a few weeks and take a look at a wrecked, twisted warehouse. But he won't have to lead any salvage parties into it at night.

• Recalling the Horse Hair Sofa

(From the Brandon Sun)

WHEN YOUNG bloods made their best toilets undecided generations ago they oiled their hair with macassar oil. Careful housewives counteracted with chair covers which took the name of antimacassars. And in those days we were inflicted with cushioned seats and sofas covered with horsehair cloth.

Sometimes that antimacassar period seems like an era to those of mellow age. The old horsehair sofa lasted years and years. No modern furniture can beat it for longevity, nor can youngsters slide on tapestry or plush sofas. There were no chesterfields for boy and girl friend in horsehair sofa days. Besides in those days the parlor was a place that was reserved for visitors and special occasions. One of these events was the visit of the minister to see if the youngsters had memorized the Catechism and the 14th chapter of St. John.

Another thing our youngsters miss is the art of demurely sitting on a horsehair sofa, especially if her parents were in the kitchen, where the squeaks of rocking chairs told whether the sentinels were on duty. It may be added that the old horsehair sofas and chairs were made all the more troublesome and hateful because of the tidies and antimacassars that were spread over them to make the showroom more beautiful and preserve the seats from wearing out too soon.

When they began to wear, the prickly surface was an abomination but to the very small children they were pure joy as they pulled the long coarse hair from the cloth and made it curl and uncurl into all kinds of shapes. It was only when we attained the mating age we began to desert horse-hair sofas and we never have given our children that slippery habit. They don't know their good fortune.

A Bible Message For Today . . . .

JESUS KNOWING that the Father had given all things into his hands, and that he was come from God, and went to God; he riseth from supper, and laid aside his garments; and took a towel and girded himself.

After that he poureth water into a bason, and began to wash the disciples' feet, and to wipe them with the towel wherewith he was girded...

So after he had washed their feet, and had taken his garments, and was set down again, he said unto them, Know ye what I have done to you?

Ye call me Master and Lord; and ye say well, for so I am. If I then, your Lord and Master, have washed your feet; ye also ought to wash one another's feet. For I have given you an example, that ye should do as I have done to you. . . .

This is my commandment, That ye love one another, as I have loved you.

Greater love hath no man than this, that a man lay down his life for his friends. Ye are my friends, if ye do whatsoever I command you.—John xiii, 3-5, 12-'5; xv, 12-14.

IT'S AN OUTRAGE.

(New York World-Telegram)

IN THE NAME of American manhood we rise to protest the anti-suspenders ukase just issued at Long Beach, N.Y., by Mayor Louis F. Edwards. The time to crush such tyranny is when it first rears its ugly head.

"Suspenders are taboo," says Mayor Edwards, issuing rules and regulations for the conduct of promenaders on the Long Beach Boardwalk. Male visitors may shed their coats if they wear belts to hold their trousers up, or even if they want to take a chance and wear no belts. They may prowl the Boardwalk in beach pajamas. They may bathe in topless suits. But they can't show suspenders.

Why what's wrong with suspenders? This nation was not made great by the sort of Nice Nellyism that regards a pair of honest braces as something to be hidden from sight.

ARMY IN THE FIELD.

A TRAVELLER noticed a number of men working in a field and stopped for a chat with the farmer who owned the land.

"Most of these men are ex-soldiers," explained the farmer.

"Oh, really!" replied the other. "They are all privates, I suppose?"

"Well, as a matter of fact, they aren't," said the farmer. "There are one or two privates, and one of them was a corporal. But one is a major and one a colonel."

"And are they all good men?"

"Well, the privates are pretty good on the whole, and the corporal isn't bad at all."

"What about the major?"

"Oh, he's only so-so."

"And the colonel?"

"Well," replied the farmer hesitatingly, "I'm not going to say anything against a man who has been a colonel in the army, but I've made up my mind that, whatever happens, I'm not going to hire any generals!"

A Bit of Nonsense

THE MORAL

The local minister and his wife were discussing two ex-parishioners who were in the news.

"Ay," said the minister, "I knew them both as boys. One was a clever, handsome fellow; the other was a steady, hard worker. The clever lad was left behind in the race of life, but the hard worker—well, he's died and left sixty thousand pounds to his widow. It's a great moral."

"Yes," replied his wife, with a smile, "it is. I heard only this morning that the clever one is going to marry the widow."

Urges Bahamas Should Assist

NASSAU, Bahamas, July 7. — (CP)—Advocating that the Bahamas make a contribution towards the "appalling cost" of Great Britain's re-armament, the Nassau Guardian editorially discusses "The Bahamas and the Defence Program."

"We here in the Bahamas are inclined to think that we have no concern in what the British government are doing with regard to the building of ships, airplanes and guns," The Guardian says. "The distance that we are from the probable fields of war tend to give us a feeling of security, a feeling that we are well within the safety zone. Such may be the case but we very much doubt it, especially in view of daily developments on sea and air.

"Aside from this fact there is the salient point that we are British, part of the world's greatest Empire and as such we derive untold benefits. We are very British and on all possible occasions we demonstrate our loyalty and affection for the mother country by decorating our buildings and lustily waving the Union Jack and singing the National Anthem. Now we have an opportunity of showing in a much more concrete fashion just how strong our patriotism is by making a contribution to the national defence fund."

Declaring that "it is not as though our finances were not in good order," The Guardian goes on to say, "we may be a very small part of the Empire, none the less we are of it and as such we should not be content to just sit back and hope that the others will do all that is necessary while we share in the benefits of the protection which the national defence program will give to the whole Empire."

Less Juvenile Crime

TORONTO, July 7 (CP).—Juvenile crime in suburban New Toronto is at a new low this year, according to police chief Hedley Padgett who has recorded only two cases. He attributed the low record largely to the fact that the town parks are open every Sunday for children's recreation.

"Our aim is to keep the children off the streets when they have idle time on their hands," Chief Padgett said. "This is especially true on Sundays. We encourage harmless recreation in the parks where we can provide recreation."

IN THE HYGIENE COURT OF JUSTICE

Business Man Accused of Rheumatism

(Before Mr. Justice Kruschen)

JUDGE: Have you anything to say, prisoner, before sentence is passed?

PRISONER: Well, my lord, I can't see that rheumatism is a crime.

JUDGE: In these enlightened days all preventable illness is a crime—just as much as suicide is. You've no right to have rheumatism—lowering your efficiency, spreading gloom, making yourself a liability to your family and your country, instead of an asset. Do you know that rheumatism costs the country millions of weeks of work a year?

PRISONER: But I couldn't help getting rheumatism, my lord.

JUDGE: Don't be so sure! The common causes of rheumatism are constipation and excess uric acid. As man to man, can you stand there and tell me that you can't prevent these?

PRISONER: Give me another chance, my lord!

JUDGE: In this Court of Hygiene we don't punish—we reform. You are released on probation for three months, on condition that you start and religiously keep on taking the 'little daily dose'.

PRISONER: But — but that's exactly what my doctor ordered me years ago!

JUDGE: And you took no notice.

PRISONER: Well, my lord, the expense. . .

JUDGE: Expense? Nonsense! The Kruschen habit costs much less than 1c a day, but it will reform you 'body and soul'. Get rid of the poisonous waste matter from your system, and you will be a new man—keen, cheerful, efficient, without a care in your heart or an ache in your body. Go away now and don't let me see you here again, or it may be a more serious matter. Next case!

KRUSCHEN SALTS

relieve constipation and rheumatism

Kruschen is a combination of several mineral salts which your body must get, in some way, to keep the blood pure, the inside clean, and the system generally toned up, but which you can't get in Nature's own way without abundant exercise and fresh air. You should have those salts every day; hence the importance of the "little daily dose". Every drug counter sells Kruschen in 25c, 45c and 75c bottles. It's the little daily dose that does it.

OSHAWA GM-MEN TROUNCE LOCAL BALLSTERS BY A 5-1 SCORE

Errors Costly In 9th Frame Of Good Game

Oshawa GM-men helped themselves to a 5-1 victory over the Petes here last night in a senior ball game before about 500 fans in Riverside Park. Two local errors in the ninth inning handed the visitors three runs to ruin a fine diamond scrap with the Petes, up till then, right in the hunt all the way.

The Motor City crew copped two runs and drove Whitehill to the showers in the fourth frame, but the Petes kept pecking away at Turner and were downright threatening in several innings. With the score 2-1 going into the ninth, it was still anybody's ball game until Jakafby weakened to load the sacks and then two fielding errors followed to blow the tussle sky high and put Oshawa in the C.O.B.L. lead over the locals.

Jack Turner twirled a good game for the winners but was in serious danger on several occasions. He got by fine till the fifth but had the bases full on him that heat with none out. Next inning saw one run score and the tying marker on third. And in the seventh there were runners on second and third with none out. However, the Petes lacked the punch in these stanzas to send in several counters. Turner was nicked for nine hits and one walk while fanning three. Biddle warmed up several times in case he was needed.

Goes Four Frames

Gunner Whitehill started for the Petes and got by in good style till the fourth. A walk, a hit batsman, a single and a double resulted in two runs and he was derricked. Joe Jakafby pitched lovely relief ball till the ninth when he gave his only hit and walked two. A couple of errors then followed. Barring these miscues, the fielding was fine on both sides, the locals having two and the visitors but one. Oshawa garnered only four hits as against nine for the losers, but the GM-men got seven bases on balls.

Cadd and Whatley led the locals at bat with two hits each in four tries, while McGarry topped Oshawa with two in three attempts, one being a double to drive in two runs. The visitors pulled off two infield double plays and the Petes had one. With none of the pitchers strong on strikeouts there was plenty of work for the fielders and they looked good most of the distance.

Hurst walked and Rowden singled in the first but were left stranded and the Petes went back in order. Jubenville's walk was wasted in the second and Cadd's infield hit meant nothing when a double play followed. Foley in the third was hit by the pitcher but a double play finished him off shortly, and the Petes went back one-two-three in their end of it. Oshawa got two runs in the fourth when Wallace walked, Jubenville singled and both raced home on a double to the score-board by McGarry. When Turner was hit, Jakafby replaced Whitehill to end the inning, the Petes' only try being a single by Clark. Oshawa went down in order in their fifth but the Petes loaded the sacks on hits by Cadd, Burton and Whatley with none out; however, Hollingsworth fouled out, Jakafby went out to first and Deadey rolled to the pitcher.

Petes Get One

Normoyle's walk came to nothing in the sixth while the Petes again pressed in their part of the frame. With one out Murphy and Calladine singled. Cadd forced Calladine but Murphy reached third and scored on a passed ball, with Cadd taking second and moving up on Normoyle's error. Burton grounded out. Oshawa didn't get to first in the seventh but Whatley and Hollingsworth opened the Petes' inning with hits. They were sacrificed by Jakafby, but Deadey and Clark rolled out. Neither side did a thing in the eighth.

The game blew up in Oshawa's half of the ninth. McGarry led off with a single and was sacrificed by Normoyle. Turner popped out. Foley and Dalton walked to load the sacks, Foley's being an intentional pass. Hurst's grounder was muffed by Clark at short and two runs scored. Another tallied right away when Burton made a bad throw to third. Rowden flied out. In the Petes' half, Burton walked, Whatley flied to second and Hollingsworth hit a liner to third with Burton being doubled off first.

Preakness Winner Is Sold For $40,000

INGELWOOD, Calif., July 7 (AP).—Dauber, ailing Preakness winner, was reported sold for $40,000 today while his arch rival, Lawrin, Kentucky Derby champion, joined him on the shelf.

Although a bowed tendon forced Dauber out of the $50,000 three-year-old stakes at Hollywood Park last week E. E. Fogelson, Texas oil man, has agreed to pay William C. Du Pont's Fox-Catcher farm $40,000 for the chestnut stallion, it was learned.

Fogelson plans to keep Dauber inactive for at least three months, then train him slowly for the winter season.

AND THE ORANGEVILLE outfit will play lacrosse here tomorrow eve against the Petes. It will be an O. L. A. senior "B" fixture at nine bells in the George St. arena, the first appearance in Peterborough of Orangeville this year. Possibly a July 12th date would have been more appropriate, eh? The visitors are up around the top of their group, so they must be classy, and the Petes are poison on their home floor to opponents. Hence fans and femmes can figure on a sweet scrap, we imagine. There will also be a midget melee at 8.15 betwixt Rotarians and Y's Men's teams and, if the kids have their new sweaters, it'll be quite a sight to see the young gaffers fighting it out. Ought to draw quite a crowd, this lacrosse offering on the morrow.

HOCKEY CLUB holds its re-organization meeting for the winter of 1938-39 tonight at eight o'clock in the Chamber of Commerce. You are invited to attend, and you and you and you. All those interested, players officials and fans. They hope to elect the new slate of officers and go over plans for the coming winter. A good idea at this time, provided there is a decent turnout, as puck plans should be made plenty in advance in order to prepare for a successful season. Come out and elect the officers you desire.

THERE WAS A ball game last night over at Riverside Park and a fairish sort of crowd saw Oshawa GM-men take a 5-1 win over the Petes. To put 'em in undisputed possession of first place in the Central League standing. Wait a second, now, there is still a chance of the old C. O. B. L. pulling through. It has weathered so many storms in its varied career that one can't give up the ship till the water is rolling over the masthead. Latest dope is that the C. O. B. L. and the O. B. A. officers will confer in Toronto this Friday night and see if the mess can't be straightened out. And Secretary Byron of the Kingston Ponies 'phoned Max Swanston last night that the Ponies might still return to the fold if re-instated right away. He said Handford, Paczkowski and McIntyre would return to play, if asked, and they were willing to drop Pollar. The Ponies are down some two hundred bucks now—and won't attend the Toronto meeting—but would like to play ball this season. Which is fine news. It's now up to the O. B. A. The Petes, meantime will play in Oshawa on Saturday.

LAST NIGHT'S game was a nice one to watch till that lousy ninth frame. It blew up then higher than the demands of Barbara Hutton's foreign hubby! Score was 2-1 and the Petes were threatening like a lawyer's letter all the time but they couldn't just seem to supply the needed punch. Then WHAM goes the old ball game with Oshawa getting three unearned runs in the ninth. In three frames the Petes had runners on second and third with one or none out but doggone if they could get them in—except for one run. While Oshawa, though outhit 9 to 4, cashed in with timely bingles, too many walks and those two costly errors. Turner was decidedly wobbly the last half of the game and Jake Biddle kept warmed up, but the Toronto twirler managed to stagger by.

* * * * * * *

IT WAS THE kind of game that sends you away highly disgusted. You don't mind a 2-1 licking, and it was a neat game to view at that stage. But two bad errors and three unearned runs just took the fight out of the boys in the final frame and sent the fans home muttering. However, that's baseball for you. Whitehill had trouble in the fourth and gave way to Joe Jakafby and the big boy pitched fine ball, though weakening in the ninth. His dinky curves worried the GM-men, who couldn't get hold of more than a small piece of his pitches and grounded out regularly. Cadd and Whatley hit well for our gang, and young McGarry for the visitors.

AT THE BOWL last eve, C. G. E. gal softballers banged the ball cockeyed for an 18-10 smirk over Lindsay. Before a big crowd which was swelled by a flock of disgruntled fans from the baseball match, and they took much pleasure in seeing one local squad triumph. Marilyn McCarthy returned with little rest to the diamond wars and pitched good ball, even if having trouble locating the plate. The Scugog contingent used two without effect as the Electrics' bats were potent last evening. Homers, triples, doubles and singles came pouring off the pine as C. G. E. moved into a second-place tie with the Keenesters. Some fair fielding shown throughout and also some defence work as spotty as a leopard's overcoat. Keene and Lindsay tangle at the Bowl on Friday night.

GEORGE ST. Majors are worthy senior champs of the church Softball League, last night knocking off Mark St. 9-8 in overtime at the Oval in the deciding playoff game. Had to come from behind twice, once in the 10th heat, to get the decision—and our congrats to them. The senior series in this lively loop has been sort of going to Knox or Mark St. year after year. Mark St. made the finals again this year and Knox went out in the semi-finals, while the Majors finished with the cup. Of the Majors' four losses this year, two were to Mark St. and two to George St. Buzzers, who were well down the ladder. Much of the credit goes to Pitcher Ron Akers who won all nine starts for the Majors this schedule. Also Manager Ron Payne rates credit. He returned to the Church Loop after a four-year lapse but was largely instrumental in forming this circuit and played on the first winning junior team. All the victors rate a hand.

* * * * * * *

AND NOW THE Church Softball League is washed up for the year. Of the 18 teams that started it off, George St. secured winners in the senior and juvenile series, while St. John's won junior honors and All Saints mopped up in the bantam division. Mark St. were finalists in senior and juvenile, while All Saints Juniors and St. James Bantams also made the finals. Fine weather and well-matched teams made ita most successful loop for the benefit of over 200 players, who ran off 92 games on six different diamonds. Executive of Len Agnew, George Beauclere, Lloyd Parnall, Nelson Hewett, Jack English, Stuart Laing and Don Charlton, were kept busy but made a fine job of it. Most of them also looked after minor teams or played. After the tilt last eve, three cheers were given the umps of thesenior series. Harry Walsh and Bern Kearney did the first game, Jim Ellis and Jack English the second, while Percy Schweirs, Sam McKinlay and Roy McWilliams handled the third. Our personal thanks to Don Charlton for his work in connection with giving the league publicity and this sheet the news.

World's Second Best

"Look! See, I can so bend in the middle. Don't let them guys tell you can't," says Tony Galento, the beer-barrel bodied man, and, as he himself will shyly admit, if cornered and pressed for an answer, the greatest fighter in the world. By one of those strange whimsies that make boxing boxing (what more could one say?) the N.B.A. has declared Anthony No. 1 challenger for the heavyweight crown held by Joe Louis. His rating was based on "consistent knockout wins and willingness to meet anyone." P.S.: Tony can also bend at the neck.

George St. Wins Church Title

George St. Majors won the Church Softball League senior title for 1938 last night at the Oval with a 9-8 nod over Mark St. in the deciding game of the playoffs. A big crowd saw a hectic contest which went overtime, the Majors tying the game up in the ninth and then coming from behind again in the 10th to win out. Seven runs in the first two innings on three hits and loose fielding gave Mark St. a commanding lead, but they were then held in check till the 10th when Mgr. M. Hunter's double gave them the lead again for a moment. Ron Akers, hurling his third tilt in three nights, was going well for the George Streeters.

George Gatfield's homer in the first was the lone hit off Sid Craig of Mark Street till the fourth, but then George St. began whittling down their rivals' lead and a double by Akers in the ninth sent it into extra innings. Mel Hunter went in to pitch for East City, but the tying and winning runs counted on Griffiths' fourth hit of the game, after two fluke bunts were bungled. Griffiths shone at bat with four hits, while Gatfield, Dunkerley, Wright, M. Hunter, Boulter and Townsend got two each. Some good fielding was shown by Darwin, Wells and Gatfield in the outfield and the rival shortstops, Dunkerley and Parsons. President Len Agnew of the league presented the cup to Manager Ron Payne of the Majors. The teams:

Not Tidiest Way To Do It But the Best

An army is not the only thing that marches on its stomach. More than one pennant has been won in the past when ball teams have done that little thing, only more literally than any army. Here's a striking illustration as Ernie (Chief) Koy of the Dodgers demonstrates how to get back to the bag without being put out. Harry Gumbert (you can't see him), pitching for the Giants, saw Ernest straying away from first base and his snap throw to Sam Leslie, seen taking the ball, almost got the Chief. That head peering around the side is Umpire Lee Ballanfant and he decided the Dodger outfielder got back to the base in time.

NATIONAL LEAGUE TEAM WINS BIG CHARITY BOUT 4 TO 1

Myth Of American League Supremacy Exploded By Senior League All-Stars

By Gayle Talbot
(Associated Press Sport Writer.)

CINCINNATI, July 7 (A.P.).—The several million National League addicts, who have taken an awful lot of lip from the opposition in recent years, were bouncing around on their toes to-day and telling anybody they could back into a corner about the merits of inside, scientific baseball.

They were pointing out, with gestures, how their All-Stars whipped the best the American League could produce, 4-1, in the big charity bout the Nationals were about ready to toss in the towel. There was a last-ditch air about them as they went into yesterday's game. From President Ford Frick on down, they were jumpy and serious and determined. Another drubbing would have broken their hearts.

They came out of it looking like men who had received a reprieve from the Governor. Frick was asking hostile sports writers, "How do you like the minor leaguers now?"

Type of Play Worked.

At that, there is nothing much more impressive in sports than a demonstration of the National League's type of tight, play-for-a-run baseball—when it works. And it worked yesterday. It was Bill Terry baseball, the kind that has been winning National League pennants, and for an afternoon, at least, it was better than all the sluggers the American League could muster.

Fielded Perfectly.

Terry sacrificed potential batting strength to put an air-tight defence behind his pitchers. The Nationals made eight hits, only one more than their adversaries. But they fielded perfectly, even brilliantly, while their opponents of the fat batting averages made four glaring errors and literally threw away the game.

Johnny Vander Meer, Cincinnati's sensational young southpaw, held the Americans to a single hit for the first three innings. Bill Lee of the Chicago Cubs shut them out with one bingle, a fluke double by Bill Dickey, for the second three. Mace Brown of the Pirates repeatedly pulled himself out of danger and gave up only one run to the vaunted American Leaguers in the final three.

The highlight of the game was a fielding gem by Joe Medwick of St. Louis Cardinals in the ninth. Joe DiMaggio of the Yanks led off with a single, and the National League adherents among the 27,000 spectators shuddered as Dickey drove one at the scoreboard in deepest centre. Carl Hubbell and Jim Turner were warming up furiously in the National's bull-pen.

A Heroic Catch.

Medwick took one quick look, and tore back at full speed. At the last instant he jumped up and speared the ball, and it stuck in his glove as he somersaulted. It was a heroic catch.

Joe Cronin, the next man up, doubled deep to centre, his second hit of the day, to give the Americans their only run and avert what would have been the first shutout since the All-Star games began. But that was all. Lou Gehrig lined out to Ival Goodman in right, and Brown closed the books by striking out Pinch-hitter Bob Johnson.

Vernon (Lefty) Gomez of the Yankees, victor in three previous All-Star games, had the misfortune of being charged with the defeat, though he allowed only two hits in his three-inning tenure.

Going For a Walk

Still one of the Dominion's outstanding track stars is Hank Cieman, ABOVE, of Toronto, who, at the United States senior A.A.U. track and field meet at Buffalo, set up a new record for the 3,000 metre walk, hustling over the route in 13:39.9.

HOUGHTON BATS WELL

Buffalo Bisons Win Two From Toronto

NEW YORK, July 7 (AP).—The Newark Bears still are sporting a big lead in the International league but erratic play recently combined with the onsurges of Buffalo Bisons and Syracuse Chiefs, has begun to pep up the race.

The Bears have dropped eight of their last 15 games and, encouraged by the slump of the champions, the Bisons and Chiefs have started to move. The runner-up Bisons have won eight of their last 10 games while the Chiefs, three games farther back, have lost but two of their last 13 starts.

These recent developments are having their effect on the turnstiles and bumper crowds turned out last night to see the Bears, Chiefs and Bisons perform. A crowd of 11,600 in Syracuse saw the Chiefs make it four in a row over Baltimore by winning 5-4, and 8,000 customers were out to wach the Bisons take a doubleheader from Toronto Maple Leafs 6-3 and 3-0.

10,321 Saw Game.

There were 10,321 spectators in Roosevelt stadium in Jersey City when the Little Giants stopped the Bears for the second straight day 6-5.

The Bisons got six-hit pitching from both Bill Harris and left Archer in sweeping the bargain bill. Harris, after allowing four hits and all three Toronto runs in the first inning, settled down and pitched two-hit ball the rest of the way. Ollie Carnegie and Woody Abernathy belted out homers to lead the offensive. George Savino was the Bisons' big gun in the second game as he rammed out a double and two singles.

In the fourth clash, Rochester Red Wings scored a 4-1 triumph over Montreal Royals. Sammy Baugh pumped out a homer in the seventh inning with Sam Narron on base to drive in what proved to be the winning tally.

Six Golfers Tied In First 18 Holes

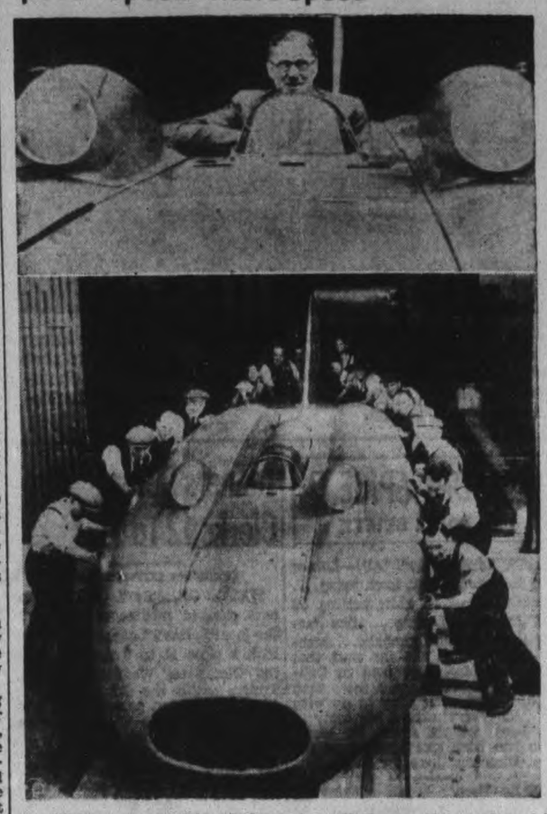
SANDWICH, England, July 7.—(CP).—With six eager shotmakers tied for first place, the vanguard of the field teed off early today for the second 18 holes in the 72-hole competition for the British open golf championship.

The half dozen at the top of the heap after the first day's play had toured the Royal St. George's course in an even 70. They are 18-year-old Jimmy Bruen, the Irish Walker Cup surprise package; Johnny Fallon, the qualifying medalist from Huddersfield; Jim Adams of Scotland, Ernie Whitcombe and Bill Cox of England; and Marcel Dellemagne of France. The defending titleholder, Henry Cotton was in 27th place with a 74.

Wally Smithers, who once was assistant professional at the Royal Ottawa golf Club, needed 73 for the opening 18.

Jim Braid, five times champion and now 68 years old, was jubilant after posting a 74 that tied him with Cotton. The defending champion had a bad time of it. On the incoming nine, he hit into five bunkers and the days two heavy rainstorms did nothing to improve his mood.

Speed - Speed - More Speed



This man and his car have travelled over the surface of old Mother Earth at a faster pace than any other human or machine, but, never satisfied, they're out to better their mark. Capt. George Eyston is the man peering at you out of the cockpit of his famous Thunderbolt, the car in which he set the land speed record of 312 m.p.h. over Utah's salt flats last year. Capt. Eyston has had the car re-designed since then and sets sail for United States this month determined to smash the "old" mark. Workmen are seen in the LOWER picture wheeling the 34-foot car out of the shops at Chiswick, England, at the completion of its rebuilding.

Lacrossers Play Here On Friday

Orangeville and the Petes clash here tomorrow (Friday) evening at nine o'clock in the George St. arena in an O.L.A. senior "B" fixture. It should be another lively lacrosse contest and with a big crowd of fans in attendance. All that is known here of the Orangeville outfit is that the team was on top of their grouping for a time this season and now stand in second place. They must have a good gang of experienced gutted-stick players to be up near the top at this time of the year, and the locals are likely to run into plenty of stiff opposition in this Friday night's scrap on the local dirt floor, under the lights.

The Petes expect to be at full strength for the game, and will be in tip-top shape after their rugged battle the night before last in Brooklin, when they fought to a 7-7 overtime tie. Fans in Peterborough and the district are seeing plenty of fine lacrosse jousts this season in a much tougher grouping than the one the Petes jilted through last year. The locals already have one loss and two ties checked against them but are well up in the race. They hope to continue their home winning streak at the expense of the Orangeville crew, but they look for a real fight.

New Yorkers Are Teams To Beat In Big Leagues

NEW YORK, July 7 (CP).—The possibility of a third straight subway world series for little old New York is becoming less far-fetched than a trip to the moon in a rocket ship.

A month ago, such a suggestion would have resulted in hilarity from all sides. But on the basis of performances of the last couple of weeks, it is different now.

Neither the Yankees nor the Giants are a shoo-in for the current pennant chases, but with the National leaguers sporting a 3½ game bulge in their race and the Yanks finally clicking offensively and defensively, Bill Terry's troupe and murderers' row are once again definitely the teams to beat.

106 Hits for 88 Runs.

Until they were tied in the late innings of the second game of the July 4 doubleheader in Washington, the Yanks had an undefeated run of nine straight. During that time, they clubbed out 106 hits for 88 runs. 17 of them homers, and allowed the enemy just 18 tallies. That string sky-rocketed them from a spot dangerously near fourth place to a tie for the top with Oscar Vitt's Indians from Cleveland.

On the National league side, meantime, the team that beats the Giants must be one that doesn't beat itself, for all the takeoffs on terrible Terry in the last year or so, the guy still is as smart as they come in baseball. He may not have the man-for-man class boasted by the other clubs in the league, notably the "Brainy" Chicago Cubs and the somnambulistic Pirates of Pittsburgh, but he has his lads in there punching day after day, paced by pitching power, and, as was the case against Brooklyn Monday, ready to break out in a rash of base hits.

Their closest rivals at the moment are the Pirates, if the bucks can get over their lack of familiarity with the high altitude for this late in the season they may make things pop before it's over.

Junior Cricket Is Won By "The Rest"

PORT HOPE, July 7. — In a junior cricket match played at Trinity College School on Wednesday, The Rest beat Port Hope by the score of 57-44. Bolte for The Rest batted well for 23, while Morris and Ketchum made a good partnership for Port Hope, but the majority could do little with the bowling of Wilson and Bolte.

Results:

The Rest — A. Bolte (capt.) 23, S. Haas 4, G. Dykes 3, G. Leach 1, R. Ormsby 1, F. Bolte 2, A. Walker 0, J. Wilson 5, P. Walker 0, S. Wilson 11, A. Dykes 1. Byes 6. Total 57.

Port Hope — D. Morris (capt.) 11, B. James 2, S. Ketchum 18, A. Ormsby 4, M. James 2, P. M. Ketchum 0, R. Morris 0, J. Rigby 0, C. Ketchum 0, T. Willis (not out) 0, P. A. Ketchum 0. Byes 7. Total 44.

Injured Soccer Players Cup Draw

The draw for the Holloway Injured Players' Cup resulted as follows:

Thursday, July 14—Brinton vs. Canadian General.

Saturday, July 16—Brinton Field Day.

Tuesday, July 19—C.C.F. vs. Deloro.

Thursday, July 21—Corinthians vs. Brinton or C.G.E.

Saturday, July 23—Injured Players' Cup final.

Referees to be appointed at next meeting.

Soccer Notes

Interested spectators at the game on Tuesday night were Alexander Anderson from Cornwall, who used to play for the Caledonians; also Tommy Williams, who played for the Quaker Oats and the Packers. Two visiting old players took part in the game against the Brintons last night—W. McDougall at inside left, now lives in Detroit; and Bert Wade, now living in Los Angeles, Calif., playing at left back.

To-night Brintons meet Canadian General in a league game, and this promises to be an interesting battle from beginning to end.

For many years the board has endeavored to get new goal nets, and after a lengthy discussion the executive appointed a committee to investigate and report to next meeting.

Oshawa Juniors Beat Bowmanville

OSHAWA, July 7.—Oshawa Juniors climbed into a tie for first place in the Lakeshore grouping of the O.B.A. when they handed Bowmanville Juniors a 8-7 defeat in an extra inning of a scheduled twilight fixture at Motor City Stadium last night. Shetwosky gave Oshawa a big lead in the initial frame when he homered with two on.

Electrics Win Over Lindsay

C.G.E. girls took an 18-10 softball win over Lindsay in a second half-fixture last evening before a big crowd of fans at the Bowl here. Hard hitting in bunches gave the Electrics their runs in several heats of a wide-open struggle. The win puts the C.G.E. lasses in a second-place tie with Keene, half a game behind Westclox. Marilyn McCarthy held the Lindsayites to seven hits while fanning 10 and issuing nine in a good performance, her second straight game—though she was somewhat wild. Her support was mostly good. M. McCabe started for Lindsay but was driven out in the seventh after being nicked for 14 hits and three walks while fanning two. J. Corley finished up, giving six hits and three walks. Their support was shaky at times.

M. McCarthy got four hits for C.G.E. while E. Craig hit a homer and two singles. A. Clark and P. Bigelow conked a double and two singles each, and M. Batley and G. Mann each got a triple and single, with B. Lee banging out three singles. J. Corley of Lindsay hit a triple and single, and M. McCabe got a three-bagger. Nice fielding was shown by M. McCarthy, A. Clarke, J. Corley and M. Campbell. A. De Carlo was hurt in the second but stayed in the game. The teams:

Smythe of the losers was reached for 10 hits and six free bases. Giardino hit a triple and a double for the Greyhounds. OToole fanned nine and Smythe five. The teams:

Hardly Dignified, But All In the Game

Tennis players are pictures of dignity and grace as they move with alacrity from one part of the court to another... a large part of the time. But they have their less dignified moments as Alice Marble will testify. She is shown on hands and knees after tripping while going after a hard shot to the sidelines in the all-England championships, recently concluded at Wimbledon.

Campbellford Club Beats Point Anne

(Examiner Correspondence.)

CAMPBELLFORD, July 7. — Campbellford Tennis Club took four of the six events in a tournament staged with the Point Anne Club here on Wednesday afternoon. It was their second victory and their second game on the home courts this season and was featured by a brand of tennis which at all times kept spectators keenly interested. In the six events the locals took the two men's doubles, the first mixed doubles, and the men's singles, with the latter two events going to three sets.

In the absence of Harry Free, Wib. Kingston teamed up with Cliff Weston, to win with ease from Bud Rosberry and J. Hart of Point Anne, with the score for the two sets being 6-3, 6-3. Paul O'Sullivan and R. Linton held T. Bowler and J. DeForge to a 6-2, 6-3 score in the second event of the afternoon, while Don Meyers and Jerene Malcolm were agai nteamed up by the locals and successfully took a victory from A. Genereux and Pearl Tulk of Point Anne, after three strenuous sets of which the visitors captured the first before the local team were able to hit their stride and take the event 2-6, 6-0, and 6-4. It was in the second mixed doubles that the visitors established themselves on the winning side when they came back after a love set to win from J. Heptonstall and V. Weston. Eileen Williams and R. Hutchings played for the winners and the score was 0-6, 6-2, 6-4.

Ken Kingston and C. Fraser gave a nice exhibition of tennis in the men's singles, which was another victory for the Campbellford club, with three sets being played to establish the winner. The score was 3-6, 6-1, 6-4.

The ladies' doubles event was a Point Anne victory with D. Long and Hilda Callaghan defeating E. Ferris and M. Davidson 2-6, 6-0, 6-4.

Stirling Bowlers Play Campbellford

CAMPBELLFORD, July 7. — Twenty-two members of the Stirling Club were guests of Campbellford bowlers on Monday evening at a jitney tournament in which eight and ten-end games were the feature of the evening. Mrs. A. G. Thompson of town captured the high score for the ladies and was closely followed by Mrs. W. J. Whitty and Mrs. Farr of Stirling, who were tied for second place. The prizes to the ladies were glass water sets, with Mrs. Whitty being announced the second prize-winner as the result of a draw.

For the men, C. F. Linn of the visiting club was winner of first prize, an artisan knife, and Joseph Poulton of Campbellford, who was highest among the locals, was awarded a flashlight.

Following the games lunch was served by the ladies of the local club, and an invitation to participate in a mixed tournament to be held in Stirling next Wednesday was extended by Dr. Carleton, president of the Provincial Lawn Bowling Association.

Ottawa Champion Defeats Ridgway

OTTAWA, July 7 (CP).—Play in the Ontario tennis championships continued here today on the Rideau Lawn Tennis Club courts with interest centred on the match between 18-year-old Bill Pedlar of Vancouver and Don McDiarmid of Ottawa in the men's open singles quarter-final.

The Ottawa city champion showed plenty of driving power yesterday in eliminating Allen Ridgway of Montreal 7-5, 6-3 while Pedlar was trimming Jean Richer, also of Montreal, 6-1, 6-2.

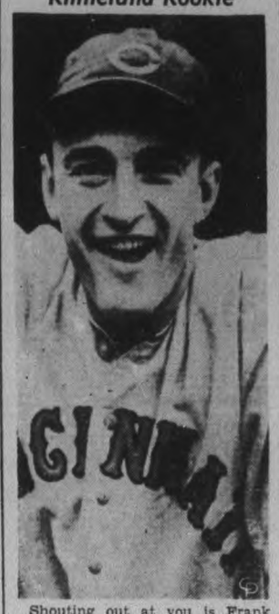
The Montreal trio of George Robinson, Dr. Georges Leclerc and Lewis Duff all earned quarter-final berths.

Eddie McIntyre forced Duff into an extra set before losing 6-3, 1-6, 6-1 while Leclerc was winning 6-2, 6-2, from Bill Craig of Ottawa and Robinson was trimming Bruce Hall of Toronto 6-1, 6-4.

Robinson will meet Hamiltons hard-driving Bill Piggott in his quarter-final encounter and on the strength of Piggott's playing yesterday when he eliminated Georges Gagnon of Montreal 6-5, 6-2 the match looms as a natural between two experienced racquet wielders.

The former Calgary court wizard, Mrs. Frank Fisher of Toronto, will meet the smooth-playing Mrs. W. Tees of Montreal in one women's open singles semi-final while Barbara Barnard of Montreal meets Winnie O'Connell of Ottawa in the other bracket.

Rhineland Rookie



Shouting out at you is Frank McCormick, sensational rookie first sacker of the equally sensational Cincinnati Reds, in there fighting for the lead in the National League and enjoying their biggest year since they grabbed the 1919 pennant. Frank has been pounding the ball hard and regularly, for most of the season leading the loop in the production of hits.

Local Bowlers Retain Trophy

After being four down on the last end in the last game of the tournament, Benny Chesler's rink pulled themselves together and not only succeeded in getting the necessary four to tie up the game, but went right on to win out in the extra frame, and by so doing earned the right to hold the Stratton Trophy for the 1938 season. This is the second time in two years this beautiful trophy has been won by a Peterborough rink.

Starting around 2.30 p.m. and playing close to midnight yesterday 26 rinks from the local club and the surrounding district fought it out on the greens for the Stratton Trophy and six sets of beautiful prizes.

Playing under conditions that could not be improved upon, and on greens that were never in better shape, the games were very keenly contested and no winner was declared until the last game was completed.

So close were the scores that it took the committee some time to figure out who was who, and that's what makes this annual event popular.

In presenting the prizes, Ken Sloane, president, took the opportunity to thank all who had in any measure contributed to the success of the tournament and, in concluding, made a strong appeal to all bowlers for their support of the big tournament on Monday, August 1. Winners.

M. Fletcher, R. Hutchinson, G. Cairns, B. Chesler, sk., Peterborough; Stratton Cup and each an electric coffee percolator.

M. Bagshaw, P. McGregor, M. Thompson, J. Gordon, sk., Cannington; each a Hudson Bay blanket.

J. Baird, H. Beatty, R. Burns, E. Wall, sk., Peterborough; each an electric fan.

O. Moore, J. Anderson, J. Harrison, H. Clegg, sk., Peterborough; each an electric toaster.

Out of respect and in memory of the late Thomas Cronin, a very dear friend and a true neighbor of the club, the flag at the club house will be flown at half-mast until after the funeral.

Sleeps In Church Indian Jailed

(Examiner Correspondence.)

LINDSAY, July 7. — Provincial Officer Taylor of Minden brought a young Indian, named Signac, to Lindsay this week on a charge of being a vagrant. The accused was found sleeping in a church in the district. In court, he could give no information concerning himself and was remanded in custody for a week.

The summer home of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. McNeil of Horseshoe Lake, Haliburton, was saved from destruction by fire this week through the efforts of two youths, Merritt and Wayne McNeil. A rubbish fire burning near the house had eaten its way to the hedge near the lodge, and when the boys were returning from school the flames were licking their way up the side of the building. They subdued the fire after a brisk fight.

Jack Thompson of Oshawa and H. Schwartz of Toronto figured in a serious auto accident near Myrtle this week. A car driven by A. Schreiber of Toronto was forced to stop on the highway, and Schwartz's car crashed into the rear, slewing across the road and colliding with another car driven by R. Sheridan of Oshawa. Thompson and Swartz were taken to hospital suffering from lacerations and bruises.

The death occurred this week of a prominent resident of the north country in the person of Robert McElwain of Gelert. He had been a member of Snowden Township Council for 20 years, and was a former warden of Haliburton County. He was a member of the L.O.L., Royal Black Preceptory, Masonic Order, Canadian Order of Foresters, as well as a director of the Farmers' Mutual Fire Insurance Co. His wife (who was Edith Stinson of Peterborough), and four children survive.

The residence of Mr. and Mrs. Clayton on Horseshoe Lake, Haliburton County, was destroyed by fire on Tuesday, with contents. The fire broke out in the roof of the kitchen, and neighbors who gathered were unable to save anything. There was no insurance.

Bund Cohort Jailed

NEW YORK, July 7 (A.P.). — Severin Winterscheidt, 34-year-old lieutenant of Fritz Kuhn in the German-American Bund Nazi movement, was sentenced to an indeterminate term in the New York County Prison yesterday following his conviction of endangering the morals of a minor. Winterscheidt was convicted on June 27 of indecent exposure before a 10-year-old girl in a Brooklyn motion picture theatre. A letter which a probation officer said was from Fritz Kuhn was read in the court. It said: "We cannot extol his (Winterscheidt's) virtues too highly."

The botfly, fastest creature alive, can travel 800 miles per hour, scientists estimate.

"Sound Pictures" To Attract Tourists To Canada

"Sound-pictures", the newest technique in radio production, of Banff, Lake Louise, Sulphur Mountain and the famous Spiral Tunnels through the Rocky Mountains, will be employed in a broadcast, July 13, from 9 to 10 p.m., eastern daylight time, over a coast to coast network by Bob Bowman, director of special events for the C.B.C.

More than two weeks in preparation, the show will include such unusual "pick-ups" as bird songs (recorded at daybreak), the rushing waters of Bow Falls, the bubble of the hot springs, the roar of the Canadian Pacific Transcontinental "Dominion" through the Spiral Tunnels, a campfire of the Trail Riders of the Canadian Rockies, trout fishing, Horace Lapp's Banff Spring's Hotel orchestra, the click of club head on golf ball.

The novel feature marks the first major presentation made possible by use of the new C.B.C. Mobile Unit which includes short wave sending and receiving apparatus, two recording machines and a pack-set carried by a commentator for use in locations inaccessible to the unit. Recordings are made on the spot and blended later into a complete show.

Arrangements have been completed to furnish recordings to the United States, the British Isles, Australia, New Zealand and other English-speaking countries.

In the picture Bob Bowman interviews two Trail Riders as Chief Radio Engineer Cahoon (in Trailer door) checks reception. At right commentator McInnes and Percy Field, assistant engineer relax.

Miss Gertrude Moloney then described her visit to the Eucharistic Congress at Quebec city last week. Rev. Janetville Couple Injured In Smash

(Examiner Correspondence.)

JANETVILLE, July 7. — What might have proved a fatal accident occurred on Monday night at Markham, when Leonard McNeil, the principal of the local continuation school, and son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles McNeil of Janetville, accompanied by Miss Verna Wright, Janetville, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Wright, were on their way to Toronto, the former to take a short course and the latter to vacation with friends.

Full details are not available as yet, but it appears that the McNeil car was hit by a large truck. Both occupants were thrown out and badly cut and bruised about the head and face as well as suffering from shock. Miss Wright, it is feared, has a broken nose and X-rays are being taken.

The car was badly damaged but was towed to a garage where the owner conveyed the victims to their destination in Toronto after they received medical attention at Markham.

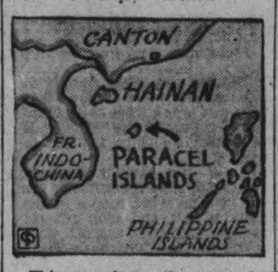
Occupy Island



This map shows the strategic situation of the Paracel islands, occupied by France. The islands are near French Indo-China and the Island of Hainan, which Japan threatens to occupy, despite warnings from France and Britain. The occupation of the Paracels, hitherto ownerless, was carried out by a group of French customs officials and policemen.

Dispute French Claim

TOKYO, July 7 (CP-Havas).—The foreign office spokesman today challenged France's claims to sovereignty over the Paracel Islands, southeast of Hainan, to which the French government has sent a detachment of police.

A spokesman said that in 1920 Captain Loumy, then chief of the naval department in French Indo-China, said Paracel Islands do not belong to France and that the republic holds no official document establishing its title to those islands.

Chinese Pushing Japs Back Along 3 Fronts

SHANGHAI, July 7 — (AP). — Chinese forces, at the end of the first year of war with Japan, gained momentary advantage on three fronts to-day.

Along the Yangtse River about Hykow they succeeded in laying new mines to harrass Japanese in a newly-planned offensive toward Hankow, the provisional capital of China.

A defensive boom was strengthened across the Yangtse, between Wuseuh and Tienkiacheng, 30 miles above Kiukiang which is the next objective of that offensive.

Along the Yellow River, where disastrous floods halted a Japanese push toward Hankow in June, Chinese asserted they had inflicted 700 casualties and forced Japanese to retreat between Yuanku and Puchang, in Southern Shansi Province, after three days of fighting.

The Japanese, meanwhile, continued to lay the groundwork for the new effort to reach Hankow—by way of Kiukiang northward up the Yangtse, and in a roundabout manoeuvre southward from captured Hykow across Lake Yoyang, to Nanchange, Chinese airbase, whence they would turn back north and west by land toward the China capital.

China Seeks More Funds.

The China Government, determined to resist to the end the invasion of China's "Good Earth," announced a week-long campaign for funds to begin on the war's anniversary date tomorrow. The Government proclaimed a three-minute period of silence at noon and a day without meat for Chinese families.

Chinese newspapers reported, without official confirmation, that Soviet Russia was prepared to buy a large quantity of tea to enable China to purchase more war supplies.

New Chinese guerilla attacks against Japanese were reported. Fifty Japanese of a garrison near Paoting were said to have been killed and a bridge was destroyed.

No. 1 Red Purged?

A Polish rumor avers that George Dimitrov, head of the Communist international, ruling body over the worlds Communists has been arrested in Moscow in Dictator Stalin's most recent "purge." Dimitrov, a Bulgarian Communist, first came to world-wide attention in 1933, when, as a defendant in the famous Reichstag fire trial in Germany, he denounced the Nazi regime in a Nazi court and defied Hermann Wilhelm Goering, Chancellor Hitler's chief lieutenant. He was acquitted and sent out of Germany, going to Russia where he became general secretary of the comintern.

MORE ABOUT—

Massey, Manion

Dr. Manion also talked directly to the Quebec group and declared that if there was ever a move to separate Canada from the empire "My friends from Quebec would be the last to support it."

Each of the candidates made speeches of 20 minutes or less to the crowd of some 4,000 people in the convention hall, and each pledged himself to faithfully support whoever would emerge the chosen leader.

There were several references to the Tuesday speech of Rt. Hon. Arthur Meighen in which he attacked the present government for its stand against establishment of Royal Air Force training schools in Canada, and urged Conservatives to make an issue of the question of Empire relations for the people to decide.

Early in the day Georges Heon, young Federal member from Argenteuil and joint secretary of the convention, declared remarks made Tuesday were unfortunate and did not represent public opinion. He said the party would never accept dictatorship from any one person.

Manion Sure of Unity.

Dr. Manion said of this phase that he was convinced the Canadian people, if the whole facts were placed before them, would be of one mind.

Mr. MacPherson declared that he stood with Mr. Meighen on that issue as he had stood with him in 1921 when he first entered politics.

All the candidates made pleas for unity and harmony in the Dominion and deplored any activities that would make for a weakness in the solidarity of Confederation.

At least 30 delegates addressed the convention at one time or another during the day's proceedings, with joint Chairmen John R. MacNicol, Toronto, and Hon. Maurice Dupre, Quebec, conducting the program.

Debate may arise to-day over the report of the Resolutions committee which failed to complete its work in time for scheduled consideration yesterday. This report will lay down the platform to be adopted by the party and interpreted by the next leader.

Candidates' Pledges.

Dr. Manion, in his address of acceptance, declared he was against railway unification, that he was his "own master" and would be the servant of no interests other than those of the people as a whole.

Mr. Lawson pledged himself to uphold the traditions of the Conservative Party which were "engraved upon my heart," and to work so that the people of Canada might be given "a life more abundant and an opportunity to live and earn." He was definite in his belief in maintenance of Canada as an integral part of the Empire.

Mr. Harris promised a business government in which the industries of the forest, field, and sea would be invited to co-operate with the administration in the advancement of the people. Modern business methods would solve most of the country's problems.

Mr. Massey urged consideration not of industry or agriculture in the abstract, but of the individual farmer, the industrial worker, and the fishermen, and above all of the youth of Canada. "Let us do away with fancy economic theories," he said, "and build from the Canadian home upward."

Mr. Macpherson assured the convention he had not come to Ottawa with any idea of being a candidate, but had yielded to pressure from his Saskatchewan and Nova Scotia friends.

Contributory unemployment insurance, old-age pension reform, electoral legislation to assure governments represented the majority, and necessary constitutional amendments to enable the Federal Government to enact essential reforms, were in Mr. Macpherson's platform.

Meighen's Speech Highlight Tory Convention

Highlights of the opening session of the National Conservative Convention at Ottawa, was the speech of Rt. Hon. Arthur Meighen urging that Canada closely co-operate with Great Britain in the matter of Empire defence. Following Mr. Meighen's speech the delegation from Quebec threatened to leave the convention if an attempt was made to introduce an imperialistic program for the party. Mr. Meighen is shown top LEFT, as he delivered his appeal for co-operation with England. Sir Thomas White, former Minister of Finance, is pictured, CENTRE, delivering the convention's keynote speech. Thunderous applause broke out from the packed coliseum, as Rt. Hon. R. B. Bennett, top RIGHT, made his first appearance at the gathering which will name his successor.

Safety Suggestion Rewarded At Deloro

(Examiner Correspondence.)

MARMORA, July 7.—The regular monthly meeting of the Deloro Safety Committee was held on Monday afternoon at the Electric Shop under presidency of R. A. Elliott. One suggestion was received during June. This merited an award. The Star was awarded the General Division. W. L. Rigg brought in the report of the Inspection committee.

D. Rattray will be floating member for July. Prone method practices were described by J. R. Rice. C. H. Buskard presented the monthly statement of the benevolent relief funds, while J. Hemphill gave the report of the publicity committee.

wells on the legal contention that the oil is theirs. If the oil can be moved without interference the transaction would strengthen considerably the Mexican economic position.

It was reported Mexico planned an increase in export taxes from 4 to 12 per cent. to get a share of exporters' profits resulting from a decline in the value of the peso, which was quoted yesterday at 4.90 to the United States dollar.

Informed sources said the government proposed to put aside half of this increase — expected to total about 100,000,000 pesos yearly — for subsidies to importers. The plan would permit imports of foodstuffs like beans, corn and wheat and keep living costs down.

President Lazaro Cardenas, upon his return from a 51-day visit to oil properties, said the government was working on plans to indemnify oil companies for the expropriated properties.

Smith Man Is Charged With Robbery

A charge against Donald Lloyd of Smith township of robbing with violence Frank H. Patterson of Peterborough took up most of the morning session of police court this morning and was still proceeding when Magistrate E. A. Gee adjourned for luncheon at 12.30 o'clock. A similar charge against Earl Lloyd, a brother, is also to be heard.

T. J. Carley, K.C., appeared for the two brothers and the prosecution was in the hands of Crown Attorney V. J. McElderry, K.C.

Frank H. Patterson who said that he was the local manager for the electrolux Company was the first witness. He testified that in answer to a message he had gone out to the farm of Bernal Harvey in Smith township on the evening of June 29th. He had met the accused Donald Lloyd as he drove into the Harvey place and had asked him if he were Bernal Harvey and the man who had left a message at his house and Lloyd had answered "yes" to both questions. Patterson and J. J. Douglas who was with him accompanied Lloyd to the barn while the accused did some work there and then Lloyd entered into a conversation about the relations between Patterson and Earl Lloyd, and about a dispute over money between them.

Then Earl Lloyd appeared on the scene and Donald Lloyd had seized witness by the throat and said he would shake his head off if he did not pay his brother. Witness replied that he had no money of his own but would give a cheque but Lloyd had insisted that his brother must be paid in cash and witness produced $3 out of $12 he had collected for the company and handed it over, asking for a receipt. He had written out the receipt and it was signed by Earl Lloyd.

The receipt, put in as an exhibit, contained the words "taken by threats, under protest." Patterson said this transaction took place about 8.30 o'clock standard time at the Harvey barn.

Receipt Examined

In cross-examination Patterson told Mr. Carley, in answer to a question as to how much drink he had had, that he did not drink. The defense counsel questioned him very closely as to the receipt, particularly as to the words in regard to "threats and under protest," asking him if those words were not written in a much smaller hand than the rest of the receipt. Patterson said some of the words might be but maintained the whole receipt had been written at the one time.

Mrs. Patterson identified Donald Lloyd as the man whom she said had come to her house on the night of Monday, June 27, asked for her husband and when informed he was away told her he was Bernal Harvey of Smith township and that he wanted to see about an Electrolux machine. He left a message for Mr. Patterson to go out to the Harvey farm on Wednesday night in regard to an Electrolux, and she told her husband on his return.

John Joseph Douglas, an employee of the Electrolux Company, testified that he had accompanied Patterson to the Harvey farm on the night in question and corroborated him as to what had happened there. He said he had seen no other persons there but the two Lloyds.

Accused's Denial

This concluded the crown's case and Mr. Carley called Donald Lloyd into the box. He began by flatly denying that he had called at Patterson's home on Monday, June 27, as Mrs. Patterson had sworn. On that night he said he was in Cobourg. Describing the incidents at the Harvey farm he said that when Patterson arrived he had asked if that was Bernal Harvey's home and then said he had come out to see about selling an Electrolux. The party had gone out to the barn and there was conversation there about the relations between Patterson and Earl Lloyd and the latter came soon after.

Lloyd said that Patterson was using very bad language and that finally he had given him a push, telling him and Douglas to get going out of there. There was an argument as to the money that Earl Lloyd claimed from Patterson and finally Patterson had paid over $3 to Earl Lloyd and asked for a receipt. Patterson had written out the receipt and he the witness had read it over before giving it to his brother to be signed. Lloyd swore that when he read it over on that occasion it did not contain the words "taken by threats, under protest."

The witness denied that he had taken Patterson by the throat or used bad language to him. He said both Patterson and Douglas seemed to be under the influence of liquor.

In cross-examination by Mr. McElderry who questioned him closely as to his movements on the night of Monday, June 27 it was brought out that on his way to Cobourg where he stated he was that night, he had been in Peterborough for a short time although he denied calling at the Patterson house. He said he had not seen Mrs. Patterson then or on any other occasion.

The case is proceeding.

CASE WITHDRAWN.

A wages' case was withdrawn in police court this morning, the explanation being given Magistrate Gee that the matter had been satisfactorily adjusted and the complainants were satisfied.

CASES ADJOURNED.

Two Young's Point men were remanded until Monday on drunk and illegal consumption charges. The two were arrested on a road near Young's Point by Provincial Constable D. M. Carruthers who is relieving here during the absence on holiday of Constable David Silvester.

ROSY REFLECTION

Some citizens Wednesday night noticed a peculiar pinkish glow in the sky to the south-east of the city just about dusk. The luminous tint could be seen around nine o'clock but no satisfactory explanation for the colored phenomenon was obtained. A small cloud in that region was also lit up gaily, presenting an odd spectacle.

TWIN BILL SATURDAY.

Word was received this afternoon that Oshawa and the Young Petes would stage a Lakeshore Junior Baseball League double-header here Saturday afternoon. Games will be at two and four o'clock in Riverside Park, the change being necessary as the senior Petes play that day in the Motor City.

HUCKLEBERRIES RIPE.

Huckleberries are ripe in the hills of Harvey and Belmont Township, and some of the first fruits of the crop are on sale along main street at 15 cents a box. Unfenced areas in the plains to the north and east of the city have already been visited by local pickers. One man brought home ten quarts, and reports the berries ripening fast, and rather plantiful. Red raspberries are also selling at 15 cents box.

PENNY SCALES GET 3RD DEGREE.

Alderman Walter Stocker with customary thoroughness tested the penny weigh scales on George Street Wednesday and decided they were "haywire." The first released a picture of a movie star and on the reverse of the picture figures showed Mr. Stocker weighed 150 pounds. The next one revealed he had jumped to 170 pounds and the last of three tried, showed a total weight of 176 pounds. The fact is Mr. Stocker weighs about 172 pounds, so this would indicate all three scales were inaccurate.

YOUTHS REMANDED.

Charged with vagrancy James Woodcock and Thos. Madill were both inclined to plead not guilty when they were arrainged before Magistrate E. A. Gee in police court today but when a remand was spoken of they changed their plea to guilty. They got the remand just the same however because Crown Attorney McElderry said they had been found near the scene of a break-in and both had records. Accordingly Magistrate Gee remanded both until next Wednesday for sentence.

A MODERN MINSTREL

Passersby on George street Wednesday night listened with surprise to the music of a little man who played a violin at the intersection of George and Simcoe streets. The sweet strains of Danny Boy and the old favorite "Believe Me if All Those Endearing Young Charms," along with many others mingled with the roar of traffic, and coins dropped in the violin case lying on the sidewalk. The man refused to give his name, said he came of good family, had a wife and three children, and was unemployed since 1933. He bought an old car, built a trailer, and now is attempting t oearn a living by playing on the streets of the towns he passes through. He claims to be well known as an orchestra leader in Quebec but adds work is not available. It galls him to accept relief so he is attempting by this novel method to pay his way across the country during the summer months.

Ex-Ball Player Gets Year For Forgery

GALT, Ont., July 7 (CP).—Wilfred Dippel, 23-year-old Kitchener ball player, was sentenced here today to one year in reformatory on each of three charges, attempted false pretences, escaping custody and forgery. Sentences will run concurrently. The attempted false pretences charge resulted from an effort to obtain a bank loan here June 5. The following day he escaped custory as he was being placed in the cells. He surrendered to police June 25. The forgery charge was introduced for the first time today and was in connection with a promissary note given a bank

Mayor's Car First

When the safety lane for testing automobiles on Water Street, north of Dublin Street, was opened for business at 9 o'clock Wednesday morning, Mayor Hamilton led the way through the testing apparatus, followed by Aldermen Juby, Dutton, Glover, Chief Gimblett and others, setting an example hundreds of others have followed. Two hundred "patient" cars were examined in this car clinic, and an unbroken line continued up the lane today. The Mayor's car rated A1; how about yours?

Woman Rescued By Boy Scout

(Examiner Correspondence.)

LAKEFIELD, July 7.—Mrs. Marie Allen of Lakefield had a narrow escape from drowning while bathing in the river south of the village. A party of Lakefield citizens accompanied Mrs. Allen, whom they declare was going down for the second time while Orville Moore son of Mr. and Mrs. Ed. Moore of Lakefield went to her assistance. Moore is a member of the Lakefield Boy Scout Troop; he caught Mrs. Allen under the chin and dragged her to shore.

The water where the woman was is not deep but she became panicy when her foot slipped and she went under water.

Thumbed Wrong Driver

KITCHENER, Ont., July 7.—(CP).—Two 15-year-old Kitchener girls left home July 1 for the "city" to become night club entertainers. Hitch-hiking on the road near Stratford, they asked the wrong driver. It was the brother of one girl. The two girls are in custody and will appear Friday in juvenile court on a charge of juvenile delinquency.

Heat Expanded Concrete

When extreme heat "blows up" a section of the concrete sidewalk it just means more trouble for the city engineer's department, one of the peculiar accidents in street maintenance the ratepayers rarely hear about.

During that hot week in June, according to Alderman E. R. Wilson, chairman of the Board of Works, two blocks of concrete "blew" on the west side of George street near the Ackerman building.

The heat expands the concrete and if there are no joints providing extra room for that condition something has got to give, and the sidewalk literally blows up on us," Ald. Wilson said. "There are expansion joints on the Hunter street bridge to allow for that change of weather, and a familiar example are the joints you see between rails on the railways. The heat cracks the surface and the base, and we have to fix it up again. That is not a rare occurrence at all, and is a possibility every time a heat wave hits us."

Ald. Wilson confirmed the Examiner's suggestion that the city was getting the full benefit of its gravel pit, new crusher and the street oiler bought about a month ago, and the street flusher is doing an exceptionally good job of cleaning the pavement.

Board Getting Things Done

Things are being done by the Board of Works these days with a promptness that is probably an effect of the appointment of James Burgess as street commissioner, relieving City Engineer Parsons of the detail that impeded his management of the department. A few nights ago a southend ratepayer wrote the Board about the curb condition at the corner of Park and Lansdowne streets as endangering traffic. Mr. Parsons, as a matter of fact, had it on his list for future attention, but probably the letter advanced it in his plans, and any way the job was just about finished Wednesday afternoon.

Refacing Streets

One of the repair jobs that has been carried on extensively this season is the refacing the street face of the sidewalks, cracks that had widened and broken down the vertical surfacing under winters of frost and other weather influences. Alderman Wilson, chairman of the Board of Works, told the Examiner that the crew of men assigned to this work will probably not get finished this season all that should be done.

The mixing of a cold mulch for repairing the pavement is being done at the department's yard on Townsend street. One of the recent repair jobs was the filling of the holes in the pavement on Water street from Hunter to Simcoe street. One crew of men is building a curb on Weller street, and so it goes, an enlarged activity with evidences of sustained efficiency that are more than satisfactory to Alderman Wilson, as chairman of the Board.

"I think things are going very well," Alderman Wilson concluded in a little tribute to the City Engineer and his staff.

As Nationals Upset Americans In All-Star Game

DICKEY DOESN'T SEEM MUCH INTERESTED

Mel Ott, Giants' outfielder, scores the National League All-Stars' second run in the fourth inning on Catcher Lombardi's single at Crosley Field, Cincinnati. Ott had previously tripled. Superb pitching by the Nationals and ragged play on the part of the American League All-Stars gave the Nationals the game, 4-1. Bill Dickey of the Yankees is the catcher.

Steady Stream Of Cars Are Given The Tests

The automobile clinic up on Water Street, north of Dublin, has handled a steady flow of "patients" since operations began Wednesday morning at nine o'clock.

Two hundred cars had their pulses felt, and all the rest of the examination that might be regarded as a counterpart of the medical doctors' scrutiny in the war days when a volunteer for army service you got an A1 rating that sent you into khaki as a "he man" or at the worst an E2 or there about that designated you as a crock of some degree of masculine deficiency.

Bud Gooderham of Toronto and Roy Girven of Peterborough told the Examiner this morning the stream of cars had been almost constant,—no gaps in the string and no delays for the motorists.

Voluntary Testing.

"Apparently Peterborough car and truck owners generally want to satisfy themselves about the efficiency of the parts that are primary factors of safety," Mr. Gooderham said. "That's all this testing is for, a voluntary testing of your service and emergency brakes, wheel alignment, headlight alingment, horn, wiper and so on. The surprising feature of the work we have been doing so far is that twenty per cent. of the cars today came back for retests, checking up on the flaws or defects that were disclosed by examination."

An Examiner car that recently bumped over Apsley sideroads and located the Anderson boy who had been lost more than four days in the woods along the Peterborough-Haliburton border went over the jumps at noon. It didn't get an immediate approval ticket, the ideal A1 rating. Not quite; the car drew a fault in the left front service brake; alignment of headlights should be corrected, and the reflector dusted off.

Some of the cars go through with a perfect performance. A well known man around town sent his over the skids with everything right at par until his emergency brakes were tried. They hadn't been used in months, probably, at any rate they had lost their grip on life or that part of it pertaining to this car, and that one detail withheld the approval sticker that is handed out at the north end of the safety lane.

Mostly Male Drivers.

Some of the cars are driven by women, but the most of them have men at the wheels.

If you are really sincere about the idea of safety on the highway, for which your government, and that means you have been for years spending thousands of dollars on advertising appeals, you will satisfy yourself that your car is not a menace to the public, especially to children who are too small to have a sense of danger, by taking a few minutes out of your day or evening to run it up the Water Street lane. There is no record of your rating. The card is simply handed to you, and you can do what you like about it. If it is O.K. you have no further mechanical duty to attend to; but if some defect is pointed out it is still optional with you whether you take it to your garage and ask them to fix it for rechecking and the O. K. ticket. The lane is open from 9 a.m. to 9p.m. to the end of the week.

Picnic Is Held At The Oval By Knox Church

Knox United Church Sunday School members paid tribute to the secretary at the annual picnic held Wednesday at Nicholls Oval when Alex Gillies, superintendent presented Roy Laing, secretary of the organization for 33 years with a beautiful pen and pencil set, and Mrs. A. P. Huffman, Jr. Dept. superintendent, read an address. Mr. Laing was named honorary secretary for life and has the distinction of being the original secretary of the Sunday School besides holding the office for more than a quarter of a century.

Three hundred people sat down to the picnic supper served by the women of the parish under the direction of Mrs. Huffman, at long tables under the maples bordering the oval. Later a diversified sports program, with both children and adults competing in novelty and competitive events was run off by Don. Charlton and a committee composed of Alex McKinley, Marjorie Lewis, and Joseph Lancashire. Rev. V. E. R. Zufelt, minister of the church supervised the refreshment booth. Stewart Thexton had charge of transportation.

An oak wagon tongue well seasoned by the years was used in the nail driving contest, but resisted all efforts of five husky women who attemped to drive the three-inch nails into it. Every nail buckled and after repeated attempts the judges called this event off. Five men competing the bubble blowing contest were handed clap pipes and soapy water and the prize went to the one who could prodoce the largest bubble. After much encouragement and criticism from the merry crowd, Mr. Lewis was named champion, and the runner up, immediately filled his clay pipe with tobacco and indulged in a real smoke, despite the flavor of soap which remained.

Work To Start Later Part Of Next Week

Anglin-Norcross, Limited, Toronto, have been awarded the general contract for the construction of the Bell Telephone Company's new exchange building on the south side of Hunter street, and will break ground for the excavation stage of the work toward the end of next week.

This information this morning was confirmed by C. B. Shaver, manager of the Bell Telephone Company in Peterborough. It was also learned and bilaterally confirmed that James Lynch, druggist, has bought the company's present exchange building on which they are retaining a lease up to two years.

The trim two-story brick building in which the company will install an automatic dial system will house both this equipment and the telephone business office, Mr. Shaver told the Examiner. Installation of the apparatus in the completed structure is scheduled for early in 1939.

The commercial office and automatic equipment will be located on the first floor. The second floor will accommodate the long distance switchboard, pleasant and comfortable quarters for the operators, and the offices of the district staffs. The power equipment and cable vault will be housed in the basement, where space is also provided for stores and heating plant. Provision has been made for extension to the rear and also for a possible future third floor.

The construction and finish will be modern throughout, and in accordance with the Bell policy, the style of the new building will conform agreeably to that of the surrounding district.

It is expected that the new automatic dial service will be ready by the earl yfall of next year.

F. J. McNab is the chief architect.

Planning To Open Royal Theatre

Peterborough is to have a third theatre this fall, according to a statement from Syd Goldstone, secretary of the Trio Theatre Company.

"Plans are now being prepared for the complete renovation of the Royal Theatre building at 344-348 George street," he stated. The Trio Theatre Company Limited, owners of the building, intend to open a modern theatre in the late fall, and Jay I. English, prominent Toronto architect wh odesigned the Radio City Theatre, has been commissioned to plan and supervise construction, said Mr. Goldstone.

"Modern materials and methods will be used to promote an atmosphere of to-day and the future. The newest type of air-conditioning and soft cushion seats are to be installed. Local labor is to be used. It is the intention of the company to have one of the finest theatres in Eastern Ontario," he stated.

Gypsy Boy Has Narrow Escape

The Otonabee river was robbed of a victim on Wednesday afternoon when a 12-year-old gypsy boy, Peter Butch, was rescued after he had become unconscious in the water just south of Nassau. The near tragedy took place on the identical spot where last year an eight-year-old boy, Carl Judge, was drowned.

Peter Butch is a member of a band of gypsies who are camping along the bank of the Otonabee river. Yesterday he went swimming with his sister, Helen Butch, 21, and swam out into the stream despite warnings from the girl, who had heard of last year's fatality.

Becoming fatigued the youngster was unable to reach shore. He had sunk below the surface twice when his sister reached his side. She was not strong enough to bring him to shore or to hold him above water. She screamed for help and her brother, Robert Butch, came running to the shore and jumped into the water without removing even his shoes. He took the unconscious form of his brother from the girl and swam to shore. The girl followed, in a near exhausted condition from her attempted rescue.

Belleghem's ambulance went to the scene but found the boy recovered when they arrived. He appeared little the worse for his experience today.

Moved by G. McIlmoyle and seconded by M. Clark that a committee composed of the reeve and deputy-reeve and as many of the owners of property involved as desire interview Mesdames Edith and Mary Kelly re widening of said road.

Ask Department Aid

The clerk was requested to write the resident engineer of the Dept. of Highways at Port Hope re conversation with Reeve Mann with regard to the Kelly Blvd., and inquiring if the Dept. of Highways will pay subsidy on a road 33 feet wide and if not what is the width of the narrowest road on which they will pay a subsidy.

Mr. V. A. Fife asked for the re-surfacing of the fifth concession line in the swamp just east of his home and sub-division. Council promised the matter would be looked after.

Moved by G. McIlmoyle and seconded by H. Fowler that the clerk send an extra copy of the bylaw asking for a thirty mile speed limit in Bridgenorth to the Department of Highways for their proposed approval. Carried.

Two "No Parking Signs after 10 o'clock p.m." are to be placed at the west end of the eighth concession line near Chemong Lake.

Saves a House

MEAFORD, Ont., July 7 (CP). — T. W. Leach had plenty of difficulty in stopping a runaway house here the other day. The house, the trailer kind, and the automobile were heading towards the harbor when Leach noticed it and saw no one was driving. He tried one door then the other, but they were locked. He kicked the wheels around and stopped the car from going into the harbor.

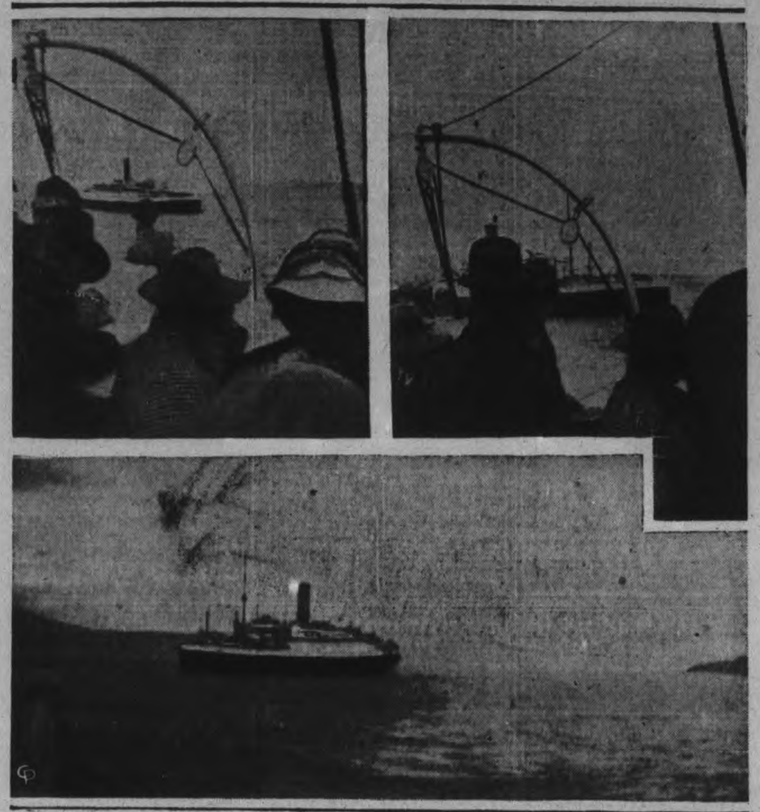
S. S. Ascania's Passengers Are Transferred



The pilot-tender Citadelle transferred the passengers of the liner S.S. Ascania, when she went aground on Bic Rock in the St. Lawrence, to her sister ship the S.S. Ausonia, which carried them back to Quebec. These pictures were taken from the Citadelle and tell the story of the transfer of passengers from the stricken liner. The almost deserted Ascania is seen (TOP LEFT), over the rail of the Citadelle, which went out from Father Point. The ship has already settled considerably at the bow. A view of the Ausonia, awaiting the transfer of passengers (TOP RIGHT) was also taken from the pilot-tender. The Ascania is shown (BOTTOM), hard aground on Bic Rock.

Count Will Deny Threat Charges

LONDON, July 7—(AP)—Countess Haugwitz-Reventlow's marital dispute with her Danish husband shifted to-day from police court talk of duels and huge money settlements to speculation as to whether the Woolworth heiress is planning another marriage.

The case against Count Court Haugwitz-Reventlow for alleged threats against his wife stood adjourned in Bow Street Court until a week from to-day.

But hints of a new romance at his hearing yesterday—when her counsel alleged he demanded £1,000,000 ($5,000,000) from her for a divorce and threatened her with "three years of hell with headlines"—caused many "I told you so's" among gossips. They had linked her name with that of another titled personage—mentioned guardedly at the hearing as a "London society gentleman"—whom the Count allegedly talked of shooting from the hip and of challenging to a duel.

His counsel indicated his defence would be a complete denial of allegations he had threatened his wife.

The police court revelations, however, pointed to an early termination of their Reno marriage of May 14, 1935—the day after her divorce from the late Prince Alexis Mdivani.

Norman Birkett, K.C., the Count's counsel, disclosed he "would have to put the Count in the witness box to deal with matters which have been raised." He added, "the issue is one as to whether the Countess did go in bodily fear" as the prosecution contended.

A TICKLISH ERA

BRIGHTON, England—(CP). — Children of 14 to 17 seem instinctively to set up barriers to much of what education has to offer and they live in an atmosphere of mental tickling—wireless, cinema, press and sport," said Headmaster J. Jamison here.

Decorated

Seated in a wheel chair at the Naval hospital in Washington, John L. Hodge, fireman, 1st class United States Navy, is shown as he was decorated for bravery by Assistant Secretary of the Navy, Charles Edison. Hodge won his award for bravery exhibited when the U.S. Gunboat, Panay, was sunk by Japanese aviatorr in Chinese waters.

Presentation Made Millbrook Couple

(Examiner Correspondence)

MILLBROOK, July 7.—A community gathering of peculiar interest took place in the Town Hall last week, when a large number of citizens met in a social capacity to do honor to Councillar Douglas Sheppard and his bride, their marriage having taken place recently at Peterborough.

Round dances, for which music was supplied at various intervals by Misses Jean Todd and Grace Johnson, and Messrs. Wilson Ford and William Edworthy; and square dances, with L. Winslow at the piano, and R. Todd and E. Powell with violins, providing the music, and James Godfrey "calling off," filled in the time happily for a large part of the evening.

The highlight of the gathering was reached when ex-Warden Percy Stinson took the chair, and invited the guests of honor to central seats on the platform, the bride being escorted to her place by Howard Lancashire, and Lawrence Winslow performing a similar service for the groom. An appreciative address was then read by H. Lancashire, and on behalf of a wide circle of friends, Mr. and Mrs. Sheppard were presented with a handsome radio, the gift being brought in by L. Winslow. As a special gift for the bride, two dainty little girls, Lorraine Davidson and Leona Ball, gave her a lovely sheaf of roses. Mr. Sheppard made a brief but suitable reply on behalf of his wife and himself.

England has a glider craze.

CHAPTER 32

There a thousand feet or more below lay the new Dale-Durango ranch. There in that house—already lighted now in several windows—he knew Ellen Dale was busy working, planning, dreaming. The lights and the campfires at that distance were sparkling jewels.

He stared down at them a long while. A tremendous loneliness had suffused him.

THE FURNITURE trucks were unloaded and the various things placed during the following two days. Decorators were on the scene, too. Color schemes had to be changed to meet Bill's meticulous criticisms, backed always by Ellen Dale.

"Say, you aren't making a peep," he jabbed at her once. "This is your house, missy. I only work here. Why in thunder don't you do some of the bossing yourself?"

"I hired you to boss," she replied, simply. "I don't know how."

Off to one side, Buckshot Brown muttered to his crony, Juan Salazar, "It takes more brains to hire brains than to use yore own brains."

"No saba nada," said old Juan, shaking his head. Gringos were strange people, he had long since learned.

They were done with the work eventually, and it was a perfect job, so thoroughly beautiful was it. Bill had planned well, furnished tastefully. After the cleaning was all done, he led Ellen outside and they came through the front door and reinspected the whole thing.

"O-oo-o-o-oh, love-lee!" was all Ellen could say.

"This is la sala de vivir," Bill explained. "That means 'the room for living'. Parlor. Drawing room. Living room. Whatever. Anyhow the main room."

It was very large. In one corner was Ellen's Indian fireplace, circular and arched. In a diagonally opposite corner was another fireplace, without the rocks. The floor was dark green cement. The ceiling was beamed with great rough timbers which Bill had caused to be removed from an old abandoned mine in the Whetstone mountains. Smoked, then stained with mahogany, they literally reeked with age and interest and rugged beauty.

Finger and hand prints of plasterers could be seen on the wall, a bizarre pattern.

A four-foot charm string was made of gourds, peppers, fruits, burrs, seeds, varl-colored and hung on a platted rawhide thong. A string of corn was more than six feet long, and the grain was naturally colored red, yellow, white, purple, and blue. Bill had pulled the shucks back from the big ears but had left them attached for added beauty. "My pappy raised that stuff in Texas," Buckshot Brown remarked, "and we never thought nothin' about it bein' pretty. But it shore is, in here."

On a peg in the wall hung a horse bridle, its bit fantastically curved in the style of early Spanish caballeros, its sides ornamented with silver medallions or conchos, one of which bore the great seal of Mexico. Bill had picked it up in a second-hand store in Nogales, Sonora, for a few pesos, the proprietor not realizing its value. Besides the bridle hung a Mexican guitar, strung and ready for whomsoever could play it. (Later it developed that Pablo Rivera could.)

Head-high lamps made of cactus wood stood in the room, one near a coffee table that was a small-scale replica of the two-wheeled Mexican cart or carreta otuside. One chair was of wrought iron; another was a barrel from which a quarter segment had been removed and which had been carved by hand; two others were woven of willow boughs and one rocker had a great ram skin covering it to make it snuggly and warm.

One big wall space bore a six-foot carnival poster, lithographed, by Parrilla of Seville. It depicted a senorita whose brilliantly crimson lips so caught the light as to seem alive in the dark blues and grays of her body and background. A similar poster, by the same distinguished Spanish artist, showed a couple dancing and was done also in striking color arrangement. Bill had found the lithographs in a curio shop in Los Angeles' Mexican quarter.

"They grow on you," said Ellen. "They come to life as you watch them. They set a tone for the whole room."

The living room table had been cut with an adz or similar tool from heavy timers, its top and massive legs then dressed down and stained to give it a rich mahogany color which miraculously did not show dust. For a centerpiece, Ellen placed there a huge pottery bowl, of solid rust-to-orange hue like a setting sun, and in it arranged no blossoms but an armful of ironwood boughs. Their delicate lacy foliage and thorns, plus their color which was of green olives, made a harmony which was almost breathtaking.

"It is such a beautiful home!" Ellen murmured it reverently, standing with Bill again at the entranceway. "A beautiful home."

"Does it approximate what you wanted?" he asked, softly. "You had a dream home. But you never told me much about it."

"I never pictured it very closely, Bill. I just wanted a place that was lovely, and romantic. Where, perhaps, happiness would be—invited to live. You understand?"

"Yes. And you are going to name it now?"

"I hadn't thought! Let's do!"

"You'll have to do it, miss! Not me. I only work here."

"It's such a beautiful home, I don't—" she halted, giving it thought.

"Why don't you name it so, then?" Bill demanded.

"Beautiful home?"

"Sure, Casa Hermosa, in Spanish."

"Bill You're darling!"

"Sure. Been telling people that for years," he spoke laconically grinning.

"No, you really are! I mean, it is. The name. Casa Hermosa. It's euphoniouss, and it means something. You ought to be a builder, Bill Baron!"

"I'm going to be a cowman, and I'm starting Thursday, since you mention the matter. I been writing checks on your bank account, young lady. Thursday about noon, a thousand head of darned good stock will be driven into the Gap over yonder. They're yours. Right then you start being a cowgirl whether you like it or not."

"I'll like it."

"They're various kinds. Herefords mostly, but some Shorthorns, Aberdeens and Guernseys, you understand."

"Yes," said Ellen, who really didn't understand at all.

"If you aim to follow the experiments we conduct, you'll have to spend a lot of time in the saddle. I thought you might keep the records, if you want to. Some of it we'll have to do with photographs, to note the progress of calves on various feeds. You stand 'em in front of a big checkerboard chart, a sort of a graph, and photograph them every 30 days. The checks show just how much they've grown, or whatever kind of feed and treatment, see? We'll have scales, too, to weigh 'em."

"I'll love it!" Ellen declared. "I'll work hard. Honest I will, if you'll show me how. Please, will you?"

The anomalous situation of an owner and employer pleading for a job from her hired foreman struck Bill all at once as funny. He burst into laughter.

"You know how much cowboys earn?" he demanded. "Forty, maybe $50 a month and chuck. That's all. But you're green, Dale. I'll put you on the pay roll at $30."

He kidded her some more, big-brother fashion, then rather abruptly excused himself and left her alone.

He had developed a habit of doing that lately. Ellen observed that he would be a delightful conversationalist for a half hour or so, then apparently turn within himself and become morose. Usually such incidents were followed by spells of intense physical labor—handling building materials, lassoing and riding mustangs that bucked furiously, digging and preparing soil in which to set the trees that he had caused to be transplanted to the homesite.

Ellen gave thought to this manifestation now, staring admiringly at his broad back as he walked away. She stood thinking for a long while.

"Sometimes I honestly believe he is in love with me," she told herself, happily. "But I wish I knew."

SELASSIE'S CROWN ON DISPLAY

A golden crown with diamonds and rubies once belonged to Haile Selassie has been placed on display in a jeweler's window in Harrogate, England.

DOROTHY DIX

DEAR MISS DIX—I am a girl of 19 and finished high school in June. I am engaged to a boy who is a freshman in college, and he wants us to be secretly married and both go on to college. But here is my problem: My parents are willing to send me to college if I will make something of my education after I get it—teach or do something like that, but they say they do not want to waste any money on it if I am going to get married as soon as I get my degree. RENA.

ANSWER:

Don't get married secretly, Rena. Don't marry any man until he is in a position to acknowledge you as his wife, and to marry you openly and decently in the sight of all men.

No good ever comes of a secret marriage, and it always leaves the girl's reputation bedraggled. This is a suspicious world, my dear, and it always looks askance at a belated marriage certificate.

If you and your sweetheart get married secretly and go off to college together, it is not possible for you to avoid gossip, so either put off your marriage altogether until you have finished college or else be frankly married. The hole-and-corner business and meeting around for stolen rendezvous will do neither one of you any good.

Besides, the situation will be filled with complications that will give food for jealousy, as you will be expected to join in the social activities of the school. If you have dates with boys and your husband has dates with girls the green-eyed monster will have a fine opportunity of getting in his deadly work. So I should strongly urge you to put off your wedding day until after you have finished school.

There are many married couples in the coeducational schools, and the teachers report that they do good work. However, this is largely a matter for your parents to decide, as you have no means of making a living and are dependent upon them for support. Certainly, it seems to me that matrimony is for grown-ups and not schoolgirls and boys; that a man should not ask a woman to marry him secretly, or otherwise, until he is able to stand on his own feet and support a family.

I think that your father is mistaken in his idea that there is no use in educating a girl if she is going to get married. To be a good wife and mother is the most complicated profession in the world and one that requires a liberal education in every direction. And then some. Certainly the woman who must wrestle with the high cost of living and budget her income to the last penny needs to be a mathematician and a political economist. Certainly a woman who brings children into the world should have a knowledge of biology, physiology, hygiene and a speaking acquaintance with the germ theory.

Certainly the woman who cooks should have more than an elementary knowledge of chemistry. Certainly the woman who must deal with the moods and tenses of a man should be a psychologist. And the woman who must spend much of her time alone should have a cultivated mind and be a reader so that she may never be lonely and so on.

Furthermore, marriage does not automatically settle all of a woman's problems and assure her of plenty and prosperity as long as she lives. Sometimes husbands die leaving their wives with a house full of little children to support. Sometimes husbands get sick and cannot work and their wives have to step into the breach and take care of them. Sometimes husbands turn out badly and women are forced to divorce them.

Sometimes men are just plain lazy and no-account and can't make a living. Many a married woman has ten times the necessity of knowing how to make a living than a girl has, and any father who doesn't provide his daughter against such a contingency fails in his duty to her.

* * * * * * *

DEAR MISS DIX—I am engaged to be married and my problem is whether or not to continue working after marriage. I have a responsible job, that of handling stocks and bonds for a big house. I enjoy this work intensely, but my fiance does not believe in his wife working outside the home. I enjoy housework to a certain extent, but cannot imagine doing nothing else for a lifetime, and I feel that if I can work after marriage it will help us to put away something for a nest egg. What would you advise?
ENGAGED OFFICE WORKER.

ANSWER:

The only definite advice I can give is to settle the matter before you get married, one way or the other. Don't leave it as a bone of contention to fight over after you are married. But no outsider can settle the matter for you, because it is one absolutely of personal inclination, and the trouble with it is that you are both right from your individual viewpoints.

It is easy to see why a woman who has a lucrative job, doing the kind of work that interests her and that she likes to do, doesn't want to give it up to go into the kitchen to do menial work that is distasteful to her, and for which she will receive no money. Also, why she should be loath to give up the good pay envelope to which she has been accustomed and that enabled her to have luxuries that she will have to do without.

Not every woman is born with domestic tastes any more than every man is born with a taste for carpentry or bricklaying. Girls inherit from their fathers, and many a daughter of a good business man is born with her father's passion for trade and his talent for it, and she is never really happy outside of a store or office. Business is in her blood and she is never content to be just a housewife.

I knew a woman of this sort who had held a big position for years. She got married and gave up her job. I asked her later if she were satisfied. She shrugged her shoulders and replied: "I love my husband, but for me to run a little apartment is like putting a thousand-horsepower engine to do a two-horsepower job. And frankly I am bored stiff." So that is that side of the question.

The other is that the man marries a wife and not another business man. You can't wonder that when he comes home at night he wants to be met by the traditional pink-bungalow-aproned wife, or one who is fresh and rested, instead of one who has been hard at work all day in an office. I think that your fiance will be wise, however, to let you go on with your job, because you will be a restless, dissatisfied woman, hard to live with, if he tries to imprison you in a two-by-four flat. 1—Step on right foot.
2—Step on left foot.
3—Step on right foot.

The Stars Say . . .
By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

For Friday, July 8.

Much progress and pleasure mark this day, according to the astral operations. Things should move at a lively pace in both business and private affairs. While there are signs of much success in ambitious projects, yet there is need for precaution, restrains in indulgences and extravagance in the pursuit of pleasure. Speculative enterprise might also prove perilous.

Those whose birthday it is may anticipate a very successful, prosperous and happy year, despite a bereavement or sorrow. Business as well as social life are under high stimuli, with much expenditure or outlay to keep both going at a quick pace. It might be well to be conservative in financial extravagance.

A child born on this day may have large and expansive ideas and aspirations, in both its business and private lives. Many of these may succeed, despite losses and the menace of extravagance or speculation.

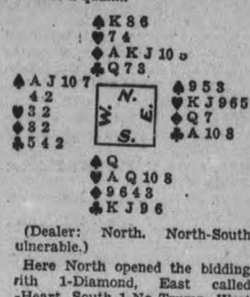
"The Authority on Authorities"

A TIME TO SHOOT

IF YOU have made an insufficient bid and know therefore that your partner will have to pass on his next turn, as the laws prescribe, you are in a tough spot. Whatever you now bid, in correcting your error, is pretty sure to be the final contract. That is no time to go timid. Take the bit in your teeth and go the limit. If the information from your partner's previous action makes a game seem anywhere within reach, you will generally profit by bidding it without a qualm.



(Dealer: North. North-South ulnerable.)

Here North opened the bidding rith 1-Diamond, East called -Heart, South 1-No Trump, West -Spades, North and East passed nd South bid 2-Diamonds. The insufficient bid was called to his attention and he went into a study. After deliberating from every angle, his final decision was 3-Diamonds. The opponents were satisfied to have the hand play at a less than game contract, so passed.

South's contention was that, as he had given as strong a bid as no trump over East's heart call, North should have taken some action over West's spade bid. For that reason, South feared no trump with no stopper and was equally afraid of 5-Diamonds. However, they made five without any difficulty.

Goodnight Story
By MAX TRELL

It didn't do Mary Jane the least bit of good to call out at the top of her voice, "Dinah! Please find me! I'm behind the hedge at the bottom of the garden. Don't let me stay here all night!"

Mary Jone, you see, was a rag doll, and no matter how loudly she called no one heard her. I mean none of the children could.

It was getting darker and darker out in the garden. The sun had set and great shadows were settling down in the flower beds and under the trees and in the corners of the garden wall and especially behind the hedge where Mary Jane was lying. Dinah had left her there to take a little nap out in the fresh air. But then Dinah had gone in to dinner and forgotten all about her rag doll.

"Why don't you go home?"

All at once, though, the robin who sometimes visited the garden came flying over. She spied Mary Jane lying on a little pile of leaves.

"Peep!" said the robin in surprise. "I didn't expect to find you lying here at this time of day. Why don't you go home?"

Robin Will Tell Her.

"I—I can't," Mary Jane answered. "I mean, I don't want to. I always stay where my mistress puts me." Mary Jane suddenly felt that it would be wrong to let the robin know that her mistress had forgotten her..

"I think the girl that put you here ought to be ashamed of herself for not bringing you into the house," the robin said. "I'm going right up to the house and tell her so."

"No....don't do that! Please don't!"

But the robin flew off. And when she got to the window of the dining-room she could see the little girl eating contentedly, sitting at a long table spread with lots of good food.

"It's cruel!" the robin cried, flying up and down past the window. "Go out and fetch her at once before she catches cold!"

Did the little girl understand what the robin was saying? Oh, no. She didn't understand a single word.

So the robin flew away. And Mary Jane was still out in the garden.

To do away with lime deposits in the tea kettle, boil a weak solution of vinegar in it occasionally. The vinegar softens the deposits so that they can be removed. Two tablespoons of vinegar to a quart of water is about the right proportion.

Great Dramatist Suffers From Fatigue Of Age

By LESLIE EICHEL
Central Press Canadian Writer

George Bernard Shaw, who may be known in the future as the greatest dramatist of our time, is suffering from the fatigue of age at his home in London. Physicians term his ailment as "a form of anemia."

Shaw will be 82 on July 26.

Some years ago the commercial theatre ceased to produce new efforts from his pen. The plays had become "an old man's expression on philosophy and politics" — rather than drama. But had they?

Merely a few weeks ago, the United States Federal Theatre Project produced Shaw's "On the Rocks" in New York. It had been written in 1933 on a world voyage. Aside from a few Litle Theatre productions in London, it had lain on the shelf.

It was to run merely a few weeks. The Federal theatre, however, found it so vital and so interesting to the public at large, that it will reproduce it in the autumn for a run. Its players had to depart for previous engagements at summer theatres for the intervening months.

Another, later play—"Geneva"—is to be produced by a small group in England on Aug. 1. Shaw was to have directed rehearsals.

A Tired Mind?

In "On the Rocks," Shaw pictures England on the rocks before all the quack panaceas and forms of government—not merely England, but the world. It is alive with intense, vital discussion of the crises the world is meeting today—although it was written five years ago.

Critics have said it is the work of a tired mind. Rather, it is the work of a mind that visions the future and refuses to paint it in brighter colors. It is of a tired world, not a tired mind.

Naturally, age does tell on any mind. "On the Rocks" is no such brilliant play as "Candida" nor such a classic as "St. Joan." But it may contain more essential political truths. And the theatre has become a forum of political debate, whether we like it or not. It could not be otherwise, for the drama of our lives, indeed our existence, is bound up in the political and social evolution that is sweeping the world today.

A Struggle

Shaw will die a wealthy man. And virtually every country in the world will honor him.

Thus it may be overlooked that he had to strugle for some 40 years for real recognition as a dramatist. The "sucessful" men of that period are forgotten.

"Candida," written in 1894, could find no production till 1897. Actually, it found no success till a quarter of a century later.

That had been prophesied by Charles Wyndham, successful actor-manager in England. To all importunities to write a "popular" play that would "make money," Shaw turned a deaf ear. He write his American literary agent, the late Elizabeth Marbury, that he would continue writing as he was—and that in 10 years he would wallow in gold.

The 10 years became 20 years, and he did "wallow in gold."

Shaw, it may be recalled, began as a journalist in London after coming from his native Ireland. And as a music critic he "discovered" Richard Wagner for England.

It will be recalled, too, that this master-composer also was told by contemporary managers in Europe to compose for the box-office to prevent starvation. But he could not—and for that all posterity owes thanks. Today, the Wagnerian music-dramas are the most popular in the opera repertoire of the world.

A Political Force

Shaw, is of course, more than a playwright or a lecturer. He is a political force. His early social-economic thought was dominated by Henry George, the American economist, the Single Taxer, Shaw went far beyond, to Marx and Engles, and completing an orbit, in his later days to the abnegation of all. From a Fabian Socialist to a disbeliever of everything except the development of man himself may not be such an orbit, after all, nor may this change or development be the thought of a tired mind so much as that of a mind which has sought for three-quarters of a century to find a better means for man to govern himself.

As a political force, Shaw has had the largest influence through his laugther and irony, his showing up of the follies of politicians, thought. His thrusts at England have been thrusts at every nation.

He has dared to be anti-war even when it has meant isolation and almost ruin. But how true his world war words sound today—and empty those of his detractors! And how poignant his words of today sound concerning present-day situations! But how they differ from the popular temper! Except, today, they are passed over as the murmurings of an outworn mind. But are they, are they?

Looking Back On This Date

JULY 7

This is the anniversary of one of the most terrible disaster in the history of the Niagara district, but although it took place only 23 years ago, I wonder how many people, except those of the families immediately affected, remember the story.

Early in the morning of July 7, 1915, the pupils and teachers of the St. John's Presbyterian and Woodgreen Methodist churches left Toronto by steamboat for a picnic on Queenston Heights. They reached their destination, had a happy afternoon under the shadow of Brock's monument, and towards 7 p.m. made their way to the incline railway to take car for Queenston, where the steamer Chippewa was waiting to take them back to Toronto. The evening had turned wet and, in order to escape the rain, as many as possible crowded into the car, nearly 200 being aboard.

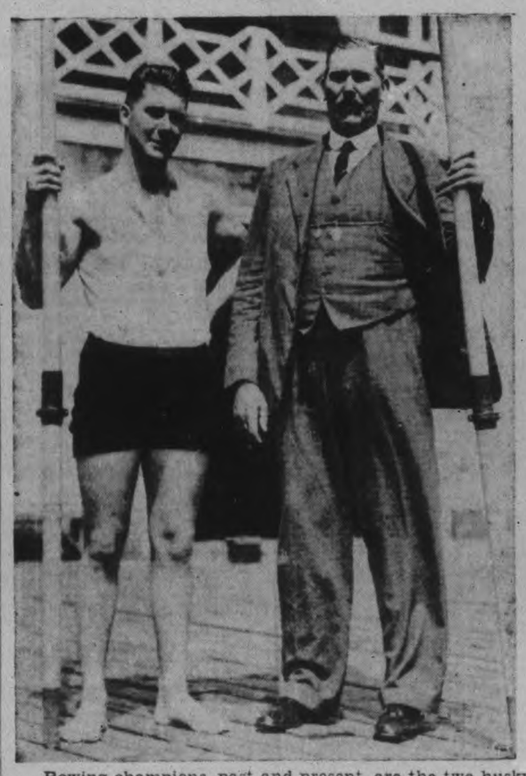
After the car passed the Brock monument station the trolley came off. The motorman did his best to apply the brakes, but the rails were greasy; they refused to work and the car dashed full-speed down the slipe and round the curves. It was not until the car was nearing the gorge that the passengers realized something was wrong. They began screaming with fright as the car neared the third curve. There came disaster. The car jumped the rails, crashed into a pole, smashed into a tree and, broken into two parts, stopped, half overturned, 25 feet down the embankment and less than 300 yards from the wharf and the waiting steamer.

A majority of the passenger were thrown into a frantic struggling mass. Eighteen of the injured were placed on another electric car and taken back to the hospital at Niagara Falls, while the dead were taken aboard the Chippewa and the injured cared for as best could be on the journed across Lake Ontario to Toronto.

That was a journey never to be forgotten by those who were there. Children sought for parents, and vice versa. If any was missing, they were supposed to be in the temporary hospital, the doors of which were beseiged, while three died as the vessel sped homeward.

In all, 13 were killed, 56 had to be cared for in hospitals, and 46 others were sent to their homes after treatment. Two years later a similar accident, with almost the same number of casualties, took place on the American side. These two accidents did much to lessen the popularity of the Gorge route, which was soon abandoned, although the rails are still to be found here and there along the old route, which had given thrills to thousands for a couple of generations.

In Quest Of Sculling Title



Rowing champions, past and present, are the two husky gentlemen above, and father and son into the bargain. RIGHT, is James Padden of Australia, former champion pro sculler, and with him his son Evans, 24 years old, and following in his father's footsteps. Padden, Sr., held the Australian professional title for 11 years, losing to Major Goodsal in 1925 when nearly 40 years old. Now his son, who has never rowed as an amateur, holds the crown, but seeking further honors, is in Toronto, where he will train for a three-mile match race around the end of August against Bobby Pearce, former Australian, now living in Hamilton, who holds the world's professional title and has had but feeble opposition for the past few years.
